Commandant W. E. Wilbur, who is in charge, with his wife, of the Salvation Army corps in this city, was given a most [illegible] birthday surprise Friday evening at the army citadel on Cliff street, when he returned there from the open-air meeting. A party of fifty friends had gathered in the meantime, planned [illegible] and prepared a [illegible] Robert McNeely was the [illegible] for the evening, expressing the great appreciation the company felt for Commandant Wilbur and the work that he and his wife are doing here. On [illegible] pany he presented a handsome white gold watch to the commandant, who responded with words of heartfelt gratitude. Others to speak in a similar vein of appreciation of the work of Commandant Wilbur were Ensign [illegible] of Fort Trumbull, New London, and Jack Robertson of this city, both of whom had been enrolled in the army by Commandant Wilbur. Hawthorne Foster also spoke of the helpful influence of the commandant in his life and Senior Major Mills with Mrs. Mills sang a duet. There was also singing by the entire company in the course of the evening.

BOY'S SKULL FRACTURED WHEN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

While driving on North Main street about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon Arthur Dayon, a sailor stationed at New London, whose home is at No. 10 Hadley avenue, struck and knocked down a six-year-old boy by the name of Gaucher, whose home is in Taftville. The accident happened near the junction of North Main street and 9th street.

Dayon, in reporting the accident to the police Friday night, said the boy stepped off the sidewalk and ran in front of his automobile. He stopped and took the injured boy to his home on Hadley avenue and Dr. George Thompson of Taftville, attended him. The doctor had him removed to the Backus hospital. The boy is unconscious and suffering from a fractured skull, that puts him on the danger list. It was stated at the hospital Friday night that they did not know the name of the boy's parents.

Dayon was driving without a 1924 license. He was released on bonds of $300 and will appear in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

BLIND MAN MISSING FROM EAST GREAT PLAIN

Patsy Semonchini, blind and slightly lame, who has been living with Cesar Conti on West Main street near the East Great Plain corner, was reported to the police as missing Friday night, not having been seen since 8 o'clock Friday morning at the place where he lived. As he is blind and gets around with a cane it is not known how he could have got very far away from the house unless he had met somebody who would lead him.

The police were making a search for him Friday night and learned that he had been seen on West Main street about 500 feet from the Conti house at about 10.30 Friday morning. At that time he was alone.

Semunchini is an Italian, about 60 years old, 5-foot tall, 140 pounds, medium build, gray curly hair. He was wearing a brown coat, brown cap and black trousers.

NORWICH GAVE WELCOME TO COMMANDER BOOTH

Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, was given a warm-hearted meeting in this city Friday morning at 10:30 when she spoke from a platform in front of the court house in her tour of New England. An audience of several hundred gathered to hear this notable worker who directs the Army in this country and to listen to the music of the New England headquarters staff band from Boston, which with Colonel William McIntyre, of Boston, is accompanying Commander Booth upon her tour.

The band marched from the Citadel on Cliff street to Union square, where it gave a fine concert that included vocal solos, chorus singing, snare drum, cornet and saxaphone solos. Brig. Walter Mabee, general secretary of the New England division and a Wesleyan graduate, sang beautifully That Mother of Mine. There were several other entertainment features, including a unique one in which Prof. Erik Leidsen, a graduate of the Conservatory of Stockholm, sang Old Black Joe and played a trombone and cornet at the same time. Two of the bandsmen blew the instruments and the professor manipulated both the trombone slide and the cornet stops.

Mayor Waters extended the official welcome on behalf of the city and presented Colonel McIntyre to the gathering, who in turn introduced Commander Booth who had arrived in an automobile during the concert.

She spoke briefly but with great impressiveness, telling her audience that she could see the people here were sympathetic and friendly to the work of the army in Norwich. She related a number of touching experiences in her life, but did not make an extended address as she was somewhat hoarse from having made fourteen open-air speeches on Thursday.

She was given rousing applause as she concluded and she was presented a beautiful bouquet of roses by President George A. inn on behalf of the Lions club.

Commander Booth was much gratified with her reception here and authorized Commandant E. W. Wilbur, of the local corps, to have the announcement made that she would return here at some time to speak at another meeting.

During the meeting a collection of over $100 was taken up from the audience who listened to her.

Among those to greet Commander Booth was Mrs. Jennie Lucas, of Boswell avenue, who had known the commander as a little girl in England and had also known the commander's mother well.

APPLICATIONS ON HAND FOR PARK SUPERINTENDENT

Judge John R. Booth of the superior court gave judgment Friday for $2,893.34 in favor of R. A. Sherman & Sons Co., of Westerly against Clarence O. Marshall of Lynn, Mass., which was tried before him here on Wednesday. It was a suit over a bill of lumber and building materials.

Patriotic Window Display

In the windows of Hawkins the Florist on Franklin street is a most beautiful patriotic window display, one that is highly fitting to the Grand Army of the Republic and a booster for the American Legion.

It is an unusually attractive wreath made up of flowers of red, white and blue shades, given the effect of the national colors, the wreath being beautifully ornamented with cycus palms, the whole display being set off by a poster of flags on a "true blue" background reading, "With Justice and Freedom to All."

In addition to this is an attractive pyramid of American flags, topped off by a true blue background. The display has been attracting considerable attention and is a fitting piece for window decorations for Memorial day.

SEGAL HOLDS CHAPMAN TECH TO THREE SCATTERED HITS AS ACADEMY WINS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 23.—Norwich Free Academy took permanent possession of second place in the Eastern Connecticut interscholastic standing, by defeating Chapman Tech at Morgan park this afternoon by 7 to 1 score. The Academy jumped to the lead in the first inning by scoring three runs and held this margin almost throughout the entire game. Chapman Tech was never a match for the Red and White and what ever doubt existed in the minds of those fans who attended the last Chapman Tech-Academy game as to the best team of the two was settled here this afternoon.

Ellie Segal was never in better form than in today's game. He held the heavy Tech batsmen to three hits—one of these an infield roller, and in many other ways dominated the contest with his fast ball and curves. Tech batsmen were at a loss, when to garner a single with men on bases. Besides twirling a fine game, Segal was there with the willow, connecting safely three times out of [illegible] trips to the plate. He was a thorn in the side of the Tech players and was ever on the alert to add a bit to further the breach that sparkled the [illegible] game.

Morris Brown on the mound for Chapman Tech allowed ten hits in a game. Behind him the Red and Black players played an erratic game, making a total of nine errors of every description. And in counting these nine errors two home plate scorers [illegible] Two of these plays that [illegible] Nesbitt famous did not [illegible] scoring however. The Tech [illegible] exhibition of ball [illegible] and deserved to lose. The Academy team showed its best yet exhibited this season and hitting Brown when hits meant runs, were awarded the decision.

The Academy lost no time in taking the lead, scoring three runs in the first canto. As it was later proved these runs were enough to win the contest right there. Brown hit McNamara the first man to face him Burke hit to Brown and a play was made at third base, in an attempt to catch McNamara advancing a base. As the result, when the ball arrived too late at third to retire McNamara, all hands were safe. Burke went to second unmolested and Segal took kindly to one of Brown's offerings and hit a single to center field scoring McNamara and Burke on the hit. Segal took second when Linkletter fumbled the ball momentarily. Hollander hit to Duhaime in right field and Segal went to third after the catch. Brown let Duhaime's throw get from him in an attempt to catch Segal and the Academy pitcher crossed the plate.

Chapman Tech made a bid for a score in the second inning by having three men on the bases with two down. Morris Brown always considered a dangerous hitter was fanned by Segal for the third out retiring the side without a score.

Both the Academy and Tech scored a run in the third inning. Segal was again the trouble maker for the Red and White. He hit for a single to left field after one was down and immediately stole second. Hollander followed with another single to right field and Segal easily crossed the plate on the hit. Hollander being left on the base. Chapman Tech scored its only run of the game when Hollander muffed Crouch's fly in center field. Except for this error, Segal would have easily scored a shut out victory. Busch's error on Cruise's grounder advanced Crouch all the way around to the plate.

Two hits and two errors gave the Academy three more runs in the final [illegible] Tech [illegible] Brown at third base [illegible] Wheat [illegible] Busch at first base that Tombari was [illegible] on second when the ball was returned to the diamond. Busch got a second hit of the game, a double into left center field, Tombari easily scoring. Busch took third when McNamara grounded out to Crouch and scored on a squeeze play, with Burke on the executing end and Busch on the scoring end. Segal received his third hit of the day in this inning and began fooling with the ball, letting [illegible] get past him Segal took second from where he scored on Force's error of Hollander's ground hit ball.

Busch played a good game for the Academy and had a single and double in four times to the plate. Captain Crouch of the Tech was the only player on the entire Red and Black team that played anywhere near top form. The Tech captain handled the ball nine times without an error and got two of the three hits made by the entire Tech team. Th score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

A ball is hit to the outfield.

Should an outfielder fake throwing to a certain base or else get the ball away as soon as it is caught?

On all balls hit to the outfield the outfielder should never hesitate about returning the ball at once and as accurately and with as much speed as possible.

It is a fact and we don't know just the reason why that when an outfielder holds the ball and makes some sort of a fake to dare a base runner to run he will throw the ball inaccurately nine times out of ten chances and that always advances the runner at least one base and brings about a lot of trouble. Outfielders should always return the ball to the diamond as quickly as possible where it can be handled by the infield.

YANKS WIN SPECTACULAR GAME FROM TIGERS

New York, May 23—The world's champions won a 7-6 victory over Detroit today in a thrilling game. Cobb inside four hits and picked a blow from Ruth's bat off the centerfield bleachers after a long run. Ruth had previously made his 10th homer with one on and sent three foul balls into the right field bleachers.

Heilmann, up with three on in the sixth, was called out on strikes and threw his bat which hit Catcher Hoffman. Umpire Rowland put him out of the game. Pratt, who followed him at bat, cleared the sacks with a double. Dugan hit a homer inside the field with one on. The score:

GREENEVILLE GRAMMAR SCHOOL WINS BULLETIN TROPHY IN ATHLETIC MEET

Greenville captured the grammar school athletic supremacy in the athletic meet held at the Fairgrounds yesterday afternoon, when they defeated Elizabeth street and Broadway the scores being 23, 21 and 19. The meet was attended by a large turnout of the school children, who did their share of cheering for their teams, and the meet proved full of tense moments. As in the past contests, yesterday's meet was close all the way through, and it was only after the last event had been run off that it could be determined who would win the Bulletin trophy.

The relays and sprints were the feature events of the day and the work of the young athletes proved that there are some coming athletes among the school boys and girls. Possibly the biggest surprise was the winning of the girls 50 yard dash by Miss Nettie Santos, who fairly "flew through the air" traveling the distance in 6.1 seconds.

Another big stunt was the tug of war event, which called for real "tugging" and the big audience was on its feet as the teams tried to pull their school to victory.

The meet proved to be one of the best held during the past four years, and although Greenville nosed out ahead, all the teams are deserving of credit for their good sportsmanship and pluck.

The events and winners were as follows.

St.-tkahkgsdd——

Running Broad-Oslk (G) 14.5; Foster (B) J. Porter (E.)

Tug of war—Greeneville, Broadway Elizabeth street.

Boys Relay—Elizabeth street, Greeneville, Broadway.

Girls 50 yard dash finals—Netta Santos (E) Laura Shields (B) Nellie Gronski (G)

Following the events, the handsome trophy cup contributed by the Norwich Bulletin was presented to the winning team, after which a snake dance and cheers were given by the Greenevillites.

Th meet was conducted by an athletic committee consisting of school principals J. E. Murphy, Mr. Frank Clapp, J. B. Stanton and E. J. Fritz of the Y. M. C. A.

The officials of the meet were, E. J. Graham, H. Ludlow, J. B. Stanton J. E. Murphy, Frank Clapp, I. Hankin, E. J. Fritz.

JOHNSON PITCHES HIS 103RD SHUTOUT GAME

Washington, May 23—Hooper's single in the fourth was all that prevented Walter Johnson from registering a no-hit game today when Washington defeated Chicago 4 to 0. Johnson struck out fourteen of the visitors, twice setting the side down on strikes and from the second to the fourth innings fanned six in succession. It was the 103rd shutout of the career of Johnson who is pitching his eighteenth season in a local uniform. The score.

TAFTVILLE A. A. UP AGAINST FAST MANCHESTER CLUB TODAY

One of the best games in the eastern part of the state is booked for this afternoon at the Providence street grounds in Taftville when the Taftville A. A., will meet the fast South Manchester team of the newly organized state league. South Manchester's destinies are under the control of Herman Bronkie, former Detroit and Waterbury player. Bronkie never managed anything but a tip-top ball club and the South Manchester team is no exception.

Herman has collected some first class ball tossers, many of them being well known to local fans and capable of putting up some real baseball. His lineup will be as follows: Hatch rf; Edgar lf; Sipples cf; Bronkie ss; Wilson 1b; Massey 2b; Hanna 3b; Lamprecht c; Thompson, Burchart or Holland p. A glance over the lineup shows that Bronkie has a real ball club and a real game can be expected.

Taftville will be strengthened considerably for this game, several of the Sub Base players having been added to the lineup. Taftville will use Donais or Lefty Dugas in right field; Gaudette or Eddie Murphy in center; Mangold of the Sub Base in left; Nap Liberty or Gauthier will be in the short field and Chap Dugas will be at third. Bus Murphy will be at second and Lariviere, another Sub Base player will cover first Bill Liberty will do the backstop work and Davis of the Sub Base who held Willimantic to six hits last Saturday, will be on the mound.

WILLS-MADDEN BOUT OFF FOR AT LEAST 10 DAYS

New York, May 23—The Harry-Wills-Bartley Madden heavyweight match, storm-center of a controversy between promoters of the Queensboro A. C. and the Fire Department over the approval of the Long Island City stadium, was today erased from the boxing calendar for New York state for at least ten days.

This was announced by the state athletic commission following information from officials of the Queensboro A. C., that they will be unable to hold the proposed heavyweight match next Monday since efforts to lift the Fire Department's ban on the arena have failed so far.

The promoters also had considered transferring the match to Newark, N. J., but it was understood this has been definitely abandoned.

Failing to straighten out its difficulties today, the promoters were notified by George E. Brower, chairman of the commission, that no license would be issued for the contest until the week of June 2 or the earliest since there are no available dates before then.

WILL ASK MASS. COMMISSION TO MODIFY GREB RULING

New York, May 23—The New York State Athletic commission probably will ask the Massachusetts boxing board to modify its six months suspension of Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, to permit him to defend his title against Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., at the Milk fund bouts here, June 27.

This was indicated today by George E. Brower, chairman of the state commission upon receipt of information that the Massachusetts board was not "interested in Greb's activities outside of the Bay state."

Greb's suspension here followed similar action taken in Massachusetts under a working agreement between the New York body and the Massachusetts board despite recommendations from Boston to the effect that the bay state rising solons wished the suspension to apply only to their state. As a result the New York body has taken the stand that it cannot lift Greb's suspension here until similar action is taken in Massachusetts but has offered to intercede for the milk fund promoters in Greb's behalf.

ACADEMY PLAYS THE ROTARY CLUB TODAY

This afternoon at the Academy campus the Academy team will clash with the Rotary club team in the first game for the Rotary club this season. The Academy team fresh from a victory over Chapman Tech will be a tough nut for the Rotarians. The Rotarians, however, feel confident of winning as Big Ed Harris, former Red Sox pitcher will be in the box for the Rotarians. Domi Abbott, former college catcher will do the backstop work.

The remainder of the team will be Doc. Campbell, Al Bliven, Rues Clapp, Bunk Welch, Ed Jewett, Al Lillibridge, Bill Park, Art Thompson, Jim Madden, Bert Cary, Charlie Taylor, Lew Carpenter that Saxton and Scoop Standish. From this aggregation quite some team can be picked for the majority are former college men and have played exceptionally good baseball not so many years ago. The Rotarians have been out for practice several times during the past week and are rounding into excellent form.

The Academy will use the regular lineup with the exception of Ellie Segal in the box. Couture, Healy or Steinman will be the chioce for the mound duty today. The game will start promptly at 3:15 o'clock.

ONLY TWO TEAMS IN TRACK MEET TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 23—It looks as though the annual Eastern Connecticut outdoor track meet to be held at Morgan park, New London on this (Saturday) afternoon will be but a two school affair. The schools entered in the meet numbered four on Wednesday but this number has been decreased by the withdrawal of the teams from Norwich Free Academy and Stonington. The Academy has no track team this year, while Stonington High will not participate, because the entire town is quarantined. This leaves but the Chapman Tech and Westerly track teams to compete against each other.

Preparations which were made by the track manager at Chapman Tech to take care of an unusually large crowd will have to be abandoned. The Westerly and Chapman Tech schools are bitter rivals in all sports and though these schools are the only two entered, a close and exciting race is expected. The first event is to be run off at 2 o'clock.

NEW YORK MEETS QUAKER TEAM IN TENNIS FINALS

Philadelphia, May 23—New York defeated Boston five to four in the George M. Church tournament at the Merion Cricket Club today, winning all three doubles and two of the six singles matches. The Philadelphia team headed by William T. Tilden 2nd national champion will meet New York tomorrow in the final matches for the cup.

MISS HOLLINS WINS TITLE FOR THIRD TIME IN MET. GOLF

Garden City, N. Y., May 23—Miss Marion Hollins, former national champion, today won the women's Metropolitan golf championship for the third time when she defeated Mrs. J. L. Anderson, of the home club, six and five, in the 36 hole final match at the Cherry Valley course.

Mrs. Anderson rallied in the last half of the match but was unable to overcome Miss Hollins' big early lead, which was seven up at the half way mark and nine up at the 20th hole. The cards for the final round:

Miss Hollins out 4 5 5 8 4 5 4 6 6—47
Mrs. Anderson out 5 7 5 7 3 5 4 4 5—45.

COM. MATTHEWSON FREES SKIPPER AFTER HEARING AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 23.—Capt. Henry Cooper, of Long Island, master of the fishing sloop Sadie A. Nickerson, was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich at the customs house here this afternoon. The charge against Capt. Nickerson, proceeding upon a foreign voyage without obtaining clearance papers or filing manifest, was dismissed. Nickerson was taken into custody early in the month, when the revenue cutter Semmole seized the craft and its crew off Montauk, it being alleged that Capt. Nickerson was attempting to obtain [illegible] from one of the ships lying off [illegible] York." The sloop is still tied [illegible] the customs house wharf, pending disposition by United States [illegible] Attorney Cohen.

Capt. Roderick McNeil, of Gloucester, master of La Felice, the [illegible] auxiliary sloop, which [illegible] was [illegible] cases of Royal [illegible] Scotch whiskey, 15 miles off [illegible] Point yesterday morning [illegible] into port by the revenue [illegible] cutter Acushnet last night, together [illegible] crew of two men, was before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich at the customs house this afternoon. McNeil [illegible] proceeding upon a foreign voyage without obtaining clearance papers or filing manifest and the crew were charged with conspiracy. McNeil was held for trial in bonds of $5,000 and the crew in bonds of $500 each. The liquor craft is now moored at the customs house wharf and the valuable cargo has been placed in storage at the customs house.

Seven men who were arrested here early Thursday morning for conveying, by means of trucks, about 500 cases of alcohol which contained some [illegible] gallons of the liquor will come before [illegible] tomorrow morning. [illegible] more strangers here [illegible] they are held in [illegible] in bonds of $10,000 [illegible] liberated is Patrick J. [illegible] secured [illegible] by the [illegible] of New [illegible] same men were before Commissioner Earl Matthewson, of [illegible], today, in the police court room here and were held in bonds of $1,000 each for violation of a federal law in connection with the transportation of the alcohol. What the disposition of the men will be, if they have not been [illegible] known. They were all [illegible] with the goods" and were on [illegible] when the vehicles were [illegible] the outskirts of the city a [illegible] before sunrise Thursday [illegible]. They made no effort to conceal that they had alcohol, representing that it was shipped by the Varnish company to one [illegible] 317 Mercer street, New [illegible] truckmen blame the work [illegible] going on along the state roads [illegible] construction. They did not [illegible] that they attempted to [illegible] and those were "lost." [illegible] Lon- [illegible] alcohol [illegible] about [illegible] worth [illegible] half as much more, for they are powerful machines of large capacity. One of them is equipped with a movable body nearly as large as that of a freight car, which can be transferred to another chassis as occasion necessitates. It is on small wheels or runners that makes the task an easy one. It was expected that others than Murphy would secure release from the county jail today that they might confer with their attorneys at Bridgeport, who came to this city for the purpose on Thursday, but the prisoners made no move in that direction and it is inferred that they will not make such a move now, as the matter has got down simply to whoever they sleep at the last one at a certain rooming house one night. Three New London lawyers are on the minds of the men accused and they will represent them in the police court Saturday. The trucks which brought the alcohol to this city were escorted the morning by New Haven police [illegible] are now in the custody of the federal officials, prohibition enforcement agents accompanying the trucks from New London to New Haven. There has never been a seizure in this city like that of Thursday morning in quantity of alcohol secured since the prohibition law became operative.

Baum stated that he played pool in the place a long time and that his purse was in his coat pocket. He did not discover the loss of the wallet until he was about to leave the place and a diligent search failed to reveal it, nor had any of the frequenters of the place seen it. This morning the pocketbook, the money missing, was found in plain view on the floor and where it could have been seen the night before had it been there.

James Connors, 11 North Bank street, and employed by the Robert Gair company of Montville, is a patient at Lawrence hospital as a result of an accident this afternoon whereby he suffered the loss of all or part of the fingers of his right hand. Connors was operating a corrugating machine, about 2:30 o'clock, when his hand became caught in the mechanism and before the machine could be stopped the entire hand was jammed, the fingers being terribly crushed. Connors was given first aid treatment and then rushed to the hospital where the fingers were amputated. Tonight it was stated at the institution that Connors was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

STOPPED BY THE KANGAROOS.

Did the Old Lady Grasshopper sneeze or cough?
No, the Stage Coach Driver snapped his whip

Then the little rabbit hopped to the ground
And, pushing the turnstile gate around,
Hopped on the Ferryboat in a winkle

Across the beautiful Sippi river
The Ferryboat went with a paddle wheel shiver
And when in the slip it bumped its nose.
The passengers step on each other's toes.

Dear me, if my typewriter isn't a [illegible] mail to a commuter. But never mind. Little Jack Rabbit didn't want but hopped up to a squirrel taxicab.

"To the big circus,
Don't waste a minute!"
He told Chauffeur Squirrel
When he was in it.

Away they went,
Without any fuss,
And before very long
They were at the circus.

But, Oh, dear me! Just as they were about to turn into the circus grounds, a big Kangaroo stepped out of the ticket office and shouted:

"Stop!"

Oh, dear me! again. When [illegible] the little bunny to show [illegible] he couldn't. Not the [illegible] you know, but the little [illegible]

"I'm [illegible]!" sighed poor Little Jack Rabbit. "I was to meet the Circus Elephant up here this afternoon."

"You don't say," exclaimed the Kangaroo, only this time his voice was very kind, "I'll call up the Circus Elephant." And the long-legged Kangaroo returned the five carrot cents which I forgot to mention the little rabbit had offered him.

Pretty soon he came back and said, "All right. He says to come in and make yourself at home."

At once the Squirrel Taxi driver honked the horn and away they went under the shady trees and the blue sky from which Mr. Merry Sun smiled down and seemed to say, "I'll shine all day if you'll be good and help your father saw the wood."

Just then, all of a sudden, the haughty Peacock set up a dreadful screech. I guess he was jealous because the little rabbit was coming to see Alice, the Lady Elephant, whose picture was in last week's Bunnyville Bugle. But the little rabbit didn't care, as he hopped out of the taxi to shake hands with his friend, the Circus Elephant. And in the next story I'll tell you more about the circus in Turnip Town.

WHERE THE BIGGEST SHOE SALE IS BEING HELD.

IN NORWICH, FIFTY YEARS AGO

Arguments between city residents and town residents over the proposed extension of the city limits provided most of the entertainment for Norwich people in 1874, both sides speaking strongly of their views of the matter.

Monday, May 18, 1874—To satisfy a necessity long felt by residents in Preston, the enterprise was undertaken last September of establishing a Sunday school in the Preston chapel. The school at first numbered 125 and the exercises were held in the lower room, the upper room being left unfinished until needed.

With the growing of the school it was deemed advisable to complete the upper room, and, on Sunday, the room was dedicated by Rev. John Davies of the Central Baptist church. The school now numbers over 200 members.

The Potter press works at Thamesville are now doing a very large amount of work and have on hand all the orders they can possibly attend to [illegible] machines being taken as fast as they are manufactured.

Among the committee on prize essays presented by members of the Yale law school are the Hon. John D. Park and James A. Hovey of Norwich.

The selectmen of eleven different towns met at the council chambers in New London Saturday and voted to employ counsel to defend the interests of their respective towns in the state legislature against further taxation for the new court house in Norwich.

Tuesday, May 19, 1874—At a special meeting of the city government held last evening the report of city expenses for the year was presented by Treasurer, Charles Webb. Total expenditures for the year totalled $502,984.-30, leaving a balance on hand of $4,-088.52. The annual police expense was $13,799.92, fire department, $14,-679.59; lighting streets, $5,223.90 and contingent expenses were $15,469.54.

New streets asked for included Ward street, Falls avenue and the widening of Elizabeth street.

The much talked of trot for $200 between Little Tom and Delia, best two in three to wagon, came off at the Fairgrounds yesterday afternoon and was won by the former in two straight heats; time 2.51 1-2 and 2.55. This was excellent time considering the heavy track.

The schooner Franklin arrived in New London last evening. Captain C. Chester, and had on board 1,100 skins, and 300 barrels of oil. The schooner was 103 days from Shetland Islands.

Wednesday, May 20, 1874—The parade of the Norwich City Guards, Co. C., last evening made a sensation on the streets almost equal to the times "when Johnny came marching home." The company came out of the armory a little after 8 o'clock and marched and countermarched through the principal streets headed by Lewis' city band.

With fair weather Saturday the parade of the fire department promises to be a brilliant and interesting affair. The firemen are busy getting ready for the parade and intend making it one of the biggest ever held in the city.

In the Pequot building on Central wharf are several manufacturies, that have been recently established and are doing a brisk business. George W. Gates has his general jobbing and fancy woodworking room there, his feature article being a ladies sewing table which is a fast seller, being of the folding type. Adjoining this shop is the wagon and carriage depot of Chester Keech, where fancy buggies, phaetons and carriages are made and sold. George H. Woodworth has taken a place in the building for his carriage and wagon repairing business.

Arguments waxed hot yesterday between people favoring and people not favoring the extending of the city limits, Laurel Hill people, Greeneville people and up-town people argued against coming into the city because they already had all the benefits without paying for them. City people argued that the city residents paid two thirds of all the town bills and derived no benefit from them and claimed that a more equal taxation should be brought about, or let the town foot its own bills and the city people pay theirs.

Thursday, May 21, 1874—The members of the Choral Union gave their initiative concert in Breed hall last evening, the performance being of credit to every member of the union. Those taking part were Mrs. R. G. Coit, Mrs. Reynolds, J. H. George, Dr. Routh and Miss Blackman. Great credit for the success of the entertainment was due to the work of Prof. DeProsse.

Palmer Penn of Putnam is to rebuild his block this season, the new block to have a frontage of 35 feet on Elm street and will be three stories in height, the first floor for stores, the second for offices and the third for tenements.

The port of Norwich has been visited by many boats during the past few days and at the present time eight boats, from the passenger and freight boats down to schooners loaded with coal, are tied up along the docks.

Friday, May 22, 1874—One hundred and seventy-five delegates, eight from Norwich attended the grand lodge of Odd Fellows held in Meriden Wednesday. The report of the grand [illegible] showed [illegible] was spent during the year in [illegible] according to the report of the [illegible] treasurer.

At an auction at the home of Rix Bliss, Westchester, a [illegible] preston a quantity [illegible] was sold. Some of it had been stored in the barn 40 years ago and was in excellent condition. A number of people took specimens home with them for curiosities.

[illegible] has accepted the call to the Christ church parish and will begin his duties there on the first Sunday in June.

Strickland Post of New London has postponed Decoration day owing to the lateness of the flower season in that city.

Saturday, May 23, 1874—The late residence of Col. Bond on Spaulding street, [illegible] by Mrs. Huntley [illegible] has some interesting [illegible] It is [illegible] of wood [illegible] and [illegible] by [illegible] feet, and is six feet deep. It is said the original cost of the well was over $2,000.

J. C. Worth at the corner and E. P. Branch on Union street displayed yesterday the first strawberries of the season. The fruit is from Norfolk, Va., and is remarkably fresh and well preserved.

Dr. Mason and John T. Clark of this city brought in thirty-two trout yesterday, the largest and most finely averaged catch reported thus far this season.

Norwich people may once again enjoy halibut and cod fish for the schooner Belle has arrived in New London with 400 halibut and 500 cod fish on board.

Benevolence is not dead in Norwich. A youth who stands six feet two in his bare feet has at last been provided with the first pair of stockings he has had the good fortune to own and wear.

SATISFACTION IN LIFE IS EASY; JUST DO YOUR DUTY

FOR MOTHERS' DAY

Her pineys were a gorgeous sight to see,
Her bleedin' hearts was purty as could be.
She allus planted cockscomb, touch-me-not and marigold,
But nothin' in the garden ever seemed to take ahold

I made the mound they growed in, underneath the lilock's shade,
They ust to look so timid—just like children, half afraid—
That Mother never had the heart to pick
The blossoms till they faded, and she'd kneel down on the ground
And talk to 'em so gentle and so good,
It seemed to me the pansies lifted up their faces round
And smiled back at her like they understood.

Yes, Mother and her posy beds are gone, and in their place
I've nothin' left but just a memory,
And all the past comes rushin' back to me.
The other flowers are pretty, but I'm different from the rest.
I've always stand for "thoughts," I've heard 'em say
So it'll be a pansy that I wear upon my breast
To tell of her who's in my thoughts today.

MEMORIAL SONG

Winter the snow on the brow of the brave
Brighter the freedom of him who was slave,
Forever a rust on the sword in its sheath
Steeper a pathway, more faded the wreath
Dearer the names on the annals of fame,
Truer the friendship of those who became Fainter the colors of blue and of gray,
Fainter the drumbeats as years roll away.

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Over the battlefields of northland and south
Song birds are nesting in dumb cannon's mouth;
Corn grows and wheat waves where vast armies trod,
Flowers have beautiful battle tramped sod
Silent the bugle and silent the drum,
Where bullets whistled the honey-bees hum;
Let loose the white dove, war's thunder cease,
Unshotted cannon proclaim a wide peace.

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Set them in crowns for the brave
G. A. R.
Cheers for the living and tears for the dead,
Cover with flowers each hero's deep bed,
Lincoln and Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and all,
Warriors and loved ones who've passed the dark pall
In grand review, north and south both so dear,
Prompt in the roll call of heaven with "Here."

ADMIRATION FOR MARIA

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: The Test of Maria written by (Alineda Alden) is a real eye opener to the members of the Social Corner. Maria must have been one woman out of a hundred to think of all that in so short a time. I would have been scared stiff and not able to think or speak a word. I wish there were more women of that kind, (or perhaps it was a man.) How are we going to know if we don't know the writer? See by May third Social Corner page that it was a prize winner any way.

Much sympathy goes out to the dear sister Wildwood in the far west, and I sincerely hope she may be made comfortable during the days (following her birthday) of suffering and being confined in bed. It is so hard to have such an accident at the age of 85 and I hope she may have courage in these trying circumstances.

Potlatch: Remember that the Social Corner sisters are thinking of you at this time and may the dear Father in Heaven give you strength to bear this trouble that has come to you.

These are the days when everything in nature looks beautiful. All fruit trees are loaded with blossoms which we hope to gather in fruit later on.

So far the roll call members are strangers to me, but if nothing happens I expect to attend the picnic planned by Rural Aunty in Central Village and perhaps will be better acquainted.

KENTUCKY WONDER (Sept. 11)

BAG AND HANDKERCHIEF NOVELTIES.

Dear Corner Folks: Howdy, this fine morning? All well, I hope? Perhaps some of the sisters may like my bag, and handkerchief novelties. One of the most needed articles about the home is the little button bag, for there is always a call for a button here and a button there, and one never realizes how essential they are until they have one in their possession. A very pretty one I make I am going to describe: From satteen or any pretty material on hand, cut a circle 15 inches in circumference, then double it into eight even sections; one of these will give the pattern for one of the eight pieces of which the outside circle is composed. These may be of silk, wool, velvet, etc., plain or embroidered, to suit the individual taste. Sew these pieces together and cover the seams with embroidery silk in herringbone, brier or any other fancy stitch. Sew the plain and pieced circles together, overhand, or with invisible stitches, and then work around in fancy stitch. Use eight brass rings —one at each joining—and run the ribbon strings through them. A fancy button at the bottom completes this pretty and convenient bag.

A handkerchief bag is fashioned from two men's bordered handkerchiefs. Overhand the edges neatly together, then commencing about an inch from the center of each side, with embroidery silk and fancy stitch, run diagonally across the four corners. Cut a circle from the center of one of the handkerchiefs, in diameter about two-thirds the length of a side; face it and run ribbon in it for strings, as in an old fashioned work pocket. Decorate the four points with a bow of ribbon. Cord and tassels may be used for strings in place of ribbon and tassels also at the points of one prefers it to the bows. Handkerchief aprons are quite pretty also. Two men's handkerchiefs with narrow border preferred. One forms the apron, the other is cut in half for the ruffle; do not join the pieces but leave them open in the middle. Gather the top into a band of muslin with strings of the same. For a stout figure, cut off the border at the top and curve slightly before stitching it to the band. For another style of ruffle, cut a square from the center of the handkerchief, open the part remaining, and sew the cut edge as if it were straight to the bottom of the apron. These suggestions make very pretty gifts for birthday gifts or for gifts at a shower for they are very useful articles for new housekeepers.

Grace: You have my heartfelt sympathy in your recent, sad affliction.

Best wishes to the sisters of the Social Corner.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

APPROVES ROLL CALL IDEA.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I want to say it is just an expression of my mind, in preparing the Social Corner Roll Call.

I am a young sister among you, but I have been fortunate enough to obtain about 115 pen names with their addresses and hope to have many more before a great while.

I think the letters seem so much more to us when we can associate the person with the pen name.

It seems interesting to note that there are at least twenty Aunts or Aunties in our group.

Of course it used to be considered years ago that a bachelor girl was aunt to everybody.

I know for one I do not phrase myself as one. But what would those tired mothers do sometimes, if it wasn't for aunty. You know it is said a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, in time of need.

Just a word to those who have never used it: Invest in a can of wall paper cleaner (Larkins) at your first opportunity. It works like magic and the price spent on that may save more than one room being repapered this spring.

Clip: I want to thank you for favoring me with the Washington pie recipe. I think you were the next to be numbered among us. And I hope some day to meet you personally.

I am interested to know who you are.

AUNTIE B-E-E.

PRIZE RECIPES

Dear Sisters: I wanted to advise the sisters that the recipe I sent in are prize recipes so you can copy them or not just as you wish.

I understood that some do not care for recipes but those that want them can use them.

Nut Lunch Sandwiches: 1 cup grape nuts, 6 hard cooked eggs, chopped fine, 2 tablespoons finely chopped sweet pickles, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 3-4 cup thick mayonnaise. Mix the ingredients until they are well blended and will spread easily.

Chicken Tamale Pie: 6 cups of chicken stock (I bone the chicken and use that stock also.)

3-4 cup of corn meal and 1 cup of bread crumbs and 1 tablespoon of corn starch, 1 teaspoon of chili powder, 2 cups milk, 6 cups of chicken, 1 3-4 cups of green peppers and ripe olives mixed, chopped into small pieces. Let come to a boil then add corn meal and dried crumbs and cornstarch, cook until thick, add salt. Then fold in chicken and olives, cut in small pieces.

Prize Cake Recipe: 1 cup grape nuts, 1 cup water, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup lard, 1 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 level teaspoon soda, 1 level teaspoon baking powder, 1 level teaspoon salt, 2 eggs.

Boil together for two minutes, the water, sugar, lard, raisins, spices, pour this while hot over the grape nuts and let stand until cold, Stir in the flour sifted with the soda, salt and baking powder and lastly, add the eggs, well beaten. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven. This recipe makes medium size cake.

Prize Omelet: 1-2 cup grape nuts, 2 tablespoons butter or fat, 2 tablespoons each chopped onion, green pepper and parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups cooked tomatoes, 3 eggs, 3 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 4-6 tablespoons grated cheese.

Melt the butter or cooking fat, cook in the onion parsley and pepper until softened, add salt and tomato and let simmer about 15 minutes. This can be done before hand and reheated. Beat the eggs until light, or a full spoonful can be lifted, add salt, pepper and mix well. Melt butter in omelet pan, pour in the egg. Shake and tilt the pan, run a spatula around the edge so that the raw egg can run down on the hot pan, when the eggs are nearly done sprinkle with grated cheese and grape nuts. Spread some of the tomato mixture over this, roll half the omelet over the other half and put on a hot dish, pour the rest of the tomato over it and serve.

Omelet: 1-2 cup cracker crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 3 tablespoon cheese, 3 tablespoons warm water, 3 eggs. Must have platter hot when you turn your omelet out.

Beat whites of eggs after adding a pinch of baking powder, add salt to whites, beat again add pepper to yolks, pour yolks into pan. When set pour in the whites beaten, sprinkle cracker crumbs and cheese, fold together, take off the stove, let steam.

CARE OF CUT FLOWERS.

Dear Corner Folks: There has been much written about plants and the care of them. I do not remember reading anything about the care of cut flowers so am sending a few worthwhile suggestions. Cut flowers are so expensive and are such a joy in the home especially to those who are shut in that it pays to know how to keep them as long as possible.

All flowers fade sooner if tied in bunches or crammed tightly into vases than when arranged loosely. Remove each flower as it fades, or it will destroy the others. Hot water will often restore the freshness, even when every petal is drooping. Place the stems in a cup of boiling hot water; let them remain until each petal has regained its freshness; then cut off the ends, and replace the flowers in water of moderate temperature.

Sprinkle a bouquet with fresh water, then put it into a vase containing some soap suds. Remove the bouquet each morning and lay it sidewise in fresh water for a minute or two. Replace the bouquet in the soapsuds and the flowers will be as fresh as when gathered. Change the soapsuds each day.

A small quantity of nitrate of soda put into water when it is changed will preserve flowers. If the stalks are of a woody nature like roses, the bark should be stripped from the stalks for some distance. All thick stems, such as those of gladioli and peonies, should be slit in places to open them for water. Clip off the old ends each time the water is changed.

Breaking the branches of lilacs and dogwood is better than cutting them with a knife, as the lacerated wood and bark furnish openings for the water. Lilies of the valley need little to keep them fresh other than water every day. These early bloomers keep better when two or more bells are opened, as every bell will open before the stems die.

Peonies keep best in cold water in a cool place. If one or more petals are slightly opening from the bud, it is a signal to cut off a bit of the stem every other day. Cut this just as the buds are ready to open. The renewal of water will force all the blooms to open. Sweet peas, mignonette and many other flowers are naturally long lasting, and while the stalk dies, the flower never do.

I wish to say that three members of Club No. 4 can testify that the May party at Franklin hall was a success from start to finish. I do not know who gave the basket I drew but thank whoever it was for the nice face cloth with a Social Corner colored border. I also thank Sister Jennie for her kind wish to meet me at the anniversary meeting. We made all preparations to go but the weather man said, "No" most decidedly. Hope we may meet somewhere during the summer.

TWO EXCELLENT RECIPES.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: In answer to the roll call, would state I used three "noms" when writing. Can answer to A. M. L. and A. P., also the last one which is the nom I shall use hereafter.

Wonder where Astrachan Jacket is?

The Bulletin comes almost daily now and am always pleased when I see it. To me it is like a call from a dear friend—must give honorable mention to the interesting letters that Mr. Plaut writes of his travels.

Nut Bread: One and one-half cups graham flour, two cups of white flour, one cup of light brown sugar, one and one-half cups of sweet milk, two-thirds cup of dates or raisins, four teaspoons of salt. Sift all ingredients, add nut meats and fruit, add milk, stir well and pour into well buttered loaf tins. Allow to stand 20 minutes. Bake three-quarters of an hour in moderate oven.

Tasty Sandwich: Take a small cream cheese and cream it, then add three tablespoons of cream (top of milk bottle would do), season with salt and paprika; and add four tablespoons of chopped nuts and two tablespoons of chopped preserved ginger and place on thin slices of bread. Nut bread cut in diamond shape is my favorite but white makes it less hearty. For a change in flavor jelly can be used. One tablespoon of currant jelly I use. We think it the most tempting sandwich made.

With all good wishes from

RYE GEMS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: In looking over the list of names in the Social Corner roll call I saw my old pen name so will try to answer with a few lines. Have thought several times that I would write. Am very much interested in the Social Corner letters, especially since so many of my acquaintances have become members.

My sympathy to Grace and her family. Such a sad accident. Suppose it is just another one of the happenings that we will never understand why it should be so.

Will send my recipe for Rye Gems perhaps some of the sisters would like to try them. My family are very fond of them.

Rye Gems: One-half cup sugar, one egg, one cup buttermilk or sour milk, one teaspoon soda, one cup rye meal two-thirds cup flour, two tablespoons melted butter.

Here's hoping that we will have a few nice sunshiny days for a change.

Best wishes to all.

HOW TO KEEP SICK HUBBY HAPPY.

Dear Corner Sisters: Providing sick room comforts out of materials at hand is very often necessary and when huby is sick it is the greatest problem to keep him from fretting therefore undoing the good which the rest might bring him. Here are some simple suggestions which may astonish you as well as hubby—as a source of relief A man that has been used to living out doors most of his time feels if he could only get a glimpse of the street and see people passing by it would be an outlet for his irratibility.

It is impossible to move the bed near the window, yet the head of the house thirsts with all his pent-up yearnings of normally active, anergetic nature for the sight of the hurrying autos, and busy pedestrians. And this is what the visiting nurse suggested, as told by Frances Smith, as she came in and removed her glove she said: "Now, then, how many mirrors can you let me have and where's the tool box?

She carefully "sighted" from her position at the head of his bed to find where she must hang a mirror in order to reflect it into the bedroom the scene visible from the living room window. Another mirror in the living room had to be changed and tiltedslightly before the desired angles were obtained, but the final result was an interesting panorama of all that the head of the house longed to see. "Now give me the field glasses—or a pair of opera glasses will do," she said, as she finished her task, and hubby can pretend he's supervising constructor and traffic policeman in one. I thought this quite helpful.

Another help, which I have practised quite a few years, is to cut out interesting topics from the newspapers, pictures of great men and what they are doing, poetry that would please by various authors. Then pictures of different people can be put on cardboard and see who they make him think of. Then there are pictures in different papers where it says, "What is wrong with this picture?" Then do them up in separate packages, marking them for everyday in the week. Put in a new tie, a nice cup to drink out of, some very nice candy in a small box, a letter, and a pad of paper and pencil. If he smokes put in good cigars and so many little things that he will enjoy. It gives them something to think of. I know a man who had been sick a long time and his wife said when he got his box, it was the first time she had seen him smile. He had a pair of garters in the box and when he came to that package, I believe it was the day before Easter, he said, I thought I wasn't going to have anything new for Easter but I have, and was very much pleased.

Now you know men are merely boys grown up, no matter how old they are so treat them like boys. You'll find it works right—and amuses them.

ETHELYN.

CERTAIN KIND OF PRIDE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How many hearts have ached, how much sorrow has been caused through pride and distrust. There is a certain kind of pride which is called stubborn pride and obstinate and when once it is well rooted in your heart it is very hard to get rid of. If you have that kind of pride I beseech you to begin at once to uproot it and do not rest while a vestige is left of it. It is unyielding, unforgiving, hard and stern, it is unchristlike and rejoices in saying, "I never apologize." Distrust has no kinship whatever to happiness. It builds a wall between friends so high and wide that love cannot see over it and sympathy cannot break it down. Have you lost a dear friend in this way? Is your foolish pride building a thick wall between you. Then you are unhappy and no one can enjoy life who is the slave of such masters as these. Put aside your pride and stubborn ways and if you have aught against a friend forgive it and let there be no barrier between you.

We all have more or less pride. Self respect might perhaps be called pride and yet if you make yourself worthy of respect why should we not in a modest way realize the fact? If a man has no respect for himself he need not expect it of others. Appreciation of our own talents might also be looked upon as pride by some. Let us be careful not to take the glory to ourselves. The right will always prevail if we obey the monitions of conscience and keep ourselves free from vanity and self-righteousness. Temptations come to us in so many people calling themselves Christians but they must keep the 10 commandments and not try to break them.

GREAT GRANDMA'S SHOWER.

To the Social Corner of Bulletin. The shower of ninety cards, with messages of love, came to me on my birthday with such a rapid flow that words fail me to tell of the joy and pleasure they brought.

Truly it was a day of gladness and thankfulness, praising God from whom all blessings come.

Would I could clasp the hands of each giver with words of cheer and good will.

Your letters, I do enjoy. They tell of contentment and love in the home family.

I would thank Club No. 2, of the Social Corner for the large basket of plants sent me—pansies, geraniums, Ageratum and others. It is a beauty, and gives promise of continuous beauty throughout the season.

The day was also made pleasant by the surprise visit from cousins I had not seen for many years.

Kitty Lou: Many thanks to you for the box of flowers. They make a bright spot in my cozy corner.

I was interested in your letter on "Worries." They can be overcome by earnest prayer. Trust in the Lord, count your blessings, and the worries will all fly away.

GREAT GRANDMA.

ABOUT DE LEON SPRINGS

Dear Sisters of the Corner: And to Whirlwind also. I just had to write this lovely afternoon. Sorry I got the cards too late to send in those views of De Leon Springs. Yes, I started to describe them in my other letter, but didn't get very far with it. So here's another try at it. As for the location it is 30 miles from Daytona and 112 miles south of Jacksonville, 8 miles from Deland, Fla. Now from Deland north to the end of the brick road in that direction two miles, there's a hard surfaced shell road, which is like a wash board after a hard rain. When the new road is finished there we surely will enjoy it. When we cross the railroad (The St. Johns Valley Scenic) we are on the new road just completed from Jacksonville. Now at the left are the parking places for one-fourth of a mile to the gates of the springs. Why a gate? Well, in Florida, there's no fence laws and the cattle and hogs run loose everywhere. That's the why. Then over the open pipe culvert into the ground. Here on all sides is the nice newly planted grass about two and one-half inches high. New cement curbing, hard rolled shell and sand roads, electric lights everywhere around that, whose power is generated by a flume from the spring's overflow, under the old mill wheel at our left in the grounds. This used to be a sugar mill in the time of the Spaniards with the same bearings on the wheel shaft have always been there. Now, electricity is being generated through the use of the wheel, and a centrifugal pump on motor and generator under the old mill. All the buildings get their lights from this also. Two wide cement walks completely surround the enlarged springs. Cement seats and flower vases are everywhere and flowers are being planted on the terraces leading down to the springs. On our right is the new casino with private and public dining halls for all sizes of parties and nice big cool porches with rockers where one can watch the bathers. Back of this are the service houses, bath houses, etc. Next is a lunch house open on four sides. Here refreshments and fruit and views can be bought. Now to the south and westward, the De Leon Springs and overflow form a river that flows west to the St. John's river, miles away. Here on the western sides are the new canoe fleet, motorboat and overboard engine rowboats. Near the shore is a wire enclosure for a wild alligator, that they keep well fed on fish and turtles. To our left of the cement walk are the diving boards and platform thirty one feet high. Any day of the year you can find men, women and children in bathing, all for the sum of 25 cents a booth and suit. The water is two to three feet deep at the rim of the basin while in the center it is bottomless, that is no one has been able to reach bottom even with a 500 pound weight on 500 feet of rope on the crane. The water of the spring has some sulphur in it. When done bathing in this water your skin feels prickly and your whole body feels lighter. That must have been the reason they called it the fountain of youth in olden days.

When they dug the springs wider, there were brought two big iron gears to the surface each one has big water oak roots so interwined in the spokes that they are three feet thick. So, they must have been buried there since the time of the Spanish. Ahead is the old mill and flume, which we go across. Around the corner is the place where the old sugar kettles were and the big tall chimney for the fires underneath. In front of this they have the electric crane digging for more buildings and improvements, and next to this is where tourists camp and where they have put in tables, benches, water and an outdoor fireplace with iron top to cook your fish or anything you wish to. All this has been improved since Sept. 1923. On top of the casino, in the belfry or tower, is a strong electric spotlight which they turn on for night bathing in the springs. On the left of the springs they have built a dam of shells and cement and through which are pipes that have electric lights of red, white and blue. The water flowing over them when the lights are turned on makes it very interesting and pretty.

They had tourists day in Deland here and all the guests were taken to the springs in the afternoon to enjoy themselves. There was one contest that was bait casting from the shores of the spring. The man who won threw his bait (artificial) into a round pint can at 75 feet, the prize being a new pole and reel. On the river can be seen wild ducks, turtles, blue and white herons, as well as thousands of other smaller birds. In the water can be caught, Warmouth brims, black bass up to 15 or more pounds, catfish up to that size also and eels, mudfishers and other kinds. I know not their names, but they are there nevertheless. The water hyclantha are so thick that they must be cut and dredged out. Nowadays the fields are full of phlox of all colors that grows wild everywhere. All around are tall pines up to 100 feet high, giant water oaks, shrub and tall palmettos. Hanging from these are the drooping vines and moss.

Last Xmas there was the beautiful mistletoe and holly, that was picked by truck loads. The mistletoe berries were as thick as your fists on the branches. Never, did I see such a sight.

Everywhere around, the packing houses are still boxing up oranges and grapefruit. I was in a grove this week and saw buds, new blossoms, small oranges and big yellow fruit on the same trees. The grapes are all beginning to grow. They are the size of beans where I went. The persimmon trees are loaded with fruit. In New Symrna district the potato crop has been harvested. One man on less than 30 acres of potatoes made $11,000. They got $10.50 a barrell on the field. I must close now hoping that this letter was more enlightening on De Leon Springs. Best wishes to all the sisters from

TREATING A CORN.

Dear Cornerites: Three drops of olive oil heated and rubbed in your corns, rotary movement, night and morning is a sure cure for corns. But it is so simple it hardly think you'll try it, yet it is a remedy that if kept up for six months will absolutely cure your corn.

You know advice is something the boy says is the only thing you get "free gratis for nothing" and several sisters of the Corner wrote to ask me what would make hair grow. I advised them in separate letters but whether they thought I was a relic from Noah's ark and didn't know, or whether they thought it too simple to try I have never been informed. But I will tell you the remedy I sent them "free" would if continued make a wonderful difference in their hair. It has been tried right in this city and in other cities and is the most wonderful hair grower that was ever made.

Would have been pleased if they had sent me word concerning their progress.

I must ring off as my typewriter ribbon is broken.

KITTY LOU.

CLUB NO. ONE'S MAY PARTY.

Dear Sisters: You are waiting to hear about our May party, so here's to one and all, particularly those who could not be present.

The tables were decorated with gay little May poles of patriotic color, and May baskets filled with flowers.

The dinner was A No. 1, and let me say we had delicious clam chowder made by Sis Hopkins and Busy Bee. Then followed salads, macaroni, rolls, cakes and pies galore.

After dinner came the exchange of Maybaskets, and gaiety prevailed as at all Maybasket parties.

After this came our food auction.

Readings and anecdotes were given by Rutherton, Selinda and Wiltwyck and others whose pen names I did not get as our chauffeur called,

We were favored with members from Norwich, Versailles, Southington, Putnam and Pomfret and we numbered one hundred strong; so you see it was a real glorious old time meeting.

Our next will be at Versailles. Let's have a big attendance as it is the annual meeting.

Honor to whom honor is due. The time it comes to you, Mary France.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

SOUR CREAM COOKIES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am thinking of you all this morning and am going to take courage and write and help keep the Corner page full. Seems good to read so many nice letters each week. Glad some of the old writers are taking part in this good work. I for one fail, when it comes to letter writing, still I wish to do my part for the Corner by helping in every way I can.

Calla Lily: Your suggestion was fine in regard to sending cards to Great Grandma.

I wish to thank all who sent me cards. Received 17 from the Corner sisters, which number corresponded with the date of my birthday. 'Tis sweet to be remembered. We realize each day the shortness of life as God's word tells us "it is even a vapour which is soon cut off and we fly away."

Grace: You have my heartfelt sympathy in your affliction. May the one who never leaves nor forsakes be your stay at this time.

Unime: Enjoyed your company. Hope you reached home safely. I called at your daughter's. She has a fine home.

Esmarelda: Cheer up, better days are in store for you and I. Those yellow blossoms are not all gone yet.

Sally Sycamore: Was glad to see you at our May meeting.

Bumblebee: Hope you will have something more good to eat soon, not fried but baked.

Gypsy: Many thanks for invitation to visit you. B. B. and I will try and do so soon.

Have just been making sour cream cookies and will send recipe.

Sour Cream Cookies: 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, little salt, flour enough to roll without sticking to the board. Roll thin, bake in hot oven.

Brave: Hope to meet you sometime.

Yours for the success of the Corner.

U. C. E.

LIKES THE COUNTRY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I have not written in some time I take pleasure in writing to you all this morning. I do enjoy going down to meet with the sisters who all seem glad to see one another. I want to thank the sisters who remembered me with a sunshine box when I was sick, for it did bring sunshine with it. I have laid one of its contents away.

I cannot express my feeling for Sister Grace in this her time of sorrow. Her sorrow is hard but may God bless and comfort her at this time and help her bear her sorrow.

I am glad the good old summer time is with us again. I love the birds and the flowers. I like to drive around the country and see the wonderful things which our Maker has given us to enjoy.

Sarah Y.: Why did you not come out to the last meeting? I am now looking forward to go up to Northfield May 30 to visit my daughter, whose home overlooks the girls' school at Northfield. I like to attend the conferences and go over to Mt. Hermon on Sunday evening and hear the boys sing. I have made my plans for trips this summer on the good roads around. I don't care for beaches, but like to ride through the country.

With best wishes.

SISTER SLOW.

MORE RECOLLECTIONS OF THE PAST.

Dear Cornerites: I was much interested in the letters written about candles, rag carpet and brass kettles. It carries me back to my childhood days, and the memories that come to me of my dear mother (long since gone). But in her life how well I remember the large brass kettle, holding several pails of water and used for other purposes, and of its being cleaned with salt and vinegar to get off the accumulating verdigreese; as mother used to call it, and I can remember how the kettle would shine after this process.

Candles — yes, I remember standing and looking at mother as she fixed the loops of wicking on sticks to put across the mold and then pour in the hot tallow. When a girl of some seven years of age I had some very small candle sticks. They were four inches high, as I was to have a little party of girls. Didn't think of, having little boys at parties to those days. Time brings changes, and some are improvements on the time of, long ago, but there are some I am inclined to say are not, and the young people are in this generation restlessly seeking for the continual round of some kind of excitement. But I am diverging from my subject. The little candlesticks mother dipped in hot tallow to form candles for them—that was the first and only time I saw candles dipped. At the time candles were used, there were what were called snuffers, and you took hold of them as you would scissors, and a receptical at the end would open so you could snuff off the wick as it burned down. Some of these snuffers were very handsome being made of brass and having three small legs or standards and some were very plain. A small tin tray, being painted with a design of stripes or flowers, was to let the snuffers in. They often got full after snuffing the candle several times and must be emptied out. After the candles came whale oil lamps. The wicks in these lamps were very like the ones used in the candles. There were two (2) tubes with a small opening in these lamps. When the wick got charred we took a pin and putting it in this slot (I will call it) we could raise the wick up and cut off the charred edge. We thought this an improvement on candles. But later on came the kerosene lamp. Oh, my, wasn't that a great improvement. I well remember when my father brought one home. We all thought nothing could ever be as bright as the light from that lamp. I forgot to mention after the whale oil lamp, before the kerosene, we had the fluid lamp. The one we had had a wire tube inside in which the wick went into, and came up in two tubes similar to the whale oil tubes. This fluid was inflammable and for that reason great caution was needed in its use. But it gave a very clear light much beyond the old whale oil one.

I do not remember of mother boiling down cider but I distinctly remember of seeing a bottle of it in the pantry and of mother using it when she made mince pies. In my young days it was quite the custom to take a straw and betake ourselves to the cellar, and to draw cider from the barrel—when it was sweet, of course. It was fun when a number of us decended the stairs each with a straw.

Nearly all are now passed over the Great Beyond, and I alone am left. I feel sometimes very lonely. I was born in a manufacturing village. I lived until I was 26 years in the same house in which I was born. In this village (now a city) there were many large mills in which woolen cloth was made. At the time of the World war the mills ran day and night to supply the demand. One of the mills called the American, was built in 1847—a large, wooden building which looks as nice as it did in my young womanhood. Other enterprises carried on in the village were silk and thread mills, also envelope making, which was done by machinery. It was very interesting to watch the machines as they brought the envelopes out, all ready with the muscilage to seal the envelope as we do to post them for mailing. I often went through the mills and at that time all were American employes.

At the time of the whale oil and fluid lamps the only mode of travel was by stage coach. I used to ride in one five miles to the railroad station. If any one wanted the stage to stop at a house for a passenger the order for it must be left at the hotel. At the rear of the stage was a projection to put trunks on and heavy straps to hold them on. The driver of the four horses I have seen in cold weather whip his hands. But my ride of five miles is not to be compared to my grandmother's time, when they rode many miles and coming to an inn, the passengers would rest while the driver would change his horses, when the journey would be continued, unless the inclemencies of the weather prevented. In that case the inn made arrangements for the comfort of the folks as far as it was possible in those times.

Mother had a rag carpet which she bought of a dear old neighbor. It was very handsome. Its stripes were systematically arranged as to its colors and the stripes were wide. After I came on to the stage of action, I made many rugs, some braided and others formed out of pieces of carpet—putting fringe on the ends. This was much easier than braiding and not so heavy to clean. But it is years since I have done either one.

Lois: The poem you wished for, "I Will Not Say He Is Dead," I have and when I go north I will send it to the Corner.

Huldy: Where art thou? I wrote to you and am wondering when you leave Lakeland for the north.

Theoda: Forgotten your address. Send card and I will send eyestones as it is uncertain when I will see you personally to give them to you. Ever the same interested sister.

SISTER TROTTIE.

GREETINGS FROM AUNT MEHITABLE

Dear Cornerites: Through the force of circumstances I had gotten quite 'out of touch" with the Social Corner and did not know about the roll call until one of the good sisters sent me a Norwich paper.

Last fall we moved from Connecticut to New Jersey and are greatly pleased with our new environment. We are living in a little new house on a little new street in a retired part of a beautiful part of a beautiful town. The country is very beautiful now. Apple and dogwood trees are in full bloom and the lawns are such a fresh vivid green, liberally decorated with tulips, hyacinths and pansies. There are a large number and variety of birds around the house owing, we imagine to the numerous trees by which we are surrounded. The scarlet tanger, in some localities quite rare, is comparatively common here.

I was sorry to be unable to say good bye to my friends in the Corner but perhaps it is as well thus for good bye is a sad word, so I will not say it now but close with kind remembrances and best wishes to all from

AUNT MEHITABLE.

HOW I GOT SOME NEW SHADES.

Dear Social Corner Members: In the roll call of May 3d I saw a call for A Young Mother, so I'll say, "Present!"

It is a long time since I have written to the Corner, but I never miss reading every letter. I am one of the very first members. There was another one who signed herself A Young Mother, some time after I joined. I wonder what has become of her. I haven't seen any of her letters in a long time.

I do enjoy reading the letters especially those pertaining to the home, rug making, quilt making, recipes, etc. I have made three, seven strand braided rugs, and two comforters this past winter.

I will tell you of an idea of mine. This spring I thought I must have some new window shades, but didn't feel that I could buy so many, so I mixed some paint a nice shade of brown, and unrolled my shades, laid them on a flat surface and painted them. They dried out very nice, so I have some new shades at a very small cost, and they are very satisfactory. Will write again soon.

A YOUNG MOTHER (Feb. 20)

ANSWERING THE ROLL CALL.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Seeing my name in the roll call thought I must at least answer "Present." Was unable to attend the last meeting, but hope to be with you in June, if my health will permit. Have a new baby in the house and that with housecleaning on top of regular work keeps us all busy. Shall be glad to see nice warm weather with the flowers all in bloom and the gardens and orchards bringing forth their delicious products.

Unome: Now that our daughters have become acquainted, will have something of interest to talk about when we meet again.

Trust that all the sick ones are getting better.

BETTY BROWN.

BEING A HOSTESS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank all who assisted me at the dinner in Franklin Hall, May 14.

When I was asked to act as hostess I refused at first as I had no experience in preparing for such occasions. But each one said, "I will gladly assist you." "Call on me if you need me." "You can depend on me to help." This encouraged me to attempt taking charge of arrangements.

The Social Corner spirit is generous. Then as the sisters from far and near came in, each one wearing a Social Corner smile, and calling out a cheerful greeting. I felt repaid for the effort. Everyone present helped in some way, by being sociable, by bringing delicious feed, the pretty May baskets, and the entertainment. I thank every one.

Long live the Social Corner.

MARY FRANCE.

PICNIC SUGGESTED

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: I was glad to see the Corner page full last week. I have not been able to go to any of the meetings because I do not get the Courier until Wednesday morning, the day you usually hold them, with the announcement that it will be that day. I see Club No. 3 will meet at the Baptist chapel at Lebanon today (Wednesday.) Not very pleasant.

Will there be a Social Corner picnic at Coventry lake this summer? I am wondering how many Corner members live near Hartford. Wouldnt it be nice to have a picnic at Elizabeth park some time this summer? All in favor speak up? Where is Peggy Anne?

Guess I have asked questions enough for once. Will say

Goodbye,

MAVIS.

RELIEVED CONSTIPATION

"I have been troubled the last 4 or 5 year with constipation and have tried everything under the sun, but could not find any relief until I got FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS, and you can bet they are the pills," writes Robert E. Smith, 417 N. Robert St., Ludington, Mich. FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS give quick relief from constipation, also act on the liver. Especially comforting to stout persons. Refuse substitutes.

MYSTIC

About forty ministers and delegates from the churches of the New London Association of Congregational churches assembled in Mystic Bridge Congregational church Friday afternoon at 3:30 for the ordination of George Leslie Farnham, pastor.

Following the afternoon session supper was served in the Parish House by the Ladies' Aid society under the direction of Mrs. G. Albert Thompson, the menu comprising consomme, chicken patties, peas, potato chips, rolls, jelly, ice cream, cake and coffee. The table decorations were apple blossoms and jonquils and were artistically arranged by Mrs. C. C. Dodge. As an expression of good will and kindly regard, Mr. Farnham was presented an ebony cane, suitably inscribed, by the Ladies' Aid society.

The evening session began at 7:30 and, being public, the church was filled with those who wished to hear not only the ordination program as a whole but to listen to Dean Charles R. Brown, D. D., of Yale School of Religion, who preached the sermon.

The committee of the church is composed of Charles S. Wheeler, John W. McDonald and Albert Denison; the society committee is Samuel Mowlette and Norton C. Wheeler. The program committee was Harry Holmes, Miss Julia G. Foote and Miss Elizabeth T. Mallory. Miss Edna L. Wheeler is president of the Ladies' ...

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, May 23.—Stock prices moved irregularly higher in today's curb session, which was featured by the steady investment demand for the higher grade rails and public utilities. Trading was somewhat restricted by the uncertainty regarding the ultimate disposition of the tax bill, total sales running only slightly more than half a million shares.

Short selling was conducted with a fair degree of success in the Sugar and Steel shares. Sugars reacted in sympathy with the decline in raw and refined prices which established new low records for the year on increased crop estimates. Steels lost ground on reports of a further reduction in output and the pessimistic interpretation placed upon the remarks of Chairman Gary of the United States Steel Corporation at the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

United States Steel common closed 1-4 lower at 97 1-2. Independent Steels, some of which were heavy earlier in the day, closed practically unchanged as a result of a late short covering movement which was based on the prediction of several steel officials that the industry was "dragging bottom." Losses of 1 to nearly two points were recorded by American Sugar Refining, Cuba Cane preferred and Punta Alegre.

Investment buying of high grade stocks was inspired in part by the continued ease of money rates, the combined federal reserve ration touching 83.7 per cent., the highest since the close of the war. Call money again held at 3 per cent. all day but demand funds were obtainable in the "outside market" in substantial sums as low as 2 3-4 per cent. The time money market continued dull with loans up to four months reported at four per cent. Bids of 3 3-4 per cent. were made for the shorter maturities but lenders appeared to be unwilling to reduce the asking rate. The bulk of prime commercial paper continued to move at 4 1-2 per cent. with some exceptional names offered as low as four per cent.

Norfolk and Western was the outstanding strong point in the rail group, climbing more than 4 points to 124 3-8 and then slipping back to 123 1-4 on reports of the favorable progress being made towards leasing of that road to the Pennsylvania. Moderate strength developed in Delaware and Hudson, New York Central and Frisco preferred all of which sold a point or so higher. Pullman also developed moderate strength, closing 1 1-2 points higher at 120.

Reports that the Pan-American Company was planning to enter the retail business in California brought fresh buying into those shares, which closed more than a point higher. A sudden burst of activity in Independent Oil, which also closed more than a point higher, followed publication of the report that the company had brought in a 2,000 barrel well and was drilling others. Some of the minor oils lost ground on reports of a reduction in gasoline prices in Chicago.

Good support was again accorded the rubber shares, U. S. Rubber common and first preferred, Ajax and Fisk closing more than a point higher while several others in that group improved fractionally. Some of the other outstanding strong spots were Congoleum, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Virginia Iron Coal and Coke, and International Business Machines, all of which closed at net gains of 1 1-2 points or more.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling was quoted just above $4.34 and French francs ruled around 5 3-8 cents.

CURB MARKET.

New York, May 23.—Reactionary price [illegible] prevailed in today's quiet curb [illegible] Announcement of a cut of one [illegible] in the gasoline price [illegible] by the Standard [illegible] of Indiana [illegible] encouraged bear selling of some of the popular oils. Prairie Oil & Gas broke six points to 220 and losses of a point or more were recorded by Standard Oils of Indiana, Kentucky, Nebraska and Ohio, Vacuum, Galf and several others declined fractionally.

In the industrial list, Glen Alden Coal fell back more than a point to 98 1-2 on profit taking. An odd-lot sale of Ford Motors of Canada was made at 425, 4 1-2 points below the previous transactions. Gillett Razor closed 1 1-4 points lower on small sales, while Dubilier Radio held with a fractional gain for the day.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, May 23.—Freezing temperatures in the Canadian northwest with active demand from exporters at Winnipeg and a forecast of possible frost tonight as far south as Kansas brought about a sharp rally in wheat prices today after an early decline. Wheat closed unchanged, 1-8 to 6-8c net higher, July $1.07 7-8 to $1.08 and September $1.08 7-8@$1.09 to $1.09. Corn finished at [illegible] to a shade advance, oats at [illegible] to the gain, and provisions [illegible] to 7 to 10c down.

Rains in Nebraska and parts of Kansas relieved for at least the time being the concern which wheat traders had [illegible] crop conditions were [illegible] northwest. This opportune supply of moisture was chiefly responsible for a downward tendency in the market during the first half of the day. Offerings on the declines, however, were readily absorbed owing to a prevalent opinion that the crop outlook still remained questionable. The subsequent advance was readily achieved when buying increased on account of the news from Winnipeg and other bullish developments.

One of the points emphasized was that Winnipeg's May delivery which some months ago sold 13 cents lower than Chicago May went to above 3-4c over Chicago today. Word of some expert business at St. Louis was also a stimulating factor. It was noted, too, that western Kansas and Oklahoma had received little or no rain. Besides, talk was current that the Pacific coast winter crop would be a third less than last year.

Corn and oats followed wheat, but rallies were checked by reports that eastern re-sellers were offering corn cheaper than Chicago and that more liberal country deliveries were indicated.

Downturns in the hog market weakened provisions.

BOND MARKET.

New York, May 23.—Under the leadership of U. S. government obligations, bond prices pressed steadily forward in today's active trading. Several Liberty issues reached the highest levels of the year and numerous speculative railroad liens were marked up briskly as buying orders overflowed from the high-grade list. Heaviness of local traction bonds, however, cut down gains in the public utility group.

The chief contribution to the improvement in trading sentiment today was the scramble for the $25,000,000 equipment trust notes of the New York Central, which were offered on a five per cent. yield. It was reported that $20,000,000 of these bonds were placed privately. Because of the small allotments on the remainder, disappointed subscribers rushed to be placed a premium on the certificates in the open market where they changed hands on a "when issued" basis. The five per cent. yield was said to establish a new high price for equipment trusts this year.

Reports of favorable progress in lease negotiations with the Pennsylvania Railroad carried the Norfolk & Western convertible 6s up 3 points, the bonds keeping pace with the rise in the stock. Other strong spots in the rail group were New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, New York Central 3 1-2s, Southern Pacific 4s, the West Shore, Frisco and New Haven issues.

Broadening interest was shown today in high-grade foreign government bonds, Sweden 6s and Japanese 6 1-2s scoring substantial gains.

DEFIENCY JUDGMENT FOR $27,128.15 IN PEQUOT CASINO FORECLOSURE

At the short calendar session of the superior court here Friday morning, Judge John R. Booth granted a motion for a supplemental and deficiency judgment for $27,128.15 in the foreclosure of the National Bank of Commerce, trustee, against Pequot Casino Association, of New London. The report of the committee on sale, Charles L. Smiddy, was accepted. This was that the property had been appraised at $20,000, had been sold for $15,000 to Robert Moore, of Louisiana, and that the net amount realized after deducting expenses was $14,-634.90, which left a deficiency of $27,-128.15, as the judgment for the mortgage debt had been $41,713.38 with costs of $49.72. The court granted $200 compensation to the committee and $25 to each of the three appraisers, and the deed of the property to Mr. Moore was approved.

Other short calendar matters were disposed of as follows:

James D. Robertson vs. Catherine S. Robertson. Rule to show cause why James D. Robertson should not be adjudged in contempt of court, postponed. Huntington vs. Postal Telegraph & Cable Co., et al. Demurrer of American Express Co., off.

Clara C. Swanson vs. Morris P. Swanson. Hearing on defendant's motion for a more particular statement, granted, to be filed in three weeks. Mary Danko vs. John Danko. That the court grant a rule that the defendant show cause why he should not be committed for contempt of court for failure to comply with an order of the same, granted. Goldberg vs. Hoover. Disclosure of defense or judgment, off. Sisson vs. Rosenblum. 1. Default for failure to plead. 2. Hearing in damages. 3. Judgment. Postponed. RELIEF CORPS ARRANGES FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Plans for Memorial day were made at the regular meeting of Sedgwick Corps, No. 16, W. R. C., at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Clara P. Burke, in the chair. Committees were appointed to handle the different details. The flowers for Memorial day are to be brought to the Buckingham Memorial next Thursday afternoon and all members of the corps are expected to bring flowers and to go to the Memorial Thursday night to tie them into bouquets. Flowers will also be collected at Greeneville and Yantic.

After the Memorial day parade, the corps is to furnish the refreshments for the G. A. R. men and their guests.

Sunday morning the corps will attend the service at the First Baptist church. The members are to meet at the church and officers and members are to wear their badges.

Early Sunday evening, while it is yet daylight, the corps will conduct the special service at Preston Bridge in memory of men of the navy. This will be in charge of the patriotic instructor, Mrs. Grace Fowler. The members will meet at the Memorial about 6 o'clock and march from there to the bridge.

Word just from the department convention at Waterbury was given by Mrs. Grace Fowler and it was announced that the sewing society would next meet on Tuesday, June 3.

The meeting closed in the usual form with salute to the flag and singing America.

ALPHA CLASS MEETING WITH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Thirty-two members of the Alpha class of the Church of the Good Shepherd met in the church parlors Thursday evening for a combination annual business meeting and birthday party, this being the 12th anniversary of the organization of the class. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. M. H. Barker, president; Miss [illegible] W. Wilson, vice-president; Miss Ivan Reid, secretary; Miss Mary Rogers, assistant secretary; Mrs. Marion Bacon, treasurer.

Mr. Walter Bussey, retiring president, was given a rising vote of thanks for faithful service covering the entire 12 years of the organized activities of the class.

At the close of the business meeting the members of the class adjourned to the dining room where the charmingly decorated table awaited them. The decorations were in blue and gold, class colors, and there were favors containing caps, May baskets and flowers. A large birthday cake with 12 candles occupied the place of honor. The menu was as follows: Strawberry shortcake with whipped cream, birthday cake and coffee.

After a delightful evening, the party adjourned, voting the committee, consisting of officers of the class, and certain members who assisted them, royal entertainers, and wishing the class as a whole, "Many happy returns."

SEIZED PITCHER EVIDENCE AT TAFTVILLE PLACE

A pitcher containing what is alleged to be liquor was seized by State Policemen Stanton and Finnegan when they vaulted over the bar Friday morning at the place of Oscar St. Germaine, 36, of Merchants avenue, Taftville and St. Germaine was placed under arrest on the charge of violation of the liquor law. It was reported that the officers had also secured evidence of two sales before they seized the pitcher.

Durham is now the only English county in which the women do not outnumber the men.

PROMOTIONS MADE IN U. S. NAVAL RESERVE FORCE

The local unit of the U. S. Naval Reserve Force under the name of the New London County Division shows good progress. This unit comprises the cities of New London and Norwich with surrounding towns, and totals a little less than forty men.

[illegible] Rodzky, from G. M. 1c to Chief Gunner's Mate (AA); Orrin H. Banning, from Apprentice Seaman to F3c; Roger W. Robbins, from Apprentice Seaman to F3c.

The following have been advanced from Apprentice Seaman to Seaman 2c: George L. Armstrong, Alfred M. Berry, Millard T. Bowers, Anthony Busch, Arthur J. Disco, Stephen P. Hoffman, Howard W. Lamphere, Charles Narvostko, Louis P. E. Racicot, George A. Rainey, Leonard W. Stanbly, Peter P. Skindzier, Normand L. Turcotte.

These promotions show interest in their work and a desire to forge ahead. Their many friends will be pleased to hear of their rewards. It will mean an appreciable increase in pay for the training cruise this coming summer.

The cruises this year will be held from July 12th to 25th and from August 2nd to 16th. It is expected that all men of the Division will take advantage of this opportunity for further training and advancement. Those who went along last year will remember the very agreeable two weeks with lots of time for recreation and exercise such as swimming, boating and other enjoyable pastimes.

This year the cruise will again be taken on the U. S. S. Eagle No. 27 with possible one or two ships chasers. Two ports visited will be along the New England coast stressing the summer resorts and bathing beaches.

All members of the unit desiring to participate are expected to send in their applications immediately for whichever cruise they desire, addressed to Commandant Third Naval District, South St. Whitehall Streets, New York City.

VERDICT FOR RAILROAD IN OLD SAYBROOK ACCIDENT

A jury in the superior court at Middletown late Thursday returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the suit of Pratt, Read & Co. against the New Haven road. The case went to the jury shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning and it was nearly 3:45 p. m. before the verdict had been reached. The action was instituted by the Pratt, Read & Co. for $10,000 damages as the result of an automobile accident in Old Saybrook in June, 1921, when three employes of the Pratt, Read company were killed and three others injured. The case has been before Judge Ells and jury for several days, commencing a week ago Wednesday.

There are two other similar actions for $40,000 each pending. It is not yet decided whether these cases will be tried or not.

N. F. A. BOYS' GLEE CLUB DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE

An audience which filled Slater hall to capacity was delighted Friday evening by the pleasing numbers rendered by the members of the Boys' Glee club of the Academy in their annual concert.

The programme was varied and the numbers selected gave opportunity for displaying talent in club, group and solo numbers. Deviating more from the old custom of annual club concerts this year's programme contained several numbers for the individuals and the solo work of Raymond Joseph Woods, Robert Beckley Otis and Grosvenor Ely, Jr., was greeted with insistent applause. The group and club singing was also of the highest character and frequent encores were demanded.

A good sum of money was derived from the concert to be donated to the Academy for the reconstruction of the track at the rear of the main building, a portion of which was taken up when the new building was constructed. By use of the money from the Boys' Glee club the track can again be laid out and track athletics continue at the Academy.

The programme was as follows:

Song of the Armorer, George B. Nevin
The Club.

Tommy Lad, E. J. Margetson
Raymond J. Woods

A Jolly Good Laugh J. R. Thomas
The Club.

(a) The Elfman, S. A. Gibson
(b) The Bells of Shandon,
George B. Nevin
Woods, Sharples, Ely, Holden

Second Mazurka, Godard
Robert B. Otis

Ase's Death from Peter Gynthe
Woods, Ely

Soldiers' Chorus from Faust
The Club.

The World Is Waiting For Sunrise
Grosvenor Ely, Jr.

The Midshipmate, Stephen Adams
The Club.

(a) On the Levee,
(b) Southern Memories, Old Songs
Woods, Sharples, Ely, Holden

The Winter Song, F. F. Bullard
The Club.

Robert B. Otis, accompanist.

The club during the year was coached by Raymond V. Congdon who assumed the directorship of the club, following the death of Prof. Charles D. Geer.

FOREST GUIDES NAMED AMONG NORWICH SCOUTS

Twenty additional forest guides from the Norwich Boy Scouts have been added to the twenty of last year, making a total of 40 Scouts acting in that capacity. The duties of a forest guide are to patrol dangerous or hazardous fire areas during the period when fires may occur, prevent and suppress forest fires, preserve wild plants and flowers, protect birds and game, and warn persons against violation of the forestry and game laws of the state.

Troop No. 1.—Albert Rodgers, Edward Gulomb, Shubael Wheeler, Armaud LaPierre.

Troop No. 6.—John Aston, Harold Frink.

Troop No. 13.—Robert Huggard, Louis Weltin, Walter Fisher, Donald Voltz.

F. A. BENTON,
Scout Executive.

Each guide is required to sign a forest guide pledge, and the state forestry department provides him with a badge. Each Scout council of the state is alloted 40 guides, and their co-operation with the fire wardens and game wardens in conservation is hoped to be of great value.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY WITH $60,419.86 DEBTS

Ernest D. White, manager of the Norwich-Hudson Essex company, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States court in New Haven with debts amounting to $60,419.86, and assets represented to be $2,410.87. In the list of debts appears $30,000 in accommodation paper. Banks in New London and Norwich are listed as creditors for loans made and there is a total of $30,991 in claims that are not secured.

City Court Cases.

In the city court Friday morning the continued case of Paul Skindzer, violation of the liquor law, was continued until Monday, May 26th. Harry Taylor, of Central Falls, R. I., charged with intoxication, settled his bill for $15. He fell through a store window on Central Wharf Thursday night. Herbert Russell, charged with begging on a highway, pleaded not guilty. He was given 15 days in jail, suspended for six months with an understanding that he get out of town immediately. A case against a local man charged with intoxication was continued for six months.

AMERICAN LEGION'S PLANS MEMORIAL DAY ACTIVITIES

Members of Robert O. Fletcher Post No. 4, American Legion, held a special meeting Friday night at the rooms on Main street with Commander Herman A. Bruckner in the chair, and plans for Memorial day activities were discussed.

It was decided that the Legion members should meet at the rooms at 9:30 o'clock Memorial day morning, there to form, and march to the Legion's position in the parade. Every Legionaire is expected to be on hand for the parade to honor the members of the G. A. R. who have asked the Legion to do escort duty. An invitation is also extended to every ex-service man to join with the Legion members on that day and participate in the Memorial Day parade and exercises.

It was also decided to allow the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Legion to make use of the rooms on the afternoons during the poppy sale which begins this (Saturday) morning and continues until Memorial day.

Announcement was made at the meeting that ten subscriptions had been received for the American Legion Weekly and that these copies would be sent free to worthy veterans on application to Commander Bruckner.

A report on the Memorial Day activities was made by Comrade Harry House who stated that the 50 grave markers ordered by the Legion would be at the rooms by Sunday and members were asked to volunteer to paint them and get them ready to place on all veterans graves on Memorial day. These markers bear the American Legion emblem and are of cast iron and will be placed on World War veterans' graves in local and surrounding cemeteries regardless of the fact whether the veteran was a legion member or not. The Woman's Auxiliary is to furnish a large red poppy for each marker and American flags will be placed in the standards which will be placed on the graves on Thursday afternoon by Legion members.

The graves in the various cemeteries will be taken care of by the following committees: Maplewood cemetery, W. Leslie Fletcher and Clifford C. Ont; Yantic cemetery, Harold T. Robinson and Webster D. Copp; Lisbon, Taftville, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's cemeteries by John A. Cunningham and Martin J. Burns; I. O. B. B. cemetery, Brewster's Neck by Samuel Jennes Other cemeteries will be cared for by volunteers.

In connection with this, a list of deceased World War veterans in cemeteries about Norwich is to be published and people are asked to notify Commander Bruckner or Harry House of any corrections or additions, as the Legion wishes to care for every grave in the city.

Several new members were added to the entertainment committee and it was voted to have entertainment at the second meeting each month, committees to be appointed by the chair.

Comrade House reporting for the color committee stated that Comrades J. C. Broadhurst and Webster D. Copp had been added to the committee and a conference had been held with the chamber of commerce and leading city organizations, plans being discussed for beautifying the city.

Following the meeting Comrade Louis Hawkins provided entertainment, and for over an hour the members were delighted by snappy numbers rendered by the Royal String orchestra, comprising Clarence J. Brewer, Michael Pusateri, Angus McDonald, Arthur Aldi and Hugo Cassano. Besides many dance numbers the orchestra furnished popular selections and there was group singing and a number of members volunteered with solo dances and song numbers which were heartily applauded.

Features of the entertainment were buck and wing dancing by Angus McDonald, soft shoe dancing by Arthur Aldi and steel guitar solos by Hugo Cassano. Clarence J. Brewer displayed fine talent in his rendition of Matrimony, especially pleasing to the married members of the legion. Another feature was an original composition sung to Gallagher and Shean, entitled McDonald and Brewer, sung by these members of the orchestra.

Commander Bruckner announced that the next entertainment in June would be a boxing exhibition, followed by a social and a large attendance is expected.

INFORMAL SOCIAL AND SUBSCRIPTION DANCE

A delightful informal social and subscription dance was held Friday evening at Odd Fellows hall. There were 35 couples present and music was furnished by a four-piece orchestra. Punch was served during the evening. The committee in charge comprised Miss Lillian Crumb, chairman, Miss Celeste Copeland, Miss Miriam Bergstresser and Miss Marguerite Copeland.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The speaking contest for the town was held at Canterbury Plain Friday evening. First mention was given Nelson Carpenter of the Green school; second to Anna Hansen of the Frost district. Helen Hart of the Green school excelled in spelling. The judges were James Lathrop, Mrs. Arthur Tracy and Mr. Floyd, the supervisor.

George Rowland and son Charles with the latter's son George, of Pequonnoc, were visitors in town Sunday. Mr. Rowland was on his way to Springfield.

Miss Elsie Linton is convalescing after her serious illness at the Backus hospital.

Mrs. James Lathrop who recently went to Philadelphia to attend the graduating exercises of the hospital where her daughter, Miss Lydia Lathrop has been training, was taken ill soon after her arrival there. She has not yet been able to return home.

Mrs. Wheeler who formerly lived in this vicinity, now of Albany, N. Y., is visiting at Mrs. James Appley's.

Felix and Nilo Havernum, pupils of the village school, have received prizes for drawing offered by the Humane society. The drawings were in the form of posters illustrative of the work of the society.

An auction of farming utensils and stock was held at the home of Mrs. Wallis Davis, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson who have been spending a few days at their home here have returned to Hartford.

Miss Hannah Easton, who has spent the winter with relatives in Worcester, has arrived home.

At the Grange Wednesday evening, the sisters furnished a supper for all, the forfeit for having been defeated in competing with the brothers as to which should furnish the better program. The supper consisted of clam chowder with other good things and was much appreciated by those present. Mr. Adapis, the visiting deputy from Groton, inspected the Grange. He was accompanied by Mrs. Adams. There were also visitors from Brooklyn and Plainfield. A short program of illustrated songs was given, the singers being Mrs. Gager, Mrs. Apply and Arthur Tracy. Levi Clark, the secretary, was reported ill.

On this day we pause in memory of those who made their sacrifice in one way. In a few days we shall pause again in memory of those who made their sacrifice in another way. They were all Americans, all contending for what they believed were their rights. On many a battlefield they sleep side by side. Here, in a place which is set aside for the resting place of those who have performed military duty, both make their final bivouac. But their country lives.

"The bitterness of conflict is passed. Time has softened, discretion has changed it. Your country respects you who cherish the memory of those who wore the gray. You respect others who cherish the memory of those who wore the blue. In that mutual respect may there be a firmer friendship and a stronger and more glorious union.

"When I delivered the address dedicating the great monument to General Grant in the city of Washington, General Carr was present with others of his comrades and responded for the confederacy with a most appropriate tribute. He has lately passed away, one of the last talented and gallant corps of officers. To the memory of him whom I had seen, and heard, and knew, as the representative of that now silent throng, whom I did not know, I now offer my tribute. We know that it is Providence that would have it so. We see and we obey. A mightier force that ever followed Grant or Lee has leveled both their hosts, raised up a united nation, and made us all partakers of a new glory.

"It is not for us to forget the past but to remember it, that we may profit by it. But it is gone, we cannot change it. We must put our emphasis on the present and put into effect the lessons the past has taught us. All about us sleep those of many different beliefs and many divergent actions. But America claims them all. Her flag floats over them. Her government protects them. Here all rest in the same divine peace."

Atlantic City, N. J., May 25—One person was killed and eight were injured, three probably fatally in sixteen automobile accidents in and near Atlantic City over the week end. Slippery condition of the streets yesterday and this morning were responsible for nearly all the mishaps. Ruth Simmons 5 years old, daughter of Harry Simmons was killed yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile. The driver was held on a homicide charge.

Russell Thaw, 13 years old son of Evelyn Nesbit, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which he was riding was sideswiped by a machine driven by Dr. Edwin H. Coward, resort physician. William English, 15 years old son of Dr. L. H. English, this city, had both his ankles broken. According to the police a warrant will be sworn out for Dr. Coward's arrest tomorrow.

Margaret Mooney, Philadelphia, suffered serious injury when the automobile she was driving was struck from the rear. John Jones, a patrolman was run down and seriously injured while on traffic duty. Robert Kiltner, 3, was also seriously injured when run down by an automobile.

NEGRO FEARED HIS OWN PEOPLE WOULD LYNCH HIM

New York, May 25.—Declaring that he feared that his own people would crack him down, and lynch him, William Miller, Harlem negro gambler known to the police as "Yellow Charleston," surrendered to the authorities today for the murder last night of Baron D. Wilkins, wealthy negro cabaret owner and politician, and another negro.

Miller said he had fled from Harlem to Jersey City, N. J., after he had shot down Wilkins for his refusal to lend him $100 with which to flee the city to escape the consequences of a crime committed a few minutes before when he shot and killed a companion in a pool room brawl. After walking the streets all night he said he determined to surrender himself when he learned that thousands of the residents of the Harlem "black belt" were seeking him. Wilkins was very popular with his people.

GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED TWICE WITHIN FIVE DAYS

Chicago, May 25—The second disappearance of a young girl within five days was reported by police tonight. Gertrude Barker, 17, a student of St. Xavier Academy here has been missing since last Wednesday. Her home is in Yakima, Washington.

Nellie Taylor, an adopted English girl who disappeared Thursday also still is missing. Police were told she was seized by a young man when she opened the door of her home and then was thrown into an automobile with the aid of two other men.

Miss Barker came to Chicago in January, and has made her home here with an aunt. She was last seen leaving school Wednesday.

Relatives here claim she has been a "home girl," and was not acquainted, except with school mates.

BOSTON PILOT DIED WHILE ON HIS WAY TO CHURCH

Winthrop, Mass., May 25—Captain Alfred Lundgren, for 23 years United States navy pilot of the Port of Boston, died suddenly in a railroad station here today while on his way to church. Coming alone from Sweden at the age of 10, at 22 he was a master mariner. During the war he guided American transports, including the America and Mount Vernon, through the danger zones on the other side.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Monkey Skin Sandals

Cologne, May 25.—Fashionable European summer resorts this year promise to assume certain aspects of a zoo in ladies' footwear which has even taken to monkey skin sandals, very soft and pliable, and guaranteed not to squeak. The vogue for odd leather for shoes of all kinds started with the first blush of spring, the fast of the season's novelties in this line to arrive being alligator slippers, especially recommended for dancing glides.

ALLEGED GANGSTER SLAIN IN A REVOLVER FIGHT

Herrin, Ills., May 25.—Jack Skelcher, alleged gangster killed in a revolver fight with constabulary here yesterday and suspected by them of having been one of three or four men who Friday night attempted to kill S. Glen Young, Ku Klux Klan liquor raider, met death from 'gunshots by parties unknown," a coroner's jury decided today.

More than a score of witnesses testified at the inquest but all appeared reluctant to identify those who participated in the revolver fight, in which about thirty shots were fired, it was testified.

Albert Jones, a Herrin police officer and an alleged klansman, testified he had deputized ten or twelve men to "investigate suspicious characters," but he refused to name the men.

J. R. Allison, one of several deputy sheriffs here, said late today he was endeavoring to reach Adjutant General Carlos Black at Springfield by telephone to request that two or three military representatives be sent to Herrin for "moral backing."

"We do not want or need troops here," Allison said. "The situation is quiet. This is merely a precaution. We do not anticipate further bloodshed."

Skelcher's companion, who gave his name as "Brown," remained in the Herrin hospital today. He still refused to make a statement.

TWO PERSONS KILLED IN GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT

Corning, N. Y., May 25.—Two persons were killed and a third is probably fatally injured as the result of a crossing accident late last night near Wellsboro, Pa. The dead are: Miss Jean Cavanaugh, 16 years old, and Darrell Lavalley, 19 years old who lived near Westfield.

Miss Irma Cavanaugh, sister of the dead girl, may die. The accident happened at a New York Central crossing near Wellsboro Junction when a pusher engine, backing into the junction crashed into the coupe carrying it 150 feet along the track. Lavalley and Miss Jean Cavanaugh were carried with it, being instantly killed while Miss Irma was thrown out, landing 50 feet away from the crossing. She was sent to Blossburg, Pa., hospital, where it was learned she had concussion of the brain, severe head and scalp wounds with possible internal injuries. Coroner W. H. White of Wellsboro, will hold an inquest to investigate a report that the tender of the engine had no light although members of the train crew and others declared the rear of the engine was lighted.

CONGRESS REBUKED BY VERMONT REPUBLICANS

Montpelier, Vt., May 25.—The election of eleven delegates pledged, to President Coolidge, a foregone conclusion, took second place in interest to the delegates to the republican state convention yesterday, who devoted most of their time to a bonus discussion. The outcome was adoption of a resolution introduced by Howard C. Rice of Brattleboro expressing the "absolute and unqualified disagreement" of the delegates with the action of Senator Porter S. Dale and Congressman E. W. Gibson of Vermont in voting to override the president's veto of the bonus bill.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOR MURDER IN NEW YORK

New York, May 25.—Samuel Brown, 30 years old, a garage manager, was shot and killed in a lower Broadway hotel early today and a woman who gave the name of Dorothy Brown, 24, was arrested and charged with the murder. Police found her seated on the bed in the room in which she and Brown had lived, smoking a cigarette and contemplating the body at her feet. She displayed no emotion when arrested, and stoically refused to discuss the shooting.

Sees Doom Of Soviet

Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, second cousin of the late Czar and former commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, who from his refuge in Paris has just issued a statement, that the Bolshevists are losing their grip on Russia and that the old regime will return to power. He also expressed gratitude for America's aid to starving Russians during the famine.

Important Matters Before Congress

With Tax Bill Passed, the Senate is Prepared to Pass the Postal Pay Increase Bill.

Washington, May 25.—Developments within the next few days will settle the question of whether congress will be able to adjourn in advance of the national political conventions.

Farm relief and railroad legislation is the only stumbling block to the fruition of plans of leaders of both of the major parties to wind up this session on June 7.

The whole issue centers now around the McNary-Haugen agricultural bill and the Howell-Barkley proposal to abolish the railroad labor board.

Consideration of both has been begun in the house and the senate is awaiting action there.

The McNary-Haugen bill will be sidetracked for at least three days this week for other legislation, including action on the tax revision conference report and the naval construction bill. Leaders plan to bring the McNary-Haugen measure to a vote the latter part of the week, but its friends concede that the outcome is in doubt.

Defeat of the measure would throw the whole farm relief situation in the air. Several bills are pending in the senate, but efforts there to press them have been withheld pending house action. There is a wide difference of opinion in the senate as to the form relief legislation should take.

At the beginning of what now is expected to be the final week of the session, the Howell-Barkley bill will be called up again with proponents meantime seeking to obtain a special rule to give it right of way. This maneuver has been decided upon in the belief that the republican organization intends to continue its opposition with a view to heading off a vote.

With the tax bill conference report disposed of, the senate is prepared now to pass the postal pay increase bill and the remaining appropriation measures. It will continue to work this week under high pressure and leaders hope to have the calendar fairly well cleared of everything except farm relief legislation by the end of the week.

The resolution for American adhesion to the world court probably will be called upon in the very near future with a view to discussion. There is little, if any, probability of action at this session, however.

While a number of the congressional investigations have come to a close, others still are in full force and some are yet to get under way. These still to be completed include those into aircraft activities, the official conduct of Federal Judge Baker, of the Northern West Virginia district, and the Northern Pacific land grants. The Daugherty investigation, marked recently by tumultuous scenes, will be resumed tomorrow as will the Mayfield election contest and the shipping board inquiry in the house.

HOUSE TO TAKE UP TAX REDUCTION BILL TODAY

Washington, May 25.—The tax reduction bill faces its final congressional barrier tomorrow when the house takes up the conference report.

Carrying the democratic income rate schedule and house republican provisions for limited publicity and an increase in the estate tax, the report is expected to receive the same overwhelming approval given by the senate yesterday.

Although President Coolidge's attitude on the bill remains undetermined there is an almost unanimous lineup of republicans for the measure in its present form. Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee corrected previous estimates in his speech yesterday and declared on the basis of latest treasury figures the bill in its present form would permit payment of the bonus and all other government expenses next fiscal year and leave a surplus of about $2,000,000. This did not take into account other pending bills calling for special appropriations, such as the postal employes' salary increase measure.

Elimination of this fiscal objection to the measure would leave the bill open to attack from the treasury on the increase in the estate tax and the proposal for limited publicity which requires that the amount of tax paid by all taxpayers be published as well as permitting inspection of all the returns by certain congressional committees.

The house is expected to spend little time tomorrow in debate of the conference report. Approval would permit despatch of the bill to the president by Tuesday. Ten days are allowed for the president to study the measure.

PRECIOUS DESTRUCTION OF NATION IN THE NEXT WAR

Berlin, May 25.—General Berthold von Deimling, who was a German army commander during the great war, paints a gloomy picture of the next war in articles contributed to the German press. He urges general disarmament of all great nations as the only means of preventing Europe from becoming the scene of another war in which Germany will be the battlefield, as she is the only unarmed nation and would suffer the fate which northern France and Belgium suffered in the great war.

"The next war will be made on the Hinterland rather than on front lines," General von Diemling says. "In America a gas has been discovered which may destroy big cities in a few minutes when used in bombing planes. The next war will not be ended by a peace treaty, but by the utter destruction of a vanquished nation."

CAMMUNIST PARTY ENTERS MINNESOTA PRIMARIES

St. Paul, Minn., May 25.—The communist or workers' party has entered the Minnesota state primary election June 16 with what it calls "a strong ticket" and it has endorsed others who are running for the farmer-labor party nomination for state office.

Under a Minneapolis date line the aims of the communist party in Minnesota were set forth in the publication in a long statement that asserts that while the farmer-labor party in Minnesota does not meet entirely with the requirements of the communists or worker party the farmer-labor group still has the endorsement of the communists.

Larkin is Creating Trouble in Ireland

Forty-Five Followers of the Labor Agitator Were Arrested in Dublin by Free State Soldiers.

Dublin, May 25.—(By The A. P.)—Free State soldiers today seized the famous Liberty hall and arrested forty-five followers of James Larkin, the labor agitator, who were said to have taken forcible possession of the hall Saturday from the official wing of the Transport Workers' union and collected subscriptions from members who came to pay their dues.

The troops were withdrawn later on orders from General Murphy, commander in chief of the Dublin Metropolitan police, whereupon Larkin and members of his party again rushed into the hall. Larkin in a speech declared that despite all opposition he would stick by the workers.

A majority of those arrested were members of the "citizen army" which fought during Easter week 1916, under James Connolly, "commandant general of the Irish republican army," who was executed for his share in the rebellion. Today Larkin visited Dundalk, where, describing the seizure of Liberty hall he said that sixty-three members of the Transport union, of which he is the head, were prisoners, "held by brute force of the bayonet with a view to compelling them to return to work as beaten curs and servile slaves."

Liberty hall is headquarters of the unskilled transport workers organization founded by Larkin and where the "citizen army" was formed prior to the 1916 rebellion. During Larkin's absence in the United States the regular trades union leaders took control of the place, and since Larkin's return there has been a struggle for control.

On Saturday the regular leaders whose rights the courts have upheld, announced that Liberty hall would be closed until Monday. Nevertheless the premises were invaded at 5 o'clock this morning by Larkin's followers. Troops immediately swooped down upon the building, seized it and made numerous arrests. Larkin later called at the military director's office to demand an explanation of the forced entry of the military into the building.

The struggle between Larkin and his rivals is seriously affecting the labor movement in the provinces, as well as in Dublin.

TROLLEYMEN TO CONSIDER THE COMPROMISE OFFER

New Haven, May 25—The conductors and motormen of the Connecticut company, will at a special meeting tomorrow night, consider the compromise offer made by the company as to the matter of wage adjustments. A referendum vote will be taken on Tuesday and on Wednesday the vote will be canvassed by the state officers and the result sent to the Connecticut company.

The committee representing the employes have asked that the maximum wage be raised from 57 to 75 cents an hour and that one man car operators be paid 15 cents an hour extra in place of the seven cents now in force. It has been unofficially learned that the Connecticut company has offered an increase from 57 to 60 cents an hour and the trolleymen's union officers have recommended that it be accepted.

The same offer holds good for all unions throughout the state and each organization will meet separately on the matter. The old agreement with the company expires next Sunday.

It is believed that the Unions will ask that a clause be inserted in the agreement referring to the bus lines being operated by the company, as there are indications that the buses will supplant the rural lines in time. The clause will provide for the bidding by motormen and conductors for runs on these lines.

DIRIGIBLE AIRSHIP ZR-3 TO MAKE SIX TRIAL FLIGHTS

Friedrichshafen, Germany, May 25.—The dirigible airship ZR-3, which is being constructed here for the United States navy, will make six trial flights before starting for Lakehurst, New Jersey, according to an announcement made here today. The date for the initial flight has not been set.

The airship is virtually complete in every detail and is merely awaiting the installation of its engines on which experts are still working in order to bring them up to a state of perfection. The motors are being tried out daily with the propellers in place. They are stirring up a tremendous noise in the region of the Zeppelin sheds.

Officials at the Zeppelin plant say that it likely will be some weeks before we actually get off the earth with our ... The Zeppelin company today issued the following statement with regard to the airship:

"Answering the many questions daily addressed to us regarding the trial flights of the ZR-3, we are in a position to announce that the difficulties which were disclosed in the earlier tests of the motors, now fortunately have been remedied. In view of this we now can reckon upon delivery and installation of the motors possibly late in June."

WORLD FLIERS PREPARE TO RESUME FLIGHT

Tokio, May 25—(By The A. P.)—The American army around-the-world fliers, after a busy round of entertainment in Tokio during which they received much praise for their achievement in crossing the Pacific, left tonight for Kasumigaura with the announcement that they would be glad to get back to work in preparation for the resumption of their flight.

Japanese, British and American officials joined in paying tribute to the aviators after their arrival here from Kasumigaura, where they landed on Thursday. They expect to hop off for Kushimoto next Friday or Saturday.

An elaborate Japanese banquet at the famous Maple club, at which Lieutenant-General Yasumitsu, chairman of the joint army and navy reception committee, was host, concluded Tokio's programme of entertainment tonight. Officers of high rank in the army and navy were present, as were also members of the staff of the United States embassy.

NEW GERMAN PARLIAMENT WILL CONVENE TOMORROW

Two Hundred and Six New Deputies Will Enter the Reichstag, the Majority of Whom Are Communists—The Opening Session May Determine Whether the Members Will Become a Workable Body or Decide Whether the Parliament is Slated For Early Dissolution.

Berlin, May 25 (By the A. P.)—All the signs for a turbulent legislative period are in the political skies of Germany tonight because of the beclouding of the parliamentary situation and the hopelessly heterogeneous membership of the new Reichstag. The initial session of parliament on Tuesday may determine in advance its ability to constitute itself into a workable body, or decide whether it is slated for early dissolution by reason of its failure to yield a coalition of parties whose majority is strong enough to enact the legislation required to put the provisions of the Dawes report into effect.

With 2 communists and 32 chauvinistic, anti-semitic followers of Hitler among its members, with General Ludendorff and Admiral Von Tirpitz —living reminders of the army and navy that were——actively participating in the proceedings, there are sufficient combustibles stored up to produce frequent partisan disturbances, if not physical clashes.

Two hundred and six new deputies enter the reichstag as a consequence of the hectic voting of May 4. The majority of them are communists, members of the national socialists, the freedom party and German nationalists. Wedged in between these political extremities are the middle parties, constituting the present government, and the united socialists, upon whose benevolent neutrality the Marx-Stresemann combination will be forced to rely, and will therefore find the pursuit of parliamentary activities a precarious pastime.

The mere presence of Ludendorff and Von Tirpitz is reviewed by old reichstag leaders as a standing challenge to the German reds, who propose to make Thomas Wendelin, a rough and tumble longshoreman of Hamburg, the apex of their flying wedge on the floor of the chamber. Wendelin, a former sailor, is of great size and has no familiarity with parliamentary procedure, as prescribed by the rules of order or dictated by the Onse. He was elected on the communist ticket in Hamburg, where he was feared because of his brawn and belligerency.

His followers decided that he was amply qualified to enter the new reichstag as a foil to equally cantankerous reactionary chauvinists. The communist delegation gives promise of living up to the party's tradition as parliamentary constructionists.

The reichstag board governors realize they are confronted with a serious situation, in view of the inadequacy of the existing house rules to cope with exigencies growing out of the radicalization of the reichstag's membership both to the right and the left.

Among the 32 deputies of the ultra nationalistic freedom party headed by Ludendorff there are numerous ex-army and navy officers as well as active followers of Hitler.

Every inch of the sitting chamber's floor space has been requisitioned to accommodate the increase in the number of deputies, of which there are 472 in all. When the chamber was planned the reichstag's membership was restricted by imperial decree to 338.

Until the German nationalists have held their party caucus, which is fixed for tomorrow afternoon, and decided up the nature of their reply to the present government parties on the issue of adopting the latter's platform of foreign policies, no decision with respect to the formation of a new coalition can be forthcoming. If the nationalists reject the demand put forward by the middle parties for unconditional support of the programme mapped out by the Marx-Stresemann ministry, the latter as a matter of parliamentary formality will hand its resignation to President Ebert. The president will request it to continue in office, even empower it to go before the new reichstag and demand a vote of confidence.

This vote would be asked for wholly on the issue of approving the government's previous course with respect to its acceptance of the Dawes report and subsequent negotiations with the reparation commission in connection with some preliminary formalities relating to the experts recommendations.

According to a reliable computation the Marx cabinet will command the votes of the clerical, the peoples, the democratic and Bavarian people's parties and those of the united socialists in addition to some reichstag support from scattering, unattached groups who it is believed, will come to the government's aid with not less than ten votes. Their total will suffice to yield a safe majority for a vote of confidence and will probably decide the present cabinet's further tenure in office.

BELIEVES UNIFICATION OF CHURCHES WOULD BE HURTFUL

Atlanta, Ga., May 24.—Bishop Warren A. Candler, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, regards the proposed plan of unification of the Northern and Southern Methodist churches as "dangerous and hurtful to both," and "if adopted it would hurt most the Methodist Episcopal church, South," according to a statement he made public tonight.

"It is not strange," the statement declared, "that the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church (North) adopted the joint plan with such haste and unanimity. The plan gives them so much advantage over our church that most naturally they leaped to seize the prize which they thought they saw in sight, apparently forgetting all other considerations."

Many essential points of differences will be discovered by an examination and comparison of the books of discipline of the two churches, the bishop declared; "and again the two churches are not 'one in spirit' "

"The northern church constantly meddles with political matters," the statement continued, "as the southern church does not, and ought not to do."

The college of bishops of the southern church has called a special general conference of the southern church on July 2.

TWO AUTOS IN HEAD-ON COLLISION IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, May 25—Mrs. Ellen Chapman, of Bridgeport was seriously injured and six others sustained minor injuries in a head-on automobile collision here today. Mrs. Chapman suffered chest injuries, a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries. She is not expected to live.

Mrs. Chapman was crushed between the two front seats of her machine when it struck a car operated by Jacob Becker, of Springfield, Mass. She was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist. The others, Mrs. Chapman's son, daughter and baby and Sam Becker, Mrs. Goldie Becker and Rubin Coleman, were treated at the hospital and discharged.

Suffield, Conn., May 25—Two large tobacco sheds on the tobacco and dairy farm of Frank Orr, were destroyed by fire today at a loss of approximately $15,000. One of the sheds was used as a sorting room and the other contained 18 tons of fertilizer. The blaze is believed to have been started by tramps.

MAN'S BODY FOUND WITH ARMS AND LEGS SEVERED

Boston, May 25—The finding of the body of a man with arms and legs cleanly severed at the elbows and knees gave the first hint of sudden tragedy which authorities believe overtook four enlisted men who fled from Fort Strong on Long Island, Boston harbor, on the night of April 23, last and shed the first light on the mystery surrounding their disappearance. The body found is believed to be that of Private George E. Derocher.

The men, Robert C. Brody, Arth McGuire, Derocher and Albert Pollard ranging in age from 18 to 24, were serving short sentences in the second tier of cells of the fort, for absence without leave in U. S. army regulations. On the night of April 23 the four climbed through a ventilator shaft to the roof, lowered themselves to the ground, broke the lock of a rowboat where it was moored on the beach and appeared. The men were never heard from and the boat was never found.

Today, John E. Banzon and Leo A. Sullivan, attached to the ordnance department at the fort, found a body on the beach of Long Island which had evidently been long in the water and which was partly clothed in remnants of an army uniform. Partial identification of the body as that of Derocher was established.

According to a theory advanced by the authorities the men put out into the channel in the thick weather on the night of April 23 only to be drowned when the boat was run down by a vessel passing through the channel. The body of the man found today, it was said, bore evidence in the severing of the limbs, of having been struck by the propeller of some vessel.

WILLIMANTIC

The last of the bootlegging establishments in this city were cleaned out Saturday afternoon, between 4 and 6 o'clock, when Chief Allan MacArthur and a squad of police officers swooped down on three liquor joints and in each instance secured sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction. The proprietors, Zegnsult Saklowoki, of 38 Chapman street, Mike Moriko, of 11 Chapman street and Joseph Kusmaczyk, of 26 Yellow Row were placed under arrest and will appear in the police court this (Monday) morning on charges of actual sale, and possession with intent to sell. Saklowoki and Moriko were let out under $300 bonds.

At 38 Chapman street the officers found a gallon and a half of alcohol and two quarts of colored moonshine. The Moriko home at 11 Chapman St., yielded nearly a quart of kitchen-manufactured gin and at 26 Yellow Row some thirty gallons of mash were found in the workings. In the attic and two bottles partly filled with powerful moonshine. The raiding crew was armed with search warrants issued by Prosecuting Attorney S. B. Harvey on the strength of actual sales evidence, secured through the efforts of Chief MacArthur. The squad consisted of Chief MacArthur, Captain Grady, Lieutenant McLean and Officers, A. Hurley and Roderick Lariviere. The arrest of Mike Moriko of 11 Chapman street is considered a good catch by the police, as the place has been raided previously without success although it was known to the police as one of the main sources of illicit liquor in the city.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This is to be a week of unusual doings in Danielson. Bringing Memorial day it also has been selected as a week for a special demonstration by the American Legion. On Wednesday, decorators will come here and start the work of transforming the business [illegible] adorned area. The decorations will all be in place by Memorial day, that those who have fought during past wars of the nation may [illegible] the work to be done veterans of the World war.

The significance of this period of the year will be upon the people Memorial exercises for [illegible] dead and gone were held [illegible] Killingly and at Danielson.

Remembrance of the period will continue through the week, with Danielson Memorial day [illegible] followed by [illegible] American [illegible] in Danielson.

MRS. BUSH TELLS OTHER WOMEN

How Pains in Side and Dragging Down Feelings Were Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Massena, New York.—"I had terrible pains in both my sides and a dragging-down feeling that affected me so that I could hardly walk, and I got run-down. A friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it and I have taken it with the best results. I do my housework and also some outdoor work on the farm. The Vegetable Compound has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough. I am perfectly willing that you should use these facts if my letter will help other women who still suffer."—Mrs. DELBERT BUSH, R. F. D. 1, Massena, N.Y.

The spirit of helpfulness shown in the letters we are constantly publishing is worthy of notice.

These women know by experience what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do. Your troubles are the same as theirs.

If you have pains and a dragging-down feeling and are nervous and irritable, profit by Mrs. Bush's experience and give the Compound a trial.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

PUTNAM

The announcement of the winners in the contests at the Putnam high school, Friday afternoon, in which pupils in schools of Putnam, Woodstock, Pomfret, Eastford, Ashford, Canterbury, Chaplin, Sterling and Union took part, was made Saturday morning by R. D. McAllister, supervisor of the rural schools, who had charge.

In the speaking contest, Nelson Carpenter of Canterbury was first; Elizabeth Bennett, Pomfret, 2nd and Robert Pike, Woodstock, 3rd. The judges were: Rev. S. E. Cozad, Miss Abbie Keith and C. Dwight Sharpe.

The spelling contest winners were: Lillian Sank, Chaplin, first; Tessie Chilcotte, Eastford, 2nd. This contest was in charge of Principal Maurice Childs of Woodstock Academy.

In the boys' athletic events, consisting of basket ball throw, 60 yard dash and stunt race, Anna Hanson, Canterbury, was first. Doris Brown, Sterling, 2nd, and Lottie Nahilicki, Eastford 3rd.

There were eight contestants from each town who had qualified to enter by competing in similar contests in their own towns. The winners in Friday's contest will enter the state contest to be held in Hartford, June 10th. These will be: Nelson Carpenter, speaking, Lillian Sank, spelling; James Macdonald and Anna Hanson, athletic events.

The exercises began in the high school auditorium. Between the contests there was music and dancing, under the direction of the supervisor of music, Miss Annie Ash of Pomfret. A Kinderband of 70 pieces gave a most entertaining program. Eighty Pomfret children took part in two 3-part songs, showing a wonderful amount of training, and twelve groups of four pupils each gave folk dances, in costume. These dances were exceedingly well done. The dances were those of the following countries: Switzerland, Sweden, Germany and Scotland. The entertainment was one of the best ever given at the school and won much praise for Miss Ash, also for the participants.

The athletic events were held on the athletic field adjoining the school and it was early evening before the contests were finished.

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary of North Grosvenordale will start this (Monday) morning in the villages of Quinebaug, Thompson, Mechanicsville and Wilsonville on a poppy selling campaign for the benefit of war orphans. The Legion will make its annual appeal to the public for financial contributions during the week. This year it is a campaign for those who cannot ask for, nor would if they could, the help they are entitled to—the orphans of the war. The Legion has pledged itself to cause the country to remember that these fatherless children represent the cost of the war, a debt of every American that can never be fully repaid.

Doubtless the city court, this (Monday) morning will again adjourn to the assembly room of the municipal building for it was until this time that the 41 cases arising from a raid on the Polish dance on School street was adjourned. The defendants alone would nearly fill the little court room in the basement of the building and it is expected that there will be many spectators to watch the proceedings. All but two of the defendants are charged with frequenting a place where intoxicating liquor was sold, the other two being charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell.

There is considerable interest in this end of Windham county in the case of Samuel J. Turcotte vs. the State Department of Health assigned for trial before Judge Haines of the Windham county superior court at Willimantic, Tuesday. Dr. Turcotte was suspended from practice following the probe of many doctors throughout the state by the Hartford county grand jury. This is the first case in which the legality of such a suspension is to be tested and as a doctor in Dayville and Putnam doctor, Drs. Prisque and Tetreault, have been similarly dealt with, the case Tuesday will be watched with general interest.

Oliver A. Hiscox, 69, died at his home in Woodstock Valley, Friday night, after two weeks' illness with pneumonia. Mr. Hiscox would have been 70 in August. He died in his home across the road from the old homestead, now occupied by three of his four sisters, where he was born, August 21st, 1854, a son of Alba and Lucy Underwood Hiscox.

Mr. Hiscox obtained his education in the public schools of his native town and in Woodstock academy. Having finished his schooling he took up farming and had been a farmer all his life. He was also interested in forestry and dealt extensively in lumber.

In 1884 Mr. Hiscox was united in marriage with Miss Lillian E. Briggs of Pomfret, who with four sisters, Mrs. William Lendrum of Flushing, N. Y., and Miss Maria Hiscox, Mrs. Abbie J. Davis and Mrs. Sarah Davis, living on the old homestead, survive.

Mr. Hiscox always took an interest in public affairs and was active in the ranks of the republican party. For thirty years he had been chairman of the republican town committee, represented the town in three sessions of the general assembly, 1893, 1917 and 1923, and in 1883 was messenger in the house of representatives and in 1886 messenger in the state senate. He was also a member of the State Forestry association, was a deputy fire warden and for two terms had been chairman of the town school committee, an office he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Hiscox was well known throughout Windham county and beyond. He was a pleasant gentleman to meet and made and retained many true friends. He had held many positions of trust as administrator of estates and as trustee. His advice was freely sought and was as freely given. In his death the town of Woodstock loses one of its foremost citizens.

Paul Labby of North Grosvenordale is at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, suffering from severe injuries, suffered when his motorcycle crashed into a pole, about midnight, Thursday night. Labby, was on his way home on his motorcycle with side car attachment. It is thought that he lost control of his machine while trying to pass another machine and the wheels of his motorcycle got into the sand. When it came to a stop the motorcycle was forked about the pole by the roadside.

W. F. Johnson, also of North Grosvenordale, was driving the car ahead of Labby's and when he heard a crash behind him he stopped. Returning, he found Labby pinned against the pole, bleeding profusely. A doctor was notified at once. The physician found that Labby had a fractured jaw and multiple bruises about the head. The doctor, fearing internal injuries, took Labby in his automobile, to the hospital in Worcester for observation. Johnson said that he was driving slowly and as the motorcycle was trailing behind him, Johnson did not think that Labby could have been going fast.

JUDGE GARDINER GREENE REFEREE IN O'LEARY SALE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, May 25.—Judge Gardiner Greene, of Norwich, retired, of the superior court, will come to Putnam Tuesday to act as state referee in a case that involves the sale of the O'Leary block on Main street some years ago to the late Captain of Police Remie Delage. The latter was killed in an automobile accident at Oxford in May, 1923, while returning to Putnam from Worcester where he had been at night with Alderman Honorious Magnan of Putnam, who was also killed in the accident.

The defendant in the case is Mrs. Delage as representative of her husband's estate, and the plaintiff is Patrick O'Dwyer of Webster, who was appointed conservator of Mrs. Margaret O'Leary by whom the property was sold to Delage.

The plaintiff asks to have the deed cancelled and the property reconveyed, claiming that the sale was the result of fraud practiced on Mrs. O'Leary, an aged woman, who, it is further alleged, was not at the time she sold the property capable of realizing the nature of the act she was doing.

Considerable of the testimony will be in the form of depositions taken in Ireland, where Mrs. O'Leary went shortly after she sold the property. It is anticipated that the plaintiff will attempt to show that Mrs. O'Leary had much better offers for the property than that which she finally accepted and that she was unduly influenced to sign the deed of conveyance.

The O'Leary block is situated on Main street, next to the Congregational church. It is a two-story building with a store on the ground floor and a tailor shop on the second floor. The building is an antiquated wooden structure, but the site is one of the best on Main street. Much expert opinion testimony as to the value of the property, sold for $11,000, will be heard.

what a man does in public offices is appreciated, at least by those who concern themselves with public affairs, for the good of all, whether taxpayers or not.

There are some in the town of Killingly who are almost willing to bet money that certain trees in Reynolds street, between Main and Broad streets, will fall through age and decay, before the will of Killingly, as expressed in a special town meeting, will be carried out by cutting them down. In the meantime, that section of Reynolds street where they stand is a danger spot, and motorists who pass through will do well to exercise extreme care, lest they be caught in a traffic jam that may prove disastrous to them.

Killingly, in special town meeting, has voted that the trees be removed and has so notified the state highway commissioner. That happened last year. In the meantime nothing has been done. In the meantime, also, a man has lost his leg in a crash of a motor car against a tree. In the meantime the public waits. There appears to be tweedledee and tweedle dum controversy as who shall proceed with the removal of the trees, which still stand and flourish, inviting disaster—maybe death—for those who get caught in what it little more than a lane on a trunk line highway.

Also the town bought curbing last year to be put in place after the trees are removed. The curbing may wear out—though it is stone—while the public waits for some action on the tree removal program.

At the present time Killingly expects action on this tree removal proposition from some quarter. The town has complied with all the obligations imposed by the red tape of modern days. The state highway department long since has known about the matter. If there is no action the public is at a loss to know why. It should not be asked to wait until more people are seriously injured or killed, before something is done about the matter.

Today (Monday), Tuesday and Wednesday are listed in the calendar of the Roman Catholic church as Rogation days, and that being the fact, special services are held being each each morning at St. James' church. Days of Rogation are designated at about this time each year by the church to be set apart as days of prayer and special devotion to the end of praying to God that man, blessed spiritually, may also be favored with bounteous crops—that the fruits of the earth may be in abundance during the growing season of the year.

Contracts have been let for hospitals in Philadelphia and Montreal and with the three more to be erected, one each in Chicago, the Rocky Mountain region and Virginia, a total of 11 will be attained. In this manner every part of the country is to be covered and every cripped child, regardless of race, color or creed, will, for the first time, find practical aid available, without question and without price.

When the mystery is cleared concerning the finding of a row boat turned bottom side upwards in Long Island Sound between Orien Point and Greenport Saturday, it is feared that the facts may be revealed of a double drowning which probably took place Friday afternoon or during the night time.

John Wallwortk, aged 30, a Westerly young man, and a members of the crew at the Orient Point lighthouse, and Walter Gill of Thompkinsville, a mechanic in the government lighthouse service, who left the Orient Point lighthouse Friday afternoon at about 2 o'clock for Greenport in a skiff have not been heard from since their departure. Whether the young men met with some misfortune while bound for Greenport and were picked up by another boat after they had abandoned their little skiff, is not known.

Keeper Manuel Frietas, Jr., of the Orient Point lighthouse stated Sunday that Wallwork and Gill left the lighthouse bound for Greenport and that the skiff was swamped and the occupants were missing. Gill is a mechanic from the office of the lighthouse service and had been at Orient Point making some repairs to some machinery there. Gill who is about 40 is well known in the lighthouse and coast guard service along this coast. A short time ago he was at Watch Hill making repairs to machinery.

Wallwork has been in the government lighthouse service about three months. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallwork of Mechanic street, Westerly. He went to Orient Point last March. JEWETT CITY

The Memorial Sunday services were held in Finn Opera house, Sunday afternoon, by the courtesy of Manager Dennis Barnett. The stage was decorated with bunting and shields, with allied flags, American, French and English, as a background. Dr. G. H. Jennings, chairman of the committee of arrangements, presided. The exercises opened with the singing of America, followed by Scripture reading Micah 4, by Rev. A. H. Clement. After Rev. H. S. Stephenson had offered prayer, a double quartette, Mrs. G. H. Prior, Miss Irene Stewart, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Miss Ellen Prior, Charles F. Gardner, Tyler Gilbert, George H. Prior and Harry Paul sang Beyond the Sunset Bars, Miss Ethel Thompson being accompanist. The speaker of the afternoon was Rev Charles H. Ricketts of Norwich. His subject was The Different Phases of Patriotism. He defined Patriotism as love of country and the passion we should have to serve our country. Patriotism is as changeless as the granite hills of New England. The phases he discussed were colonial, self-protective, brotherhood and international At present there are three phases of the political world which are calling for patriotism. One is the immigration question, and he said that this country has just as much to fear from a degenerate American as from a low-born foreigner, but we should keep out the unfit. Second, we have got to deal with the lawlessness in this country. If this country is to endure it must put on moral and spiritual armor. The third was partisan politics, that blind adherence to party when it becomes corrupt. More religion should be put into politics Nothing but political righteousness will save the United States. After the singing of The Star Spangled Banner, Rev. J. J. McCabe pronounced the benediction, and taps was sounded by Commander William Maynard. On the platform were seated representatives of Orville La Flamme Post, American Legion, Miss Eva La-Flamme, sister of the young man for whom the post was named, members of Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter, D. A. R., Jewett City Chapter, American Red Cross, the clergy and borough officials.

Memorial exercises were held at Pachaug cemetery Sunday afternoon, under the direction of C. F. Morgan. Community singing was led by W. B. Montgomery. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. P. Richardson. Rev. H. S. Stephenson made the address, based on Kipling's Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget." "It reminds us, he said, of the love and devotion of those who have already laid their lives on our country's altar to bring about the privileges which we now enjoy. But that the task is unfinished—the living must have a part in completing the work for which they died.

Decorating of the graves followed; the salute to the flag and taps by Commander Maynard made a most impressive ceremony for the two hundred people who had gathered at the cemetery.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY.

A few of the senators from the western states, radical senators who have been making numerous radical proposals, opposed the acceptance of the conference report on the revenue bill because it contained a modification for the opening of the income tax returns to public inspection and eliminated the proposed tax on undivided surplus.

Their number was so small as to be ineffective. Their purpose was highly unjustified, but opposition to the measure because of the modification which called for making public the income tax paid by each individual would have been more to the point.

The publicity feature as incorporated in the bill, and as modified, is simply for the purpose of harassing taxpayers. It means the subjection of each one's affairs to scrutiny for no good purpose. It will have no influence upon the amount of tax collected but may rather tend to the dodging of it when possible. As an aid to the government it will be valueless because it already has the means of checking up the returns.

In subjecting business to this kind of legislation there is created an opportunity for aiding the big fellow to be more quickly annihilate the little fellow, to permit advantage to be taken and to create an ill feeling among large numbers because some publicity is given to matters which are personal, and which at the time the legislation at the time the income tax was levied was intended to be kept free from the harmful and gossipy effects of being broadcasted.

The situation would be different if the provision had been included in the bill because of the large losses the government was suffering through evasion. As a matter of fact it is nothing of the kind. It is a radical demand calculated to bother and it is most unfortunate that the conference committee didn't have the courage to wipe it out instead of being satisfied with modifying it.

KEEPING UP THE NAVY.

According to the way you are looking at it, and according to what you may be talking about, it may be possible to declare the navy of this country is inferior to the British and that it is superior to the Japanese in spite of the ratio fixed by the naval agreement. It is invariably because men are talking from different angles that certain ones are able to make statements which others hasten to deny. It is too often that they are not talking about the same conditions in each instance.

Secretary Wilbur of the navy department has pointed out that while the ratio fixed by the treaty was 5-5-3 for the navies of the United States, Great Britain and Japan it is probable that 5-4-3 more nearly represents the standing at the present time and Great Britain, United States and Japan the order. This isn't because the capital ships have changed, for they haven't. They are fixed as to number and size. There has been recommended certain improvements that would increase the efficiency of certain of our capital ships and those changes will be made. As to the other classes of naval vessels, the other nations have been doing more building than this country. There are no restrictions on them. We have not been disposed to start a race in secondary ships, but it is necessary to maintain construction programmes if we are to keep up to the ratio.

Much sentiment has been against naval construction just for the sake of trying to get, or keep, ahead of the other fellow. The desire has been to extend the spirit of the naval agreement, but until the time comes when the agreement can be broadened so that it will include other than capital ships it is necessary to give consideration to what the other nations are doing. That is, of course, one of the best arguments for urging the restriction of the other types of vessels, and the keeping of entire navies, and not solely parts of them, at fixed points.

There is no question but what the country can keep its navy up to the ratio if our congress, extravagant in other ways, sees fit to appropriate the money.

THE DRY LIMIT.

With ratifications of the so-called 12-mile limit treaty having been completed the opportunity to see how effective it can be made is open to the dry navy of this country.

Great Britain having recognized the soundness of the presentation made by this government of the need of upholding our laws, also saw a chance to obtain advantages for its own vessels. Under the treaty it becomes the right of this government to search British vessels within the distance of an hour's steaming from shore if they are suspected of carrying liquor contrary to law. These vessels can be searched for liquor only, the three-mile limit holding in respect to the territorial limits of this country in other respects. Liquor that is found within the new limit is subject to seizure with the vessel provided the liquor is not under seal.

Under the agreement British vessels are permitted to come into our our harbors with sufficient liquor for their return trip under seal. It is therefore a give and take proposition in which this country believes that dry enforcement will be greatly aided.

The test of the agreement will be required to determine what the benefit is. Additions to the coast guard vessels and a more careful policing of the coast can be expected to prove or disprove the contention of the authorities. That it is not regarded unfavorably by other nations is shown by the fact that similar understandings have already been started with Germany and Sweden.

One thing is certain, rum-running will not be stopped until it has been demonstrated that it is too dangerous and costly to continue any longer.

POLLUTED RIVERS.

[illegible] is not a new effort [illegible] an old story and yet it grows bigger each year that nothing is done, for with development of industries and the growth of communities pollution increases.

When it would have been an easy matter to have taken care of the pollution situation there was no attention given to it because it had not reached the point where it created danger conditions. Instead of establishing safeguards and taking remedial measures it would gradually overcome the situation nothing has been done [illegible] steadily worse, any effort at correction runs up against the stone wall of huge expenditures.

Connecticut has been studying the pollution situation for a number of years. It will therefore be interested in the action at Albany where a demand [illegible] one of cities far [illegible] north to [illegible] refuse before dumping into the river that the Hudson at the point where Albany draws its water supply may be free from the contaminated conditions which [illegible] been rapidly getting worse.

[illegible] seem unreasonable [illegible] the cities aimed at [illegible] to know why Albany should get its water supply about [illegible] there's no question, a supply of its own. And again when Albany makes such a plea it is not improbable that other communities along the Hudson will be presenting a similar proposition to Albany in order to remove the pollution which they experience.

A polluted river is no asset but it is hard work getting communities to refrain from doing things in the easiest way. Pollution wasn't thought of when it was started and it hasn't received sufficient attention [illegible]

INSURING SAFETY.

Obedience to the law which requires automobiles to come to a stop when trolley car passengers are getting on or off is excellent, according to the Indianapolis News, which declares that the principle is well impressed upon the motorists and only a few of them are guilty of violations. This it attributes to the activity of the police and the almost certain punishment in case of violations and the open-mindedness of the automobile drivers in giving the pedestrians a chance.

That is a condition of which any city may well be proud. That state, like many others, has found it necessary to give protection to its people, and in doing so the Indianapolis authorities recognize that if a law is going to amount to anything it must be enforced. That is the way in which respect for a law is established, and it would be gratifying if other cities could make the same favorable report at that by Indiana's capital.

Racing by trolley cars is a danger that should be prevented by a rigid upholding of the law. Would that Norwich could claim as much as Indianapolis does.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

When making pies use clean waxed paper to roll the dough on and roll with a round bottle filled with ice water.

If oilcloth be occasionally rubbed with a mixture of beeswax and turpentine it will last longer.

In thickening cream soup allow a tablespoon each of butter and flour to every quart of soup.

Potatoes will bake more quickly if boiled in salted water for ten minutes before being put into the oven.

Roll sausages in flour before frying. It will prevent breaking and also improve the flavor.

When making mustard add a tiny drop of salad oil to it while it is being mixed. The flavor will be greatly improved.

To open fruit jars easily, set them upside down in hot water for about five minutes. Don't have water too hot or the tops will crack.

Marble tops from old-fashioned washstands make nice bread boards. They are especially good when rolling out pies, as they are always cold.

A good substitute for a knob lost from a teakettle or pot lid may be made by inserting a small corkscrew from the under side and screwing a clean cork on top.

Aluminum pots and pans that have become dull or blackened can be cleaned by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in lemon juice. Then rinse well in warm water, and they will look as bright as new.

Copper kettles generally get rather dark and dull after they have been on the fire for some time, and a very good way to clean them is to rub them up with half a lemon dipped in salt.

Dull brass can easily be restored to brightness by soaking it for half an hour in half a pint of boiling water, to which a small amount of rock ammonia has been added. A final polish with a chamois is all that is required to restore it to its former brightness.

TO MAKE DOORS FIT

Sticking, loose-fit or poor lock action in doors is due chiefly to moisture. The valuable points are the top and bottom edges, particularly the ends of the stiles or outside vertical members. These parts are seldom painted because they are never seen. Painting them will prevent the wood from absorbing the trouble-making moisture.

WHEN PRESSING

When a traveler desires to do a bit of pressing in his hotel room he is at a loss for a suitable press board. No one of honor would use the top of a table or dresser for fear of defacing it. If you take out your upper bureau drawer, turn it upside down, and cover the bottom with a Turkish towel, lo! you have an excellent ironing board to which the most careful proprietor could have no objection.

TO CATCH THE SPOTS

When a garment is to be dipped in gasoline for cleaning purposes it is a good plan to mark spots or any badly soiled places by running a loose basting thread around them. After the garment is wet it is impossible to detect spots. Baste black thread on light goods and white on dark goods.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

There are, unfortunately, many people who do not drink enough water. Such people are quite willing to use plenty of water externally, but they deny their bodies the stimulating and purifying effect of water taken internally in sufficient quantities.

Always apply a poultice slowly; never slap it on. Have the poultice smoking hot, then cover the skin with oil and, after testing the poultice on the back of your hand to see that it is not too hot, put it on the patient and cover with a piece of old muslin or flannel so that the heat will not escape.

Where is the girl who intended to wear her hair smoothed tightly back from her face? The newest coiffure brings the hair down low across one side of the forehead and fluffs it out across the cheeks half way to the mouth.

If the cold has developed into a sore throat, pour four cupfuls boiling water over four tablespoons of whole flaxseed and steep three hours. Strain, add juice of two lemons and honey. The addition of an ounce of bruised licorice root before steeping is recommended by some physicians.

Pick over carefully and wash in cold water one-half ounce Irish or carrageen moss. Pour over it one quart boiling water. Boil gently until consistency of jelly, probably about 15 minutes. Strain and add lemon juice and sugar to taste. Iceland moss may be used in the same way.

IN THE HANDKERCHIEF BOX

One housewife uses this clever way of distinguishing her best handkerchiefs from those of everyday use. When ironing them she folds all her ordinary handkerchiefs into squares and her better ones into triangles. Then she can select just what she wants, day or night.

TABLE SETTING

TO KEEP DRESSING-TABLE DRAWERS IN ORDER

Often, in a dressing-table drawer, we want a box for pins and ribbons, and find that after putting the drawer in order the boxes soon slip around, and the drawer becomes untidy again. By using thumb tacks in the bottom of the boxes they are kept in place and can be used with the covers off or on. The same idea can be used in a desk drawer, with small boxes for clips and rubber bands, and the cover of a long, narrow box for pencils and pens.

RESTORES FLAVOR

Boiling expels air from water and purifies it, but also makes it taste flat. Boiled water should be poured back and forth several times from one pitcher to another, or shaken in a large bottle, to restore its flavor.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Lovely black hats are a striking feature at the moment. They are rather large, made of tulle and lace, usually decorated with a few big vivid flowers.

The girl who likes to do a little needlework will enjoy cross-stitching short dimity curtains in delf blue. The design is simple and well adapted to the curtains.

The little corotanis flower, an importation, has been copied in white velvet and is now a favorite decoration for dance dresses. It is employed in rather large knots on shoulder and hip.

One finds this tendency to feature yellow even in accessories. Nothing more charming could be imagined than a waxy camelia in a deep shade of yellow which is to be worn on the lapel of a tailored suit.

The desire for life and motion, supposedly a phase of the glad springtime, is echoed in some of the new dance frocks. Being flat on the hips and wide at the hem, they have a most effective rippling swirl.

When a gown is plaited—as what gown is not these days—it is a new trick to have an echo of that plaiting on the sleeves. The upper part of the sleeve may be plaited or a fan shaped insert of pleats may form part of the cuff.

The scarf now ties on the back of the left shoulder. The sash ties in front. The bracelet is worn high on the upper arm. The necklace is worn over one shoulder—and the combined effect is bizarre but smart.

There seems no end to the variety displayed today by the shaped flounce. Ornamenting all sorts of costumes, it becomes a complicated affair of lines and twists.

The shortness of skirts is especially noticeable today in gowns meant for morning wear. In the three-piece costumes the skirt is likely to fit very snugly around the hips and then widen at the hem into a flare.

Even for children the pleasant fashion of matching frock, hat and cape is followed this season. The effect is very smart. A little frock of wool in a shade between pink and orange has a small hat of the same and a hem-length cape.

HATS OF RED AND BLUE

The vogue for red and blue finds its most telling expression in hats of tailored aspect which are of blue straw trimmed with cocardes of ribbon with amusing little red parrots, or with narrow bindings and pipings. Some are entirely faced with red and the note of bright color is repeated in a tiny bow that catches back the narrow brim.

HIGH NECK ON BLOUSES

The blouse of today has returned to the high neck—for those who consider high necks preferable. But the neck is not so very high; only halfway up the throat and marked by a delectable little tucked collar. Most of these blouses are crepe de chine.

CROCHETED LACE IS IN

Old-fashioned crocheted lace—and its excellent imitation—is "in" again. The shell pattern, the pineapple pattern and all the other patterns dear to our grandmothers are again decorating both lingerie and frocks. Much of the lace has a colored edging.

LAUNDRY HINTS

For starching muslins, ginghams, etc., dissolve a piece of alum the size of a filbert for every pint of starch. By following this hint you will preserve the bright colors of the fabric a long time.

Dissolve a lump of soda in a little hot water and add it to the bluing water. This prevents the bluing from setting in the clothes and makes them beautifully white.

Silk stockings should be washed in water which is only warm, not hot. A soap solution is better for them than rubbing the soap itself on. Squeeze them out, don't wring them.

MODERN BATHROOM

The walls, woodwork and floor of the bathroom present special problems to the decorator because of the function of this room.

The ideal bathroom is tiled, but unfortunately such a room is a luxury few can afford. Paint is a close second, and in some respects possesses advantages over tile. The woodwork of this room is one of the few places about the house where a high gloss white enamel may be used.

Bathroom walls finished with white or cream flat wall paint, the white of the ceiling extending down the walls from six inches to two feet, depending on the height of the room and the lighting, where the solid color is relieved by a simple stencil border in blue, will be highly satisfactory. They may be washed without losing their fresh, wholesome appearance and will wear for a long time in face of the steam and water to which they are submitted.

The blue border key may be repeated on the rubber curtain around the shower and a blue panel may be printed on the door. Blue curtains and rug, with spotless mirror, shining nickel trimmings and red and blue bordered towels will complete the scheme and make a very attractive room.

ECONOMY HINT

To use new soap at once is extravagant. If you possibly can, buy a dozen bars at a time. Cut it up at once into blocks one and one-half inches thick. Store these in a very dry, rather warm cupboard, piling up after the fashion of a child building bricks, so that only very small surfaces touch. They will dry and harden all the way through, and while the cleaning power of the soap will be in no way diminished, it will last twice as long.

TO REMOVE STAINS

Tea, coffee, chocolate and fruit stains may be easily removed from tablecloths by placing the stained part while still wet over bowl and pouring boiling water over it. When nearly dry press with an iron.

APPLE PEELING JELLY

Delicious jelly may be made from apple peelings. Put the peelings into an earthen jar, cover with cold water and cook slowly in the oven till tender. Then strain, add one pound of sugar for each pint of liquid, and boil till it jellies.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Calling a physician for the first time in her life at the age of 94 years is the proud record of Mrs. Jane Grigor of Evanston, Ill.

Mme. Daroczy, wife of an attache at the Hungarian Embassy in Vienna, has her fingers insured at the rate of $5,000 a finger.

Exie F. Jackson, 18-year-old Creek Indian girl, who a year ago lived in a box car, now receives royalties of $200,000 a year from oil located on her land.

Miss Ruth B. Esparza, a girl of humble parentage in Guanajuta, Mexico, has enrolled as a student at the Illinois College, at Jacksonville, Ill., with a hope of fitting herself for teaching the children of her native country.

The privilege of being the first woman to sit as judge in the new republic of Czechoslovakia was recently accorded Dr. Jarmilla Vessela.

THE OLD PICKLE JAR

On the top shelf of your grandmother's pantry there is probably a glass jar about a foot high, of a lovely blue or green shade. Grandmother used to put chili sauce in it. Get it down and fill it with flowers. The old-time pickle jar makes a good vase.

PREVENTS MUSTY SMELL

A lump of sugar in a teapot which is seldom used will prevent the musty smell which is so often found in metal teapots. The lid should be left open.

RECIPES

Boil together the water, sugar and flour for ten minutes, then add the dried figs cut in pieces. After the mixture has cooked for ten minutes take from the fire and add the walnuts and white of an egg well beaten. Pour in molds, chill and serve with whipped cream.

Asparagus Omelet: Make a plain omelet with three eggs, three tablespoons of hot water and salt and pepper to taste. Beat whites and yolks separately. Add the water and the seasoning to the yolks and beat in the whites at the last. Pour into a hot buttered frying pan and cook slowly. To test whether an omelet is cooked sufficiently, press with the finger.

Turn upon a hot platter and have ready the asparagus heated in a little cream or thickened milk. Fold over and serve garnished with parsley.

MAXIM, THE BAREFOOT BOY.

So poor were the parents of Hudson Maxim that he did not have a hat or a pair of shoes until he was 13 years old, and he was born in little Orneville, Maine, where winters are real.

At one time he went barefoot through the snow to school, two miles from home. He learned his letters when 9 and started to school when 12, the teacher supplying his books. His first money was 30 cents, received for one week's work in a hay field and this fund bought his first geography.

Then, attending Maine Wesleyan Seminary, at Kent's Hill, three months of the year, he earned his way by working on farms, on railroads, in stone quarries and in brickyards and boarded himself, his usual diet being beans and brown bread. When able to teach at the country school later he attended the seminary two terms a year, but was not graduated until 25 years old.

Next, a partner in a printing and publishing business, he helped get out a new system of teaching penmanship and sold nearly half a million copies; then hard times killed the enterprise.

At 30 he began devoting his time to ordnance and explosives and was the first man to make smokeless powder in this country.

When 37 years old he built a dynamite factory and smokeless powder mill at Maxim, N. J., which place was named for him. While he was experimenting with fulminate compound his left hand was blown off in an explosion of the chemical.

In 1901 he sold to the United States government his secret of Maximite, the first high explosive to be fired through armor plate. He also sold to it his invention of a system of driving torpedoes by steam and products of his combustion compound called motorite.

Since 1898 he has been consulting engineer for the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder company of Wilmington, Del., and since 1915 has been a member of the United States navy consulting board. He has many other inventions to his credit, has written several books and today, at 70, is prominent in scientific circles all over the world.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

A boy who, at the age of 12, was working on a farm in England seven days in the week for a few shillings, and educating himself during the little spare time he had, has at last received the reward of his years of toil and endeavor. The boy now grown to manhood, is A. J. Cook, who has been appointed to the important post of secretary of the powerful Minora's Federation of Great Britain in succession to Frank Hodges, M. P., who resigned to accept a position in the new government. The son of a private soldier in the British army, Mr. Cook was a farm laborer at 12 years of age, and at 16 was a preacher in a Baptist chapel. Then he went to work in the coal mines of the Rhondda Valley, where he was doomed to spend twenty-one years at work with pick and shovel. In 1918 he was elected to an official position in the miners' union. It is said of the new secretary, who is only 38 years of age, that he has never found time to play—not even a moment for a game of cards.

CHILD TRAINING

Springtime Gardening.

By Sophie Kitchener.

"See, what a wonderful garden is here,
Planted and trimmed for my Little-Oh-Dear!
Posies so gaudy and grass of such brown—
Search ye the country and hunt he the town
And never ye'll meet with garden so queer
As this one I've made for my Little-Oh-Dear!"

Training that associates itself naturally with the season of the year is particularly apt to make its impression on a child. The child is sensitive to the natural changes in the world about him and there is value in any "lesson" that can be correlated with the lively interest he takes in the weather, the sky, the trees, and the plants.

In the spring, for instance, the child loves to play in the little rivulets that form from the melting snows and the rains. He bridges them; the dashing torrents he dams to turn his little waterwheels; on the quiet navigable ones he floats his paper boats. He is conscious of the special tang he feels in playing in this mud and water. He is unable to know it is the "liveness" of waking nature appealing to him, but he senses the message and responds.

The mother, too, if she be a lover of nature, thrills to the same message brought by other courriers. How much more the child's half-conscious love will mean to him if she realizes that he shares her own appreciation and if she takes care to foster it until it becomes actual knowledge of nature.

One mother of my acquaintance realized the value of such timely training. She purchased for her little daughter, a book that told the story of the bean. It told of its development from an insignificant pebble-like thing into a lovely tall vine with flowers which, in turn, produce the bean that people use for food.

The lima bean was pictured as a baby that grew and grew. The child was interested, so the mother got some lima beans, quite a while before it was time to plant them outdoors, and put them between a roll of good blotting paper, inserted in a drinking glass, and the wall of the glass. A small amount of water was poured into the glass which was then put on the window sill in the sun.

As the days went by the child could observe the tiny shoots coming from the seeds. First came the root, then the leaf shoot which unfolded and grew until leaves began to show. These grew larger and larger and the shoot grew stronger and stronger until it stopped the glass.

It was then time to put it in the ground. The mother showed the little girl how to plant it and together they planted other beans to grow as the first had done.

All the while these seeds were developing underground the child knew what was happening and eagerly waited for the first tiny leaves to appear above the surface. She cared for the garden herself, watering it faithfully. Lather in the summer she was rewarded with a very small crop of beans, for this was but a small garden in a yard at the back of a city house. But how much she had learned, and what a joy it had been!

Stories That Recall Others

Appreciated Class

When one candidate for office started to make his campaign race, he bought a new flivver. He didn't know how to run it very well so he took the demonstrator with him on several of his rounds.

That made a hit with some of the people whose votes he wished. "He may have a chauffeur all right," one of them remarked to another, "but he drives the same kind of a car we do."

New Spelling

The principal of the school started a campaign for better spelling the other day. It all started because she happened to wander into a room, look over some examination papers and find that one chap had spelled the word faucet as "phosit."

To test the children further she gave them a list of words to spell. "Write the name of your father's sister," she said.

Imagine her horror, having nieces and nephews herself, to read on the first paper she picked up, "Anut."

VARIOUS MATTERS

Light vehicle lamps at 7.40 (standard time) this evening.

A frost in some sections of the town was reported Saturday morning.

The poppy was the conspicuous flower during Saturday and Sunday.

Many sailors from the war craft in New London harbor visited Norwich during Saturday and Sunday.

Farm work has been so delayed by the backward season that many farmers are just starting their plowing.

The shad catch at Saybrook is increasing daily. The crews last week landed forty or more, each of good size.

The old Shennecossett schoolhouse at Eastern Point is being remodeled and decorated to be opened as a tea room.

Last Saturday, the soldiers' graves in the Comstock cemetery, Uncasville, were flaged, in readiness for memorial exercises.

During Sunday afternoon the reading room of the Otis library was in charge of Miss Lillian M. Cross. There were 65 visitors.

New London, too, is trying to have a city beautiful and merchants are offering special stocks toward a paint-upand clean-up season there.

One of the handsome pink dogwood trees in town is that in the grounds at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, on Rockwell terrace.

Saturday was to have been official opening day for inns and shore resorts in a number of places, but proved altogether too cold and disagreeable.

The flowers which adorned the Central Baptist auditorium Sunday morning were the gift of Mrs. James Caulkins, of Hamlin street, in memory of her mother.

At Andover, Harvey Lee of Bridgeport, administrator of the estate of Ellen L. French, has sold the real estate to August Ringhoffer, a former resident of Andover.

Senator Ernest E. Rogers, of New London, has announced that he will be a candidate for the republican nomination for state treasurer in the state convention next fall.

Rev. George L. Farnham, ordained last week, will leave Mystic in the fall, having accepted the pastorate of the Cleveland Park Congregational church in Washington, D. C.

Following a thunder storm with sharp lightning, Saturday night, and a dull Sunday morning, the wind veered, resulting in the glad surprise of a clear and comfortable day.

It was shown at the annual meeting in Stamford last week that the state federation of music clubs had grown within the past year to seventeen clubs as against seven last year. Of these six are juvenile organizations.

Charles Mitchell, 74, president of the Connecticut Pie company of New Haven, and engaged in the manufacture of pies for the past 55 years, also one of the oldest members of the Knights of Columbus, died at his home last week.

Connecticut College for Women will mark this year the end of the first decade of its existence, for in June, 1914, the ground was broken for the first building which was to be the foundation of Connecticut's only woman's college.

With a good attendance, a preliminary meeting was held Sunday after vespers in St. Patrick's chapel to plan the formation of an altar and sanctuary society. Rev. M. H. May presided. Organization will be effected at the June meeting.

At the Submarine Base, an act of heroism of F. H. Miller has been called to the attention of the navy department. Miller went over the side from the U. S. S. Mahan and rescued a man knocked unconscious from the U. S. S. Maury.

Invitations are out for the thirty-third annual exhibition of the work by the students of the Norwich Art school and the Academy, at the Converse Art Gallery on the evening of May 30th. The public view comes on May 31st and June 1st.

New York society papers noted that Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Richard were sailing Saturday on the Olympic with their four children to remain abroad until the early part of October. Mrs. Richard (Vera Van Buren) is of the Norwich Lanman family.

Sunday at Park church, Mrs. Arthur E. Story and Mrs. E. A. Harris sustained the beautiful solo portions of the anthem, which was Morrison's "I Will Life Up Mine Eyes Unto the Hills." The offertory was Sullivan's "Hide Thy Face From My Sins."

Captain Murphy of Groton police force has ordered the distribution of parking signs for the summer traffic. Parking on the east side of Thames street will be permitted for periods of five minutes and on the west side for thirty minues.

By good luck, the rain held off Saturday until evening, enabling shoppers to do their most urgent buying before the cloudburst. Some merchants declare that the stores have no hope of recovering any of the business lost during the past few weeks.

It is mentioned that the Colonial Quartet, of Norwich, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Miss Hazel Banford, Mrs. Myra Frink Ward and Miss Florine Scofield, are to entertain at the Waterford Baptist church, of which Rev. George H. Strouse, formerly of Norwich, is pastor.

The wind storm which visited Tolland county Saturday did much damage to the tobacco tents which have just been erected for the planting of the shade-grown tobacco crops. Practically all the tobacco farms suffered, some losing hundreds of yards of the fine netting.

Loyalty class of Trinity Methodist Sunday school cleared $40 from a food sale Saturday in the downstairs department of the Boston Store, Miss M. Janie Leach, Mrs. C. M. Newbury, Mrs. John A. Phillips and Misses Gertrude Pendleton, Lena Haglund and May Hill being in charge.

Having recovered from an accident, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard has returned as soprano in the United Church quartet, where Mrs. W. D. Burgy has been substituting very acceptably for several weeks. George A. Turner has been singing tenor during the illness of Louis A. Wheeler.

Love may be blind at the start, but it is presently able to see its finish.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Francis Marchessault.

The funeral of Mrs. Francis Marchessault was held Saturday morning at 8.15 o'clock from her home, No. 94 Prospect street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 9 o'clock a mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William A. Keefe and Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ. The choir sang Pie Jesu at the offertory and for a waiting hymn sang Lead Kindly Light.

The bearers were Frederick, Henry, John, Joseph and Wilfred, Marshall and Joseph Portelance, and burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, Father Keefe conducted a committal service at the grave. In the large attendance were relatives and friends from Springfield, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Perth Amboy, Willimantic, Baltic and Jewett City. There were many beautiful floral remembrances.

Julius Fine.

The funeral of Julius Fine was held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Fine, in Lisbon. Burial took place in the I. O. B. A. cemetery at Brewster's Neck.

The boy, who was 15 years of age, died Friday night after a week's illness with pneumonia. He was born in New York, January 14, 1909, the son of Noah and Alice Fine. He attended the Lisbon schools. Surviving are his parents, three sisters and one brother.

Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Daniel Elliott Grieve.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral of Daniel Elliott Grieve was held from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grieve, No. 135 West Thames street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Bptist church. There was a wealth of flowers. Mrs. Helena M. T. Church sang Jesus Loves Me, the boy's favorite hymn, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Herbert Willey, his Sunday school teacher.

Burial took place in Ashaway, R. I., and a committal service was conducted at the grave by Rev. Mr. Dunbar. The bearers were three uncles, Andrew Grieve, Frank Grieve and Walter Blake, and Elliott Stillwell. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

William E. Canfield.

The funeral of William E. Canfield, 87, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at funeral parlors in Bridgeport. Rev. J. W. Davis of Calvary Baptist church conducted the services. Burial was in Mountain Grove cemetery. Delegates from Elias Howe post exemplified the Grand Army ritual at the grave.

Mr. Canfield, a veteran of the Civil war and a member of Elias Howe Jr., post, G. A. R., was born in New Milford. He is survived by a son, Walter E. Canfield of New London, formerly of Norwich, also by four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

JEWETT CITY AND BOZRAHVILLE CARS CRASH

Automobiles of Patrick Sullivan of Bozrahville and Anthony Koglowski of Jewett City were in collision Sunday night at the corner of West Thames and Stetson streets, the latter machine receiving damage which the owner reported at about $50. Miss Geraldine Gentile of 114 High street, Westerly, was driving the Jewett City car, a small coupe, which was proceeding towards New London when it struck the Bozrahville man's car as he was driving out of Stetson street. That car was only slightly damaged. Both sides to the accident reported to the police.

For Parking Rule Violation

For parking his automobile outside of another at the curb on Franklin Square near the trolley car office Saturday night, George Kyle was summoned to the city court Monday morning by police sergeant Thomas Murphy. Mr. Kyle claimed that he had merely stood his car there while he went into a store to make a purchase.

CONNECTICUT'S DAILY AVERAGE IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS REACHES 38

The steadily mounting total of motor vehicle accidents in Connecticut for 1924 passed the 5,500 mark in the week just closed, according to a statement given out at the state motor vehicle department. Ninety people had lost their lives in such accidents up to the end of the week, putting the total of automobile fatalities higher than it has ever been on the corresponding date of any year since the department was established.

Out of 5,494 accidents reported to the department up to May 21, 4,035 occurred within the limits of municipalities of over 10,000 population, Hartford leading with a record of 784. From rural sections of the state, 1,459 such accidents were reported, most of them having occurred on state highways.

Ansonia, 41; Bridgeport 527; Bristol, 43; Danbury, 65; Derby, 47; East Hartford, 64; Enfield, 35; Fairfield, 46; Greenwich, 83; Hartford, 784; Manchester, 61; Meriden, 134; Middletown, 63; Milford, 58; Naugatuck, 29; New Britain, 204; New Haven, 716; New London, 137; Norwalk, 91; Norwich, 112; Orange, 31; Stamford, 153; Stonington, 10; Stratford, 27; Torrington, 49; Wallingford, 48; Waterbury, 349; Windham, 28.

Eighty-eight fatal accidents in which 100 were killed had been officially reported to the department by May 21, of which fifty-six were in the above mentioned centers of population. Ansonia has reported 2, Bridgeport 7, Danbury, Enfield, Greenwich, Manchester, Naugatuck, New Britain, Norwich, Stonington and Windham, one each; East Hartford, Fairfield, Meriden, Milford and Stamford, two each; Hartford, 7; New Haven, 16 and Waterbury 5. It was pointed out that the largest seven cities accounted for thirty-nine of these fatalities. A movement is on foot to persuade several of these cities to give greater attention to the motor vehicle traffic problem by increasing their police forces.

Accidents are now happening in Connecticut at the rate of 38 a day. That strict police supervision of traffic is doing much to keep the total from going even higher is indicated by the fact that while the number of accidents in the state is increasing, it is smaller in proportion to the population and number of cars registered than in nearly all other states of the east.

WOOD CHOPPING CONTEST AT DEVILS HOP YARD

About 200 people penetrated to the Devil's Hop Yard in East Haddam Saturday to attend the all-day spring field meeting of the Connecticut Forestry association and received information on what the state is doing to preserve its forests and grow new trees in line with the slogan that Connecticut ought to grow its own lumber supply.

Philip L. Butterick of New Haven, secretary of the association, introduced County Agent John H. Fay of Middlesex county as the presiding officer of the stump-speaking program from a real honest-togoodness stump in the open space at the head of the falls which are a feature of the Hop Yard.

The speakers included Lucius F. Robinson, chairman of the state park commission, and secretary John J. ORourke of the Norwich chamber of commerce, who gave the city dwellers' view of the value of forests and made a plea for a real constructive programme to be presented before the legislature along the lines of forest replacement.

Joseph Synott of Portland was first and T. C. Ives of North Plain, East Haddam, was second in a contest for the title of champion woodchopper of the state. Points were for speed in felling a tree, nearness to mark and condition of stump. The choppers and their marks on the first two qualifications were the following: Synott, 2 minutes, 18 inches; Ives, 2 m., 27 sec., 2 feet; James Stocking, 4 m., 27 sec, 9 feet; Wm. Blaschik, East Haddam, 3 m., 8 sec.; 2 feet; H. D. Beebe, Waterford, 2 m., 27 sec., 4 feet.

Among those present from Norwich were Mr. and Mrs. Oziah Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Huntington, Frank E. Browning, Philip A. Johnson, F. B. Ricketson, George L. Ingalls, County Agent Walter T. Clark and Mrs. Clark.

CONFIRMATION REUNION AT GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH

A reunion of those who have been confirmed at the First German Lutheran church since its organization was held Sunday with an interesting programme carried out under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Herman Hunzinger, assisted by committees of the young people and the women of the church.

The programme began at 4 p. m. with a fine concert by the orchestra consisting of Frank Decker, William Werth, Miss Marion Decker and Frank Decker, Jr. At 5.30 supper was served to about 300 with a menu that comprised salads, cold meats, rolls, cake and coffee. The waitresses were the Misses Irene Werth, Frieda Retkovsky, Elizabeth Stelzner, Eliza Thumm, Margaret Seidel, Olga Grebe, Rose Zachae and Alma Zelz.

This was followed by a church service at 7 o'clock with special music by the choir and a sermon by Rev. Paul A. Kirsch of Meriden.

The programme concluded with exercises in the Sunday school room that included baritone solo, Frank Steinke, accompanied by Alfred S. Steinke; piano duet, Miss Frieda Phillips, Miss Margaret Seidel; duet, Miss Frieda Bauer, piano, Walter Hoefer, violin; selections by the Young People's orchestra.

Addresses were made by Rev. H. W. Voight of New Haven, president of the Connecticut conference, and by Deaconess Frieda von Dettmaringen of Berlin, Germany, and Pastor Kirsch made an address in English.

The committees in charge of the successful reunion were Miss Olga Zachae, Miss Louise Kalinowski, and Miss Rose Thiel of the Young People's society, and Mrs. Frank Decker, Mrs. Carl Zemke, Mrs. John Retkovsky, Mrs. Herman Retkovsky, Mrs. William Budzeck, Mrs. Heibel and Mrs. Fred Eich of the women of the church.

CHILD SLIGHTLY HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Nellie Perkowski, 3 years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Perkowski of 7 Riverside avenue, Bean Hill, was struck on the road near the Yantic bridge Sunday night about 8.30 by an automobile driven by Raymond Christiansen of Corning Road, but suffered only slight abrasions on the face and arms. The child ran down a bank at the side of the roadway into the path of the machine and was brushed by the right mudguard, according to the report made to police headquarters by Mr. Christiansen. He brought her to the office of Dr. Paul F. Gadle and she was then taken home.

Residences Without Electric Light.

Residences in one section of the city were without electric light Saturday night for about an hour and a half while employes of the city gas and electric department were looking for an open circuit.

Oak street and adjoining streets were in the neighborhood affected.

Three Accident Reports for Sunday

Sunday passed without the Norwich police department receiving any report of automobile accidents until nearly 11 o'clock at night. Then three came in in close succession. Two drivers in diferent accidents arrived at the police station at the same time to make their reports.

BUILDING LOAN CONVENTION IS COMING TO NORWICH

Local delegates returning from the Building and Loan league convention held in Waterbury Saturday, brought back the report that the state convention will hold its 13th annual meeting in 1925 in the Rose of New England.

There was a contest on between the cities of Norwich and Shelton but Norwich was finally selected by a unanimous vote.

An excellent foundation was laid last year for securing the convention this coming year so that this year's delegation, of which L. M. Crandall was chairman, had little difficulty in getting the convention to come to Norwich for its 13th annual meeting.

The main address was given by the president of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations, Miss Ann E. Rae of Niagara Falls, N. Y. The noonday luncheon was served at the Waterbury club and an address of welcome delivered by the mayor. The local delegation reported assets for the Norwich association of $188,309.48.

This year's convention was one of the largest and most enthusiastic held by the league since it organized. It was reported that every building and loan association in the state is now a member of the league. The convention was also addressed by a representative of the banking department who stated that the work of the association deserved the support and confidence of the citizens of the state.

There are now 32,500 members of the building and loan in this state and the assets of the associations amount to $13,500,000. The Waterbury Building and Loan association in a campaign to sell 5,000 shares in one day succeeded in selling 8,000 shares instead of 5,000.

The local delegates were assisted by a gracious word of encouragement just before the final vote was taken as to where the 1925 convention would be held by State Secretary Skinner who had spoken before the local building and loan association in one of the campaigns for new members.

FOUND WOMAN WANDERING BAREFOOTED IN RAIN

A woman patient who left the Norwich state hospital during the rain Saturday night, barefooted and in her nightclothes, but with a large blanket to protect her from the cold occasioned excitement in the North Main street neighborhood, after midnight when her appearance near the Marguerite Building was reported to the police. She disappeared down a stairway towards the railway track. A squad of officers put in over an hour in the search of her but she managed to elude them and cross the street without being seen. She finally reached Boswell avenue north of Roath street and was taken in charge there by Officer Coburn who brought her to police headquarters.

Capt. D. J. Twomey had some hot coffee secured for her and made her as comfortable as possible until attendants from the hospital took her back there.

SCATTERED FLOWERS IN MEMORY OF SAILORS

Flowers were scattered from Preston Bridge on the waters of the Shetucket river by representatives of the Woman's Relief Corps, the grand army and the Daughters of Veterans in the memorial service for sailors held on the bridge Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock by Sedgwick Corps, No. 16, W. R. C.

Led by the color bearers, the members of the corps marched from the Buckingham Memorial to the bridge where the officers conducted the ritual service with the flag waving above the water in tribute to the navy men who have answered the final muster call. The observance was under the direction of the patriotic instructor, Mrs. Grace Fowler. Two hymns were rendered, Nearer, My God, To Thee, and America, the latter closing the service.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY HAD IMPRESSIVE DEGREE WORK

Mercier assembly, No. 13, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, had a special meeting full of interest Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the state armory on McKinley avenue when a number of new members were initiated and the degree was conferred with much impressiveness on a class of 35. The drill team made its first appearance and its work contributed a large part to the programme of the afternoon. The excellence of the degree work brought congratulations to Mrs. Hannah Elermann and Mrs. Margaret Dutton who were in charge.

In the attendance of over 200 were visitors from South Manchester and Baltic.

DEFECTIVE OIL STOVE CALLS OUT FIREMEN

A defective oil stove in the house at No. 28 Forest street owned by Isaac Kenig and occupied by Joseph Ulalko was responsible for a telephone call to the fire department at 1.09 o'clock Sunday afternoon. There was practically no damage as the occupants of the house had most of the fire out when the department arrived.

A small girl tried to send in an alarm from box 113, Forest and West Main streets, but did not know that it is necessary to open the box and pull the hook. All she did was to break the glass in the box.

WILL TAKE CONGREGATIONAL PASTORATE AT WOODSTOCK

David P. Hatch, Jr., who graduates from Hartford Seminary this month, will become pastor of the Congregational churches, Woodstock and North Woodstock, June 1.

ANNUAL MAY RECEPTION BY ST. MARY'S SOCIETIES

The annual May reception and profession of new members into the Young Ladies' Sodality, Maidens of the Sacred Heart and Immaculate Conception societies of St. Mary's parish took place in the handsome memorial church on Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Following the singing of the society anthems, Rev. William A. Keefe, the rector, opened the reception with the recitation of The Litany of the Blessed Virgin and all the new candidates went to the altar railing to pledge their allegiance to the society principles, Father Keefe making known to them the conditions required.

Rev. Frederick M. Coholan delivered the sermon for the evening and took Mary, the mother of Jesus, for his theme. He placed before his hearers the traits of her earthly career to emulate—humility, obedience and modesty.

The societies entered the church to the music of a march by the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine. The altar was decorated with choice flowers, while inside the sanctuary railing was a statue of the blessed virgin also bedecked with flowers. A fair sized congregation attended the ceremony.

Benediction of the blessed sacrament was given by Father Keefe. Edward T. Connelly singing the O Salutaris (Wiegand) in splendid voice.

Twenty-five new members were received by the Young Ladies Sodality whose officers are; President, Miss Margaret Counihan; vice president, Miss Mary V. Driscoll; assistant vice president, Miss Mary Brennahan; secretary, Miss Margaret Condon; assistant secretary, Miss Helen Drescher; treasurer, Miss Claire Coughlin; reader of act, Miss Gertrude Fontaine.

The Sodality of the Sacred Heart received thirty six new members. It has the following officers:

The Immaculate Conception Sodality received 32 new members. Its officers are: President, Mary Ibbison; first vice president, Gladys Cote; second vice president, Valerie Madden; secretary, Flora Ouillet; treasurer, Helen Plante; sacristans, Eileen Krause, Eileen Ryan; prefects, Mary Agnes Barry, Velina Cyr, Irene Thibeault, Jeannette White, Ethel Callahan, Eleanor McLaughlin.

WHEELER SCHOOL STUDENT ESSAY PRIZE WINNER

Winners in the American Chemical Society's prize essay contest, which is the result of a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan of New York city, were announced Sunday at the national headquarters of the committee in New York and two hundred and ninety-four $20 gold pieces were awarded to school authorities for distribution among successful competitors. An equal number of high school students were accorded Certificates of Honorable Mention as having submitted the second best essay.

Two hundred and ninety-four winning essays were entered in the national contest. The committee will select the six best essays from among the two hundred and ninety-four state winners and will award six four-year scholarships to Yale university or Vassar college to the successful contestants. The scholarships, in addition to tuition, carry $500 a year in cash and are also the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan.

In Connecticut the prize winners included, J. B. Whitelaw, Wheeler school, Nrth Stoningtno, and among those receiving honorable mention are Jaska Evelyn Manning, and Dorothy Putnam Paine, both of Windham High school, Willimantic.

Contestants are required to be bona fide students in high school and secondary schols, and each entrant may submit one essay of not more than twenty-five hundred words. Six subjects were given: The Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease; The Relation of Chemistry to the Enrichment of Life; The Relation of Chemistry to Agriculture and Forestry; The Relation of Chemistry to National Oefense; The Relation of Chemistry to the Home, and The Relation of Chemistry to the Development of the Industries and Resources of Your State. The best essay was selected in each group.

The contest will be continued next year and the committee will announce additional details when the results of the national contest are made public.

1,524 COUNTY MEMBERS IN CATHOLIC WOMEN'S COUNCIL

New London county now boasts 1,524 members in the Council of Catholic Women, according to the annual report of the Diocesan Social Service Bureau, copies of which are now in the hands of those local persons who are interested in the Diocesan movement. There are seven branches in the county, with that in New London in the lead with 665 members. Then follow Norwich, with 400; Stonington, 140; Jewett City 113; Montville, 85; Westerly 77, and Mystic 42.

In her annual report, Margaret T. Boylan, secretary of the bureau pays tribute to the local branch in its various activities, such as the home nursing, dressmaking, millinery, basketry, bible and other classes.

Serves Catholic Interests

Secretary Boylan in her report stresses the claim that Catholics can be best served through Catholic organizations, in the following statement.

Catholics prefer to apply for assistance to a Catholic agency, this fact being evidenced by the large volume of work which the bureau receives. Unlike other agencies, public and private, the bureau does not limit its intake. The act that a fellow Catholic is in distress is sufficient to warrant the bureau doing what lies within its power to relieve that suffering. Religion is the common bond which at once establishes a feeling of confidence between social worker and client. It is the greatest factor in the strengthening of character.

Amalgamation under one central bureau or department is impracticable, but the bureau is ready to work out plans of cooperation with other agencies which will promote the utmost possible economy and efficiency.

In the report of Director Father Matthew J. Judge, the need of additional branches is stressed. Father Judge traces the development of the social service bureau since it was founded in 1920 to the present time.

Bishop Nilan's Foreword

The report includes the following foreword, in part, by Bishop Nilan:

I am more pleased than I am able to express in words at the steady advance of our social activities. The helpful influence of our bureau is now felt in every part of the diocese and in every phase of social welfare. Under prudent guidance, the directors of the district bureau, whith the assistance of a staff of competent and faithful workers have built up an organization which we are pleased to say is appreciated at home and has received flattering notice from outside the diocese.

The report will be well received and it is worthy of careful reading. I am sure that it will contribute much to the encouragement of those who have had a part in this great undertaking and I trust that it will appeal to the generosity of those Catholics of means who have failed to find a satisfactory outlet for their charity.

CHAPMAN TECHNICAL HIGH WINS THE TRACK AND FIELD MEET FROM WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 26.—The annual Eastern Connecticut interscholastic track and field events held at Morgan park, New London, Saturday afternoon terminated in another victory for Chapman Technical High of this city. A total of 68 1-3 against 50 2-3 for Westerly High of Rhode Island was the final outcome of the annual high school interscholastic competition. The meet was practically a dual meet between the Chapman Tech and Westerly teams, for the Norwich Free Academy and Stonington High school teams both withdrew their entries on the eve of the day scheduled for the running off of the events. The outcome of the meet would have probably been different, had the Academy and Stonington teams participated.

Wind and rain kept the old records of the annual meet from being disregarded, and only two records were broken. One by Davey of Chapman Tech when he traversed the 440-yard run in 57 3-5 seconds, cutting off one seventh of a second from the old record which stood at 57 4-5 before the meet. Meikle of Westerly broke the broad jump record by leaping an even twenty feet, the old record was 19 feet 7 inches.

While the field events did not suffer so much from the high wind that was prevalent during the afternoon and the rain that dotted the meet here and there with a blessing from heaven, the track events slowed up the contestants in the various events considerable. The fact that Courboin of Chapman Tech, who had already set 3 seconds flat for the 100-yard dash in the duel meet with Stonington, could only make the century in 11 seconds and 3-10 will attest to this. The track and field was a mass of wet mud at times.

Chapman Tech gained an early lead over their Rhode Island rivals by taking the early races. All of the track events but one went to the Red and Black from New London and when it came to the field events it was Westerly's turn to predominate. Both Westerly and Chapman Tech each garnered the same amount of first places six. Of the six first places won by Chapman Tech five were won in the track events and Westerly won the same number of first places in the field events. It is singular to note that because both Westerly and Chapman Tech each finished ahead in six events, that it was not the extra run of track meets, where first places declare the ultimate winners. Such was not the case Saturday afternoon and because Chapman Tech had better second string men than did Westerly they were awarded the track meet.

The individual star of the afternoon was H Meikle of Westerly, who by a total of fourteen points to his credit, as the result of gaining two firsts and two second places. Ehlise of Chapman Tech was close behind with twelve points, consisting of one first one second and two third places. Probably the individual honors should be given to Courboin for he captured the two events he participated in without any effort whatsoever. He had to loaf.

Track Events.

100-yard dash—Courboin, first, Chapman Tech; Eglise, second Chapman Tech; Wells, Westerly, third, and R. Meikle of Westerly, fourth; time of winner 11 3-10 seconds, score, Chapman Tech 5 Westerly 2.

220-yard low hurdles—Eglise, Chapman Tech, first; Zapranik, Chapman Tech, second; H. Meikle, Westerly, third and Hewitt Chapman Tech, fourth; time of winner 26 3 seconds, score, Chapman Tech 5 Westerly 2.

Mile run—Davey Chapman Tech, first; Gavitt, Westerly, second; Large, Westerly, third; Peirce, Chapman Tech, fourth; time of winner, 5:13 seconds, score Chapman Tech 5 Westerly 2.

440-yard run—Courboin Chapman Tech, first; Eglise, Chapman Tech, second; Chapman Tech, third; Sprague, Westerly, fourth time, 57 1-5 Chapman Tech 10 Westerly 4.

880-yard run—Sprague, Westerly, first; Large Westerly, second; Lapalme, third; Pierce, Westerly, fourth; score, Chapman Tech 5, Westerly 3.

One mile run—Sprague, Westerly, first; Pierce, Chapman Tech, second, Materese, Westerly, third; William, Chapman Tech, fourth time 4 minutes 59 seconds; score Chapman Tech 10, Westerly 4.

Field Events.

Second shot-put—Won by H Meikle, Westerly; Kannenburg, Chapman Tech, second; Skowyra, Chapman Tech, third; Bostwick Westerly, distance 32 feet 11 inches; score Chapman Tech 5 Westerly 4.

Javelin throw—Skowyra, Chapman Tech, first; H Meikle Westerly, second; Kannenburg, third, Chapman Tech, fourth; Chase, Chapman Tech fifth, score Chapman Tech 8, Westerly 3.

Pole vault—R. Meikle, Westerly, first; H. Meikle, Westerly, second; Ungen, Chapman Tech, third; Smith, Westerly, fourth; height, 8 feet 6 inches; score, Westerly 9, Chapman Tech 2.

High jump—Grills, Westerly, first; Crulke, Chapman Tech and Eglise of Chapman Tech, tied for second place; Crouch, Gavitt and R. Meikle, tied for third place; height, 5 feet 3 inches for winner, 5 feet 2 for second place, 5 feet 1 for third; score, Westerly 5 2-3, Chapman Tech 5 1-3.

Running broad jump — H. Meikle, Westerly, first; Grills, Westerly, second; Smith, Westerly, third; Skoogles fourth; distance of winner, 20 feet; score, Chapman Tech 1, Westerly 10.

BULKELEY WINS EASILY FROM PALMER HIGH, 7 TO 1

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Palmer, Mass., May 26. — Bulkeley High school baseball nine of New London, Conn., made its second successful invasion of Massachusetts in three days, defeating Palmer High by a 7 to 1 score, Saturday afternoon. The victory over Palmer, the ninth straight for Bulkeley this year and the nineteenth during the past two seasons, was earned by the Bulkeley batsmen, who prodded Fitzgerald, the Palmer High pitcher, for eight hits solid and well meaning smashes. The game was interrupted by rain on three occasions, the game being stopped for a period of four to six minutes each time.

While the Bulkeley batsmen were giving the home clubmen a manhandling, Dazzy Parisi dazzled eighteen of the local batsmen during the course of the contest. He was complete master of the Palmer batsmen at all times and allowed but four hits that were so far between that they caused Parisi no trouble whatsoever. Besides twirling such a good game, Parisi was a big noise with the willow, getting three hits out of four times at bat, each of these hits figuring in the scoring.

For six innings the game was a pitching battle between Fitzgerald and Parisi, with the latter having the upper hand in the struggle. The score was 2 to 1 and it looked as though the game would be called almost any moment because of the ominous appearance of the overcast sky. However the sun came out for an inning and one run was made in the seventh by the Bulkeley batsmen. Another was added in the next inning and in the last frame three runs were added for good measure. It must be called to the reader's attention that the runs scored by Bulkeley were clean and solid blows to the outfield, every one of them. And the three runs were scored in the last inning only after some heavy clouting that had the Palmer outfield weary from chasing the flies.

Before Bulkeley lopped upon the offerings of Fitzgerald for two runs in the last three innings the battle was as close as one desired to see it. The state champions combined Hutchinson and Riese singles in the fourth inning and Boothe's terrific wallop into center field for two runs. Parisi faced his only bad inning in the same inning, when Tibbetts tripled and scored on a sacrifice.

The Orange and Black were at times dangerous at the plate and threatened on several occasions to score. The boys were not swinging their bats as they should and wasted several chances to talk. Both teams played a good game in the field considering the handicaps they were under. A high wind kept the ball suspended in the air at times.

Hutchinson led the Bulkeley batters, with four hits out of five times at the plate, and Parisi and Rice with three each, the batting honors were pretty evenly distributed. Booth got a triple and a single.

LEONARD FIGHTS TWICE THEN GOES INTO MOVIES

New York, May 26. Benny Leonard world's lightweight champion, will engage this year in two more ring engagements and then forsake the pugilistic profession to, like screen and the stage according to Billy Gibson, Leonard's manager.

Negotiations for a match between Leonard and Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, are now pending after which Leonard will defend his lightweight crown against his foremost challenger, according to Gibson. Win, lose or draw in either bout Leonard, he added, would turn up his gloves for good.

CROWDER WINS OWN GAME WITH TRIPLE IN 2ND INNING

Waterbury, May 26. Crowder pitcher secured from Rochester, defeated Worcester here today by his general all around playing, 3 to 2. His triple in the second scored two local runs. In the fifth he again led the locals batting attack by singling. He later scored. Worcester batters had much trouble solving his delivery. The result eight strikes out. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Captain New York Giants

Any inning. Score tie. Runner on second base. One out. Runner takes big lead when catcher has the ball.

Whenever a ball is thrown to the shortstop to catch a man off second the second baseman should fill in behind the bag and also cut across and help out should an overthrow or an error occur.

If the second baseman takes the throw the shortstop should run across behind the bag and knock it down if it is an overthrow or see it if it passes him, the fielders working in this case as they do when the ball is thrown to the shortstop.

A Challenge.

The Yankees challenge any team in this vicinity for a baseball game to be played Memorial day morning. They would like especially to hear from the Greeneville Rosedales. Answer through this paper. This afternoon evening the Yankees play the Mohican team in a twilight game on the academy campus.

NORWICH ROTARY CLUB LOSES HARD FOUGHT GAME TO ACADEMY BALL TEAM

After out-hitting and out-playing the Norwich Free academy ball team for six innings, the baseball nine of the Norwich Rotary club weakened for a time in the seventh and last inning, losing a hard fought battle by the score of 6 to 5, one out when the winning run was scored.

The Rotarians started off strong and took to Couture with a vengeance Standish, first man up, socked the apple on the nose for a double, and brought up at third on a neat single to left by Clapp. "Doc" Abbott, third man up, hit the ball to short and was safe when a play was made for Standish at home. Here the fireworks started. Harris singled, scoring Clapp and Abbott and brought up at third when McNamara threw wild. He scored on Bliven's roller to Bush which was fielded poorly.

The Academy failed to get a man to first base in their part of the inning and the Rotarians met the same fate when Steinman took the mound for the Academy to stop the scoring. In the second half the Academy got a man to first but Hollander figured the Rotarians were wild and tried to steal. He was an easy out being run down between sacks. The rest were easy outs.

In the third the Rotarians gathered two more runs. Clapp singled and went to third on Abbott's single to center. Abbott stole second and scored with Clapp when Harris hit the ball to the Manual Training building for a double. Harris made third but was left there when the next men were easy outs.

The Academy got their first run in the third, Tombari trotting the bases when the Rotarian infield went to pieces and scored on Busch's single through short.

The school team gathered two more in the fourth by the aid of one single and four errors by the Rotarians, who seemed to be in a trance. One more came in the fifth and then the Rotarians tightened up and played ball.

There was no scoring in the sixth and the Rotarians went into the last half of the seventh with a one-run lead. Tombari, first man up, doubled to left field and went to third when Busch was safe on Bliven's error. McNamara walked, filling the sacks. Burke fanned. Segal, pinch hitting for Steinman, dropped an easy pop fly back of the pitcher's box and Tombari and Busch scored, ending the game.

The Rotarians had five earned runs during the battle while the Academy was only able to place three earned runs, the others being due to errors by the Rotarians, who until the seventh inning had outplayed and outhit the school team.

Harris on the mound for the Rotarians struck out eight of the opposing team and had a whale of a day at bat getting two doubles and one single in four trips to the plate, being robbed of a beauty on his fourth trip when the wind carried his long fly directly into the hands of McNamara. Abbott also had a good day getting two hits and aiding two Academy runners as they tried to steal second.

THREAD MAKERS SPLIT WEEK END DOUBLE BILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 25. Airtight hurling by "Al" Blake, coupled with some opportune knocks, enabled Meadows setting in the Connecticut State league to defeat the Thread Makers at Recreation park this afternoon by a 5 to 1 score in a brilliant diamond contest before over a thousand fans. Harry Slate, phenomenal shooting shebster, was on the mound for the locals and in the face of Blake's work, fate decreed a loss against his youthful career although he served up a fine assortment during the game.

The Silver Citvites started the scoring in the second chalking up a lone counter and increased their score by two in the eighth.

In their last turn at bat the locals made a belated rally but it fell short. Watt, one away, Sharpe socked a terrific homer to the race track in left. It was one of the finest homers made on a local field. Gaudette doubled in the same direction but he died at second. Parkhouse making a wonderful catch of Adams' sizzling drive.

Saturday Carlson held the Meridenites at subjection at Meriden and the Thread team was returned the victor by a 5 to 1 score. Meriden used two pitchers, Yale and Kline, the former being sent to the showers in the third inning.

WINDHAM HIGH DEFEATS WEAVER HIGH, SCORE 4 TO 0

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 25. DeMarchi outpitched Goldberg at Recreation park Saturday afternoon and Windham High maintained its string of victories on the home field. The vanquished were the Weaver High representatives of Hartford. The score was 4 to 0. Goldberg, the visiting pitcher, served up the best brand of pitching that has been showed by a high school moundsman here this year but he met DeMarchi when that youngster was right.

Goldberg also had the misfortune of being received by a backstop who had very much difficulty in holding his slants. Windham scored thrice in the third and once in the seventh. The score:

TIGERS WIN TURBULENT GAME FROM THE YANKEES

New York, May 25.—Detroit defeated the Yankees 6 to 5 today in a turbulent game. Hitting by Manush in the late innings was responsible, with Cobb's first home run of the season, for the Tiger victory. McNally, substituting at second base for Ward, had a fine fight with Blue and both were put out of the game. Substitute Infielder Johnson and Coach O'Learly of the Yankees were put off the field earlier. Holloway was credited with his second win over the Yankees in two days. The score:

ELEVEN INNING BATTLE WON BY PITTSBURGH

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 25.—Pittsburgh won an eleven inning battle from Brooklyn today, 5 to 2. It was a pitching duel between Meadows and Ruether up to the final chapter, when Ruether issued the first base on balls of the game and the Pirates followed with three hits which with another pass, an error and a sacrifice fly sent four runs over the plate. The Dodgers made 13 hits but three fast double plays helped Meadows. Loftus did some sensational fielding in center. The score:

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Wilma D. Walker, Gurleyville: I wish to thank you for sending me the prize book, The Motion Picture Comrades' Great Adventure.

Eliza Brown, Spartanburg, S. C.: I thank you for my book, The Camp Fire Girls in the Mountains. I have nearly read it through.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-A-WAKES.

WILL HAVE GARDEN

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder if any of the Wide Awakes are going to have a garden? It is time to plant one. I am going to have one of my own. The first thing I am going to do is to measure off a piece of land twenty feet long and ten feet wide. Then I will ask my father to plow it for me. My father said that I could have this piece of land which is behind the house. My mother will give me some seeds.

I am going to put a wire around my garden so the chickens will not eat my seeds. I intend to plant beans, beets, potatoes, and watermelons. After I plant the seeds I will have to wait for them to come up. Then I will weed and hoe them. I think that I will have a good garden and will enjoy eating the nice vegetables in the summer time, don't you?

IN A RAILROAD STATION

Dear Uncle Jed: Where's my hat? I'll bet that pug-nosed feller who just went by stole it. Make him give it to me, mamma! shouted Ted, running frantically up and down the paved floor of the railroad station. "Hush, child! Don't make so much noise! There's your hat, good as ever," said mother as she picked up the little white hat. "That pug-nosed feller wouldn taken it, if he'd seen it. I know he would," grumbled Ted. "Mamma, what did you do with my sweater? I gave it to you when we got off the auto. Maybe. No! there it is!" and Helen darted to a corner and picked up a shabby, blue sweater. "There goes your kitten, dear!" cried a shabby, but neat little lady. She hobbled over to the stove and picked up a little gray kitten, which she gave to Nan. "Thanks," murmured Nan gratefully, as she hugged the tiny ball of fur, and put it in a basket. Here comes the train, ma!" shouted Bobby, and mother hurried to get the things together. "I'm 'fwaid, mamma," sobbed Baby Belle, holding tight to mother's skirts. "Are you all ready?" called mother, as she picked up the suit-case and drew Belle nearer. "Yep," chorused four little voices and "Yep," echoed Baby Belle. Helen, Bobby, Nan and Ted went in the train first, while mother followed with Belle. "By, city," cried little Belle, as the conductor called "Allaboard," and they slowly moved away.

STORY ABOUT SPRING

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written about Spring. Spring is here. The cold weather has gone and the warm weather has arrived. Many flowers are opening. The violets are out and also the dandelion and several other wild flowers.

The children delight in picking the wild flowers. The children in our grade are trying to see who can bring the most flowers and I presume that many other grades are doing the same.

FORGOT THE BAKING POWDER

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was only ten years old my grandmother told me how to make cake. One day, after she had gone away, I made the cake. I mixed it up and put it in the oven to bake. I certainly enjoyed making it. When I took it out I expected to see it nice and high, but it had not risen a bit. Then I showed it to my mother and she asked me if I had put in baking powder? I said, "No." She said, "That is why it did not raise." The next time I wanted to make a cake she said, "Wait until you are a little older, then you will know how."

FROM A SOUTHERN GIRL

Dear Uncle Jed: I am wrinting my first letter to you and the Wide Awakes. My sister just received a nice book from you. We have two mules and I like to lead them to drink their water.

They are very nice mules. They beg for biscuits at the kitchen. They are not satisfied with one they want two before they go away.

We all go to the city in a lumber wagon. What would our friends up north think to see us drive through Main street. A lot of farmers go to town this way. I go to school. I'm in the third grade. I am 9 years old.

WINTER SPORTS

Dear Uncle Jed: The beautiful and radiant sun was just creeping up the crystal walls of heaven when I woke from the land of dreams. After my prayers I tried in vain to look out the silvery painted glass which Jack Frost had painted. After breakfast we went out-doors and anxiously waited for uncle who had a surprise for us. The eastern sky was colored with many hues. The trees were glistening in the sun from the trimmings which Jack Frost had done. As uncle jumped off the sleigh he said we were to go skating and sliding the following day. He said all were to eat on the banks of the lake about four miles from town.

We were to dress warmly because it must be ten below zero or we could not go. Before we retired we got our shoes, coats, hats, skates, sleds, and all the things needed for our pleasant journey. Soon it was time for our slumber in dreamland. Night passed very slowly but as we lie in bed looking at the starry heavens daylight came with its merry enjoyments.

At last the time came to eat breakfast and then for our delightful hour to get ready because uncle said we would not be able to find our things which was a fact. At last we started out, each taking turn to carry the lunch. We were there at ten o'clock.

After two hours of amusement we built a fire and ate lunch. Never did the coffee and sandwiches taste so good. After another hour a heavy cloud appeared and we knew there was to be a heavy snowstorm. By that time we were almost home. We escaped from the storm and told our mothers and fathers about our trip.

A TRIP TO HARTFORD

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending in another one of my stories. This time it is about one of my trips this spring.

One pleasant Sunday morning, April 13th, I was called very early. When I went downstairs I was told to get ready and put on my best dress. As my father, grandfather and I were going away. Soon we started. I did not know at first where we were going, but soon found out; we were going to Hartford.

We drove to the state road but before we arrived, we had to detour on account of the new road which is being built. The detour was very bad, and also very muddy. In one part of the road where it was muddy my father did not think it was very deep, but on going half way through it we found we were stuck. My father and grandfather got out. After finding a rail and lifting up the back of the car with it and inserting stones under it we got out. On reaching the state road we knew we would have a good road the rest of the way.

In Hartford the view was very beautiful and I had a very pleasant time looking around. I saw the capitol and was surprised to see such a beautiful building. When we went over the bridge over the Connecticut river I could not see the water from the car. Then we reached my great aunts on Heath street. We gave them a surprise. We came about 3 o'clock and left about 5 o'clock.

On our trip back we went on a different road. We arrived home after 6 o'clock. I had a very nice time and wanted to go again.

MY FIRST CAKE

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was a little girl I always wanted to learn to cook. One day when my aunt went away I thought I would try to make a cake. I tried some sponge cake. I thought I had put in everything the rule said. After it had been in the oven a while I looked in to see how it was progressing. It did not raise up as I wanted it to. When dinner time came I cut it. It tasted all right only it had not raised up. When my aunt came home she said I had not used the baking powder. It was something else which she had in a baking powder can. This was my first cake.

Dear Uncle Jed: "Mother, May I make a cake today?" I asked. "If you think you can. I [illegible] the cook book and looked [illegible] make. I got a dish and [illegible] just what it said, but I put too much flour in, but mother said to put it in the oven. When I took it out [illegible] is heavy and I gave it to my little chickens. I told mother that I would let her help me the next time I made [illegible].

KINDNESS BRINGS HAPPINESS

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you a story and the name of it is Kindness Brings Happiness. John and Harry, while on their way to school, saw an old lady with a basket of apples, which she was carrying to market. Harry proposed throwing the basket over when the woman set it down to rest, for it would be such fun to see her run after the apples.

John's eyes flashed. "No, let us rather ask to carry the basket for her," said he. The woman was very thankful when they offered to carry her basket, and as she walked behind them it was hard to tell which of the three was the happiest.

A NEW BABY BROTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: Yesterday I had a little brother born. My father said that I had a Maybasket. In the morning I came down stairs and found a little baby. It was born May 11, 1924. The baby is about one foot long. His head is about as big as my big rubber ball. When I go home I am going to see the baby. When I got up in the morning I asked for the Maybasket but my mother said it was in bed. I thought this a queer Maybasket. When I saw the baby I thought [illegible] doll. What a queer thing for a nurse to take care of, a doll! I love [illegible] little baby brother and I like this kind of a Maybasket.

RAIN SPOILED PICNIC

Dear Uncle Jed: In the town of Tyngeborough, Massachusetts, we used to have many picnics, where the teachers and children used to take their lunch and stay all day in the woods. After our lunch we played games and picked flowers. The school was not very far from the woods so we could not get lost. We always marched to the woods. One time while we were there, a thunder shower came up and all had to run home. The teacher said we could come again next Monday. When I got home it had stopped raining and it was as nice as it was before. We had not even stayed a half hour.

SAVED BY HIS WITS

Dear Uncle Jed: A famous general had a favorite expression whenever a culprit was brought before him charged with some very serious offense. He would address the prisoner as follows. "Brother, either you or I will very soon be hanged." One day a spy was discovered in the camp, and was addressed in the usual way by the general. Next morning, as he was being taken out for execution, he begged very earnestly for an interview with the commander and said that he had a communication of the utmost importance to make. The general did not believe the story but ordered him to be brought and then demanded what he wished to say. "Well," said the prisoner, "you said yesterday that one of us was going to be hanged and I have come to know whether you or I is to have the first chance, because, if you won't, I suppose I must." The general was much amused at the spy's witty impudence and spared his life.

A TRUE FRIEND

Dear Uncle Jed: A man had a dog which once had been very useful to him but now was old. He bought another dog and decided to drown the old one. He went to the river hired a boat and with the dog in the boat rowed out to where the water was very deep. He then threw the dog into the water and every time the poor dog swam to the boat his master pushed him away with his oar. Once in doing this the man leaned over too far and fell into the water. He could not swim and would have drowned if his good old dog had not held him above water until help came.

A BEAUTIFUL SCENE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to give you a description of a supper which took place at [illegible].

It was an evening in August when the skies were a beautiful color and clouds sailed slowly about when a very descriptive scene took place.

We were all seated comfortably on the lawn, when little Nancy jumped up and said, mother and all who are gathered to notice the beautiful sky. We all were amazed when we saw the clouds of amber, violet, gold and pink. These colors stretched far above all mother nature's growing plants. Nancy went into the house and suddenly came out with her slate and pencil. She sat down and drew the beautiful picture we were all gazing at. Before we went into the house we watched the colors fade away. The sun which was like a great ball of fire sank behind the trees. The violet color faded to a pale blue. The pink changed to a faint rose and the gold still kept its lovely color. The sun soon thought of its hard labor on the other side of the world and hid its glowing face sketching the outline of the landscape. It gradually became dusk and only pencil marks could be seen beyond the plains.

IN THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: One day in the winter, my friend and I took a trip into the woods. We could see the tracks of different animals that had gone across the snow. We took an air rifle with us. We thought we would have some fun shooting. So we went on a little farther and we found an old rusty tin. We put it up in a tree. She would have a few turns shooting at it and then I would. About four o'clock we started for home.

A STORY ABOUT TEDDY

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a little girl by the name of Alice. She lived in a beautiful country. She had a dog and a doll. She was very fond of her dog. She always played with him. She didn't care to play with her doll.

One afternoon she gave her doll to the neighbor's little girl. Teddy was always playing with Alice. One morning they went into the woods and Alice was picking flowers. When they came home she was very tired. Her mother gave her her dinner and Teddy and his too.

A QUEER FLAVOR

Dear Uncle Jed: Mother where is the vanilla, I asked. It is on the top shelf, was the reply. I was making a cake! Just think, it was to be sent to the church supper! Had I put everything in it? The vanilla; I then put that in. The bottle looked dirty and greasy. I thought even the vanilla looked queer. When it came out of the oven it looked very nice, I thought. I will put on a nice vanilla frosting, I told my mother. After the church supper Mrs. White came in and said, "Claire," oh dear, and she burst out laughing. Your cake looked very nice, but oh, what did you put in it?. It tasted awful! Excuse me! and again she began to laugh. Show me that bottle of vanilla, my mother said. I brought it out and my mother said, You've put in Sloan's Liniment instead of vanilla.

NATHAN HALE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about Nathan Hale. Nathan Hale was an American. He lived in Connecticut. After graduating from Yale University he became a schoolmaster.

Nathan Hale loved his country. His great desire was to serve her. In order to do so with his parent's consent he joined the American Army. While the war was raging Washington needed information. He asked his men who would undertake this dangerous errand. Nathan Hale volunteered to act as a spy.

Having gathered important information from the British army he was about to return when a former friend recognized him. He was captured. On the following morning he was hung as a spy.

His last words were: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

INDIAN ROCK

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write about Indian Rock. I went to Indian Rock for the first time during the spring vacation with my cousin. First we went to see the engraving on the rock. There was an engraving of an Indian pipe, then an Indian head and shoulder. After that there was a tomahawk and in one corner the words, Indian Rock. After looking at them for a few minutes we decided to look around. First he took me to see the place where he once made a fire. Then he showed me where Troop 7 had built a hut. After that he took me to a slippery slide where he said that in fall several boys piled up leaves and slid down. After looking around and climbing rocks we decided to go home.

SQUIRRELS GOT THE NUTS

Dear Uncle Jed: One sunny morning we went to the woods. We saw many birds and a red squirrel running up and down the tree. It had a nest upon a maple tree. We sat down on a stone watching the squirrel. Beside, Margaret, Helen and Mary came over and we played games. We played the squirrel and the nut and tag games. We had a basket of nuts under the tree and the squirrel tried to get the nuts.

The squirrel did not know we were watching her, so we put a handful of nuts under the tree and the squirrel came down and took one nut and ran up to the nest with it. She took one by one until she took them all. She suddenly disappeared. We could not see her, for a while, but she finally came back with a little one. The squirrel wanted the other squirrel to see all the nuts she had. The little squirrel wanted to get some nuts too. It was getting dark and so we put one more handful of nuts under the tree for the squirrel and went home.

LOST IN THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: Benny was only four years old. He lived in a little town near New London. One day, when Benny's mother was visiting, he thought it would be nice to go into the wood and get his mother some flowers. It was about three o'clock in the afternoon. He hadn't been in these woods before and besides, his mother had warned him not to, but he thought that he could find his way home, even if he was lost. Before he went he threw sticks and stones at his collie dog to make him stay home. Benny wandered here and there picking wood flowers. He thought he could find his way back by a fallen tree.

Soon he wandered so far that he could not see the tree and to make it worse it was growing dark. Benny began to get nervous. He dropped half of his flowers when he stumbled over a fallen branch. When he got up he heard soft footsteps coming behind him. Benny began to run as fast as his short legs could carry him, but he got so breathless that he had to stop. At last he gave himself up for lost. He looked up and saw his collie standing beside him. What a shower of kisses fell upon the dog's nose! Benny felt very much ashamed when he told his mother about his adventure.

SCARED BY A MULE

Dear Uncle Jed: One day Millie, Doris and Millies' brothers and Doris' brothers thought they would go for a walk in the woods for nuts. They had to cross a lot where there was a young bull. When they came to the lot, Millie was afraid to go across it. The boys and Doris tried to make her go, but she wouldn't, so they left her crying at the gate.

After they had crossed the lot Doris couldn't think of anything but Millie crying at the gate. She went back to get Millie. Millie made up her mind to go. The boys were waiting for them to come, so they began to run. Then they saw the young bull coming after them. They began to run all the faster with the bull following them. The boys were laughing, but Millie was very tired and frightened, but soon they reached the boys. Millie sat down to rest while the boys and Doris got the nuts. Going home they went the longest way, for Millie was too frightened to go through the field where the bull was again.

THE SIXTH GRADE MAGAZINE

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-Awake Circle and hope to continue writing about my adventures.

One day during language period, the teacher told us we were to prepare to make a magazine. She told us to look for stories, poems and advertisements of Thanksgiving because this holiday was approaching.

About two or three days afterwards, we copied these selections on large sheets of white paper. When we were finished writing these selections the pages were numbered and put in order. Holes were punched through the papers to put a gold and silver cord to keep the papers together.

Last of all came the covers. Each one had a large sheet of paper and drew a picture on it and colored it in bright colors. Holes were punched through the cover also and all were tied together with a gold and silver cord.

When these magazines were finished they were very pretty. Most of the covers had interesting pictures and attractive colors.

I had fifty-eight pages. This was the most anyone had.

YOUR NOSE, SIR

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you about something wonderful in Russia. This is the cry that is often cried in the streets of Russisa. "Your nose! Your nose, Sir!" It is very cold in Russia. When a person goes out riding he always covers all his face except his nose and eyes. Sometimes his nose gets very cold, and would freeze if someone did not cry out, "Your nose, Sir!" Why! When one's nose gets so cold, it becomes numb. It has no feeling. One would not know that his nose was freezing if someone did not cry out, "Your nose, Sir!" The cold nose must then be rubbed with snow. You would think it a strange way to keep it from freezing, but it is the best way to take out the frost.

THE HERMIT AND THE CHILD

Dear Uncle Jed: I haven't written you for a long time so I've decided to write now.

On a high hill lived a hermit. He was very kind and also wise. When anyone wanted to be advised they went to him.

One day a sobbing child came to the door of his miserable hut and knocked.

"Come in," said the hospitable hermit.

The child went in. "What's the matter my dear child?" the hermit asked.

"My mother went to the well and she fell down and she is asleep and I can't wake her up."

"She's dead," he muttered softly, but the child heard and fainted.

He carried her to his bedroom. When the child recovered she asked him what to do. He told her he wasn't going to be a hermit any more, but a father to her, for you see she hadn't any mother and father any more. The hermit proved a good father and they lived happily for many years.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Verse For His Album

"Hello, Central! Give me all the little boys and girls in New York and Brooklyn and Jersey City and all over. I want to tell them that Little Jack Rabbit will be at the Circus in Turnip Town all this week.

"Hello, is that you Jimmy? Meet Little Jack Rabbit at Uncle Lucky's store. You know how to get there? All right. Goodbye."

"Hello, hello! Is that you Mary? Have something nice to tell you. Little Jack Rabbit will be at the circus in Turnip Town all this week. Come and meet us. Goodbye!"

"Hello there, is that you, Billy? This is David Cory. You know, the man who writes the doings of dear Little Jack Rabbit. Well, the little bunny will be up at the circus all this week. Come and meet us. Goodbye."

"Hello, and how do you do. Is this you, pretty Sue? Guess who I am? Only three guesses! Give up? Well, it's David Cory, the Jack Rabbit Man. Good news! Little Jack Rabbit is in Turnip Town. Yes three times. He'll be at the circus all this week. Come up and see him. Goodbye.

Dear me, or goodness gracious me-bus! as dear Uncle Lucky always says, After I had called up all the little boys and girls in the world, it was time for me to take the Rabbitville Express to Turnip Town, as I didn't have the chance to call up the children in Rabbit Country. But never mind. Maybe I will tomorrow.

Well, anyway, when I reached Turnip Town, Little Jack Rabbit had already arrived and was up at the circus talking to his old friend, Peter Hippopotamus. And just as I handed in my pass a little bird began to sing:

"Smile for David Cory, Peter,
Smiles make life so much sweeter;
Happiness in every smile;
Yours is wider than a mile.
Even Cross Patch will confess
Smiles are dimpled happiness."

"Please say that over again," cried Little Jack Rabbit, "I want to copy it in my album for mother," and would you believe it? But, of course you will if I say so. That little yellow bird perched herself on his shoulder and recited over again, only very clearly, the verse from beginning to end.

"Mother will be so pleased," sighed Little Jack Rabbit, folding up the little album in which he kept the pictures of his best friends. "She's always talking happiness. She says it's all around about us, only we don't always happen to see it."

"Well, let's have a happy smile," said the dear old elephant to Peter Hippopotamus, and, who can tell, perhaps he will be smiling in the next story.

SUITS FOR $27,200 AGAINST THE SOLTZ COMPANY, OF NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, May 25—Suits aggregating $27,200 have been brought by the Union Bank & Trust company against The Soltz company, wholesale and retail butchers, endorsers of notes of the defendants. The suits are returnable before the superior court the first Tuesday of June.

Jeremiah Twomey is endorser on a note of $4,000. The Union Bank and Trust Company accepted the endorsement of Joseph and Max Soltz, president and treasurer of the defendant company for a loan of $2,500 and to this amount $1700 was paid on the principal. Jeremiah Twomey and James R. May are endorsers on a note for $5,000. Hyman Frottas endorsed a note for $2,100 and of this amount $400 was paid on the original loan, James R. May and Jeremiah Twomey are the endorsers on a note for $4,200. The principal of this note originally was $4,600. Jeremiah Twomey, Hyman Frottas and Ruth Soltz endorsed a note for $4,800 on which nothing has been paid. Barnet Lubow, James R. May and Abrahm Gordon endorsed a note for $10,000 and of this amount $2500 has been paid upon the principal.

The teachers of New London are to receive an increase in salary for it has become known that at a conference between a committee representing the teachers and Superintendent Warren A. Hanson of the schools, held Friday night an increase was agreed upon. The increase will provide for each teacher additional compensation of between $100 and $200 annually. The teachers have long sought an increase in salary, contending that they were the lowest paid teachers in New England and because of the low salary paid several teachers have resigned and obtained schools elsewhere.

Another large crowd of diversion seekers visited Ocean Beach today, many of the visitors being autoists from various cities about the state. The Connecticut company operated open cars for the first time this season.

Because of the heavy gale and strong sea in the sound the harbor contained numerous tug boats and tows that put into port Saturday night to escape outside weather conditions.

Robert Finn, of Thompson court, was in the police court Saturday, charged with the theft of a suit of clothes and $10 from William N. Holt, a printer, residing at 32 Golden street. The case was continued to November 24th and Finn was placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Finn was arrested a week ago when Holt complained that Finn had stolen the former's property while Holt slept. Finn admitted the theft and stated that he had disposed of the clothing at a Bank street pawnshop.

Henry Magnusdal of Alger street, Mrs. David Hayes and infant daughter, Baker Hill, Mrs. Raymond McCormick and infant daughter of Niantic, Henry C. Branch, Hartford, were patients discharged at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital Saturday.

Frank E. Thompson became intoxicated Saturday afternoon and in trying to navigate through Bank street fell and struck his head on the sidewalk inflicting an ugly wound. He was taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer George Laboue and at the station house was attended by a physician. He was released from custody when his brother, Ellery Thompson became surety on his bond of $50 for appearance in the police court Monday morning.

Mrs. Bert DeVault, who resides at ournier house, 147 Bank street, lodged another complaint with the authorities Saturday, claiming that her husband, who is a soldier stationed at one of the island forts, is a source of annoyance to her and makes a practice of visiting the woman's home and creating a disturbance. Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin instructed the police to warn De Vault to refrain from annoying Mrs. De Vault and if the husband continued his visited to the Bank street house against the wishes of the wife that De Vault be taken into custody.

The police have ascertained that two young girls committed the theft of flowers from in front of the residence of Walter Lewis, 75 Granite street, several nights ago. The parents of the girls have been warned that any further such acts of the girls will result in their prosecution.

Andrew S. Matthewson, 115 Broad street, was arrested by Patrolman Howard Sloan Saturday afternoon charged with violation of the automobile law in not having the car f which he was incharge properly equipped with brakes. The car Matthews was operating was left parked on the grade of Broad street, near Cleveland street and while the driver absented himself from the car the machine got into motion and descending the grade crashed against an automobile owned and operated by Harold Stevens, of 316 Connecticut avenue, whose car was travelling in a northerly direction. Both automobiles were slightly damaged.

A public service automobile operated by Frank Martin, 548 Williams street and a machine, owned and driven by Charles Dart, 34 Evergreen avenue, were in collision Saturday evening at the corner of State and Main streets. The damage to either car was of little consequence, but each driver blamed the other for the collision.

Eddie Young, proprietor of a Chinese laundry, 272 Main street, complained to the police Saturday midnight that entrance had been made to his place during his absence and that $10 had been stolen from the cash drawer. Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Braxton Hill learned that Young left the laundry about 11:30 o'clock to go to a nearby restaurant. A short time later Patrolman, who was in the vicinity of the laundry was informed by the crossing tender in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at the Hallam street crossing, a very short distance from the laundry that the gate tender had heard the sound of breaking glass. Whe nthe Chinaman returned to the laundry he discovered the glass in the front door broken and then reported that the place had been entered. There was no evidence inside the laundry that the place had been visited by a thief. The floor was not soiled, which would have been the case had one entered the laundry for heavy rain had been falling throughout the evening. The cash drawer contained about $25, some of the money being in bills, and had any money been stolen, all of the contents of the draw would have been removed. The laundry was visited by three thieves several weeks ago and they were apprehended in Norwich and are now serving sentences in the New London county jail.

Peter Gradisa, 579 Main street, in leaving the house this forenoon, stumbled and fell downstairs. He was found lying at the foot of the stairs by passers-by, who caused the police to be notified. Sergeant Edward Daniels and Patrolman Clarence Wells and Motorcycle Officer Laboue were dispatched to the place and found Gradisa injured so that he needed medical treatment. Gradisa injured so that he needed medical treatment. Gradisa was brought to the police station, where his injuries, consisting of severe bruises and scratches were treated by a physician, after which he was sent to his home.

William H. Farrell, field deputy connected with the internal revenue department, with headquarters in Hartford, was discharged Saturday afternoon at Lawrence hospital where he had been critically ill with pneumonia, following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Farrell will remain at his home on Huntington street until such time as his health returns and he a ble to resume his duties. Mr. Farrell was taken ill at Hartford about a month ago and brought to New London. An immediate operation was deemed necessary and when it was performed it developed that peritonitis had set in. For several days following the operation it was not believed that Mr. Farrell would survive.

An automobile owned and operated by William Walsh, residing in the Goldsmith block, State street, in passing through Truman street Saturday evening struck Constantino Cosolino, of 32 Truman street, who attempted to run across the street in advance of the automobile. Cosolino was knocked down, but refused to reveal his identity. Two hours later Patrolman Jmes McKenna was informed that Cosolino was badly injured and caused the man to be removed to Home Memorial chospital, where an examination did not reveal injuries more serious than bruises and contusions.

Joseph P. Connor of Norwich, has sold a cottage on Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, to Annie Goldberg, also of Norwich.

Patrolman Clarence Wells has been transferred from night to day duty, succeeding assigned to the patrol of the north side of State street.

Josephine Dart, daughter of the late Carlos Dart, is seriously ill at Buffalo and a request of the New London police has been made to provide the young woman with the address of her brother, Frank W. Dart, who formerly resided in New London that the latter can be acquainted with his sister's condition. Dart has not been in New London for two years and he last known of his whereabouts was located in the west. [illegible] was in New London until [illegible] ten days ago. The request for the address of Dart was made Edward Harlock, 241 South Division street, Buffalo.

The first batch of tax bills for the levy of 1923 were mailed to property owners by Collector of Taxes Allen C. Richards Saturday and in practically every instance the taxpayer is called upon to pay a higher tax than ever before. The millage has been reduced, but the valuation of [illegible]s of the properties have been greatly increased.

An automobile owned and operated by Irving Friedman, 24 Asylum street, New [illegible] and a trolley car of the Groton & Stonington Traction company were in collision this evening on the west side of the Thames river [illegible] bridge. The automobile was [illegible]ed.

Peter Hoar, employed by Richard Davidson, submarine worker, had a close call from drowning Saturday night when he fell from the wharf of the Crystal Coal company into the Thames river. He was rescued by Watchman Linehan and John Hendry, [illegible] and bookkeeper, respectively employed by the coal company. Hoar went to the wharf shortly before 11 o'clock and had been drinking. In attempting to walk from the pier to a lighter moored at the wharf, Hoar missed his footing and tumbled into the river. Watchman Linehan heard Hoar's cries for help and throwing a rope to the foundering man, Hoar held fast. Linehan then secured the assistance of Hendry and a boatman and their combined efforts resulted in Hoar being hauled to the wharf.

Five laborers in the employ of the Central Vermont railroad are patients at Lawrence hospital, suffering from painful injuries sustained Saturday afternoon at the freight pier of the railroad in East New London. Samuel Markrzwk, Harrison street, sustained a fractural wound of the groin; Aleic Lituas, Quaker Hill, received a fractured right hip; John Buzanenski, Hill street, suffered a fractured arm; Joseph Jacklewski, Main street, Groton, general bruises and contusions and Tony Sologub, Quaker Hill, received lacerations of the scalp.

The men were at work in a freight car, which was being unloaded with freight for shipment on the company's steamer to New York. During the process of removing the freight, mostly heavy cases, a yard switch engine was engaged in shunting cars back and forth from the freight shed.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

New York, May 25.—(By the A. P.)—With legislative uncertainties still a restraining influence, industrial reports received in financial circles indicate that the recession in business still is going on. It is pointed out, however, that the decrease in production is now at a less rapid rate. Thus in the steel industry, output is now at about 60 per cent. of capacity. This is slightly lower, but the loss does not compare with that of the corresponding period in April.

Buying of steel products is light and the pig iron market is soft. Buyers are testing the iron market with inquiries, but show little disposition to close trades. On the other hand, it is stated that consumption of steel products is much larger than the current rate of deliveries. With existing large productive capacity steel makers are also less disposed to let prices sink below the cost of production than was the case before the war. Under these circumstances, the trade rather expects a waiting market to continue for a while longer.

Revised figures for automobile production during April show that the retirement from the rate of March was smaller than preliminary figures suggested. An output of 337,000 cars is only 3 per cent below the total for March. Progress has been made in production for sales and the results for the second quarter will be better in some instances than those for the first. Railroad car loading, which for many weeks have been affected by the slump in coal production, are now reflecting in increased measure the slackening of activity in the steel industry. Ore loading during the week ended May 10 were some 14,000 cars below those in the corresponding week last year. Coke loading, on the same basis, were more than 6,000 cars smaller. If these losses be added to those in coal shipments, the total shows a decrease of approximately 50,000 cars as compared with last year. These classifications therefore very nearly account for the decline in total loadings, which amounts to 65,500 cars.

Shipment of merchandise and less than carload freight continue to set new high records for the season of the year. Loadings of miscellaneous freight, however, are substantially below those of a year ago. Altogether, the figures reflect the curtailment of industrial activity but support the contention that trade in general is on a substantial basis.

MISSING BLIND MAN'S BODY FOUND IN THE RIVER

The body of Peter Semonchini of West Main street, East Great Plain, was found in about four feet of water along the shore of the Yantic river near the almshouse, Saturday afternoon, about 2 o'clock. The discovery was made by Charles Stasudavich of 9 Watercress avenue, who was told by his daughter that what looked to be a man's body could be seen in the river across from where he lived. He went to the spot to investigate. Charles P. Ells superintendent of the almshouse and Mr. Stasucavich got the body out of the water and onto the shore.

Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was notified and [illegible] investigation. He gave Cummings & Ring permission to remove the body to their undertaking rooms. Coroner Desmond and Chief George Linton were also notified of the discovery of the man's body.

Mr. Semonchini, who was 66 years old, had lived in this city for 20 years. He had been employed as a laborer until about a year ago when he became blind. He had been missing since Friday night. It is supposed the blind man walked into the river.

Of late Mr. Semonchini had been residing with Caesar Conti of West Main street, near East Great Plain. He leaves a brother in this city and has a wife in Italy who had been wanting him to return there.

Sixteen May Party Guests.

Miss Viola Lovell entertained sixteen guests at a May party at her home on Spring Garden avenue. There was music, dancing, instrumental selections and refreshments were served. The house was prettily decorated and the evening was enjoyed by all.

Nearly all the men accused of transporting alcohol through this city, who were arrested Thursday morning, obtained bonds after they were in the police court Saturday. Louis Elfenbein became the surety on several of the bonds and the National Surety company of New York qualified in the other cases. Two of the accused went to jail. All are held in bonds, also, to answer in the federal court under a charge of violation of the Volstead act, in having alcohol in their possession. [illegible] The defense put men made was that they did not realize the cargo their trucks were carrying, but they did not, in the opinion of those who heard the testimony, make [illegible] that defense. Con Kelly, a Boston man who claims to be [illegible] Despatch company, the owners of the trucks, was a smooth sort of witness and presented a story that was cleverly woven together. It was such, however, as would leave the court to believe that his drivers allowed the trucks to go out of their control into the possession and care of men they never before saw and whom they did not know, and who had no credentials to show authority or identity. These men, Kelly would have the court believe, were entrusted with trucks that did not belong to them and they were to load them with whatever they desired and then the Kelly drivers were to take the trucks to New York, without definite location at which they were to stop to deliver the loads. The Kelly drivers did not know the names of the consignees of the loads nor did they have information as to where the loads were to be handed over. They simply were, in the words of Kelly to operate the trucks to New York and there he met by some one. Kelly thought he remembered the name of Henry as having a place in [illegible] that he was uncertain.

Jacob Fellman of Norwich was in [illegible] it happened that he drove up to [illegible] on Bank street and parked his car right between two signs which forbade doing that sort of thing. Then Fellman went about his business and [illegible] and a half, during which Officer Courtney was [illegible] when Fellman would return and why he defied the ordinances as it were enacted to avoid just such [illegible] as Fellman had created. When Fellman returned he found a [illegible] automobile that summoned him to court. There he said he was [illegible] with business and did not see the signs. He said he came from a city where they had traffic ordinances but he was blind to the fact that signs directed him what to do when he came here. Judge Prince was lenient with him, because he did not observe the signs, and judgment was suspended.

When some women realize that they are better than men they spend a lot of time regretting the fact.

R. I. REDS WERE FIRST IN WEEK AT STORRS

The total production for the 29th week for the 100 pens in the laying contest at Storrs was 3955 eggs or a yield of about 57 per cent. This is 42 eggs more than last week's production, 259 eggs less than for last year and 420 eggs less than the eight years average without lights. The 1,000 hens have a grand total to date of 98,989 eggs which is 189 eggs more than the total for last year for the same period when light were used and 9316 eggs more than the eight year average total to date when lights were not used. A pen of Rhode Island Reds entered by Fernside Farm, Attleboro, Mass., was an easy first for the week with a production of 64 eggs. Merritt M. Clark's Barred Rocks from Brookfield Center, Conn., a pen of White Wyandottes owned by Harvey L. Byerly, Sharpsville, Pa., and a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Red Mount Farm at Franklin, Mass., all tied for second place with a record of 55 eggs each. White Leghorns entered by George B. [illegible] Rhode Island Reds [illegible] Mass., and a pen of White Wyandottes owned by [illegible] Mass., tied for fourth place with a record of 53 eggs each.

The time is approaching when the poultryman may find some of his chicks dying from eating rose chafers. These long legged, yellowish-brown beetles make their appearance during June and July. They feed on grape vines, roses and many other flowers, shrubs and trees. Not only chickens but ducklings, goslings and young turkeys have died from eating these insects and the losses due to [illegible] are increasing from year to year. Chicks up to [illegible] weeks of age may be killed by eating rose chafers although younger chicks are more susceptible to the poisonous principles in the bodies of these beetles. FRACTURED WEBPLATE CAUSED ONECO BRIDGE COLLAPSE

An official investigation conducted by engineers of the state highway department as to the cause of the collapse of the truss in the bridge at Oneco on March 14th has showed that an old fracture of an inner webplate, which developed previous to the accident, was responsible. That the fracture discovered was one of long standing was proven by the correction noticeable after the parts had been removed from the water.

Clarence Gates 20 of Moosup, lost his life in the accident when he was carried down into the water and drowned in the crash of a small motor truck which was standing with its front wheels on the edge of the bridge. A large truck which was crossing the bridge was also carried down into the water.

The bridge, designed to hold ten tons, had carried many loads in excess of the 1,000-pound load which it carried at the time of the collapse of one of the spans.

Following is the engineers' report on the matter which has been accepted by Commissioner John A. Macdonald:

On the day in qestion, there was a heavy snowstorm in the vicinity. The bridge was loaded with heavy snow. A maintenance crew were plowing snow in the vicinity of the bridge, and stopped just before crossing the bridge and ate their lunch at a store within two hundred feet of the bridge. The crew was in charge of Foreman Hugh Flock, who, on resumption of work, warned the drivers of the trucks that under no circumstances should two trucks be on the bridge at the same time.

The larger truck, being a three and one-half ton White weighing approximately 11,000 pounds, loaded with about one-half ton of stone on the rear end, and a little difficulty in starting; and the smaller truck being a Garford, weighing approximately 8,000 pounds, and unloaded, was used to push the larger truck to get it started. The small truck proceeded to the edge of the bridge, the front wheels being slightly over the bridge, as it was impossible, due to the snow, to determine [illegible] bridge ended. When the [illegible] was about three-quarters of the way across the bridge, one truss failed, causing the truck to slide [illegible] into the water. The other truck being partly over the edge of the [illegible] its front wheels could [illegible] and it slid into the first truck.

A close examination made at the time the truss was taken from the water revealed a [illegible] webplate of the top chord [illegible] fractured a [illegible] noticeable by the [illegible] ire. Also the [illegible] diagonal taking [illegible] fractured previous [illegible] which is also evident [illegible] fracture in the [illegible] top chord started on the bottom of the plate, running at an angle of about 30 degrees, following apparently the gauge line between [illegible] and then up. The other [illegible] overplate of the top chord [illegible] show any signs of fracture. The [illegible] fracture was no doubt the cause of the collapse.

The bridge was designed to carry a [illegible] tons with an allowance for impact and the dead load produced by the wooden floor. To assure safety, all members were made strong enough to carry four times the loads before there was actually any danger of collapse.

Last winter a motor car in passing the bridge, struck one of the trusses. This, however, had apparently no effect upon the same, as a close investigation did not reveal any defects.

No reports have ever been received that the bridge was in need of repair, or had any doubt ever been expressed as to the strength. To the contrary, the steel of the trusses, floor system, the wooden stringers and planking appeared to be in excellent condition. The abutments on which the bridge rested, were built of granite and in good condition, although the down-stream side of the walls had settled in previous years about eight inches. This, however, was no cause for alarm. The bridge had been in use for many years and heavy loads had passed over it without the slightest sign of defect; therefore, the collapse of the bridge came unexpectedly.

The circumstances of the collapse were very peculiar. Only one truss failed, while the other stood unmoved in its original position. The steel floor beams with floor, were [illegible] one side still attached to the truss and rested with the other end upon the bank.

Great care was taken in removing the truss so as not to destroy any evidence which might help to clear up the cause of the fail[illegible]. The bridge was not overloaded at the time of the collapse and was in excellent condition as far as could be determined. Only an excessive vibration which might be caused through the members to the old fracture could possibly cause its collapse.

About ten years ago, the bridge as examined and strengthened so as to be absolutely safe. It had been properly maintained, and the highway department had no reason to believe that the bridge was not as good as new.

The trucks were not in any way connected together, and the load on the bridge at any time, did not exceed the load for which it was posted. If had been carrying loads much in excess of those that were placed on it at the time of its collapse.

This bridge had been under the highway department's jurisdiction only since July 1st. Previous to that time it was owned and maintained by the town.

MISS MIRIAM WALLER GOES ON THE STAGE

Forsaking her position as supervisor of music in the Summit (N. J.) high school, for the stage, Miss Miriam D. Waller, granddaughter of the late ex-Governor Thomas M. Waller of New London, is now playing an important part in the light opera, Robin Hood, which was opened recently in Cincinnati for an indefinite run by the Aborn Opera company. Miss Waller, who is just past her "teens," has made remarkable strides in the musical field. In signing up with the company she is following in the footsteps of her uncle, John M. Waller of New London and New York, whose theatrical career has found him in the casts of many Broadway successes, the latest being Rain.

In making the change Miss Waller decided that the stage held greater opportunities for the display of her beautiful mezzo-soprano voice which until a year ago she regarded as secondary to the piano and her musical compositions.

SUCCESSFUL FOOD SALE BY SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The Sunday school class taught by Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg at the Central Baptist church, held a successful food sale at the store at No. 45 Broadway, Saturday. Mrs. Hagberg was in charge of the sale and those who assisted her were Misses Eleanor Moore, Emily Hill, Dorothy Slatterwick, Emeline Chapman, Elizabeth Noyes, June Woods, Winifred Ballou, Dorothy Spencer, Dorothy Packer, Marion Dennison and Edna Hastings.

Burial in Windham, N. H.

The body of Mrs. Samuel Anderson, who died February 5th at her home at 170 Broadway, was taken to Windham, N. H., Saturday, and burial took place in that town. The body was accompanied by members of the family and other relatives. Rev. Frank B. Crandall of the Episcopal church at Ayer, Mass., conducted the service at the grave. The body was taken to New Hampshire by automobile cortege. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY SERMON TO NORWICH PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS

The members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, Sedgwick Camp, Sons of Veterans and Clara Barton Tent, Daughters of Veterans, were numbered in the large congregation at the Memorial Service Sunday morning at the First Baptist church. The members of the four patriotic organizations attended in a body upon invitation of the minister, Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, and occupied pews reserved for them in the center of the church. Rev. Mr. Dunbar took his text from Joshua 4:21,22—When your children shall ask their fathers in times to come, saying what means these stones? Then ye shall let your children know.

Memorials of Today was the subject of Rev. Mr. Dunbar's sermon. In part he said:

"Memorial tablets and monuments bear the testimony of man's appreciation of the past. A visitor to Norwich wishes to see the historic sights. One visiting Boston desires to see the monuments erected in that historic city, and actually stand on the spot where once stood a noted character or where some great battle was fought. A visit to Lexington Green and Concord immediately recalls to some degree the patriotism of our forefathers. Old Charlestown brings to mind a battle where many young men and boys fought a trained army. A visit to Petersburg, Va., and vicinity is testimony to our Northern heroism and Southern ideals, which to them was even dearer than life. The mound hole on the hill outside of that city is mute testimony of the Battle of the Crater, where Northern men undermined the Southern fortifications. When one sees the old Appomattox Court House it recalls an important event in American History.

In addition to monuments and memorials man has set aside days of special significance to render honor and homage. The old Israelite observed his Passover Feast, to celebrate his freedom from slavery. The [illegible] observes Christmas as a [illegible] of the birth of his Lord [illegible] July points especially to [illegible] independence of our country. November eleventh is the anniversary [illegible] close of the world war. On Memorial Day special honor is intended for those who fought for the freedom of the black race and the cause of a united government. These days in themselves mean nothing. The monuments may be simply carved stone or sculptured marble. Bunker Hill monument is only a granite shaft but it stands in honor of men who fought for a principle. These principles we must teach to our children. Memorial Day stands not as a day of freedom from [illegible] but for the sacrifices and ideals of [illegible] 1861.

Memorial Day means that [illegible] national crisis the American has stood the test. The time of proving a [illegible] worth is not when the sun is [illegible] and [illegible] are fair. When the [illegible] of life and temptations come [illegible] testing time. The true American [illegible] the man who responds to [illegible] and principles of America, when [illegible] in danger. In passing one regrets to say that some who claim one hundred per cent Americanism do not always meet the test. As one looks back through the years of past history when these ideals and principles were challenged, the American accepted the challenge, whether in national or international relationships. In regard to the wars of the past, I believe America fought for principle. Three convictions wrought the decision. These convictions were 1. The religious sense of Godly principles. 2. The love of liberty. 3. A deep sense of Justice.

A man without principle is a negative quality in our civilization. He is the one who destroys what others build. It is only natural that we have these principles in our being because of the heritage we have received from our past. Our forefathers placed great dependence upon God. Their faith was constant. So long as our faith remains in him as the director of life our citizenship will be secure and progressive. Just so soon as we leave him to shift for ourselves our ship of state will be destroyed. Destroyed not by enemies from without but by enemies from within. This faith in God comes home very forcibly when we read of an interview Roger Babson had with the president of the Argentine Republic. Mr. Babson and the president had had lunch together. They were sitting in the sun parlor of the president's home. The president was very thoughtful, then said, "Mr. Babson, I have been wondering why it is that South America with all its great natural advantages is so far behind North America, notwithstanding that South America was settled before North America." Then he went on to describe the large forests of South America. Its great plains for agriculture were pictured. A description of the wealth of the mines of that country followed, coal, iron, copper, silver and gold. She has great streams and water power which rival Niagara. Again came the question "Why is it with all these resources, South Amer. is so far behind North America?" Mr. Babson asked, "What do you think is the reason?" The president replied, "I have come to the conclusion that South America was settled by the Spanish who came in search of gold, but North America was settled by the Pilgrim Fathers who went there in the search of God."

The American loves liberty. He has fought and died to gain it. You men fought and some of your number died to retain it. The men of the World War fought and many died to give it to the world. We have believed in the liberty of the many and not of the few. Our laws have been made to that end.

The American has a deep sense of justice. It is without doubt an outgrowth of the love of liberty. Most of our laws are because of this feeling. It is at the bottom o the Monroe Doctrine. It has been one of the principles of entering into war, with one possible exception. The story coming out of the late war shows how this sense of justice can and does reign in every true patriot's heart. It is told of a British officer, but is true to our ideal. During a fierce engagement this officer saw a German caught in the barbed wire, writhing in agony. The fire was dreadful yet he remained alive. At length the officer could no longer stand it. He left his trench under the hail of shell, reached the German and released him, took him on his shoulders and carried him to the German trench. The firing had ceased. Both sides watched the act with wonder. Then the commander of the German trench came forward, took from his own breast the iron cross and pinned it upon the breast of the British officer.

Memorial Day teaches us that democracy and brotherhood rest upon tremendous sacrifice. This truth one sees in all phases of life. Take the home for instance, two young people meet and form the beginning of the family. To have a truly democratic home sacrifice is necessary on the part of both. A certain amount of freedom has to be given up. Drudgery comes to test the depth of our sacrifice. After a time further sacrifices of time, money and energy are necessary because of the new members in the home. These sacrifices are absolutely necessary for if they are not made the home soon breaks up.

True democracy in a city must have an element of sacrifice. We are at the present time beginning a clean-up week program. It means that all will have to sacrifice time and energy to make our city more clean.

Memorial Day more especially calls to our minds the sacrifices that men and women have made for freedom and democracy. Now is the time for us as a nation to show our gratitude to the men whose valor has won us this victory. Now is the time to remember the unparalled devotion of the women. Our soldiers of the land know the cost of sacrifice. Some paid more than others, but all were ready to pay "the last full measure of devotion" if necessary. It is the spirit of sacrifice that makes an asset for the country. Luxury at times seems to be the desire of all people, but luxury is the rotting force which undermines the underpinning of our national structure. Luxury breeds selfishness. It has wrecked nations in the past: Rome, Greece and Carthage are illustrations. It prevented people of the first century from accepting Christ and his program of living. It lead to the dark ages. Sacrifice made, with God's help, the United States of America. Memorial Day brings this home to us.

Memorial Day carries a teaching of world democracy and world brotherhood. There is only one truth for all. The law of love is the same for all peoples. Translate the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians into French, Russian or German and the truth of love is not changed. The story of the good Samaritan is for the Gentile to read as well as the Jew, for the white man as well as for the black. If liberty or justice is right for one race of people it must be right for all races. If democracy is the truth of people living in the United States, it is for all other races who want it.

The day of the hermit has past. We live in a world of relationships. All of us are dependent upon others. It is likewise true of nations. Brotherhood of nations is becoming an established fact. A nation which says it is isolated from the world becomes a deluded naton. What is her gain is another's loss and eventually she must pay the price. Germany attempted it and she is now paying or as some think, avoiding the payment. America is dependent upon others as other nations are dependent upon us.

If freedom is for us in the United States. It must be for the world as well. First came the struggle to get it for ourselves. Then came the struggle for you who wore the blue uniform to retain it and give it to another race. Our boys in khaki shared it with brothers of other nations across the sea.

If we are to teach our children the readiness of America to meet a crisis that democracy depends upon sacrifice and that democracy is for the world, and if these are a part of the ideals you and others struggled to keep, then there is one other thing to be taught and it is this, expressed in the words of Coloner McCrae: "To you from falling hands, we throw the torch: be yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die. We shall not sleep tho' poppies plow in Flanders' Field."

We must pass on the ideals which have come to us. These ideals purchased with the blood of men who fell for the freedom of all. The victories of yours we must conserve and build upon with new victories which will be for us to win.

The greatest tribute we can pay to our soldier dead is to make sacrifice as they made, unnecessary and impossible. To make the victories of the past secure, our victory must be one of peace and the only program that will win this is that of the Man of Nazareth "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind and with all thy strength. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

SOCIAL WORKERS' COUNCIL SAW MANSFIELD SCHOOL

The Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties and Psychiatric Social Workers' [illegible] Connecticut held a joint meeting [illegible] week at the Mansfield State [illegible] School and Hospital, upon the invitation of Dr. Charles T. LaMoure, the superintendent, and Mrs LaMoure.

Mrs. LaMoure entertained [illegible] most delightfully at a [illegible] at her home. After the [illegible] visitors were conducted through the institution by Dr. LaMoure and members of the staff.

In the school building classes were seen at work, in which [illegible] instruction is given in regular kindergarten and grade work, in the occupational classes where rug-making, embroidery, sewing and basketry are taught, and in the newly equipped domestic science room for the girls and manual training room for the boys. Music plays a prominent part in the training of the children at the school, and one of the most interesting features was the gymnasium drill to the accompaniment of the orchestra.

A visit was made to the congregate dining room and the kitchen and to some of the dormitories and "day rooms."

The invitation to visit the school was greatly appreciated by the members of the two clubs, most of whom had no opportunity to see at first hand the work being done to make the mentally retarded and the epileptic of the state happy, useful citizens. Although they are well acquainted with the work, Mr. Miss Lillian Gray and Miss Florence Williams, the psychiatric social workers of the school, are also members of both societies.

The Social Workers' council held a brief business meeting at which five new members were elected. It was announced that the June meeting will be held at the State Farm for Women as guests of Miss Hazzard. The annual business meeting will be held at that time.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION READ AT ST. PATRICK'S

From the pulpit at St. Patrick's [illegible] at the three masses Sunday, the proclamation of Mayor Milo R. Waters requesting the observance of this week as Clean-up Week was read and endorsed.

It was the fifth Sunday after Easter, the gospel read in all the masses [illegible] John 15: 22-27, beginning "Be [illegible] of the word, not hearers [illegible]." The gospel was John 16, 23-30, [illegible] the Saviour emphasizes the [illegible] His name with the Father. Preaching at the 9 o'clock mass to a congregation [illegible] 2,000, Rev. Myles P. Galvin [illegible] another in his series of sermons upon the Fourth commandment, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother," [illegible] time taking up the duties of children [illegible] their parents.

[illegible] of all and applying every other obligation—is that of love. It [illegible] instinct of even pagan and heathen children to manifest love toward the parents who have reared them, sacrificed so much for them, perhaps left themselves old and destitute through their efforts to insure social and educational advantages for their offspring. How great the duty then to express by word and act gratitude and affection for parents was strongly put before Christian children, who realize that their parents are, in truth, the representatives of God, in so far as their children are concerned. Whether at home or under their own roof, children in the congregation were warned not to neglect this duty of affection and gratitude, if they would avoid remorse and sorrow, when at last death shall take their parents from them.

That the great number of weekly confessions in this parish is keeping up well during this Eastertide—which continues until Trinity Sunday, June 15—was proved by the many men, women and children who received holy communion at the mass from Father Galvin, or from Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, who assisted him.

God Save the People

When wilt Thou save the people?
O God of mercy, when?
Not kings and lords, but nations!
Not thrones and crowns, but men!
Flowers of Thy heart, O God, are they Let them not pass, like weeds, away,
Their heritage a sunless day.
God save the people!

Shall crime bring crime forever,
Strength aiding still the strong?
Is it Thy will, O Father,
That man shall toil for wrong?
No! say Thy mountains, No! Thy skies
Man's clouded sun shall brightly rise,
And songs ascend instead of sighs
God save the people!

When wilt Thou save the people?
O, god of mercy, when?
The people, Lord, the people,
Not thrones and crowns, but men!
God save the people; let them share
Childhood and love with angels fair;
From sin and bondage and despair,
God save the people!

Can We Forget

Let us wander back a few short years,
To bygone days in France.
We see the hordes of grey clad Boche
In solid lines advance.
We also see the shell torn towns,
And hear the cannon's roar,
The shattered homes, the ruined shrines,
Thank God, we've peace once more

We see the forms in No Man's Land
And ghostly they appear,
We hear the ping the bullets sing
That get some buddy dear.
From gaping wounds by shrapnel [illegible]
We see the life blood flow,
Scarlet as the Poppy,
The Poppy we all know.

Let's not forget the lost ones,
Who gave all for the cause,
All those that did their very best
When going through hell's jaws.
Memorial Day is drawing near,
Now do your very best,
Prove you're true Americans,
Wear a Buddy Poppy on your breast.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

President Coldge signed the immigration bill.

The tax bill was approved by the house and sent to the president.

Charles W. Hunt, of Iowa, was nominated to be a member of the federal trade commission.

Phillip Grossman confined despite executive clemency, asked the supreme court to release him on bail.

The senate agriculture committee reconsidered its vote on the Ford bid and will ballot again tomorrow.

The Daugherty committee heard details of the activities of detectives who have been drawn into the case.

The supreme court held that municipalities may prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors upon physicians' prescriptions.

Notice was served in the senate that adjournment would be opposed unless farm aid and other similar legislation was enacted.

Contributions to campaign committees in the forthcoming presidential and congressional elections would be required to be published every ten days under an amenyment adopted by the senate to the postal salaries bill.

DECLINE TO CHANGE THE APOSTLE'S CREED

Springfield, Mass., May 26.—A proposal to change the Apostle's Creed, substituting the words "Christ's holy church," for "the Holy Catholic church," was rejected by a close margin at the Methodist Episcopal general conference here today.

"A protest that is almost a rebellion," the Rev. J. W. Abel, of Oklahoma, said in supporting the resolution, is coming up from our people against the use of the word 'Catholic.' Dr. George Elliott of Detroit asserted that the proposed change in the oldest confessional in the Christian church would tend to separate the Methodist church from other evangelical churches.

"It is our own fault if the word 'Catholic' has the wrong [illegible] to the people," Dr. Elliott continued. "'Catholic' in its real sense is all-inclusive, it is the word 'Roman' that excludes."

The Rev. William G. Alston, a negro delegate from Louisiana defended the use of the words "Holy Catholic" in the creed was driving negroes from the churches.

"No one thing has given me so much trouble all my my life as those two words," he added.

"I won't give up my family name because its some one else's," the Rev. Abram W. Harris, of the Maine delegation, secretary of the board of education said. "Let us demand and keep the heritage of the last. The word 'Catholic' carries us back to the very beginning of the Christian church. Don't lay your hands upon that past. I stand for the creed as my father said it and as I want my son to say it."

WOMAN SUES JACK KEARNS FOR $200,000 FOR ASSAULT

Los Angeles, Calif., May 26.—Mary C. Tenney, of Los Angeles today filed a $200,000 suit for damages against Jack Kearns, manager for Jeck Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, alleging criminal assault May 3.

Of the sum demanded in the suit $100,000 is asked for actual damage caused by mental anguish and $100,000 punitive damages.

The complaint alleges the plaintiff was overcome by force and the use of narcotic drugs.

Mrs. Tenney, who is a motion picture "extra" is known in Hollywood as Frances Mary Emerson.

Some time ago the district attorney's office investigated the woman's charges against Kearns and refused to issue a complaint against Kearns on the grounds that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant such action.

SHENANDOAH MADE FLIGHT TO PHILADELPHIA

Lakehurst, N. J., May 26—Although a storm warning caused postponement of the mooring mast test which was to have been given the giant dirigible Shenandoah tonight, the smaller and non-rigid ship, the J-3, successfully completed a flight to Philadelphia, returning by way of Trenton.

Lieutenant C. H. Hall, who commanded the ship, expressed complete satisfaction with its conduct and pronounced it in excellent condition for the demonstration to be held here Saturday.

WRITER OF POPULAR SONGS, THEODORE MORSE, DEAD

New York, May 26—Theodore Morse, composer of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and other popular songs, died suddenly last night, it became known today. He was 53 years old.

Other songs written by Mr. Morse were "Mother," "Blue Bells," and "Dear Old Girl." Up to the time he became ill he had been in Washington where with Victor Herbert, John Philip Sousa and other composers he was seeking to prevent the broadcasting of musical compositions by radio without permission of the authors.

Tax Reduction Bill Reaches White House

House Adopted, 376 to 9, the Conference Compromise on the Main Provisions.

Washington, May 26.—The tax reduction bill was put up to President Coolidge for final enactment into law today by congress.

Like the senate, the house by an overwhelming majority approved the conference compromise on the main provisions. The vote was 376 to 9.

An early decision by the president was forecast by those close to him on the basis of his insistent demands that congress hasten action on tax reduction.

Mr. Coolidge had asked congress for the bill proposed by Secretary Mellon, turned down almost entirely in the framing of the pending measure but has let it be known he will consider the latter on its merits as compared with the present law. In this connection Secretary Mellon indicated today he considered the bill on the whole an improvement over the present law.

Within a few minutes after the measure had reached the White House it was sent to the treasury secretary for study. Mr. Mellon expects to have a report con[illegible] on [illegible] of the bill in the [illegible] the president late tomorrow or Wednesday. It was indicated he would confine his report to a comparison of the measure with the present law without definite recommendations.

The bill provides [illegible] reduction on [illegible] taxes [illegible] year; permanent [illegible] of the [illegible] income, miscellaneous and excise taxes; additional [illegible] this year of 25 per cent. on earned incomes of $10,000 and under, and numerous changes in the administrative provisions [illegible] proposed by the treasury.

Measures carrying the [illegible] proposal for [illegible] rates, the bill was [illegible] by leaders of both parties in the house as [illegible] done also in the senate [illegible] and [illegible]

Chairman Green [illegible] means committee, [illegible] measures to [illegible] provide [illegible] sent [illegible] [illegible] bill cut taxes [illegible] proposed [illegible] Mellon plan. Mr. Green added:

Several Mellon plan advocates from the republi[illegible] the measure on [illegible] provision for [illegible] would permit [illegible] amount of tax [illegible] [illegible] when the [illegible] proposed [illegible] tax [illegible]

The [illegible] negative votes were cast by Representatives Fenn, Merritt and Tilson, of Connecticut; Hill, of Maryland; McFadden and Phillips, of Pennsylvania; Mills and Wainright of New York, and Moores, of Indiana, all republicans.

CHICAGO POLICE CONTINUE SEARCH FOR KIDNAPER

Chicago, May [illegible] Detectives hunting the kidnapers of Robert Franks, 13 year old son of a Chicago millionaire whose [illegible] body was found in a swamp last Thursday after demand for a $10,000 ransom had been made, were searching for a man who answers in nearly every detail the hypothetical description of one of the kidnapers built up by the police from fragments of evidence.

"For a time late today it was thought that the man south was responsible in an apartment hotel building on the South side where [illegible] apartment room. Squads of detectives were rushed to the [illegible] and made a thorough search [illegible] of the [illegible] aided them.

The man, short, [illegible] exceedingly nervous about five feet [illegible] inches tall and weighing 140 [illegible] 145 pounds excites the suspicions of the apartment hotel clerk when he applied for a room. The clerk said he appeared about 30 years old and wore tortoise shell spectacles. When the clerk informed him there was no roof available, the man said he had to get in off the street, [illegible] but was followed and entered a room [illegible] building. Detectives hurried to the scene and searched every building in the block but failed to find their man.

AGITATION AGAINST THE PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

Paris, May [illegible] The agitation to compel President Millerand to resign is dealt with today in an editorial in the semi-official Temps which says it hitherto has refrained from commenting on the subject, thinking the agitation was the outcome of "unbalanced ambitions due to the unexpected success of the opposition in the elections.

Noting that certain sections of the new majority declares that the results of the voting on May 11 necessarily involve a presidential crisis, the Temps declares the agitation to be a purely political movement against the man who personifies principles which the "revolutionary and international spirit" that animates these sections cannot endure. The editorial article maintains that President Millerand has never infringed the constitution in letter or spirit, whereas his enemies would deal the constitution an irreparable blow if the elections to the chamber should be held to have annulled the choice of the national assembly, comprising both the chamber and the senate.

THREE PERSONS PLEADED NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Springfield, Mass., May 26.—Three persons entered pleas of not guilty to murder indictments in supreme court here late today, constituting the largest number to face the court on that charge at one time in Hampden county. They are John H. Burns, former Holyoke policeman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Magdaline Milloszek, Stanley Zalewska, charged with the murder of Sophie Cupek, and Manuel Perry, alias Perlera, of Holyoke, charged with killing Charles Costa.

President Signs The Immigration Bill

New Law Further Restricts Immigration After June 30 —Excludes Japanese.

Washington, May 26.—Deploring its provision for Japanese exclusion but heartily approving its main features, President Coolidge today signed the immigration bill.

Steps were taken immediately by the department of labor to prepare for administration of the new law, which provides for further restriction of immigration after June 30, when the existing quota law expires, and for total exclusion of Japanese immigration after that date.

The president approved the bill reluctantly, issuing a statement after he had affixed his signature in which he said he considered the imposition of severing from the exclusion provision which the late Secretary Hughes had opposed [illegible] during the course of the bill on through congress.

"[illegible] is [illegible] disagreement [illegible] but this method of [illegible] necessary and [illegible] the president said, "and [illegible] the exclusion section [illegible] provision [illegible] approved [illegible]

An eleven mill tax payable June 16th was levied on the grand list of the city at a special meeting held in the town hall Monday evening. At the session, which was attended by less than 100 taxpayers including several women, Acting Mayor George Hickey presided. City Clerk James F. Dongan read the warning. The meeting was considered a novel one in that no add'ess from speakers were entertaining. A detailed analysis of the city's expenses and th esummary of its sources of income were given by corporation Counsel Thomas J. Kelley. Counsel Kelley entered a motion that sufficient resident tax be laid so the indebtedness for the fiscal year could be paid in full. The motion was carried and appropriations were made for $2,62,005.20 which in addition to $15,600 in water bonds which comes in October, brings the total indebtedness to $196,712.12. A sinking fund established some time ago now amounts to $46,298.98 which will be used toward paying off the water bonds. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

Norman Ross stirred the imagination of the fishermen hereabouts when he put a trout that weighed 2 pounds and a half on exhibition here Monday and entered it for the Danielson Rod and Gun club prize offered to a member catching the largest trout of the present season in a Windham county stream. The trout was a beauty in the most comprehensive sense of the term meaning only colored, prettily mottled coat and measuring every requirement for the perfect trout.

Mr. Ross, who is still in his 'teens, happens to be the young man who won the Rod and Gun club's first prize during the 1923 trout season with a trout that weighed two pounds, two and one-half ounces. The fish he displayed Monday tops that winner and is by far the largest trout yet entered for the 1924 prize. Should he again win the prize, he will be congratulated as a fisherman of exceptional skill as well as one who knows the big ones, or was—where did he catch it? Well that may not be told for all the world to know, though the location is well less than ten miles from Danielson.

PUTNAM

Sacred Heart church, West Thompson, was filled, Monday morning, by friends and relatives to witness the marriage of Arthur J. Broduer, son of Mrs. Joseph Plessis of Putnam, and Miss Celina Bernier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bernier, of West Thompson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Donahue, who recently succeeded the late Father Elty. After the nuptial mass, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was gowned in white and wore a veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses. Miss Dora Bernier, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of blue trimmed with orange, and a black hat trimmed with blue. She also carried roses. Arthur Jette of Putnam was best man.

Mr. Broduer is one of the popular young men of the north end of the city and is president of the Canadian Athletic club. He is employed by Whipple & Gilpatric, Providence street. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Broduer will reside in Putnam. The bride received many elegant gifts.

Clarence Booth, for the past two years professional golf expert at the Putnam Country club, will be one of the 200 participants in the preliminaries for the National open golf championship, this season. The matches will be played in Worcester. Mr. Booth will play his round Tuesday morning at 9.10 o'clock and a number of local club members will be present to watch Booth's match. A total of 40 participants who have entered are expected to qualify for the finals, to be played in Detroit. Putnam club members expect Mr. Booth to be among those in the finals in Detroit as he is a steady player and drives an especially long ball.

Dr. Louis R. Brown of Little Rock, Ark., has been in Putnam to visit his mother, Mrs. Annie Brown, of Church street. He left Monday for Atlantic City, where he will attend a medical convention.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Wheelock were in Hartford, Saturday, to attend the wedding of Miss Marjorie Lake, daughter of ex-Governor Everett Lake.

Ernest L. Davis has returned from spending the week-end at his cottage on Lord's Point.

There was a meeting of members of the Arcanum club at the club rooms Monday night. A report by a committee gratifying to club members was to the effect that $1,000 had been raised, to be used in improving the club house and grounds.

It has been learned that during the thunder shower, Saturday night, the freight depot was nearly set on fire by a bolt of lightning that entered the building. The lightning struck the ball on the flag pole, knocking the ball to the ground, then took a downward course and apparently passed into the building on the electric light wires. Inside the building it was found that in several places the insulation had been stripped from the wires, fuses blown out and the fuses in the fuse box scattered over the floor. Several places were found where woodwork in close proximity to the wires was charred. The building is a barn-like structure and had it caught fire in the night would have burned to the ground. There was little freight in the building, as it is generally cleaned up by consignees before the depot closes.

The assembly hall at the municipal building was filled Monday morning, 43 of the gathering being men under arrest and the remaining two hundred being curious spectators. The cases were those of 43 Polish men taken in a raid on the Polish Alliance club, on School street, the night of May 12th. Two of the number were charged with illegally possessing intoxicating liquor while the remaining 41 were charged with being frequenters of a place where intoxicating liquor was sold.

The time of court is 9 o'clock but it was after half past that hour when the judge and counsel in the cases took their places. The names of the 43 defendants were called and all but two responded. The absentees were John Manski of Webster and Tony Hajdin of Danielson. Each had posted cash bonds of $25 and this they forfeited.

Prosecuting Attorney Carpenter took as the first case Stanley Loczak, charged with owning and keeping liquors with intent to sell. John Ryan, Putnam police officer, was to be the first witness, but when his name was called he failed to respond. Attorney E. C. Morse, one of counsel for the defendants, stated to the court that at 8 o'clock that morning he had seen Patrolman Ryan dressed in fishing togs, with rubber boots and fishpole, at the corner of South Main and Grove street, apparently going fishing. Attorney Carpenter stated to the court that Ryan was needed to identify the accused as having been present in the Polish Alliance club rooms on the night of the raid. Officers were sent out to see if they could locate the missing policeman witness, but returned unsuccessful.

Following this, there was a lengthy conference between the judge, prosecuting attorney and counsel for the defendants. It was after the noon hour, and most of the spectators had left the building, when court reconvened with counsel apparently agreed upon the mode of procedure.

John Tyburski, president of the Polish Alliance club, pleaded guilty to keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to sell. He was fined $25 and ordered to pay costs of $24.89, which he did. Following this all of the other cases were dismissed and all cash bonds were returned to those who had put money up.

The affair has caused a great deal of comment and interest. Saturday night, May 12th, near midnight, state police officers with officers of the Putnam police department, possessed of a search warrant, went to the rooms of the Polish club where a public dance was in progress. The officers found evidence that liquor was being sold and found a reserve supply under a wood pile in the cellar. Liquor, containers and glasses were taken away by the officers.

The orchestra had become still and the animated dancers, more or less frightened, stood by, after being told they could not leave the place. The women were allowed to depart but some had husbands, others sweethearts, and they lingered. All of the men were taken to the police station where their names were listed. A bond of $25 was required of each man charged with being a frequenter and two men charged with violation of the prohibition law furnished $500 each. The cases came up for the first time the following Monday. The defendants secured as counsel a firm of Polish lawyers, Jablonski & Siarkiewicz, of Worcester, and Attorney Ernest C. Morse of Putnam. All but one of those whose names had been listed responded to his name Monday morning, the one man being reported ill. On request of the prosecuting attorney the cases were adjourned for two weeks and this week Monday morning were disposed of as stated above.

Henry LaBonte of this city was considerably injured, Sunday afternoon, when, at Oakland, R. I., he was hurled from his motorcycle when it was in collision with an automobile bearing a Rhode Island registration. Thomas F. Kelley, who was riding on the rear of LaBonte's machine, leaped off when he realized that a collision was inevitable. LaBonte said Monday that he was just driving out onto the highway from the ball field and keeping the machine moving only fast enough to maintain its balance when the car came along and hit him. The Rhode Island car did not stop, but he obtained the number and it has been reported to the proper authorities in Providence. LaBonte was bruised considerably and is under the care of a physician. Kelley was uninjured.

Sunday afternoon on the new stretch of state highway between West Thompson and Grosvenordale Theodore Tetreault of Smith street, this city, riding a motorcycle was in collision with an automobile driven by Napoleon Desauiniers of Grosvenordale. Tetreault was buried off his machine and cut on an arm and leg. He also was considerably bruised. The machines that figured in the accident were somewhat damaged.

This is the last week during which delinquent taxpayers may make a settlement with Town Tax Collector Irving H. Miron and escape paying the 9 per cent. charges that will be affixed hereafter, these interest charges to date back to May 1. Those who pay by next Saturday will escape paying interest. To date, Mr. Miron has collected upwards of $90,000 out of a total of $133,000 that is due on the grand list last completed.

County Agent F. L. Davis stated Monday that the following is the county committee appointed in the Windham County Farmers' association membership campaign: John Z. LaBelle, Killingly; C. J. Jewett, Hampton; Clarence Salmon, Brooklyn; Thomas Marra, George Cook, Windham; John R. Stromberf, Abington.

PLAINFIELD

The Boy Scouts of Troop No. 1, met at the Congregational church Monday evening and Saturday afternoon of last week, and cleaned up the lawn. The work around the church is practically completed, the building and the grounds being greatly improved in appearance by the removal of all rubbish.

Work is proceeding around the town on the Y. M. C. A. campaign for funds to carry on the work for the present year. The budget for the whole of Windham county is $7350, each town having its own quota and each village of this town having its separate quota.

Samuel Clegg, who has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beckett, died suddenly Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Frederick Lyon was in Providence Monday.

Plans have been completed for the observance of Memorial day, Friday, arrangements having been made to follow out the same procedure as in previous years. The organizations which are to participate in the parade, among them being the D. A. R., the veterans of the Grand Army, the American Legion, the Boy Scouts and others, will meet at the town hall in Central Village at 8 o'clock (standard time.) First on the of march will be Evergreen cemetery, where the graves of the soldiers who have given up their lives for their country, will be decorated, with the Rev. Mary F. Macomber speaking.

From there, the procession will move to All Hallows church in Moosup, where the beautiful memorial shaft will be decorated, after which the machines will go to Moosup cemetery, where Rev. Leon G. Wells will officiate. Next on the line of march will be Packer, where prayer will be offered by Rev. J. W. Higgins, this being the seventeenth year that Mr. Higgins has officiated at this service at Packer.

The last cemetery visited will be at Plainfield, where Rev. William C. Prentiss will officiate. Dinner will be served to those participating in the parade at St. Paul's Episcopal church, at 11:30, by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The patriotic women of the town are to meet at the town hall Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock (daylight saving time) to make wreaths for decorating the soldiers' graves.

The members of Loyal Lovingstone Lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U., of this village had as guests about two hundred members of others lodges of the Manchester Unity, Friday to witness the initiation of a class of 24 candidates for membership in the local lodge. The work was done by the team from Bud of Hope Lodge, No. 6557, I. O. O. F. M. U., of Providence, R. I., one of the best teams in the country, and the initiation and the floor work were considered by all present the best exhibition of this sort ever seen here.

At five o'clock, 150 of the guests from out of town were entertained at dinner at Saint Paul's Episcopal church. Following the dinner, the company assembled at the Community House from which, at 5.45 p. m., the parade started, headed by the Plainfield Military band, and comprised all the Odd Fellows present.

The line of march included the principal streets of the village, and concluded at the Community House, where the remainder of the program was carried out.

In the auditorium soon after the parade, the initiation open only to lodge members, was worked by the Bud of Hope team. The floor work which followed, was open to the ladies who accompanied the Odd Fellows, and over 500 were present to see the expert floor work done by the Bud of Hope lodge. All the intricate manoeuvres were executed without a slip, making a spectacle acclaimed by all who saw.

After the formal work there was dancing, to excellent music by the Bud of Hope orchestra.

During the ceremonial part of the program, John Wilkes, of Providence, who was to sail for England Sunday morning, was called to the stage, and presented a small gift from his friends, in view of his near departure, and to show their esteem for him. The presentation address was made by Grand Master of the United States Goodman. Another feature of the program was a vocal solo by D. J. Stein, of Providence. During the evening, the door award, a ten dollar gold piece was given to Thomas Wilson.

Doctor Says Newer Form of Iron Will Increase Strength of Many Delicate People 100% in 10 Days

In Many Instances—Persons Have Suffered Untold Agony for Years Doctoring for Nervous Weakness, Stomach, Liver or Kidney Disease or Some Other Ailment When Their Real Trouble Was Lack of Iron in the Blood—How to Tell.

New York, N.Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, a New England Physician who has studied both in this country and in great European Medical Institutions said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron, and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run-down, and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night, others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases, it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what anyone tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained.

I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the time greatly increase and even double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time, simply by taking this newer form of iron, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like iron to put color in your cheeks and good sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood-builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined peoples' teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of this newer form of iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is usually almost immediately beneficial."

NOTE.—The above company is known to be thoroughly reliable. Over 4,000,000 packages of Nuxated Iron are sold annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U. S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

THE CITY TICKET.

Next Monday the annual city election will be held. All elections are important, but because it is the year when the mayor will be elected it is to be expected that more interest will be manifested.

Good to any community is a progressive city government, a government that meets the requirements in a prompt and efficient manner, a government that is considerate of public expenditures and one that insists upon economy while providing service.

For the head of the city government for the next two years the republicans have placed in nomination Edmund W. Perkins, who while not having been actively engaged in politics [illegible] lifelong resident, a [illegible] possible governor [illegible] is equipped to [illegible] and businesslike [illegible] his qualifications are [illegible]

[illegible] or members of the council such [illegible] Messrs. Gildersleeve [illegible] to impress the voters [illegible] men of affairs, [illegible] concerned in the city's welfare [illegible] rules as servants of the [illegible] highly beneficial [illegible] ready to devote their [illegible] city's welfare and [illegible] services should be [illegible]

Treasurer Reeves [illegible] has ability to administer the [illegible] of that office in a manner [illegible] to everyone, while the city [illegible] and water commissioner are [illegible] all chosen for their respective offices [illegible] their records therein shown.

Those who have the interests of the city at heart and demand good government should make it a point as stockholders in this municipal corporation to get out election day and through their votes elect the republican ticket.

It is time to do away with extravagance in city government, to block the waste and to put into office those in whom confidence can be placed for progressive and efficient city government.

ENFORCING REGULATIONS.

Only a few weeks ago new restrictions went into effect in this state concerning headlights. It was stipulated that certain lenses would be illegal after that date. There were those who have heed to the notice, inserted their lights and were presented for the inspection of headlights which was later made by the state police for the purpose of determining the compliance and giving warning to those who had either not known of the law or had neglected to comply therewith.

In the neighboring state of Massachusetts similar regulations have been enacted for the purpose of creating greater safety on the highways, and it is interesting to note that of [illegible] cars that were stopped in the city of Worcester there were 500 drivers informed that their headlights were not adjusted to comply with the law.

Numerous are the requirements concerning the automobiles, but they have been made necessary, and subjected to increased restrictions, both because of the efforts which are needed to decrease the highway dangers and the failure on the part of so many to adhere the provisions, whether mechanical or otherwise. If safety measures are going to be of [illegible] requirements it is important that they should be observed. It is one that may cannot be required of one and not another. The fact that [illegible] abiding motorist has to suffer for the sins of the other fellow does not excuse him from compliance.

Headlights are of the greatest importance for night driving, but it is quite as important that they should be so adjusted and so controlled that they do not cause other drivers to be confused and thereby create accidents. Careful compliance with regulations will do much to relieve much of the highway danger. The restricted headlight is necessary and the determination of the authorities of any state to see tha tthe regulations are complied with is for the best interest of all highway users. It is the one way to get respect for them.

REBUKING REPRESENTATIVES.

How the republicans of Vermont feel over the way in which they were misrepresented by Senator Dale and Congressman Gibson is clearly indicated by the resolution adopted declaring their action in failing to support the president to be in direct disagreement with them.

The state convention in Vermont provided an opportunity to administer a rebuke which they were quick to seize. They in fact, could not ignore it without taking the position that the support of the president was unjustified. Vermont has spoken in no other manner than was expected. It was a rebuke that was invited and Vermont would have been further humiliated had it allowed the situation to have gone unnoticed.

Vermont is cognizant of the fact that its representatives along with others from New England, who should have stood by the wishes of their constituents and who have proclaimed themselves as backers of the president, were responsible for the overriding of the president's veto, and it doesn't like it.

Further New England sentiment, politically declared, comes from the Women's Republican club of Massachusetts in annual session in its resolution rebuking Senator Lodge of Massachusetts. They are reported as being angry at the senior senator from the Bay state and they have reason to be. New England has been put in the wrong light by certain of its representatives.

THE IMMIGRATION BILL.

Connecticut has provided a constitutional amendment which gives the governor authority to veto features of appropriation bills without vetoing an entire measure. Had it been possible for President Coolidge to have pieced his veto upon that portion of the immigration bill which calls for the exclusion of the Japanese the first of July, without interfering with the rest of the bill, he would unquestionably have done so.

That he disapproves of that provision and favors extending the date for making exclusion effective is clear. Circumstances such as the fact that the existing immigration law expires next month and the uncertainty of getting congress to meet the situation should he apply his veto made it advisable for the signing of the measure.

It is a case of going out of the way to create needless ill feeling. It is a move in direct contradiction to the peace creating efforts among nations which this country has fostered. It is a reflection of that unsatisfactory disposition manifested in congress to block rather than back the administration.

THE GULLIBLE PUBLIC.

We have been told from time to time what the people of the country have lost through the operations of swindlers. Such losses do not mean that there will be a reaction in the future and that frauds will be shunned and fakirs promptly turned down. It is such a well established business that it is known just about how much is going to be taken out of the pockets of the people in advance through crooked deals.

A speaker at Atlantic City last week before the National Electric Light association predicted that the American people will lose close to a billion dollars this year through putting their money into fraudulent stocks. Ten years ago a quarter of a billion was being extracted in this manner. Since that time there has been a remarkable growth. There has been more money to spend and it has gone more quickly and more easily than it was obtained.

There have always been those who insisted upon getting a bit of experience for themselves. Those are the ones the crooks are looking for. The crop has grown wonderfully in the last decade and this year there is the prediction that it will be four times as large as it was ten years ago.

How many will be numbered in the list of those to turn over this large sum of money to sellers of fake securities there is no way of telling. It has been the experience of the past that the alluring promises of big returns, huge dividends and quick wealth always overshadow the resistance that might be expected to come from the exercise of good judgment. The desire to do what others are reported to have done, and the belief that such a chance has been opened, causes the volumes of advice about the use of caution and the securing of advice from those who can be depended upon to be brushed aside.

The strangest part of it all is that despite the experience of others, the huge sums lost each year and the penalties applied serve only to increase instead of decrease the number who are robbed.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., May 26.—Public sentiment against the action of those republicans who failed to sustain the presidential veto does not lessen as time goes on.

Has the republican party killed the goose that laid the golden egg, overriding the president's veto, and thus putting his party leadership in the scrap-heap? That is the opinion of many leading politicians who view the situation from a close-up viewpoint.

They say it is incredible that the president should not have been sustained by his New England colleagues, after those men had expressed their personal sentiment by voting as they saw fit. Washington looks upon the republicans from his home territory who failed to uphold him, from the same point that in Civil war days gave birth to the expression, "He thinks he is bigger than Old Grant." Congress felt superior to the president, a point of view in which the country at large does not seem to be in sympathy.

That the two senators from Connecticut, one each from Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island, both from his home state of Massachusetts, failed to stand by him, thus leaving New Hampshire the only New England state to uphold him in the great decision, was the hardest blow of all, and one that has caused more resentment than has been the writer's fortune to observe for many a year.

All this is grist for the democratic political mill, and it is a safe guess that Keynoter Pat Harrison and democratic Chairman Cordell Hull won't miss a turn of the wheel, when the actual campaign is on and the mill begins to grind.

Another phase of the chaotic political situation right on the eve of the two conventions, is the question of the running mate for Coolidge. Thus far the names most prominently mentioned are tinged with the progressive color of the middle or far west. Judge Kenyon, Senator Capper, seem foremost in that class; possibly Lenroot might have come in for consideration, but the fact that he left a sick bed to go to the capitol and vote to override the bonus veto is not likely to gain him the necessary support of the president when the time for selection comes. For it is taken for granted that no man opposed by the president will be presented to the convention for second place on the ticket.

There is considerable side talk heard about the possibility of Bob La Follette and Wheeler of Montana, who started the oil investigations running on a ticket of their own, but the name under which this might be done, or its slogan, is not forthcoming.

The last "yea" on the bonus bill was scarcely out of the mouth of the senators when the war department began to be besieged by applicants for requests for payments.

The war department has sent for 15,000,000 application blanks; it has asked for an appropriation of $127,000,000 as the exact sum needed the first year of the bonus to meet payments and the added expenses of the government in making them.

The department is urging men not to write for information or applications till the arrangements are completed as it is already over whelmed with preliminary work regarding it, and every delay, like correspondence while the matter is in embryo, causes delay in getting the bonus' payments on a working basis.

Printed instructions will be distributed as soon as prepared. The veterans' bureau will have a separate division for the bonus work, and the post office department is cooperating with the war department in getting the bonus into a going concern.

Among the contraband goods consigned by the Boston custom house were 26,000 gallons of alcohol, most of it from Belgium, that became so restrictive that Collector Lufkin rushed to Washington for authority to feed it out to the sewers of the "Hub of the Nation." It seems that the liquid went on a rampage, a few days ago, and ate its way out of several of the containers. Lufkin foresaw hte custom house swept away by a flood worse than a tidal wave, and the treasury department said "dump it" which he will do.

Washington is wondering if the capital will follow the example set by Philadelphia and utilize its great statues for traffic signal purposes.

Washington is a city of statues—they crop into view at every corner of the parks and squares that make up this city beautiful. They will be numbered by the hundreds. Fancy a brilliant orange, red or green light flashing from the head or the outstretched arms of Lincoln, Grant, Lafayette, Franklin, Sheridan and others whose queus of valor and renown have made them figureheads of the capital. Yet we learn that from the top-not crown of the head of William Penn, the Quaker citizen whose name the city bears, now flashes a powerful orange light, which regulates the traffic on the street below. Moreover it is proposed to make Penns heels as well as his head serve utility purpose in the Quaker city, by putting on the feet of the statues, other traffic light signals, whose color will run all the way from red to yellow and green—in singular contract to the severe Quaker garb for which Penn and his statue are distinguished.

Secretary Work of the interior department has a vexed question before him, regarding Indian traditions. He is asked to decide whether or not the pagan dictator and ruler of the Taos Pueblos in New Mexico shall be permitted to sequester two Indian children and keep them out of school for a year, in order that they may be trained in the ancient and pagan rites of that tribe, which have been handed down from generation to generation for hundreds of year. The tribe urges this be done to preserve the customs and legends of the Indian forefathers, which otherwise would perish.

The White House has assumed quite a homelike domestic air since the Coolidges became its occupants. On dump dark or otherwise gloomy days a blazing wood fire cheers up even the state reception rooms, flowers bloom in the corridors, showing their heads above gay and exquisite pottery, if the day is dark, the flowers selected are ruddy in colors; if the day is hot, cool white and green predominate, but always there is evidence of good cheer and a real home maker, such as Mrs. Coolidge has proved herself to be whether hanging out the "card for grocer, baker and ice man" from her little front porch in Northampton, or treading the marble corridors of the magnificent White House.

WHAT WERE THEIR CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS?

Christmas day has seen many phases of life in America.

Six years ago Pershing, Haig, Foch and thousands of our boys were with the others along the battle lines "over there," while homes in every part of our country were cheerless.

In 1899 Lawton and MacArthur and United States soldiers were facing the wily enemy in the far away Philippines.

Nine years previous General Miles and his troops were trailing the Sioux Indians over the South Dakota snows.

In the three Christmas days of the Civil war Grant and Sherman and Lee and Hood and the others were far from home, and funds and food and clothing were scarce.

In the holiday times during the Mexican was General Scott and his men were in Mexico, facing the tricky greasers.

In 1835 Thompson and his troops were on their way to Fort King, Florida, just before their massacre and the beginning of the Seminole war.

In 1812, 1813 and 1814 there was the suffering of Harrison, Perry and their men in the second war with England.

There were the hardships of Revolutionary times when our forefathers fought under Washington, Greene and Gates for liberty, and especially those of that Christmas day when Washington, driven into New Jersey, prepared to take 2,000 men across the Delaware to surprise the Hessians, celebrating the season in ribaldry. There also was Montgomery in the snow near Quebec before his disastrous assault.

Still ahead of that were the seven years of privation caused to Washington, Braddock, Wolfe and their forces during the French and Indian wars. And before were the many smaller conflicts.

In 1620 William Bradford and his little band of Pilgrims celebrated their first Christmas in a strange and bleak country.

And one wonders what would have happened if these leaders had become discouraged and had given up, and whether they thought more of presents, of disappointments, of messages that did not come, of lonesomeness, of apparent slights, of health or of business, than of Him who nineteen centuries ago gave to us Christmas day.

HOW IT HAPPENED

"'Lo, Myrt, that you?

"Sure! How're they comin', funny face?

"Just swell! Say, kid, listen! Do you ever remember me telling you about a reel swell-lookin' bird lives upstairs of us and seemed to me like he acted so kinda—you know—stuck up or something when we passed each other in the hall and like that?

"Sure, that's him. But say, dearie, lookut! I says to ma maybe a coupla times, I says, 'The big fish!' I says, 'He hates himself a lot, he don't! Too swell to even say good morning to a person and all!' I says, 'The old sour ball!' I says.

"Well, say, girlie, listen! Me and him we—you know—got acquainted a coupla weeks back or something. Sure, we did.

"Well, say, old sugar lump, listen. Last Saturday p. m. my sister that's got the coupla cute kids and everything, her and her husband was going to go to a funeral on his aunt's brother-in-law and all, and Stell, she's my—you know—sister and everything, she phoned me would I leave her bring the little kids over to our place and me look after 'em while him and her was to the funeral, see? And I says sure.

"And say dearie, listen. We had a swell time roughhousin' and the kids hollers and laughs.

"And so when it started to begin to get time to start supper ma she says potatoes for over Sunday, and how she guessed she didn't have enough about me—you know—beatin' it down to the corner grocery store and takin' the kids and gettin' some.

"And say, girlie, listen. If ever you seen a coupla peppy youngsters it certainly was them two. And that little kid he sure was full of the jackens. He and all over and after while when it kep' me chasin' him 'round the street ket back to our place I just grabs up seemed like we wasn't never going to the little kid under my arm and all, him laughin' and hollerin' and everything, and here I beat it down the street with the little kid under one arm and a big sack of murphies under the other and the big little kid hangin' on to me and laughin' and hollerin'.

"And say, dearie, lookut! When we gets to the top of the steps of our place the little kid gives a kick and I gives the sack of murphies a squeeze and she busted on me and they went rollin' down the steps and bazzed right in the middle of the foot of this—you know—guy from upstairs of us.

"'And say, kid, lookut! That's what I phoned you to tell you. He ain't no more like I had him doped out than nothin', He's just grand. Honest, kid, he's better'n that! He's just swell! He started right in pickin' up them murphies and he carried them up to our place and everytaing and he come in and—you know—visited with me a while and all—

"And say, old dear, listen. I gotta ring off now. I got a—you know—date this evenin'.

"Say, kid, ain't you the cute little guesser? Sure, it's him! He's been up a coupla times to our place this week and he's coming up tonight to supper and everything.

"And, say, darling, lookut. Maybe we'll—you know—beat it to the movie show or something after supper, or I don't know, maybe we'll just stay home and visit with the folks. They're crazy about him—me and pa and everybody.

"And, say, old sugar, listen. He's got a grand line—only it ain't a bit like most guys! He's so reel kind of earnest and everything. He says grand things—like him t hinkin' there wasn't any janes that helped their ma at home and all till he seen me doin' it and everything—but he ain't kiddin' or anything——

"You bet! And, say, dearie, listen. I gotta ring off now, but I'll phone you tomorrow and tell you if we go to the movie show or if we just stayed to home, and I'll tell you most everything he says—or anyway maybe most everything.

"And, say, kid, listen! I gotta ring off now. Bye-bye! I'll phone you tomorrow."—Exchange.

A Little Talk on Thrift

THRIFT IS SELF DISCIPLINE

What percentage of a man's income should he save?

This is a question frequently asked, and a brief discussion of it might prove of interest to many who have given consideration to the matter.

Sometime ago the United States government savings system issued a statement that a thrifty man should spend 50 per cent of his income for living expenses; 10 per cent for education; 10 per cent for giving; 10 per cent for recreation and save 20 per cent. The Treasury Department has stated that a family of three with $2,000 income should save $200; a family of four with $3,000 income should save $300; a family of four with $4,000 income should save $400; a family of four with $6,500 income should save $1,400 and a family of five with $10,000 income should save $2,400.

These figures were undoubtedly arrived at after a close study of the personal economics of many families and are meant to cover average conditions.

While it may be true that the average man in America should save 20 per cent of his personal income, it does not follow by any means that a man who under certain circumstances only saves 10 per cent or even 5 per cent of his income is not just as thrifty as some other man who might save 30 per cent of his income.

There are rightful duties and obligations that must be met, and their fulfillment might preclude the saving of any considerable sum of money. On the other hand, a man might be so situated that even if he did lay aside 20 per cent of his income he would still be indulging in wasteful habits.

Thrift is a matter of morals as well as of money. It is self discipline: strength of character: efficiency and a common-sense administration of one's affairs.

Save systematically as much as you can consistent with circumstances in life. Be economical, but not miserly. Eliminate all possible waste.

If one will endeavor honestly to adhere to these practices he will be able to save what is consistent and right and within the meaning of true thrift.
—American Society for Thrift.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A South Coventry Case

Mr. Editor: I wish to deny the grossly exaggerated account that came out in The Bulletin last Saturday of the three boys who were arrested on the charge of breach of the peace and the destruction of private property. The breach of the peace amounted to the ringing of a door bell and tying up a door, the destruction of property of throwing over a chinning-bar and lifting up a swing that had been broken for some time, and which the children had not been using. The informer evidently had it in for Freeman as he was held up as the villian of the plot although there was nothing in the court proceedings that was brought out to that effect. The boys broke nothing and there was no damage other than has already been mentioned, nor was Freeman severely reprimanded other than to be told that he was old enough to know better. The boys offered to pay a man to repair damage and fix everything right. Mr. Brooks wanted himself appointed to oversee the boys and see that they did it right but an uninterested party in the court room said he would do it without charge to the boys. Justice Andrews, the state police officer and others were heard to say that boys will be boys and that they had done things themselves when they were boys.

JOHN SULLIVAN TELLS HOW HE WON FIGHT

Indigestion Had Upper Hand Until He Got Tanlac On His Side. Feels Like New Man Now.

"Getting rid of stomach trouble after 3 or 4 years of misery is certainly something to be thankful for and I just can't praise Tanlac too highly for fixing me up so I can eat and not suffer afterwards," is the statement of John J. Sullivan, 71 Carver St., Boston, Mass.

"Indigestion, gas bloating and stomach pains caused me almost unbearable suffering. Constipation, headaches, dizzy spells and loss of sleep helped to pull me down until I had no energy and felt tired out all the time. Since taking Tanlac I enjoy the best of health and am feeling fine in every way. I can endorse Tanlac to anyone."

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John R. McNamara.

In the death of Mrs. John R. McNamara, which occurred on May 17th at her home in this city, hosts of friends have experienced the deepest grief and shock. To the boys, John, Arthur, Phillip and Paul, has come sudden bereavement which only years can soften and even time can never lessen; and only the thought of happiness for the loved one gone on can bring anything of comfort.

From her closest friends is gone one whose presence meant brightness, cheer and sympathy, for Mrs. McNamara was ever the type of loyal friend upon whom those who knew her relied for sympathy in their sorrow, for understanding of their needs, for rejoicing in their joys. A woman of rare tact and real kindness combined with business ability and a most attractive personality, a woman of rare beauty of character, her home life was one so loved that the terrible loss is irreparable save by the knowledge at her peace and rest.

A devoted mother, a loyal friend and ever ready neighbor, she brought with word or smile a sense of all that was best, loyal and sincere and the severing by death of many warm strong ties is one which brings sadness unbespeakable, loss that is heavy, but withall memory of a sweet and gracious companion gone on.

Thomas J. Kelly.

After an illness of several months, Thomas J. Kelly, 36, of 16 West Thames street, died Monday afternoon. He was born in Albany, N. Y., August 16, 1887, and was the son of Richard and Bridget Hill Kelly. For the last 14 years he had resided in Norwich and was employed as a moulder by the Richmond Radiator company.

On Sept. 27, 1920, in St. Patrick's church, he was united in marriage with Anna T. Pearson, the marriage ceremony being performed by the late Rev. John Broderick. Besides his wife he leaves, one daughter, Katherine, and a son, William. There are also a brother, Rev. William P. Kelly of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Frank Wilson of North Troy, N. Y. Mr. Kelly was a member of Norwich Aerie, F. O. E., and of Moulders Union, No. 126, of this city.

Mrs. D. J. Morrissey.

Emma R. Touchette, widow of Dennis J. Morrissey, died Monday evening at 10 o'clock, following an illness of eight months. Mrs. Morrissey was born in Canada, the daughter of Joseph and Pheobe Touchette and was married to Dennis J. Morrissey in New Britain who died in December 1922.

Besides her mother, Mrs. Pheobe Touchette of New London, she leaves four brothers, John Henry of New London, Louis Edward of New London, Joseph of New Haven and Wilfred John Touchette of New Britain, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Dion of New Britain, Mrs. Michael Glynn of New London and Mrs. Edward Raymond of New Haven.

Charles B. Murphy

Charles B. Murphy of Rockville died Saturday at a Norwich institution after an illness of three years. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy of Rockville and was 22 years. He was a graduate of the Rockville High school, class of 1919, and was a member of the Holy Name society of St. Bernard's church and of the Knights of Columbus. He was employed by the Travelers Insurance company. Besides his parents, he leaves five sisters, Mrs. L. H. Anderson of Hartford, Mrs. D. D. Rodman, Mrs. G. Bartlett, Mrs. W. Davis and Miss Grace Murphy of Rockville, and a brother, Thomas Murphy of Vernon.

WEDDING.

FOUND GUILTY OF ATTEMPT TO INFLUENCE WATERFORD JUROR

Salvatore Sabillio of Waterbury was found guilty by a jury in the superior court at New London late Monday afternoon on the charge of attempting to influence a juror in a case in which Sabillio was the plaintiff against the Connecticut company. Trial of the case was taken up before Judge Frederick M. Peasley in the morning and the case was given to the jury about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Sabillio was given a verdict of $1,800 in his suit against the trolley company for damages to an automobile truck, but after the verdict had been given, one of the jurors, Arthur Davis, a former tax collector of Waterford, notified the judge that Sabillio had offered him part of the damages awarded if the verdict was in his favor.

In the trial on the attempt to influence, the state was represented by Attorney Thomas E. Troland and the accused by Attorney G. C. Morgan.

After Judge Peasley had imposed sentence in the Sabillio case a jury was empanelled for the trial of Matthew W. Keough of this city on two counts of violation of the liquor law. He is charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell at a place he conducted on Bath street and with reputation.

FITCHVILLE TRUCK IS STRUCK BY ENGINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, May 26.—A truck owned by Palmer Brothers of Norwich was wrecked, the locomotive that struck it disabled and Martin Hetherington, the truck driver, was injured in a crash at Clark's crossing, between Plainfield and Moosup, this morning. Hetherington, who was not seriously hurt, was hurled nearly 200 feet with the cab of his truck. He had a dislocated right ankle, a small bone broken in his right foot, a long laceration on the shin and a cut in the groin. He was treated by Dr. Francis Downing, of Moosup, who reduced the dislocation and gave him other necessary attention and then was taken to his home in Fitchville.

Hetherington was driving the second of a pair of trucks that approached the crossing shortly after 7 a. m., as the milk train was coming along, bound from Willimantic to Providence. The leading truck crossed the track in safety and Hetherington followed, along with the other ponderous vehicle. He said later that he neither saw the approaching train nor heard any warning whistle.

The locomotive struck the truck with tremendous force and hurled it spinning down the track Hetherington, apparently, went sailing along in the cab of the machine he was driving. The accident made a mess of the truck and so damaged the locomotive that the driver on one side was disabled and had to be disconnected.

It was regarded as remarkable that Hetherington was not more seriously injured, but this is largely accredited to the fact that the big truck stood the brunt of the collision. The machine was badly damaged.

A large number of spectators gathered about the crossing within a short time after the accident occurred.

HELPING HANDS HAD MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR

The most prosperous year in the history of the Helping Hands was reported at the annual meeting of the society Monday evening at the Spiritual Academy at which the president, Mrs. Gertrude Tootill presided. The suppers which had formerly been a feature of the Helping Hands' work but had been given up for a time, had been resumed this year and had been a marked success.

Mrs. Tootill was re-elected president with the following associate officers: vice presidents, Mrs. Maud Baker, Mrs. William Beetham, Miss M. A. Hill; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Dowsett; auditors, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Charlotte Powell and Mrs. A. P. Blinn.

A pleasant surprise of the evening came in the presentation of a May basket to Mrs. Tootill containing a gift of gold. The presentation speech was made by Rev. A. P. Blinn.

TO GET SANATORIUM LAND BY CONDEMNATION PROCEEDING

Dr. Stephen J. Mather, chairman of the state tuberculosis commission, had a conference Monday with Attorney General Frank E. Healey on the matter of beginning condemnation proceedings in the superior court to acquire title, in behalf of the state, to a strip of land which is now a part of the property owned by the Rev. Dr. John J. McCook, in the town of Niantic, near the Seaside tuberculosis sanatorium, at Crescent Beach.

The attorney general told Dr. Maher that just as soon as the cases concerning medical licenses were finished he would start condemnation proceedings. The private act passed at the last session authorized the state comptroller and the tuberculosis commission to acquire land for an addition to the sanatorium, and appropriated the sum of $25,000 for the purpose. Executive Secretary Anson T. McCook stated Monday that he had nothing to say on the matter. He, as the representative of the McCook estate, had not received notice of the contemplated condemnation proceedings.

The McCooks and the state commission have been in a controversy for some time over the question of just which portion of the estate should be taken.

The land which the commission wishes to acquire has a frontage of about 200 feet on the shore. Dr. Maher said Monday it was absolutely necessary that the land in question should be secured as a site for a new fireproof building which was imperatively needed for the extension of the work at Seaside. There was a large waiting list for admission to the institution said the doctor and that it was worthy of note, he added, that in the great majority of cases the applications were made last year. It was evident from the fact that physicians, who were treating tubercular children say that there was no use in making further applications for the admission of children needing the benefits of the institution owing to its present crowded condition.

SODALITAS SUPPER ENDS SEASON FOR SOCIETY

The Sodalitas of the United Congregational church held their final meeting of the season Monday evening at the Community House. At 6.30 the members enjoyed a delicious supper served at very prettily decorated tables. The menu was as follows:

Chicken Salad Rolls
Potato Chips Pickles Olives
Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee

Following the supper there was a brief business meeting with the president, Mrs. Helen Zabriskie in the chair. After the meeting the remainder of the evening was devoted to a programme of games of which Mrs. Chester Hussey was in charge. The committee in charge of the supper comprised Mrs. Eugene Saunders, Mrs Edwin J. Chipman, Mrs. Henry Gee, Mrs. Harry Blackburn and Miss Hattie Carter.

TOURTELOTTE CLASS TRIPS THOUGHT TOO EXPENSIVE

State Supervisor of Secondary Education Jesse B. Davis does not approve of the annual trips which the graduating class of Tourtellotte Memorial High school of North Grosvenordale makes to Washington, D. C. This is disclosed in Mr. Davis' letter to the Thompson school board, approving the school for the current year.

Mr. Davis recommends that the annual trip to the national capitol be discontinued. He says that in the old days, when classes were small and when such trips could be conducted with ease and small expense, they were worth while. But in these days, he states, classes must work hard for more than year to raise the $1,000 or so necessary to meet expenses. Raising this money takes time away from studies therefore the trips are not advisable.

FORMER NORWICH GIRL WON BEAUTY PRIZE

Local friends of Miss Margaret Shea, formerly of this city, will be interested in the announcement that she was awarded the prize in the Masonic beauty contest held in Madison Square Garden recently. Miss Shea entered th contest with 24 other girls, representing 36 states. She is the daughter of Joseph E. and Margaret Hinchey Shea, formerly of Norwich. While living in Norwich she attended St. Mary's school. She is a niece of Daniel J. Hinchey of the Butts Art and Gift shop on Broadway. Miss Shea has won several prizes in beauty contests.

NO WAGE RAISE OFFERED BY TROLLEY COMPANY

New Haven, May 26—At the special meeting held here tonight by the conductors and motormen of the Connecticut company, it was learned that the unofficial report that the company had granted a raise from 57 to 60 an hour in answer to the proposal of an increase to 75 cents an hour, was not embodied in the new annual contract.

According to the information given the men at the their meetings the company at first offered to cut the wages three cents an hour in view of the reduction of operating expenses but it was later stated that the wage rate would remain unchanged. A referendum vote will be taken tomorrow on the proposition and if the offer is rejected the general conference committee representing the employes will meet with the Connecticut company officials in an endeavor to effect a raise in wages for the men.

CITY OFFICIALS TO HANDLE 1ST BALL TO START NEW LONDON LEAGUE TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 26.—The opening day of the City league, one of the two leagues that will play twilight baseball this season, will come this (Tuesday) evening at Morgan park at 6.15. All of the city dignitaries will be there to start the league off in a manner that will be both propitious to the city league treasury and confirming to form. By confirming to form, we mean as they open the major leagues. City Manager William A. Holt will be there with his high hat to receive the first ball that City Mayor Malcolm F. Scott will attempt to throw past the bat of the lead-off man for the Fort Trumbull Stars. City Manager Holt will be provided with the necessary catcher's paraphernalia, but that does not go to say that he will be a catcher by any means. A slight applause will cause the city manager to forget about the task that confronts him and the new ball that he is expected to catch will roll on its merry way toward the back stop.

It has been definitely settled to have a Fort Trumbull Stars under the leadership of Frank Merriwell of New London and vicinity, and the Knights of Columbus come together. It is the main event and will go seven full innings unless a knockout is registered the way of darkness or Jupe Pluvious. Jupe has been knocking them [illegible] of loop-houses lately and he is not expected to stop in today's [illegible]. But Jupe Pluvious has a grudge against George Gadbois and this may act as an incentive to cut the City league party short.

The Knights of Columbus have a strong array of baseball material and Joe Cranker is expected to show his [illegible] year. Joe will be a busy man [illegible] stuff to the fans for the 21st consecutive year for he will be found on the mound against the teams in the Industrial league that oppose his team, the Post Office. Either Dave Reagan or Billy Coyle will be behind the bat. Zepp, who dominated on the mound for Bulkeley two years ago, will work for Frank Merriwell's crew. Frank himself will hold up Zepp's curves in a manner little short of big league style.

The controversy that has arisen over the holding of Morgan park for the twilight leagues in the city will be settled in a short time it is expected. The confliction of dates is the only thing that is holding up the announcement of the opening day of the Industrial league. Several teams that play juvenile baseball in the city have booked the park to be used for practice tilts and the people in the city hall who have charge of the letting of Morgan park seemed to forget that the rights should have been saved for the two twilight leagues.

The arbiter question has been settled and Paddy Sullivan and Frank Silva will do their stuff, while eighteen uniformed men will perform on the diamond.

U. S. SOCCER TEAM AND URUGUAY WILL MEET

Paris, May 26.—(By The A. P.)—Uruguay against the United States—South America against North America—will meet in the quarter final of the Olympic soccer football competition next Thursday, Uruguay by its crushing defeat of Jugoslavia this afternoon having earned the right to meet its brothers from the great sister republic. Incidentally the South Americans displayed the best football shown in any of the six Olympic matches played thus far and confirmed their right to be considered favorites for the championship.

The Uruguans were continually masters in this afternoon's match, had uncanny control of the ball and outpassed, outpassed and outshot their opponents.

Manager Collins of the American team who was present at the match, is greatly impressed. "This looks like a hard, tough team to beat, but we will give them a real fight," he said.

Elimination of Poland by Hungary this afternoon, leaves 16 teams in competition.

THEODORE LUSTA'S FORFEITED BOND RECEIVED IN NEW LONDON FROM N. Y.

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, May 26.—

The bond of Theodore Lusta, arrested in New Haven several months ago for the New London authorities on a charge of theft, and which was forfeited by the failure of Lusta to appear in court when his case was called, was paid today by a New York bond company. The bond was for $1,000. Lusta while in New London made a practice of engaging lodgings and during the absence of other roomers, he ransacked the rooms and stole whatever plunder he could obtain. His visits to local lodging places resulted in clothing being his principal plunder, but in one instance, that of a rooming house on Tilley street, Lusta stole a valuable watch, the property of James Kirby, a former cafe proprietr.

Andrew Somers who died Sunday at his home in Graniteville, had been in ill health for some time. Mr. Somers was a resident of Waterford, the greater part of his life and was employed at the Gardner quarry there many years. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Edward Cody of New London, Mrs. William Tilley and Miss Mary Somers of Graniteville and by two sons, Andrew Somers, of Hardwick, Vt., and John Somers of Rochester, N. Y. A brother, Patrick Somers, of Graniteville and a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Cullen, of Connecticut avenue, New London, also survive.

Julia Moore, wife of Thomas R. Murray, died at her home, 9 Jefferson avenue, Saturday night, following a [illegible] with asthma, although she was reported as well as usual until the second sudden stricking spell during the night. She failed to respond to treatment and expired a short time following the attack. Besides her husband, she is survived by five sons, Edward and Robert Murray of New London; Arthur and James of Chicago and Thomas Murray of New York.

Three burglaries were perpetrated in New London over Sunday, but in neither instance was the p[illegible] tained of consequence and with two of the breaks, the likelihood is that the breaks were by boys. The burglaries indicating the work of boys were at the sail loft of Benjamin F. Bailey & Son, rear 106 Bank street and at the general store fo Walter S. Calvert, Plant building, State street. At the Bailey sail loft entrance was gained by a door being forced and the only plunder consisted of $7, which was found in the cash drawer. At the Calvert store an Ingersoll watch and a small typewriter was taken. The third robbery occurred at the store of Joseph Pezzello, 17 Shaw street, where $150 is alleged by Pezzello to have been stolen from the cash register. Pezzello was in the store at one o'clock with compnaions and he declares that the money was stolen after 1:30 o'clock. This robbery is believed by the police to have been done by adults and acquaintances of Pezzello.

A report was made to the police Sunday night that an automobile had been parked near the corner of Home and Franklin street two days. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray was assigned to the case and determined that the machine, which is the property of a Hartford resident, had become disabled and had been parked in the street only temporarily.

W. J. Pardy, employed on the New London line steamers complained to the police today that the dog of Dr. Joseph M. Garey, of William [illegible] bit him. The physician denies that the dog has bitten any pedestrians, stating that the animal has a playful habit of grabbing at anything dangling from the shoes, such as lacings and that any attempt to kick the dog is only another enticement of the dog to continue at play.

The police this evening received a complaint from neighbors on Ocean avenue that a gang of boys had started a brush and refuse fire in the lot at the corner of Evergreen and Ocean avenues and that adjoinnig buildings were liable to become ignited. Motorcycle Officers Augustus Ray caused the boys to extinguish the blaze and warned them against continuing this form of pastime.

She is survived by a brother, Robert Conboy, two nephews, George O. and Thomas Conboy, two nieces, Mrs. William Hartman and Mrs. Julia Moriarty all of New London.

Frank Collins, Waterford, Tony Pes-[illegible] Saybrook, Lois Watson, Water[illegible] [illegible] Omar Newell, Arctic, R. I., and John Turner, 11 North Bank street were patients discharged at Lawrence Memorial Associated Hospital Sunday and today.

The last named sufferd the laceration of the fingers of his right hand while at work at the plant of the Robert Gair company at Montville last week when that member became caught in a corrugating [illegible] that the fingers were amputated.

An automobile owned and operated by Henry M. Walsh, West High St., struck William E. Kripps, a boy residing at 567 Bank street this afternoon when the youngster was caught in traffic near his house. The child was taken to the office of a physician where it was determined that he had a sprained [illegible] and numerous bruises.

Thomas F. Morton of Waterford has gone to New York where he will consult a specialist for an organic trouble from which he has long been a sufferer. Mr. Morton will return to New London the latter part of the week.

Archer Beckwith of Waterford was presented in the Waterford town court on continuance Saturday, charged with non-support of his wife, Nellie. The case was nolled by Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton upon Beckwith agreeing to pay his wife's house rent, also to contribute $2.50 weekly toward her support.

George Ross, a colored man, enter-tained a party of friends, at least acquaintances at his home in John street Sunday. When it is made known that his guests were loaded with hooch, or Jamaica ginger, it is apparent that a lively time followed. Ross was arrested and so were his friends for one of them, Mike Moguin, a Pawcatuck resident, was robbed of $10 while he was in the house. Mike was an acquaintance of John Mack, who has a home in Pawcatuck, but who spends a good deal of his time in New London, where he has pull enough with the Learned Mission to get his lodging and some of his food there, as would a deserving person. Moguin brought a message that Mack's mother desired him to return to his home, but John would not do as his mother desired. He proceeded to load up with the stuff that goes for liquor here and then he was looking for entertainment. He secured a dozen eggs and with Moguin made for the Ross house where the eggs were devoured, raw, after they had been mixed into a batter with vinegar, salt and pepper. This the party washed down with white mule and "jakey". Then they became drunk and soon Moguin was relieved of $10 of the $12 he had. Mack made a holler and called in the police. That meant the arrest of all in the house. Fred Scott, a negro, was accused of the theft, but it was disclosed that he probably did not steal it. The money which was found later in the house was restored to Mike. There was not a shadow of doubt but that a disorderly place was maintained and that those found in the place were contributors to the condition that prevailed. Ross was fined $5, but $50 of that amount was remitted and he was given time in which to pay.

Sterrett Matthews of Broad street was fined $10 for operating an automobile equipped with a defective brake and which did not hold the car while Matthews was in a residence on Broad street delivering groceries for the Gray store on Broad street. The car was left at the head of a decline and starting smashed into the car of Harold Stevens of 316 Connecticut avenue, which was beside the curbing 300 feet away. The cause is the first of the sort that has been heard in the New London police court in a long time and the only one of the particular sort ever heard.

Joe Corolla was fined $10 for in-toxication. He may be mixed up in another case tomorrow, for he gave testimony that may incriminate him.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must Be Done and Done Darn Quick, Too

Men of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 60 cents a box. Ask Lee & Osgood Co. or any live pharmacist anywhere.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets."

Finally found health in Kellogg's Bran after suffering long with constipation

Mr. Patch writes that Kellogg's Bran "solved his problem." It has solved the problem of constipation—mild and chronic—for thousands of others. It has brought relief when all else has failed because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read Mr. Patch's letter:

Dear Sirs:

I have been a constant sufferer from constipation and have wondered what was the cause of it. I have tried about all the cereals I could think of, and finally tried Kellogg's Bran. This solved my problem. I feel 100 per cent better and I owe it to your Bran. . . . Thanking you very kindly for this great cereal, I am

Very respectfully,
Chester C. Patch,
761 Main St., Greenwood, Mass.

For the permanent relief of constipation, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. It rids them of the dangerous poisons that lead to other diseases. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious with milk or cream. You will like its nut-like flavor—so different from ordinary, tasteless brans. Sprinkle it over the cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Eat it in Kellogg's Bran muffins, griddle cakes and many other wonderful recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek and is served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. It is sold by all grocers.

WHY TAX BILL HAD MC'LEAN'S VOTE; BETTER THAN PRESENT LAW HE SAYS

Senator George P. McLean of Connecticut, who was a member of the conference committee of the senate and house on the income tax bill, declares that he voted for the proposed bill because it is an improvement over the existing income tax law, although it is far from [illegible] wise disposition of the subject. It is his hope that taxpayers and wage earners will study this [illegible] and insist upon an [illegible] lution in the near future.

In a statement [illegible] the income tax bill, he discusses and compares the effect of the present bill, the Mellon plan and pending act upon the individual tax payer as follows:

Statistics of Income Tax

The "Statistics of Income", issued the treasury depar[illegible] [illegible] tables contained therein all buried all necessary information for the conscientious student or intelligent voter. For example, the "Statistics" for 1921, the latest issued, covering the returns of income earned in the calendar year 1921, the tax [illegible] [illegible] the government, amounting to $719,357,106. The exemptions and personal credits of the other 3,072,191 [illegible] equalled their net income, leaving nothing upon which to pay tax.

This means that the total income tax paid is about three and one-fourth per cent of the total population, the other 96 3-4 per cent paying no direct tax to the United States. Of the 21,500,000 families of the United States as of that year, about 3,500,000 had some tax to pay, or about seven [illegible] per cent of the [illegible] fifty paid direct [illegible] States.

Total Net Income Forty Billion

The [illegible] of the United States was [illegible] 000,000,000 for [illegible] tax $719,000,000, was therefore 1.8 per cent of the total income about 3.6 per cent of the income returned by the 6,660,000 individuals.

There were 272,358 individuals with net income in excess of $10,000, whose tax amounted to $557,726,000, based upon a net income of $3,953,010,000. That is 42.275ths of one per cent of the entire population paid over [illegible] per cent of the entire [illegible] less than 2 per cent [illegible] the total tax.

There were with incomes in excess of $50,000, 11,069 individuals with net income of $1,045,234,000, whose tax amounted to $317,929,000. That is 1 100th of one per cent of the total population paid over 44 per cent of the total income tax, or about two and one-half per cent of the total income pays over 44 per cent of the total tax.

There were with incomes in excess of $100,000 2,352 individuals with income of $463,603,000, whose tax amounted to $202,2[illegible] 440th of one per [illegible] the total income tax; or about 1-6 per cent of the total income over 28 per cent of the total individuals with net income of $82,000, whose tax amounted to $87,000. That is 1 1160th of one cent of the total population paid about 21 per cent of the total income tax; or three-fourths of one per cent of the income paid twenty-one per cent of the total tax.

War Income Tax

The present system of income tax began March 1, 1913. When the world war began, and we needed large additional revenue both for our own use and for the aid of our allies, the rates of this original income tax were very much increased, especially the higher rates, purely as a war measure. The original normal tax of one per cent was increased to four per cent and eight per cent. The maximum surtax rate was increased from six per cent. to 65 per cent. The lower brackets beginning at $5,000 were only increased one per cent. The oppressively high rates of this war tax were reduced by the 1921 revenue act. Business was so demoralized that the receipts from the income tax fell off alarmingly. In 1921 the returns were $1,420,000,000, or only 41 per cent of the returns for 1919, a falling off in revenue of over two billions of dollars. This condition gave great concern to the treasury. The 1921 revenue act eliminated the excess profits tax on corporations and substituted in place of this tax and the flat 10 per cent tax on the balance of the net income of the corporation as imposed by the 1918 law, a flat rate of 12 1-2 per cent. The individual income tax was reduced from a maximum of 65 per cent. at a $1,000,000 income to a maximum of 50 per cent at an income of $200,000. The tax on the lower brackets was also reduced. For example, the one per cent surtax on income in excess of $5,000 and not in excess of $6,000, was eliminated. The tax on the bracket from $8,000 to $10,000 of [illegible] [illegible] cent! On ever it reduced [illegible] ly 20 per cent.

On the Moderate Income

Under the provision of the present law, the tax on a married man [illegible] pending act 2.08 per cent. Upon a like taxpayer with a net income of $3,000 the rates of tax are as follows: Present law 2-3 of one per cent; Mellon [illegible] for income tax, while about 15 100ths of one per cent of one total population have net incomes in excess of $10,000. A similar taxpayer with a net income of $100,000 would pay the following rates: Present law 30.14 per cent; Mellon plan [illegible] per cent; [illegible] 42 per cent, on the $5,000 man 62 per cent and on the $100,000 man [illegible]

What Reductions Mean

[illegible] these reductions mean? [illegible] [illegible] under the present law is less than 39 cents a week; the Mellon proposal would have made it a little less than 22 cents a week; the pending bill will make it a little less than 14 1-2 cents per week.

[illegible] would be about $1.08 per week; and under the pending act, about 72 cents per week, a reduction from the Mellon plan of 36 cents per week.

Will these reductions to the man whose income is less than $5,000 benefit anyone?

The $100,000 man, most likely a business man, engaged in supplying or manufacturing necessities, pays [illegible] and sell cheaper. The share to his customers, together with the lower cost of production, would consequently reduce the cost of living to his customers, and would finally result in a reduction in the price of all necessities of at least 15 per cent. To the $5,000 man this would mean a saving of over $5.00 per week; to the $5,000 man it means over $30.00 a week. Compare the effect of this 34 per cent reduction in tax on the moderately large business income upon the $5,000 and $5,000 man with the effect of the reduction in their own income tax. By reducing the higher income tax rates, you save the $5,000 man $5 per week, or over twelve times the entire tax he pays under the present law, and the $5,000 man about five times his total income tax.

The deception and fallacy in relieving from tax the smaller incomes, while taxing heavily the larger, is very evident. Under the present law, less than 1.2 per cent of the entire net income of the people of this country pay over 28 per cent of the total income tax. If we should take their entire income, that is, tax all income in excess of $100,000 one hundred per cent, we would have only a vanishing $463,000,000, or some $200,000,000 short of the amount necessary for the government. This shows that it is impossible to raise the necessary revenue from a tax upon the large incomes only.

A business man must pay his income tax from his income. In addition to the profits necessary for his continuance in business, he must add an amount sufficient to pay this tax. This must necessarily be obtained by larger profits—an increase in the cost of living. His tax must be paid by every consumer of his products, which must constitute a greater tax or higher price for the millions of consumers than the present law now imposes upon them directly.

Producer Tax Benefits Wage Earner

This shows that it is impossible to tax the larger incomes without imposing a greater burden upon the wage earner. The entire theory of operating the government by taxing about one per cent of the people, when probed, is shown to be an economic fallacy, and a physical and financial impossibility. If the reformers really want to benefit the small taxpayer, they should reduce the tax upon the producer of his bread, his clothing, and of all his necessities. This will not only help the small taxpayer, but every one else, and the final result will be a material reduction in the cost of living together with every incentive to increase wages to the deserving.

I shall vote for this bill because it is an improvement over the existing law but it is far, very far, from a wise disposition of the subject.

It seeks popularity at the expense of the people and my hope is that the taxpayers and the wage earners will study this tax problem and insist upon an intelligent solution in the near future.

CURB MARKET

New York, May 26.—A late reaction in the curb market in sympathy with a similar movement on the "Big Board" wiped out many of the early gains and more closing prices decidedly irregular.

Oils again monopolized the bulk of the trading. Prairie Oil and Gas closed 3 points lower at 248 1-2 after having sold as high as 256 1-2. Standard Oil of Kentucky dropped from 108 1-2 to [illegible] off one, and Standard Oil of Indiana showed a net loss of 1-4 at 57 5-8 after having touched 58. Penn-Mexican Fuel closed 1 3-4 higher at 36 and cities Service recovered 1 1-2 points of its recent loss. Revival of activity in Seaboard Oil apparently was in anticipation of a favorable earnings report.

A sharp recovery in Durant Motors, which closed two points higher at 16 5-8, was the feature of the industrial list. The coal company shares reacted slightly on profit taking. Public Utilities were firm, Commonwealth Power and Lehigh Power securities each moving up about a point.

BOND MARKET

New York, May 26.—Bond prices displayed a strong undertone in today's uneven trading, although the unexpected rise in call money to 4 1-2 per cent. late in the day caused recessions in Liberty and investment railroad issues which cancelled earlier gains.

Curious cross currents marked the course of trading in the railroad list. New high levels for the year were established by some of the less active issues, including Rock Island 4 1-2's, Denver and Rio Grande 4 1-2, and Wabash Second 5's, the latter at one time selling 3 1-2 points higher. Wabash [illegible] under direction [illegible] the bond interest contributed [illegible] strength of Denver and Rio [illegible].

[illegible] connected decline in April earnings [illegible] St. Paul railroad, revealing [illegible] deficit for the month, [illegible] the weakness of the [illegible] which moved counter to [illegible] trend in yielding 1 to 2 points. Norfolk & Western 6's, and "Katy" obligations were strong, but bonds of some of the other roads, including Southern Railway, eased off at the close. Investment buying of U. S. government issues was halted as in anticipation of quarterly treasury operations brought a sharp rise in money rates.

The lively demand for new railroad issues offered last week brought indications that a larger volume of this type of securities would be sold this week. The first to appear in the market is the "Big Four" railroad, which sell tomorrow through a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan and Company $20,000,000 refunding and improvements 6's at 94 1-2 to yield 5.35 per cent. The bonds mature in 1963.

Wall Street heard today that Brazil might take steps shortly to redeem the remaining 7 1-2 per cent. coffee security loan sold in 1922. An unusual feature of bond trading today was the sale of a block of Mexican government 5 per cent. assented bonds for the first time this year at 33 1-4, representing a net loss of 13 5-8 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, May 26.—With trade more active than for some time, wheat scored new high records for the year here today largely as a result of higher quotations at Winnipeg and because of unfavorable crop reports from parts of the southwest where no rain has fallen of late. The close was unsettled at 1-8 a 1-4c to 1-2c net gain, July 1-8 1-2 to 100 5-8 and September 1.09 5-8 a 3-4 to 1.09 3-4. Corn finished 1-4 to 1c up, oats at 1-8 to 1-2c advance and provisions at a shade decline to a rise of 5c.

Special significance attached to the pronounced strength of the Winnipeg wheat market, inasmuch as with May delivery there going to a wider premium over Chicago and with July virtually the same figure as Chicago the prospect for export business from the United States became better than in months past. In this connection it was noticed that vessel room was chartered today for August loading of 120,000 bushels of United States wheat to be shipped by way of the Gulf of Mexico. Meagwhile exporters were said to be busy picking up wheat at Winnipeg, with Fort William stocks 13,000,000 bushels under last year after the biggest crop in the history of Canada.

Selling to realize profits eased the Chicago wheat market a little near the end of the day, but bulls continued to have the advantage, aided by 2,078,000 bushel decrease of the domestic visible supply total and by the fact that world shipments so far this season have exceeded those of the previous year 76,000 bushels.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Decreases in stocks together with unseasonable cold adverse for planting or germinating of corn were additional bullish factors.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

At the rate building applications are being turned in to Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton, new records will be made in the building line in Norwich.

During the past week applications have been granted for the construction of five new houses and an addition to one house, besides the usual smaller jobs. The value of permits issued during the week's total $20,000.

April was a record breaking month but will be surpassed by May if permits continue to be granted as fast as in the past week.

Permits issued last week were as follows:

Building Permits

To Anna Avderich, frame garage, 18x18 feet at No. 12 Third street.

To Homer J. Monty, to alter present frame house from one story to two stories. Site, Asylum street.

To Homer J. Monty, to erect frame two car garage on Grant Court, size 17x17 feet.

To Joseph R. Yerrington, to erect one and one half frame house on Slater avenue. Size 26x32 feet. Foundation cement and stone.

To Samuel Kadish, Elizabeth street add frame veranda to present house, size 4x20 feet.

To Andy Laukso, house on Golden street extension. Two family, two story frame dwelling 26x44 feet; with 8x26 feet veranda front and back. Foundation, concrete and brick.

Thos. Gildea, garage, 512 Ocean avenue $300.

Number of permits issued for the week 16; estimated cost of buildings $40,150.

STORRS

New London architects are preparing plans for a cold storage building for the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs. The building will be 40x80 feet, with concrete floors and will be built by the owners, who will also buy all materials. It will be three stories high, of fireproof construction, of brick and steel, with a slate roof. There will be a freight elevator, compressing room, vegetable storage room, canning and drying room and packing and storage laboratories. The type of heating system has not been decided upon as yet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were 12 sales of real estate as compared with 24 in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $34,200 and $37,150.

In New London there were 10 sales of real estate during the past week as compared with 16 sales in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $60,200 and $36,300.

State Building Operations

Reports of the volume of building permits issued in April in important cities and towns throughout the country give evidence of the approach of activities which will more adequately reflect normal demand.

April totals in 333 cities were $337,822,461, compared with $361,849,492 in April, 1923, a loss of $24,027,031 or 7 per cent. With the elimination of New York City, where the volume of plans filed was excessive, the country as a whole lost nearly 12 per cent. compared with April, 1923.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Kiang in a Rage

Dearest me, I'm growing fonder
Of my little bunny rabbit,
As I sit and think and ponder
Of his kindly daily habit.

Helping mother every day
Just before he starts to play.
Little reader, you must do
Something for your mother, too.

But before I go on with this story, I must see where I left off in the last story. Oh, yes, I remember now. Peter Hippopotamus was smiling for happiness. And I'm glad he was, for all of a sudden up came Lady Elephant Alice, quite sad and dejected.

"What's the matter?" asked the little rabbit.

"Trouble, trouble!" she answered. "Kiang, the Wild Donkey couldn't find his picture in the Bunnyville Bugle last week and he's so disappointed he's going back to Asia."

"Gracious me," exclaimed Little Jack Rabbit. "I saw the kind Photographer Crane take it."

"So did I," said the Circus Elephant. "But that's all I did see."

Just then, Reddy Comb, the Rooster Newsboy explained that the picture was so dark it wouldn't print.

"Let's explain it to Kiang," suggested the kind old Elephant.

So off they went to the place where this wild, long-eared donkey lived. All of a sudden, as they stopped and looked through the wire fence there came a loud thumping on the ground and the next minute, up galloped Kiang, snorting with rage. Goodness me, but he was wild and angry. Kicking out his heels, he pushed against the wire fence and brayed:

"Don't you bring a hokus pokus,
Play-pretending camera man
'Round this way or I will kick him
Till he looks quite black and tan!"

"Oh, be nice!" said the circus elephant. "It wasn't the camera man's fault. There wasn't enough sunshine to take your picture."

"I can't help that. I did my part," replied Kiang, walking away with his long ears flapping over his eyes. And then, what do you think kind, generous Little Jack Rabbit did. He took a lollypop from his knapsack and pushed it through the fence. "Here, Kiang," he shouted, "here's a lemon lollypop. It's nice and sweet for I picked it this morning from the lollypop tree!" Well, well, well! After Kiang had eaten the lovely candy he smiled and said:

"I'd like to go where the lollypops grow,
Yellow and pink in a rainbow row."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1924

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Julie Le Moine, late of Norwich in said District, deceased.

Augustin Le Moine of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to Probate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich in said District, on the 1st day of June, A. D. 1924, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least five days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

HELEN M. DRESCHER,
may27d. Clerk.

GALES FERRY

The Queen Esther entertainment held in the vestry of the M. E. church arranged by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, the director, Thursday evening, was very successful and was well attended. The Queen Esther circle of girls, was assisted by entertainers from out of town, the program being as follows: Piano selection, Ripples of the Ocean, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt. Mrs. Hurlbutt was also accompanist for the entire program. Songs, Victory, and in the Garden, by Queen EstherGirls; solo, Bird of Love Divine (Hydyn Wood) Mrs. Robert Townsend of Uncasville; reading, The Lawndress; encore, Considering Daylite, Mrs. William T. Manning, of Yantic; violin solo, Menuetto (Mozart); encore, Fairy Tale (Komzah), Miss Roberta Bitgood, New London; tableaux, Pictures from the Poets: The Barefoot Boy, Maude Muller; Barbara Freitchie, Maidenhood, John Anderson, My Joe, Milkmaid Beggar Maid and The Best Flag, interpreted by Mrs. C. E. Colver, reader. Duet, Evening Song, Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt; harmonica solo, Sherman's March Through Georgia, Mrs. Charles Ramage, Uncasville; solo, There's a Lark in My Heart (Charles G. Spross) Mrs. Townsend; readings, The Whistling Regiment, The Village Oracle, encore, Algernon Asking Papa's Consent, Mrs. Manning. Violin solo, Gavotte (Glossec) Menuetto (Beethoven) Miss Bitgood. Tableau, Liberty, Miss Laura McGlure and a group of young girls; harmonica solo, Home, Sweet Home, Mrs. Ramage. Closing with Queen Esther Circle song. Ice cream and cake was on sale at the close of the program.

Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke from 2 Corinthians 5-19, "And hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation," preaching a Memorial Day sermon; America, the Beautiful, was sung at the offertory by an augmented choir of Queen Esther girls. Preceding the sermon Rev. Mr. Woodward spoke to the young people from the words. "Thy word is a light unto my feet and a lamp unto my path."

The evening services were omitted that all desirous might attend services in the M. E. church, New London, to hear Bishop Jones, who is attending the General Methodist Conference in Springfield, speak on southern mission work.

An attractive poster in colors has been placed on the grounds in the village and next week, instead of the usual Thursday sale, a Flag Day sale will be held Wednesday on account of the White Star line, for Cherbourg. Mr. Risdon will tour France, returning by the way of London, the trip covering about six weeks.

Preparations are going on for the annual Yale-Harvard races in June, at their respective quarters at Gales Ferry and at Red Top. The Yale crew is expected to arrive at the Ferry next Sunday, June 1.

Wilmot Benn and his sister, Miss Louise Benn, with friends, all from Hartford, and Bradford Ricketts of Greeneville, motored to the Ferry on Saturday and were guests of Mr. Benn's aunt, Mrs. Joab Rogers, for the week-end.

Memorial Day services are to be held in the vestry of the M. E. church Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock (D. S. T). Schol children have been asked to bring at least one bouquet for the soldiers' graves. The services are under the direction of Mrs. Nelson Parker. The line of march, as scheduled by Mrs. Parker, follows: Boy Scouts, veterans, ladies in drill, the school children, followed by assembly.

The annual winding of the May pole will be at the clubhouse, Wednesday, May 28th, at 5.15 o'clock (D. S. T.) under the direction of Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Mrs. Hurlbutt's mother, Mrs. C. H. Bartlett, motored to East Killingly Sunday to spend the week-end with relatives.

BALTIC

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Bousquet and Mrs. M. Blanchette of Woonsocket and Mrs. L. Rodier, of Boston, were recent visitors at Mrs. E. E. Cote's.

Wednesday evening the Franco-American club held a social and smoker for its members. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth Webster of Depot Hill, known as Grandma by everybody, was given a surprise party by friends in honor of her 77th birthday. Grandma was able to blow out all the candles on her birthday cake at a single puff. Those present were Mrs. William Young, Mrs. John Rose, Mrs. John DeGray, Mrs. Charles Barnes and Mrs. Chauncey Rouff. In the evening Wilfred Houghton surprised her with an enormous May basket filled with flowers and fruit. Mrs. Webster greatly enjoyed the celebration and appreciated the friendship which prompted it.

At the recent meeting of St. Jean Baptist Society, George Larroix and Arthur Cote were chosen delegates to the Franco-American convention to be held in Putnam in June.

Daniel Billington, of Providence a Civil war veteran, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Rose, of Depot Hill.

Mrs. Malvina Bissonette of Canterbury is visiting local relatives.

HOPKINTON

Services in the Second Seventh Day Baptist church have been temporarily suspended.

The scarlet fever patients in the vicinity appear to be making good progress toward recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Kenyon are reported to be in very feeble health.

Alonzo P. Kenyon is assisting his brother, William L. Kenyon on the farm work.

Many friends attended the funeral services Sunday afternoon for Donald Elliott Grieve, little son of Thomas N. and Jennie Louise Grieve, who met with a fatal accident near the home of his parents in Thamesville, Norwich. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway. After the services many visitors came to see the beautiful floral offerings.

Rev. A. L. Davis, pastor of the First Hopkinton S. D. B. church has been selected to deliver the Memorial Day address in Ashaway Friday next.

NORWICH MEN DEFENDANTS IN SUIT BROUGHT BY HARTFORD STENOGRAPHER

Highway accidents in which automobiles are involved continue to furnish suits for the superior court. Three of these were filed Monday at the office of Clerk George E. Parsons and are returnable in June.

Stenographer Asks $25,000.

Adelaide Geary, a stenographer, of Hartford, who was a passenger on Nov. 21, 1923 in the automobile of Harry Bland which was driven by Peter Masse, both of Hartford, has brought suit in the superior court for $25,000 damages against Bland and Masse and against the Oscar and Harry L Peterson of Norwich, comprising the Peterson or New New England Chemical Co.

It is the claim that the two cars were in collision while going in opposite directions on a curve on the highway in Franklin, in consequence of which the plaintiff sustained a concussion of the vertebrae, broken collar bone, broken rib, wrenched right arm and knee cap and other severe injuries, all of which obliged her to spend $200 for medical attendance to lose her $25 per week salary since the accident, and that she has become permanently lame and disabled.

Automobile Guest Sues.

Damages of $5000 are asked by Nora Patenaude of Norwich in a suit brought against the Connecticut Co., and Frank Hampson of Sprague in whose automobile Miss Patenaude was riding as a passenger and invited guest when the machine and a trolley car of the Connecticut Co. were in collision on the night of July 3, 1913, near Taftville junction. The trolley car and the automobile were going in opposite directions when they collided and Miss Patenaude, suffered a broken nose, right eye and eyelid injured, shock and disfigurement. She was obliged to spend a long time in a hospital, was disabled for many weeks from her trade as a weaver at which she was then earning $11.45 per week, and she has suffered much pain and been put to much expense because of her injuries. She alleges that both the trolley car and the automobile were operated a ta dangerous rate of speed at the time of the accident.

For Hitting Motor Truck.

Courey Bros., of Norwich are plaintiffs in a suit against William M. Eastwood of the same place for $1,500 damages and treble damages under the statute. It is alleged that on the night of June 17, 1923, Shadhan Courey was driving a motor truck with a load of strawberries from an intersecting highway between Norwich and Westerly when the Eastwood automobile, coming on Courey's right hand side, ran into the other machine, badly damaging it, and scattering the strawberries over the road so that they were destroyed. It cost $62.95 to repair the truck, the strawberries lost were valued at $100, the plaintiffs had to pay $20 for the use of another truck and lost more than $500 because of loss of use of their damaged motor truck, it is claimed. The plaintiffs claim the accident was caused by Eastwood failing to give their truck right of way to the intersection at which both machines arrived at approximately the same time.

DESERTION MAKES CAUSE IN FOUR DIVORCE SUITS

Five divorce suits, in four of which the grounds are desertion, were filed for the superior court with Clerk George E. Parsons here Monday and are returnable in June as follows:

Charles V. Alquist of New London seeks divorce from Effie Kenyon Alquist of Norwich on the grounds of desertion since Sept. 18, 1918. They were married July 7, 1907. He asks the custody of a minor daughter.

Elizabeth Heydecker of Stonington asks divorce from Frank A. Heydecker of Groton on the ground of his habitual intemperance for more than three years past and intolerable cruelty since Nov. 1, 1920. They were married Feb. 24, 1913. She asks alimony on the ground that he is worth $20,000 and she wants the custody of a minor daughter.

Beulah Ennis Jones of New London seeks divorce from Robert C. Jones, now of parts unknown, whom she married April 29, 1920. She charges that he deserted her May 14, 1921.

Ferguson Rennie of Groton is the petitioner for divorce from Esther Denison Rennie, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., temporarily in the town of Groton. They were married March 6, 1918 and he alleged that she deserted him Aug. 21 of the same year.

Norma Niles Montgomery of New London seeks divorce from Robert G. Montgomery of South Norwalk whom she married Dec. 1, 1923. She alleges intolerable cruelty since Feb. 1, 1924.

BOY CRAWLED OUT FROM UNDER RUNNING BOARD

A small boy named Joe Marcarelli was struck in Broad street near the corner of Lake street Monday evening by the automobile driven by Albert J. Friswell of 27 Franklin street, but received only a slight bruise on the nose.

Mr. Friswell was operating his car along Broad street at about 10 miles an hour when the boy ran from his left in front of the machine. He stopped the car in about 5 feet and the boy crawled out from under the running board, from where Mr. Friswell picked him up and carried him into his home, then to the hospital and back home again. He made report of the accident to police headquarters.

BUYS McWILLIAMS RESIDENCE ON WASHINGTON STREET

Saul Agranovitch, proprietor of the Princess Shop at 295 Main street, has bought the home of the late John McWilliams at 173 Washington street, which was formerly the residence of the late Major Leonard B. Almy and one of the finest pieces of property on that street.

Mr. Agranovitch will make alterations in the large house to transform it into modern apartments of which there will probably be four. He will occupy one for his own residence.

Amherst's First "Pond Party"

Albert F. Spelman of New London was one of a group of eight freshmen who disturbed the waters of the campus pond at Amherst College when they were thrown in by sophomores in the first "pond party" held this spring. The men were ducked for alleged breach of freshman rules and were convicted by the senate, under whose supervision the party was held.

HARTFORD DAY FOR CONNECTICUT CONSISTORY

The Hartford day rendezvous of Connecticut consistory, S. P. R. S., will be held at Foot Guard armory, Hartford, today, Tuesday, qualified candidates from Hartford and vicinity, who are members of Cyrus Goodell chapter of Rose Croix, will receive the nineteenth to thirty-second degrees inclusive. It is expected there will be a large class, as many will find it more convenient to take the Scottish Rite degrees there than go to Norwich at some later date.

The consistory will be opened at 3.30 daylight saving time, by Commander in Chief E. Allen Bidwell of Norwich and associate officers. The twenty-seventh degree, Knight Commander of the Temple, will be conferred in full at 4 o'clock. A collation will be served at the armory at 6.15.

The thirty-second degree, Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret, will be conferred in full form at 7.15. George P. Merritt, of Hartford will take the part of prince commander. The Tempo quartet of Hartford will render the ceremonial music for both degrees

Cars Collide

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, May 26—A Buick sport touring car and a Buick sedan owned respectively by Miss Edna Burgess and James Brown, both of this city, were damaged about 10.30 o'clock on Monday evening, when the first machine was struck by a Reo truck owned by Nathan Polleck of Eagleville and driven by his son, Isadore.

Polleck was attempting to come to a stop opposite the office of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company in Main street. The truck struck the touring car a forceful blow in the rear and sent it crashing into the rear of the Brown machine, some 25 feet further down the street. Both cars were unoccupied at the time. The damage to the Burgess car amounted to about $100, the front axle being bent and the gasoline tank and a front fender being demolished. The rear bumper and tail light were damaged on the sedan.

Officer Roderick Lariviere investigated the accident. The matter was reported to Captain Grady and Polleck agreed to settle for the damage.

NORWICH TOWN

In his Sunday morning sermon at the First Congregational church, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached from 1 Thessalonians 5:21. Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. A change was made in the choir for that day, a chorus chior of six women's voices taking the place of the regular choir. During his announcements, Rev. Mr. Bailey spoke of this week being designated as Civic Pride Week, and suggested that the members of his congregation do their part to keep this community as desirable and as beautiful as possible, as Norwich Town was quite in the center of the town.

Mention was also made of the Memorial service for the French soldiers of the time of the Revolution, which is to take place Thursday afternoon at 3:30 (Standard Time) at the French Boulder, in the old cemetery at Norwich Town, under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Gertrude Avery was the leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, when the assigned topic was Have Business and Commerce Helped or Hindered Missionary Work? Acts 19:23—28.

At the church night service of the Congregational church Thursday evening, The Occupation of the Land of Canaan, will be the theme for study, in the continuation of Dr. Honlines chart.

Having attended for a number of days the World Methodist conference held during this month at Springfield, Mass., Rev. James B. Aldrich pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, returned home Saturday evening. The conference closes the latter part of this week.

At the Methodist church Sunday, Rev. Mr. Aldrich led the opening service. The address was by Rev. Harry Olcott of Hartford, who spoke on Prohibition and the Anti-Saloon League, Rev. Mr. Olcott being a representative of the league. The Scripture reference was from the beatitudes, Matthew 5:6. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness; for they shall be filled.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service had for its leader, Joseph Olsen. The topic was—Have Business and Commerce Helped or Hindered Missionary Work?

This was followed by a talk by Rev. Mr. Aldrich who chose for his text Psalms 103—13. Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street, accompanied by friends motored to Willimantic, recently and called on Mrs. Geer's cousin Mrs. Layman Main, also on Mrs. Ellen Rogers, who is nearly 90, and who was taken for an automobile ride into Windham and back in Mrs. Geer's new sedan. Mrs. Geer also visited in Noank on one of her recent motor outings.

Colby of Mystic and Mrs. Edward Case of Baltic, for the Twentieth district. Following these reports will be the report of the nominating committee and election of officers. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock by the Uncasville league.

The speakers of the afternoon will be Miss Edna L. Tyler, president of the New London league, who will give a report of the National convention recently held in Buffalo, which she attended as a state delegate; George R. Sturgis of Hartford, a member of the Connecticut board of education, who will speak on Facts on Education in Connecticut.

JOSEPH MERINO JAILED FOLLOWING LIQUOR RAID

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, May 26—The Merino homestead, on the back road of the Flanders district was raided by state police officers Monday night shortly after 7 o'clock and four gallons of moonshine were seized as evidence against Joseph Merino, head of the house. He was at once taken before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews on charges of actual sale and possession with intent to sell. He was found guilty and fined $400 and costs and a 60 days jail sentence was imposed. He appealed to the superior court and went to jail in default of $1,000 bonds. Officer Hardisty took him to jail. Robert E. Brooks of Coventry, prosecuted.

The case is scheduled to be heard in the superior court the first Tuesday in June. The raiding crew consisted of State Policemen Hardisty, Hulburt and Heinold of the Stafford Springs Barracks.

In his defense Merino stated that he knew nothing about the presence of liquor on the premises. The officers alleged that they knew of the existence of a quantity of liquor on the evening of a dance hall at the Merino place, Saturday night. Merino's sister, Josephine, is now serving a four month's jail sentence in the Tolland county jail, imposed upon her in the superior court of that county on her fourth conviction for violation of the liquor law.

SPIRITUAL UNION ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Reports of the secretary and treasurer of the First Spiritual Union which were presented at the annual meeting Monday evening at Spiritual Academy showed the union to be in a most satisfactory condition. Rev. A. P. Blinn, the pastor, presided at the meeting, which elected the following officers and committees: Clerk, Mrs. C. A. Dowsett; treasurer, William F. Bogue; auditors, Mrs. A. P. Blinn, Miss Mary Hill, Mrs. Mary Beebe; speakers' committee, Rev. A. P. Blinn, W. F. Bogue, Mrs. Nathan Brewster, Mrs. Gertrude Tootill, Charles A. Dowsett; music, C. A. Dowsett, Mrs. M. E. Twist, Mrs. Maud Baker; floral, Mrs. John Bliven, Mrs. Joseph Mackey, Mrs. Charlotte Powell, Mrs. Louis Russell.

The regular service at the Academy will be resumed on the first Sunday in October with Mrs. Isabell Bradley as the speaker.

FINED $75 ON CHARGE OF MOTOR LAW VIOLATION

Louis S. Brinkman of 41 Union street whose automobile was in collision Sunday night at the corner of Fifth and North Main street with the car of Joseph G. Cormier was fined $75 and costs in the city court Monday morning on the charge of evading responsibility in driving away after the accident. He paid $90.68.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE IN WASHINGTON SQUARE

Anthony Dombrofski of South Coventry reported to police headquarters Monday night that his automobile had been run into on Washington square late in the afternoon by a machine with the registration number XK-586. He did not secure the name of the owner of the car. He stated that he was obliged to come to a stop because of a trolley car and that the other machine ran into the rear of his car. Both machines were damaged.

Give Pretty May Party

A pretty May party was held Sunday evening at the home of Miss Ethel Levine at 218 West Main street. The tasteful decorations were in a color scheme of red, white and blue. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and other amusements and refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were the Misses Leah Addlestone, Bessie Yalen, Dora Safen, Rae Seifer, Rae Novick, Sadie Mopstick, Anna Hecht, Anna Blinderman, Fannie Lavine, Ethel Levine and Harry Monica, Sam Monica, Bobby Millstein, Lewis Arenson, Jack Bronerweine, Harry Smith, Sam Sussler, Barney Sussler, Jack Miller and Hyman Slosberg.

POETRY

Manna

Across the debris of the dingy street
The serried clotheslines of the tenements—
It comes to me; the music of the Grail
Tannhauser, and the strains of Lohengrin;
Poor and Lucia's 'coloratura" woe—
Such marvels do my magic wires be stow!

My garret room shows but a scrap of sky;
Without, the East side seethes, vociferate
With pushcart traffic and the alley's strife;
But, what of that? Above the serried din,
For my soul's feast, God's blessed mercies bring
The ecstasies of Heifetz' violin;
Or Kreisler's; or perchance there flee to me
Isolde's Love Death—surging passionate
To raptures blind and breathless!
Ah, dear Lord—
How life upleaps! How faded hope and dreams
Kindle to lustrous splendor once again!
How olden, golden faiths crowd, clear grous,
Spurning the famished years! For a swift hour
The shimmering heights are [illegible]
Archangel wings
Brushclose at hand, in burning majesty—

Oh, miracle that soothes the woes of want
And bitter solitude! Wrought in what way
I know not; save that, from the sky
From Heaven's infinity, His ravens fly
To fetch the foods of God to such as I
—Laura Simmons in the New York Sun.

Threnody in Major and Minor

I will run out and wet my lips with dew,
And thrust aside the alders in the hollows,
And take a path that leads me up and through
The veering wayward flying of the swallows,
Until the hawk and osprey droop below,
Leaving the eagle pair above the snow;
The scent of small warm flowers, the scent of dry
Lichen and juniper will pass me by.
And in the wrinkled mosses and the rocks
My shoe will crush the salmon of the phlox.
I'll gather up the gold beneath the firs
And toss it high and higher, till there stirs
The sleepy cawing syllable of day.
When I will stretch my body to the sun
Where drowsy mountain bees and grasses swoon.
I will await the dusk, the starry skies
The evening cool and intimate and wise;
And darkness like a hand silent to close
Whose clocks no longer mark the passing hour:
I will dream well the dream of trees that spills
Into the desolate sweet loneliness of hills!

JEWETT CITY

Adjutant Gilbert Miner issues the following:

"To-day we shall celebrate a holiday ... devoted to our soldier dead. A grateful nation stops the hum of business, that it may pay tribute to the men that have served it in the difficult days of war. We ... those that have drenched our battlefields with their life's blood and those who fought through all our ... to victorious finish, ... given their life's burdens in ... peace.

The first blood ... drops ... the soil of the United ... patriots who ... the ... destroyed ... freedom ... for all time. Every war that ... the clash of American ... has been initiated by the ... purpose of absolute freedom and ... quility for all. No nation that ... world has ever known has fought ... wars with as unselfish motives as our own country. It has ... and ... the ... of oppressed peoples and nations. ... same unselfish spirit that ... your country and mine the ... nations of the ... today.

In our ... pride, we pause once a year for twenty-four hours, ... honor to the noble men and ... who have made this great ... possible.

The ... loyalty and devotion ... have for our country are marked in the fast colors in the Stars and Stripes of our beautiful flag. As that American flag floats in the breeze, it bums the glory of past achievements and it represents the freedom that has been bought and maintained at the price of much human bloodshed. Shall that flag be only a brilliantly colored emblem which lacks the power to defend its citizens against the attacks of unjust aggressions and selfish nations? Shall its colors fade and its glory fade with it?

This calamity must never happen. It has not happened in the past and it must not happen in the future! The years pass quickly and some day we will carry on the great work of loyal and I hope peaceful service to our country. The youth of today becomes the loyal defender of tomorrow.

Those that have gone before have given us a glorious example of abiding patriotism. We shall honor their memories Friday. We shall place fresh flowers upon their grave as a token of the esteem in which we hold them.

There is still a better way to honor their memories. That way inspires us to imitate their patriotic example. We should resolve to become loyal and dutiful citizens of the greatest country in God's world today. We shall pledge to our flag the labor of our lives as law-abiding citizens in peace and as loyal defenders if it ever needs our service. This is the most practical way to honor the memories of those who have served their country with the gift of all that they possessed ever life itself. Always cherish ... your hearts the memory of their sacrifices and if you will only do this then we need have no fear for the future of our country, the greatest in God's universe. With your loyal support, it will retain the great pinnacle of honor which it holds today in war, first in peace, ... by all the nations of the world."

The ex-service men and all orders ... are to take part in the parade Friday have been asked to be at the ... not later than 9 o'clock (D. S. T.) ... parade will start as ... after that as possible.

All ex-service men are being requested to turn out and help make it a big day.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Kirkman's Soap

Do women read advertisements? Physchologists have recently been studying this question and have found most interesting facts.

Questions have been asked of thousands of women, and the answers reveal that the ads they really read are the ones with "human interest." The ads that tell a woman things that affect her own welfare, her own life—that give her something, some information that she needs,—these are the kind of ads she reads. Too many ads, the women find, are those that "have an axe to grind."

Based on this sound idea of advertising,—that women read only the ads that are helpful to them—a big advertising campaign, educational in ... has been launched by one of the oldest soap manufacturing companies, Kirkman and Son. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The last half of this week at the Broadway theatre boasts of several special attractions.

Loretta Higgins, Norwich's own star, and Hazel Hurd, a rare combination of New England and the west, will be the feature attraction. Miss Higgins whose home is in this city and whose rise to prominence in the musical and dramatic worlds is well known to her townspeople who so enthusiastically greeted her at the Slater hall concern in October upon her return from Europe, paying $2.50 admission to hear her sing, will again give the town a thrill in the offering she will present at the Broadway theatre the last half of this week.

Mr. Davidson, the manager of the Broadway and Strand theatres has always given the Norwich public the best money could buy and he should be complimented on securing the services of Miss Higgins in this special program.

In addition he will offer four exceptionally fine Keith vaudeville acts consisting of A Reel Romance, which is a miniature musical comedy with six people in two scenes; Faber Bros., in sensational gymnasts; Bert and Lottie Walton, the sunshine pair, and Florence Tivoli and Earl La Vere, a classy little couple.

The photoplay is Dorothy Dalton in The Moral Sinner.

Manager Davidson offers this superlative program at regular prices of matinees 25c; and evenings 35 and 50c.

Strand Theatre

He rides like a Mix, he's as nimble as a Fairbanks, he's as good-looking as a Valentino and he has a personality that induces that warm glow of goodfellowship that you only feel for real friends!

Fred Thomson we're talking about, and he's coming to the Strand theatre for two days beginning Friday in Dangerous Coward, the kind of a Western picture you've been hoping they'd make.

You're going to like Dangerous Coward. It's got everything that picture fans love and a whole lot of things they very seldom get!

Wait 'till you see Fred Thomson in this hundred horsepower action drama of the west. Personality and "pep" are his middle names and you're going to put him at the head of your list of favorite stars.

A comedy and news will be the short subjects.

There will be a continous show Friday and Saturday.

Palace Theatre

Norma Talmadge and Joseph Schildkraut—the supreme tragedienne—the most magnetic lover. Here is a new alliance which film fans will anticipate with interest. Norma and Schildkraut will make their first appearance together in The Song of Love, a story of barbaric life and love on the border of the Arabian desert at the Palace theatre Friday and Saturday.

Schildkraut, her new leading man, has had a successful career in drama in Europe and America. In films his performance in Orphans of the Storm was a distinct triumph. His career in films since has been watched with keen interest.

In The Song of Love, a First National release, Norma and Schildkraut have two unusual roles. Norma, as a primitive, half-barbaric Arabian dancing girl, has a part fraught with the tragic and turbulent passion of a Camille. It is a part calling for an abandon and dramatic ardor beyond anything she has ever attempted. All the fierce, primitive emotion of the hot Arabian desert, the bizarre color and stirring romance of the orient are embodied in her role.

The Song of Love was directed by Chester Franklin for release by Producer Joseph M. Schenck. The beautiful photoplay is credited to Gaetano Gaudio, while the picturesque sets were designed by Stephen Goosson.

Added attraction first episode of H. C. Witwer's Cosmopolitan Magazine stories The Telephone Girl with bewitching Alberta Vaughn and star cast, and which will be shown every other week thereafter, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

At last the stereoscopic motion picture—the goal toward which scientist, inventor and experimenter have been striving ever since the first motion picture flashed on the screen—is a reality. The illusion of depth as well as breadth and height—the "third dimension" which makes figures or objects on the screen "stand out" in a life-like and startling manner, appearing to leave the screen and come within arm's reach of the spectator—is now available to every motion picture theatre through the invention of Mr. Frederic Eugene Ives.

Mr. Ives is the inventor of the half-tone process of photo-engraving, the three color process engravings, and half a hundred inventions in the field of color photography and printing.

The first picture made by this method, which is known as the Ives-Leventhal process, has had a successful New York tryout at the famous Rivoli and Rialto theatres on Broadway. So startling were the effects seen by the spectators that they experienced an entirely new set of thrills when articles were seemingly thrust in their faces from the screen, or when a beautiful girl held a foaming drink out to them, or when taken for a thrilling and dangerous ride in a speeding automobile. So real was the illusion that audiences shrieked with laughter or surprise or gasped at the thrills.

A leaking roof at the Central fire station on Academy street has obligated contracting to have the structure reroofed. The roofing is of the graveled type. This will be removed, in so far as may be necessary, and replaced. The reroofing operatino will be the first since the structure was built.

Numbers of varieties of flowers that usually have a part in decorations of churches and halls on Memorial day, will be missing this year in this territory. Lilacs are scarce, but some are in bloom and will be available. The beautiful and colorful cheese blossoms are almost unobtainable and laurel is not in flower yet.

Tuesday morning, the funeral of Mrs. Dina LeClare was held from her home in Moosup with services at All Hallows' church, Rev. J. E. McCarthy, Rev. J. C. Mathieu of Wauregan and Rev. Oscar Normand being officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. Relatives from Danielson were numbered among the funeral congregation. Burial was in All Hallows' cemetery. The bearers were William LeClare, Frank LeClare, Albert LeClare Thomas LeClare, Henry Parr and Cleophan Auger. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

PUTNAM

Putnam Lodge of Elks held what will probably be its last big night before the summer season, when a class of candidates numbering 40 were initiated, at the regular session Tuesday night. The lodge rooms soon to be enlarged, were extremely crowded as there was a large attendance of members in addition to the candidates. Following the closing of the lodge the grill committee served lunch. At the next regular meeting, June 10th, Flag Day exercises will be held.

Two of the towns adjoining Putnam, Pomfret and Thompson, have plans all made for Memorial Day. In Pomfret the residents will unite in a general observance of the day. At 10.30 o'clock in the morning, all the school children of the town, headed by a band, will march to the memorial boulder at "The Corners" where they will sing patriotic songs, hear an address and listen to selections by the band. At noon a community dinner will be served at the Congregational church. Following the dinner the address of the day will be delivered from the church steps by Rev. Beach Olmsted, head master of Pomfret school. The services of all church choirs have been enlisted for the afternoon exercises.

Veteran organizations of Thompson, working together, have arranged for Memorial Day as follows: Officers and members of the G. A. R., members of the American Legion and its auxiliary, Garde National No. 45, Sons of Veterans, all veterans of the Civil Spanish and World wars, whether members of any organization or not, will meet at American Legion hall at 5.45 o'clock, Friday morning. At 6 o'clock the parade will form and the column will march to Swanson [illegible] where services will be conducted by Rev. C. A. Linderall; thence to the church crossing, where flowers will be strewn on the waters of the river for the soldiers and sailors buried at sea; from there to the Catholic cemetery, where services will be conducted by Rev. B. M. Donnolly, pastor of St. Joseph's church, preceding the decoration of graves.

At 6 o'clock the column will march to the cemetery at North Grosvenordale, where services will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Newton; then to Monument square where the column will halt; thence back to the hall where the marshal will order detachments to decorate the graves at the Upham and Coman cemeteries.

The column is due at the Fabyan cemetery at 8 a. m. and after prayer and patriotic exercises, graves will be decorated.

At 9.15 the column will meet the citizens, and a service consisting of prayer and song will be held, preceding the decoration of graves.

The procession will stop at Porter Plain at 10.15 where similar exercises and decoration of graves will take place. Halting at the King's Daughters' hall, East Thompson, luncheon will be served. At East Thompson cemetery, following the luncheon, the exercises will be conducted by the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. J. R. Miller, and graves will be decorated.

At 12.45 the procession will halt at the cemetery in Thompson Center, and with patriotic exercises will decorate the monuments of the Civil and Spanish war veterans.

The column is due to reach the West Thompson cemetery at about 1 o'clock where the day's observance will be concluded with patriotic exercises.

The officer of the day is P. L. Duhamel, marshal; C. A. Seaver; commander, F. A. Pelletier; treasurer, George E. Whitney.

O'LEARY VS. DELAGE CASE TRIED BEFORE JUDGE GREENE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, May 27.—Before Judge Gardiner Greene of Norwich, acting as state referee, that case of Margaret O'Leary vs. Valerie Delage, as executrix of the estate of Captain Remie Delage, of the Putnam police force, killed in an automobile accident in May, 1923, went to trial, Tuesday morning. The action is a proceeding in equity to have set aside a deed executed by the plaintiff, who is now in Ireland, to the late Remie Delage, conveying the so-called O'Leary block on Main street, for the price of $11,000. The complaint sets forth that the property is worth $16,000, that Mrs. O'Leary at the time she executed the deed was so feeble in mind as not to be able to properly handle her property and that the execution of the deed was caused by the fraud, duress and undue influence of the defendant and his agent, P. J. Ryan, a Putnam insurance agent.

The case for the plaintiff was opened with the reading of depositions taken in Ireland. These were four in number, one of the plaintiff, Margaret O'Leary, and one of each of two cousins, Josie O'Leary and Julia Deskin, and the fourth of Martin Callihan of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ireland.

Mrs. O'Leary told of meeting Mrs. P. J. Ryan on the street in Putnam, of subsequently being invited to the Ryan home for dinner and later of working in the Ryan household for $5 a week. While in the Ryan home Mr. Lombardo, Putnam fruit dealer, asked her to sell him her property for $13,000. She asked $15,000 but later agreed to sell for $14,500, with part mortgage. When Mr. Ryan heard of this deal he was angry and told her the property was worth sixteen to eighteen thousand, that she would have trouble getting the mortgage money, and that he would try to get the place back for her.

He urged her to give up the sale. She went to Webster to stay with a cousin, leaving the matter in Ryan's hands.

In May 1921 she talked with Mr. Ryan about selling him the property for $14,000 cash. He brought her a paper to sign and she signed it without reading it.

She consulted Attorney Love in Webster relative to her agreement with Ryan and the attorney told her she did not need to sell it as the paper was not sufficient. She broke off the deal.

Delage soon called and offered $12,000 for the property and then offered $10,000. She was ill at the time. Was in such a state she didn't know what she was doing. Delage called Ryan, who drew up a paper which she signed. Later she dropped into Ryan's office to rest and he told her she would have to sign the deed or be arrested. She signed in fear of being arrested. Later she was taken to Ireland.

In Josie O'Leary's deposition it was stated by witness that in August Mrs. O'Leary wrote her that she was being cheated out of her property and asked her to come to Putnam. The letter was rambling. When she reached Putnam Mrs. O'Leary had a wild look and would say nothing except to keep repeating: "My property, my property." Mrs. O'Leary remained sitting on a sofa rigging her hands and refused to eat. Witness sent for Murphy and put Mrs. O'Leary to bed. Took her on troller ride next day. She talked wildly all the time and attracted attention. Ryan came to the house and she said to him: "See what you have done; see the state you have got her into!" Ryan said he wasn't responsible. He came with the balance of the purchase money. Offered check to Mrs. O'Leary but she refused it. Asked Ryan why he had threatened to arrest her and he said he didn't mean it that way. A mental nurse was sent for and came from New York and Mrs. O'Leary was taken away the following day.

In Julia Deskin's deposition she stated that she was about to go to Ireland, so took charge of Mrs. O'Leary. On the voyage over Mrs. O'Leary was depressed and kept crying. Passing through Dublin Mrs. O'Leary would stop and remark: "I have lost my property," so as to attract attention.

Martin Callahan's deposition set forth that he was present when Mrs. O'Leary gave her deposition and that she was intelligible. He gathered that she had had trouble over her property in Connecticut and that her mental state had been affected thereby. He did not think she was in condition to return to Connecticut, as the excitement of it might cause a relapse.

Sister Catherine, of the order of the Sisters of Mercy since 1895, a sister of Mrs. O'Leary, was the first witness called. She is now in a school at Milford, this state. She said Mrs. O'Leary had talked with her about business matters and in 1920 told her of the Lombardo deal and of the deed having been avoided. She had knowledge of the transaction from Mrs. Ryan, with whom Mrs. O'Leary went to live in July 1921. Mrs. Ryan visited witness, then living in Hartford, after first telephoning that Mrs. O'Leary was in a state of collapse, on account of the property deal with Lombardo. Mrs. Ryan said the deal was made without the knowledge of her or her husband. She said that following the deal she found Mrs. O'Leary in a state of collapse and called in Dr. Murphy. She mentioned that the property was undersold and that the mortgage was a bad part of the bargain, as it would keep Mrs. O'Leary in this country. Said she could break the deed, as the paper wasn't sufficient and even if it was she could call on Dr. Murphy to say that Mrs. O'Leary was not fit to make the deed. Asked her permission to break the deed and was told that if it was necessary to save her sister's mind, to do so.

Later she met Mr. and Mrs. Ryan in Putnam. Mrs. Ryan let slip that they, the Ryans, were disappointed because they wanted the property. This surprised witness, who had considered the Ryans disinterested friends.

In May Mrs. O'Leary wrote witness that she had as god as sold the property to the Ryans for $14,000 cash. This money was never delivered and the deed dropped.

August 15, 1921, she came to Putnam in response to telephone call and went to home of her sister. Mrs. O'Leary looked strange and was not normal. Sat motionless and when she did speak it was always about her property. She spoke of the checks as "tainted money".

Ryan had just been there and left the checks which were on the table. She finally took the checks and gave them to Lawyer Carpenter. She asked Mr. Ryan how he could further another deal (the Delage deal) when he had not cancelled his own deal. Ryan said he was never seriously considering buying the property, but only doing what he did to protect Mrs. O'Leary and keep her from being bothered. Said that Delage first offered $13,000, then $12,000 and then $11,000, as the "jumps downward" wouldn't seem so big.

The nurse sent for, Miss Margaret O'Rourke, who took Mrs. O'Leary away, died two months ago.

When the case was resumed in the afternoon, Dr. Charles G. Brink of New York, a specialist on mental disorders, was the first witness. He examined Mrs. O'Leary in September 1921 and in his opinion at that time and in the August previous, based on observations of her, she was a "sharp example of melancholia," had had it for a number of months and was incapable of transacting business; was not capable of understanding what she was doing.

Miss Josephine Merane of Providence, a cousin, told of Delage calling at Mrs. O'Leary's home. She heard a part of the conversation over the sale of the property. Mrs. O'Leary cried and complained that other dealers hadn't treated her right. Delage said he would treat her right. He offered her $13,000 and she said she didn't know what to do. On a second visit Delage told her the property wasn't worth that and offered $11,000. She said "Oh, dear! What am I going to do?" At night she couldn't sleep and was in an hysterical condition. Told of the incident when Miss Josie O'Leary asked Ryan why he threatened Mrs. O'Leary and of the checks being on the table. Heard Ryan say that the property would suit him nicely; that he could use the upstairs tenement and down stairs for his office. Ryan said Mrs. O'Leary had promised to marry a man named Peterson and advised her to sell her property, as Peterson might sue her for breach of promise. Ryan said Lombardo asked him to put the deal through and Ryan said he had rather be a thief for $500 than for $300. Her mental condition was anything but normal.

Melisa Donovan of Pittsfield, Mass., corroborated the previous witness' testimony.

A. Newton Vaughn, Putnam insurance and real estate dealer, said he was agent for Mrs. O'Leary for a time but severed his relations with her because he didn't think she was capable of transacting business and was afraid of getting into trouble. He gave instances of Mrs. O'Leary's peculiar actions and of her continually changing her mind. He valued the property at $15,000 in 1921, but said values have since fallen. He said John B. Byrne, state bank commissioner, had made an offer of $15,000; also Augustus Giraca.

Attorney Joseph A. Love testified that he acted in an advisory capacity to Mrs. O'Leary in 1921 and continually cautioned her not to sign any documents, bue she did not heed this advice. He talked with the Ryans about Mrs. O'Leary's agreement to sell to them and told them they would have to give more, or he would see that the deal did not go through. Mrs. O'Leary said she was forced into it. It was his opinion that Mrs. O'Leary was not capable of transacting business.

Thomas Moore of Webster knew Mrs. O'Leary and she visited at his house. She acted strangely and at times wouldn't speak.

Mollie Elisbeth Smythe and Margaret McSoley, nurses to patients afflicted with mental disorders, saw Mrs. O'Leary when she was taken to New York by a nurse. She was continually bemoaning her property loss and saying that her property had been stolen from sher. Both gave their opinions that Mrs. O'Leary was incapable of transacting business.

Daniel Byrne, treasurer of the Putnam Savings Bank, said that he had known Mrs. O'Leary 25 years and that in his opinion she was not capable of transacting business. He produced a receipt for $5,500 from Peter J. Ryan as agent for Mrs. O'Leary. In a talk with the Ryans and slater of Mrs O'Leary, the Ryans claimed they were responsible for stopping the Lombardo deal. He valued the property at $15,000.

PATROLMAN RYAN ARRESTED; LIQUOR TOTING CHARGED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, May 27.—John T. Ryan, patrolman on the Putnam police force, was arrested shortly after 1 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, on a bench warrant issued by the state's attorney's office, charging in the complaint that Ryan, on the 27th day of June, 1923, transported liquor, to wit, 30 cases of beer, containing 24 bottles each, without having a government permit therefor. The arrest was made quietly by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, who took Ryan immediately to the office of the clerk of the court where, with an hour, Ryan furnished a bond of $1,000 with Alderman E. C. Rogers, landlord of the Putnam Inn, as surety.

Ryan was not on duty when arrested. He has been performing night duty but asked for a leave of absence Monday and Tuesday nights. Monday, Ryan went fishing, when he was supposed to be present as the chief witness at the city court in the 43 cases which grew out of the raid on the Polish Alliance club, on Main street. The few who knew at that time that he was wanted by the authorities were of the opinion that he had heard of this fact and had left town. This was not so; he returned home Monday night and the arrest followed.

The arrest of Ryan is believed to be the result of the trial of Samuel Smith of the City Hotel, April 22nd, when probable cause was found and Smith was held for the superior court for violation of the liquor law. At the trial of Smith the defendant's wife and daughter testified that Policeman Ryan had been to Providence with Smith, not only once, but on several occasions, when liquor was brought back to the hotel. The only definite date fixed was that of June 27, 1923, which date is named in the complaint of the state's attorney.

Ryan denied that he had ever been engaged in transporting liquor, also denied that he had ever driven Smith's automobile except on one occasion for a short distance, on School street, in Putnam.

The testimony regarding a city policeman was of a startling nature and caused much speculation and comment. The mayor was asked if any action was to be taken regarding the charges made against Ryan but stated that none were at that time. Alderman Labby of the police committee also stated that no action had been taken or was contemplated and that no complaint had come to the police department. Ryan resumed his duties on the force and has continued to act ever since.

The arrest of Ryan was accomplished so quietly that it was some hours before knowledge of it became general and then it was the sole topic of conversation on the street.

The bench warrant was issued by Judge John P. Kellogg yesterday and is returnable to the criminal side of the superior court, which is now in adjournment without date.

The bench warrant was issued at the instance of State's Attorney Charles E. Searls as the result of testimony given in the trial of Samuel Smith. Ryan was one of the officers who took part in the raid on Smith's place.

A $15,000 suit alleging false arrest and brought by Mrs. Lea Smith, wife of the hotel keeper, against Ryan and four other policemen of the local force, is pending.

WESTERLY

Maurice Handleman, 29, completing a sentence at the state prison for robbery in a Westerly bank on Aug. 22, 1922, was rearrested at once and started for Portland, Me., to answer for a $10,000 diamond robbery.

Handleman was taken into custody on a fugitive from justice warrant by Inspector Tidd. Inspector McDonald of the Portland police arrived here Tuesday morning and Handleman, waiving extradition, was soon on his way to Maine.

Handleman, known as "Worcester Red," is said to be wanted in several other eastern cities. He was pursued by Assistant Manager Lewis Stanton, of the Westerly branch of the Industrial Trust Co., after he had entered the bank building on High street, held up a clerk behind the grating and grabbed a sum of money and hurriedly left the bank. The chase led into Wilcox park and Handleman disappeared after leaving the park by the upper High street entrance. Later while walking down High street in company with Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown Manager Stanton recognized the bank thief, although the crook had purchased and was wearing a cap and suit of overalls purchased at a clothing store. Attorney Clarence E. Roche was passing on the sidewalk at the time and at Stanton's direction seized and held the man until assisted by the bank manager. His arrest by Chief of Police Brown quickly followed with later presentation in court.

He gave his name as George Ricker, but was identified by photographs and finger prints. He was sentenced to two years for theft Feb. 21, 1923, after contesting every point in the trial.

He had served one year, three months and five days and with credits for good behavior was due to leave the prison Tuesday morning.

Eminent Sir Charles M. Kobbe, commander, P. E. Sir Samuel Girven, and Generalissimo Arthur C. Thompson, of Narragansett Commandery No. 27, Knights Templars, of Westerly attended the 118th semi-annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Massachusetts and Rhode Island held at Freemason's hall, Providence, Tuesday. Right Eminent Charles R. Hunt of New Bedford, Grand Commander, presided. The session opened at 10.30 o'clock and was attended by representatives from the 52 commanderies of this jurisdiction.

The business of the session consisted principally of reports of standing committees. Upon adjournment about 12.30 o'clock the members went to the Pomham Club for dinner. In the evening the May meeting of the Past Commanders' association, of which Grand Generalissimo Clarence M. Dunbar, is president was held at the Rhode Island Country club with an elaborate dinner.

Arguments in the equity suit brought by Henry L. Burdick and Everett A. Kingsley to determine the validity of the assessment of a sewer tax in June last year in the "first drainage district" of the town of Westerly were submitted Monday in briefs before the supreme court. The tax was 15 cents on each $100 or ratable real and personal property.

The complainants seek an injunction to restrain the town from collecting the tax. A preliminary hearing was held some months ago before Judge Chester W. Barrows in Superior Court, and the suit was certified to the supreme court.

Three questions of law are raised: First, whether real estate not abutting on a sewer, tangible personal property and intangible personal property can be taxed under section 14 of Chapter 1449, Public Laws of 1916; second, did the action of the Town Council in fixing the rate of the sewer tax of 1923 instead of the pro rata amount by it found reasonable and necessary, as provided by said section 14, invalidate the tax; and third, is the tax assessed under section 14 illegal for want of specific notice?

This year separate notices are given, one of the town assessment and the other on the assessment of the "first drainage district" by Tax Assessors Howard Thorp, Walter C. Hiscox and William H. Ledward.

Chapman; Gold Star mothers, Civil War veterans, Sons of Veterans, and Spanish war veterans in automobiles.

The memorial exercises at River Bend cemetery will be in charge of Amos P. Chapman, commander of Budlong post, G. A. R. The program for the exercises at the cemetery follows: Music, Nearer, My God to Thee, Westerly band; prayer, Rev. A. L. Schoning; G. A. R. memorial service, Budlong post; address, Rev. J. J. Keane; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Frank Acolina; necrology, Rogers E. Trainer; music, America, band and audience; taps, Boy Scout buglers; benediction, Rev. A. L. Schoning.

The first annual meeting of the Young Women's Community association of Westerly was attended by 175 members, at Calvary Baptist church, Monday evening. In the vestry, at 6.45 the members were seated at long tables, the color scheme of decoration being pink and white, the flowers being apple blossems and dogwood, with lighted pink candles. The supper served was:

Chicken Salad
Potato Chips — Biscuits
Coffee — Wafers
Vanilla Ice Cream

After the supper, Mrs. C. Palmer Chapman, a member of the Westerly town committee, gave a short talk on the importance of early registration. She was followed by Miss Phoebe F. Perry, who outlined the work planned by the Women's Civic and Social clubs in the two voting district of Westerly. Miss Mabel A. Saunders, deputy town clerk of Westerly, presented figures which showed comparative registrations in 1922, 1923 and so far in 1924 for women voters in Westerly.

Later the business meeting was held at which reports were read by the secretary, Helen T. Greene; treasurer, Alice Culley for the civics class; H. Louise Ayers; basketry class, Miss Lucy Crowley's report being read by Mrs. Green; millinery class, Miss Vennard, no report. The nominating committee's report was read by Miss Mabel A. Saunders, chairman, election resulting as follows:

President, Sallie E. Coy; vice president, Mary T. Thorp; secretary, Christine Krebs; treasurer, Alice E. Culley; executive committee, H. Louise Ayers, Mrs. Robert Barr, Mrs. Charles E. Mayne, Miss Phebe F. Perry, Mrs. Ralph Segar, Mrs. Franklin Smith, Mrs. Farquhar Smith and Mrs. George G. Stillman.

At the conclusion of the business session, Miss Phoebe Perry presented President Sally E. Coy a bouquet of sweet peas and mignonettes. Song were sung and then an adjournment was taken to the auditorium, where following another musical selection Mrs. Ernest E. Morrill entertained in costume with an impersonation of a Hindu woman. A closing song ended the evening's session.

Paul F. Lewis has entered the employ of the Higgins pharmacy in Pawcatuck.

Lewis M. Oat of Norwich was a business caller in Westerly Tuesday.

COLUMBIA

Fred Holt, Miss Marjory Holt, Miss Sarah Hutchinson and Mrs. Adams of Rockville were guests of Miss Eliza Hutchins Sunday, and attended church.

The Columbia Improvement society held a meeting Friday evening at the town hall attended by seventeen persons.

There was a continuance of the discussion at previous meetings, on the construction and location of the proposed roads leading to and from the main road to the church, town hall and chapel, which resulted in no action being taken, no decision having been reached.

Rev. Charles C. Haun took as the subject of his sermon Sunday morning a study of the fifth chapter of St. John's gospel, especially referring to the healing of a man sick with an infirmity for 38 years, whom he healed on the Sabbath day and to which the Jews objected.

Miss Ina of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived Saturday at her cottage by the lake.

Memorial day there will be patriotic exercises at the church at 10 a. m., to consist of songs and recitations by the children and an address by the pastor, Rev. Charles C. Haun, after which the graves of the soldiers in the cemeteries at the Center will be decorated.

The decoration of the graves in the West street cemetery will be held at 8.30 a. m., thereby enabling the West street residents to attend the memorial exercises at the church.

The exercises are in charge of the ex-service men of Columbia, who are urging all to join in observing Memorial day.

TIME FOR A CHANGE.

Looking back over the past two years of municipal activities Norwich has no difficulty in recalling the large appropriations that have been made for public works, the calls for additional appropriations and the failure even then to accomplish what was intended. It knows the record that has been established in connection with the work on the streets, the large amount that has been expended for it, and the poor showing that has been made. Norwich has been appropriating its money generously and, because of the way in which it has been used, there is little to show for it. Economy and efficiency have been lacking.

When such conditions prevail it is evident that the time has come for a change. That feeling was fully manifested a year ago and it has been strongly augmented since that time. The opportunity to insure the city a prudent and efficient administration of its affairs in all departments is open to the voters of Norwich in the city election next Monday.

It is time for insuring a city government that will do something, that will furnish a businesslike administration, that will insist upon a careful and conscientious use of public funds, that will overcome the wasteful tendency and that will make the taxpayers' money accomplish the purposes desired.

No mistake should be made about it. This is not going to be accomplished by staying at home, by leaving it to the other fellow to do the voting or by taking no interest at the very time when it lies within the power of the voters to say what kind of a government they want for the next two years.

Let there be no apathy on the part of the republicans and those voters who are desirous of good government. On the republican ticket there have been placed men who have made a success of their own business, or who have successfully administered responsible positions of trust. It is time to get the benefit of their services in the conduct of city affairs. Norwich needs the advice of such keen and able citizens and it should insure the election of the entire ticket as printed above next Monday.

GUARDING THE COURTS.

When a judge dismisses a jury without expressing the thanks of the court there are grounds for the belief that the service it has been endeavoring to perform is unsatisfactory. It is not often that such a situation exists but there have been cases of that kind and when they occur they invariably make an impression.

In the criminal superior court at Springfield this week, the judge, upon the recommendation of the district attorney, discharged the jury panel and terminated the session of court after only a few cases had been tried. A belief had been demonstrated in the court that the jurors were not doing their duty. In two cases the evidence was declared to have been fully established and where conviction was expected and warranted there were returned verdicts of not guilty. To the district attorney and to the judge it was apparent that influences were at work in the jury panel to prevent justice from being meted out to go on with the trials under such circumstances would simply be making a farce of the criminal courts.

Just how the circumstances were arranged that it would have been impossible to have accomplished anything in dealing with the panel in any other way, suspicion being directed against a part of the jurors, but it is unfortunate that any such plan to upset justice should have been able to proceed as much as it did.

The dismissal of a panel in such a way makes it evident that those under suspicion was directed will be excluded on the jury list again and that more careful selections can be expected in the future. It likewise gives emphasis to the efforts that are made to block the dispensing of justice in the courts and the constant guard that must be maintained to protect them. Too much credit cannot be given to the court officials for the promptness with which they acted when conditions were fully recognized.

PAYING THE PRICE.

Are we coming to the day when none will be permitted to operate a canoe unless he has passed an examination and obtained a license, or unless he proves that he uses nothing but a craft that will not capsize? In order to protect the lives of others, and insure greater safety, this is the course followed relative to the driver of an automobile. There may not be as many lives at stake where canoes are involved but there are certainly enough lives lost each week through the incompetent or chance-taking operation thereof to warrant throwing all possible protection about their use. Possibly liability insurance will yet become obligatory for the one who wields the paddle.

Certain it is that some restrictive measures must be applied if there is to be a halt called on the large number of drownings that result from the accidents while canoeing. There is already enough reason for the shunning of the cockleshells that tip over when the wind or the tide changes but there are those who cannot picture their own danger in spite of the many sad experiences of others who were neither competent to guide nor occupy a canoe.

There is much that is fascinating about canoeing, quite the same as there is a certain fascination about guiding an airplane, but no one would think of jumping into a flying machine and opening the throttle without having had some training or knowing how to take care of himself in case of trouble. That preparation should be applied to canoeing as well as flying. If all who went canoeing were experienced and knew how to swim all drownings might not be prevented but the number would be greatly reduced. Just as long as there's the willingness to take the chance the deplorable and needless waste of life can be expected.

STANDING BY COOLIDGE.

In connection with the protests that were made to Senator Lodge, the republican senate leader, from his own state he has been quoted as saying that he has experienced such a situation before, thus indicating that he was not much moved by the clearly demonstrated opposition to his failure to stand back of the president's veto.

He evidently thinks this feeling will subside, on the ground that it has done so before. Of course he may be right, but he may change his mind. Recognizing the sentiment in Massachusetts against his action, the Boston Herald resorted to a plan of giving the public a chance to express its mind publicly. No one knows who protested to the senator, except those who wrote or wired and the senator himself. The Herald offered to run parallel columns for those who favored the president and those who favored the senator as to their respective positions.

The result is interesting for of the first 2000 names received there were but eight to go into the Lodge column. The rest were for the president. The Herald regards the disclosure as surprising, but it is only expressive of the sentiment that has been previously expressed and it is not improbable that it is expressive of the protests that were privately filed with the senator from Massachusetts, whose leadership seems to have caused so many other senators and representatives from Connecticut to go wrong, or to misrepresent their constituents.

Possibly Senator Lodge is right in figuring that sentiment will quiet down. On the other hand he may have another guess coming.

PERSISTENCE GETS RESULTS.

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," is an old bit of advice that may well be the guide of the National Board of Fire Underwriters in their effort to bring about the prevention of such great losses by fire.

From figures which were presented at their recent meeting showing losses of more than a half billion dollars for the past year, it is certain that the reduction sought for has not been obtained. Nevertheless the underwriters have insisted upon keeping persistently at their endeavor and it must be admitted that they are not only right minded but laboring in a most commendable cause.

Having set out to impress the people with the fact that the exercising of greater care will result in the prevention of fires and reduce the staggering losses they have not grown faint hearted. What the fire losses would be but for the prevention they have accomplished there is no definite way of figuring. Keeping before the people the fact that many of the fires can be prevented may be a thankless job but it is well directed, certain to produce good results and there should be no thought of giving up the effort. It is a cause in which everyone has reason to be actively interested.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Knowing that Friday is Memorial day, are you making your plans accordingly?

Chicago isn't willing to be outdone by New York in murder mysteries and kidnapings.

The man on the corner says: There's a wonderful chance for someone to expatiate on the beautiful rain.

Most every day in May has been a memorable day, weatherwise, for those engaged in outside work.

Reports have it that the price of sugar is coming down. That is one way of sweetening the news with the hope that it will reach the pocketbook.

In the last analysis it rests with the voters whether a city gets good government. It isn't obtained by staying at home or leaving it to the other fellow.

Because of his bronchial cold the president has been obliged to cancel some of his minor engagements. Senator Heflin should hasten to raise an objection.

When parking in Little Water street is permitted to block the street so that two cars cannot pass, traffic conditions are being seriously handicapped instead of helped.

Last week a new proposition was made to the senate to make the insurance bonus a cash proposition. This week a move will probably be made to double the sum. Have the Connecticut senators made any promises yet?

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

About two weeks ago Ursula Moore came to see me in a state of bubbling excitement. For an instant I wondered whether she could at last be engaged, but I quickly decided not, for I knew that Dexter Haines is the only man lately and I also knew that he is much more devoted to me than to her.

"Lucile," she asked, "do you know about the Con Amore ball?"

"Oh yes," I replied casually, without showing much interest.

"Father says that it is to be modeled on the annual barristers' ball of Toronto. It's a gathering of a sort of inner circle of the finest lawyers, particularly the younger ones from just about everywhere in this country and in Canada. Father is buying tickets. Just think! They cost $35 a couple, and he tells me to invite some one who is a good dancer to take me. He hates going out evenings."

"What a shame to have such a grand affair in Lent," I remarked. "I know you aren't a very ardent Episcopalian, but I suppose you really do hate to ask anyone to take you to such a large function during the holy season."

"Why, I hadn't thought of that. You see this is such a very special event, and you know, Lucile, I——"

"Well, I was only thinking of Dexter Haines, for instance. He was telling me only the other day t hat he was brought up to observe Lent rigidly. His mother was most strict, and he simply adores her memory. I hope he isn't often horrified at our heathenish ways. Oh, well, Ursula, no doubt you're quite right. Probably there are lots of men who wouldn't in the least mind going to the gayest kind of parties in Lent. What are you going to wear, dear?"

"I don't know," she answered in a much dashed tone, and I tried to cheer her by saying that I thought her beaded georgette looked just as well this year as it did last, that it was charming.

That very evening I went over to Aunt Rachel's hotel to dine with her, and I happened to ask her if she knew anything about the Con Amore ball. She said she had had an invitation to buy tickets, but that she hadn't done it.

"Oh, Aunt Rachel, you certainly should," I urged, "because of dear Uncle Rollins' prominence in the legal fraternity. You didn't realize that it was a lawyers' affair, did you, darling?"

She owned that she did not, and it was no time at all before I had persuaded her that it was her duty to buy the tickets to help—as the invitation said—the struggling young members of a great profession. I was simply charmed when she suggested that I could perhaps use the tickets. I lost no time in making my arrangements to go.

Later in the evening I was much surprised to meet her in the dressing room, where I had gone to police myself before supper. My wavy locks will get a little awry when I dance very long. I saw that she was putting on her wraps.

"Good gracious, not going home already, Ursula?" I exclaimed.

"Yes, father is tired and bored and I don't mind, for it isn't very interesting to be at a dance without a dancing partner."

"I've been wondering," I said, "why you didn't bring some one who dances, since your father suggested it."

"And I've been wondering," she returned, "how Dexter's Lenten scruples were overcome?"

"Oh, that was the funniest misunderstanding of mine. When I said to him that I knew he wouldn't come to an affair like this in Lent he said that, while he honored the old observances of his youth, he had long since felt it was not incumbent upon him to keep up the strict observances of his early teaching."

"Really? How very interesting!" she remarked in a frozen voice. I am afraid that Ursula is vexed with me. —Chicago News.

LANDIS, THE AMATEUR BALL PLAYER

Kenesaw Mountain Landis was born in obscure Millville, Ohio, the day his father was fighting in the battle of Kenesaw Mountain, in the Civil war.

When the boy was nine, his family moved to Logansport, Ind., and the next year he started as newsboy. At fourteen he was a grocery clerk and later clerk in a railroad yard.

While attending Logansport public schools he played baseball, and his playing brought many offers for him to become a professional, but he declined, saying he played merely for sport.

He studied stenography, became a court reporter, read law in Walter Q. Gresham's office, and worked his way through the Union College of Law, in Chicago.

Admitted to the bar, he practiced law until appointed private secretary to Gresham, who served two years as Secretary of State under Cleveland. Upon Gresham's death, Cleveland offered to appoint Landis minister to Venezuela, but Landis declined because he was to be married and wished to have his wedding tour in the United States.

Returning to Chicago, he became a corporation lawyers. When Landis was 39, President Roosevelt appointed him United States district judge for northern Illinois, with a salary of $7,500 a year.

The corporations smiled, but two years later Landis fined the Standard Oil Company $29,000,000. This decision was set aside, but few others of his were. He sent I. W. W. leaders to the penitentiary and a bomb was exploded at the entrance of the federal building while he was in his chambers. Later he received a bomb by mail.

The case of the Federal Baseball League against the National and American leagues was tried before him, but was settled out of court. Then came the baseball scandal and Landis was chosen commissioner for the big leagues.

When he announced that he would hold both positions, enemies began their attacks, started threats of impeachment, and he resigned from the bench.

He still is commissioner of baseball at $50,000 a year, and has done much to bring the game back to its high standing.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Bishop William A. Quayle, who has been retired from the bishopric at his own request, has long held a prominent place in the Methodist denomination and in the eye of the general public by reason of his temperance work and his earnest efforts in other directions for reform. Early in his pulpit career he acquired the title of the "epigram preacher." He has stood foremost among the orators of the Methodist denomination, and his sermons have been extensively quoted throughout the church and secular world. He is also widely known as an author, having written many books and been a prolific contributor to the magazines. Bishop Quayle was born at Parkville, Mo., and received his education at Baker University. He was ordained to the ministry in 1886 and at the time of his election to the bishopric in 1908 was a member of the Chicago Methodist clergy.

Stories That Recall Others

Mixing Her Dates

Mother and Nellie had escorted grandma to the train and when they returned, the house did seem terribly empty. As mother proceeded about her little interrupted tasks, Nellie, very near to tears, said wistfully: "I wish grandma had gone home tomorrow."

Perhaps He Will

Franklin, aged four, fell asleep before the usual retiring hour and mother rather than carry the heavy child upstairs, put him to bed with his young sister. It happened that Franklin had learned of his father's strong objections to bobbed hair, that is, as the question applied to mother, whose locks are uncut. During the night Franklin awoke, and being conscious of his strange environment put out his hand in search of his mother. It touched the bobbed head of his sister. The little fellow sat up with a jerk.

"Won't dad be mad!" was his exclamation.

NEW UNIT TO HANDLE WORK MADE NECESSARY BY BONUS

Washington, May 27.—The war department announced today formation of the adjusted compensation branch of the adjutant general's office as a separate unit to handle the work made necessary by enactment of the bonus law.

The adjutant general, Major General Robert C. Davis, will be in direct personal charge of the new branch, combining that work with his own functions as adjutant general. A separate office has been set up where General Davis will give his personal attention to see there is no preventable delay in receiving the checking against records of the World war applications of veterans for bonus benefits.

To make way for the new organization the old World war division of the adjutant general's office has been discontinued and the three officers and 215 clerks of that division who have been handling about 2,000 communications daily in connection with the records have been transferred to the new branch. Later seven additional officers and 2,517 clerks will be added to the rolls of the branch when the examination of records in connection with the bonus gets into full swing.

To make room for the additional personnel 6,000 filing cases of the 10,000 that formerly contained the personnel, organization, medical and miscellaneous records of the old World war division will be moved to another building.

Powder Placed in Shoes Brings Quick Relief From Rheumatic Pain

"God Bless The Man Who Discovered The Healer," Writes Grateful User.

Thousands of former rheumatic sufferers are now praising Alessandro Volta, the well-known Italian physicist (for whom the electric volt was named) and his discovery which he has called Volta. Volta is a scientific combination of certain ingredients which its discoverer has compounded into a fine powder. This powder is not taken internally, but is shaken into the shoes, from which it is intended to be absorbed into the blood stream through the myriad pores of the feet. This absorption is due, no doubt, to the fact that the feet contain 10 times as many pores to the square inch as are found in any other part of the body. The secret of Volta powder to relieve rheumatic pain so quickly is due to its tendency to eliminate excess Uric acid which poisons the system (through the blood) and thus causes the tortures of Rheumatism. The use of Volta powder has demonstrated such astonishing results in literally thousands of cases, many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta to rheumatic sufferers in this city with an unqualified guarantee to return the full purchase price on the first box in any rare case where the rheumatic pains are not wonderfully relieved. All who suffer from rheumatic pains, no matter how long-standing their cases may be, should take immediate advantage of this liberal offer. You can get Volta Powder from all good druggists everywhere.

. . . it will ever remain a woman's duty . . .

A Woman's Duty To Her Husband

A WIFE nowadays is not as "duty-bound" to her husband as she once was—some women won't even promise "to obey." But no matter how customs change it will ever remain a woman's duty not to neglect those personal charms which her husband first admired. For that is a duty not only to him, but to herself as well.

One of the charms which too many housewives neglect is the soft, feminine beauty of their hands. They often fail to realize that red, rough and coarse looking hands result from the use of inferior household soap which irritates the skin.

Modern, intelligent housewives who know they should be as particular about the kind of household soap they use as they are about their toilet soap, always insist upon Kirkman's.

They know that Kirkman's Soap is as harmless to the hands as is the most exquisite toilet soap.

* * *

KIRKMAN'S Soap, being free from irritating lye, will not harm the skin nor injure the most delicate fabrics. It is made of the purest and finest materials. It contains absolutely no adulterants, such as starch, talc or water-glass, which have no cleansing value.

For the sake of your hands, insist upon Kirkman's.

CUTTERS SEARCHING THE SOUND FOR RUM RUNNER

Norwalk, May 27.—Revenue cutters were searching Long Island sound today for a [illegible] which is said to have attempted to unload a cargo of liquor at Wilson's Point last night. A boat pulled into a dock there. Chief W. R. Pennington of the city police was notified of the fact and he, with federal officers, went to the point but not quite in time to capture the boat which steamed away just as they arrived. It was heavily laden. The name was obtained and it is said the craft was one recently released by federal authorities after it had been seized by a revenue vessel off rumrow on the New Jersey coast.

It was at Wilson's Point at a $150,000 consignment of alcohol was landed and later seized, in which expedition the Salina, now in custody, is said to have figured.

The Finish That Simplifies Motor Car Painting

SATISFACTION in painting a car depends not only upon beauty of results but also upon the speed and ease with which the finish can be applied.

POETRY

Path Makers

I planned a path for God to tread,
Though short my sight and dim.
I told Him where I would be led.
I made a path for Him.

I bade Him guard me on my way
Along that path of mine.
Would I had known instead to pray:
"Show me Thy path divine."

For looking back from strife-won goal
My tired eyes could see
A path of peace unto my soul
That God had made for me.

My path had wound through desert heat,
Thorn-strewn; planned by a fool.
God's path was pleasant to the feet,
Straight, green, and wondrous cool.
—N. N. Sterling in Nautilus.

Of Neighbors

I pray if e'er I grow to be
At home beside the crystal sea
The good Lord will deliver me
From neighbors

Who cheer me when I'm feeling blue
By saying they've had troubles, too,
And telling me just what to do?
The neighbors

Whose husbands, homes, cars, dogs, cats food,
Whose relatives, whose angel brood
Are far beyond comparing good!
The neighbors

Who make all night the welkin ring
As heartily they dance and sing
Or twang the ukulele's string?
The neighbors

The operation that they've had
Are "quite enough to drive one mad,"
All their "in-laws" are very bad—
My Neighbors

I like the condescending way
They borrow things from me for say
How I should work and think and pla;
Dear neighbors

When I am dead, please cremate me,
For I don't want to be Interred in any eeme-tree
With neighbors

On reaching the celestial choir
To solitude I will aspire
And far will tune my heavenly lyre
From neighbors.

Or, if instead, I sink below
That place of punishment and woe
Won't worry me unless I go
To neighbors.
—Los Angeles Times.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

This oil agitation is terrible.

"Yes," said Mr. Chugging, "Ever the price of gasoline is getting jumpy."
—Washington Star.

Asked to discribe a girl, a woman at County court said, "I have never really seen her—she's half an inch thick with paint."—London Tit-Bits.

You never can tell what life will bring about. That boy was the poorest penman in school."

What now?

Now he's a famous sky writer.—Exchange.

Magistrate—You are charged with being a deserter, having left your wife. Are all the facts in the case true?

Prisoner—No, your honor, I am not a deserter. Just a refugee.—London Answers.

You don't really intend to trust your future to Lord DeBroke, do you dear?

No, but he's such a notorious fortune-hunter it helps papa's credit to have him around. People think papa must be rich.—Boston Transcript.

When the doctor arrived he found the patient in tears.

"Cheer up, my good man," he said "you'll pull through all right!"

"It isn't that, doctor," groaned the patient, "but just think of the money I've spent buying apples to keep you away!"—London Answers.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The final memorandum of the peanut crop of 1923-24 showed an area of 2,781,000 acres, as compared with 2,633,000 acres last year, or an increase of 4 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 1,078,000 tons, as against 1,236,000 tons last year, or a decrease of 13 per cent.

John and William Robinson, workmen, and Frank Felkner, driver, working in a coal mine near Myersdale found an old-fashioned coal car filled with coal. An investigation of the records of the mine showed that the car had been buried under a fall in the mine more than nineteen years ago.

Lloyd George said to a New York reporter: "We make fun of your American accent, but our own is just as much of a joke. I remember the story of a cockney school teacher who said to her pupils: 'You 'ave to be careful, boys, about words that 'ave a similar sound. For instance, there's the spins what most of us wears down the middle of our backs. But spine, the country where they 'ave set us a dictatorship—that's a different thing now altogether.'"

There is a stocky sweet apple tree on the farm of Mrs. Olive Smith, of West Haven, Vt., that is nearly ninety years old. "Yes, sir," proudly contended Mrs. Smith, "that old tree's been there ever since my parents came on this farm—and that was 86 years ago. How old it was then I don't know. I'll be 84 in March and that tree has borne abundance of fruit every year without a single skip ever since I can remember and that is some back."

AFRAID SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Operation Advised, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made It Unnecessary

Glasgow, Kentucky.—"I was run-down, nervous, with no appetite. My side had given me trouble for five or six years. At times it was all I could do to live, and the doctor said I couldn't live but a short time longer without an operation. That was two years ago. My sister-in-law recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She had never used it herself, but she said one of her neighbors suffered just like I did, and it cured her. After I had taken four bottles the pain left my side. I had a fine appetite to eat anything that was put before me, and I began to do all my work and my washing, something I hadn't done for years. I am a dressmaker, and this last fall I began sewing with my side again, so I began taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am on my fourth bottle, which makes eight in all I have taken. I feel so much better when I take it and everybody tells me I look better. My appetite improves and I feel stronger in every way. I am a very nervous woman and it seems to help my nerves so much."—Mrs. Maggie Waller, Glasgow, Kentucky.

JURY FINDS KEOUGH GUILTY ON LIQUOR REPUTATION ACCUSATION

A verdict of not guilty of keeping liquor with intent to sell but guilty of keeping a place with the reputation of selling liquor was returned against Matthew W. Keough of this city by a jury in the criminal superior court at New London late Tuesday afternoon.

Judge Frederick M. Peasley imposed the sentence of a fine of $300 and 30 days in jail. Counsel for Keough filed a motion to set aside the verdict and furnished a bond.

Trial of the case was started late Monday afternoon and the case reached the jury shortly after noon Tuesday. They were out two hours before returning with the verdict of not guilty on the first count but guilty on the second. Attorney G. C. Morgan was counsel for Keough and the state was represented by Attorney Thomas E. Troland, assisted by Attorney Russell Corcoran.

Judge Frederick M. Peasley in his charge to the jury explained at length that the state did not have to prove an actual sale, but that reputation could be taken into consideration.

Testimony for the state was introduced by the two county detectives William E. Jackson of Willimantic and William Lewis of New London who were in a raid made at the Keough place on Bath street in February.

No liquor was found in the raid. They testified as to the fixtures in the place, bar, glasses, etc., and mentioned that while the officers were there a man entered, tendered a $5 bill and asked for a drink of "hard stuff."

Witnesses for the state on the reputation charge were F. L. Arnold, Charles I. Smith, Miss Hattie Cross and Mrs. A. F. Wyman, the last two officers of the Norwich W. C. T. U.

Mr. Keough was the only witness for the defense. He denied that he had been selling liquor at the place. On cross examination it was brought out that he was paying $70 per month rent and he testified that all he sold was sandwiches, for which he charged 10 cents, and near-beer.

Since the raid, the place has been closed, and the fixtures moved out and the store is now occupied by another line of business.

SCOTLAND ROAD RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Three lonesome looking brick chimneys amid a pile of smouldering ashes were all that was left Tuesday afternoon of the home of Deacon and Mrs. William R. Lathrop on Scotland road, which was destroyed by fire that broke out about 10.30 a. m., standard time. The place belonged to Postmaster Casper K. Bailey.

Philip B. Whaley an employe at the James Hubbard estate was the first to notice smoke issuing from the roof and he spread the alarm by telephoning to the home of Postmaster Bailey, which was directly opposite. Word was immediately dispatched to Mrs. Lathrop who was not aware of the situation. Mr. Lathrop at the time was in the city, and when calling his wife by phone, which was his daily custom and not receiving any answer, he called the Bailey house and was told his house was on fire.

The attic was all ablaze at the start and although the origin was not known it was generally thought that it started from the chimney, although for the past few days Mrs. Lathrop had been running only a low fire in her stove. The house which was completely destroyed was a two story wooden structure built about thirty years ago by Mr. Lathrop and since occupied by him and his wife. Just recently, the house was sold to Postmaster Bailey, the deed having been passed, although Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop were to continue their home there indefinitely.

It was reported that the house was covered by insurance, but the fire loss was about $10,000. Much of the furniture on the first floor was saved and carried to the house across the way, by the many who rendered assistance. "The Yantic Fire Engine Co., responded to the call, as did also part of the apparatus from the Central Fire Station."

The water was supplied from four wells, three on the land fromerly owned by Mr. Lathrop and one on the Bailey place; but as the water gave out the firemen were powerless to do anything. One after another the wells were pumped dry until the firefighters had nothing more with which to fight the flames except the chemical tanks. These were kept charged for use in case the flames spread to any adjoining buildings. It was at first thought the lower part of the house could be saved; but with the water exhausted, this was of no avail, and the entire structure burned to the ground.

In addition to the house burning down, an adjoining building used as a woodhouse and piled to the roof with wood, was also destroyed. In the cellar of the main house the labor of many hours yielded to the furious flames, when 100 or more cans of fruit perished.

Friends and neighbors were most kind in extending every possible help to Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop, who have the sympathy of the community in having their comfortable and happy home so abruptly demolished. What furniture was saved has been stored in Postmaster Bailey's house and barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop were guests Tuesday night of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Beebe.

MISS TYLER WILL REPORT FROM BUFFALO CONVENTION

Miss Edna L. Tyler, president of the New London City League of Women Voters, who went as a delegate to the national convention recently held in Buffalo, will report on that convention Wednesday, May 28, when representatives of the various local leagues in New London county meet at the Uncasville school for their annual county convention. The meeting will begin with a business session at 11 o'clock (daylight saving time). The luncheon at 1 is in charge of Mrs. A. W. Avery of Uncasville, and general arrangements in charge of the county chairman, Mrs. Donald G. Mitchell of New London.

Following the luncheon Miss Marjory Cheney, state legislative chairman, will discuss the fall caucuses and conventions. Hon. George R. Sturges of Woodbury, attorney for the state board of education, is scheduled to speak at 2 o'clock. His subject will be Facts on Education in Connecticut. Mr. Sturges represented Woodbury in the general assembly of 1923, and was appointed by that assembly a member of the commission that is now revising and codifying the school laws of the state.

TAFTVILLE BOY SCOUTS SOLD 500 POPPIES

The Boy Scouts of the Sacred Heart church, Taftville, sold 500 Veterans of Foreign Wars poppies in Taftville Tuesday night. John Waldron sold $9.50 worth of poppies and Scout Peplin $8.50worth. The scouts worked hard and deserve credit for their efforts. The one night drive was under the direction of Mrs. V. J. Plante of Taftville.

Those who assisted in the poppy sale were: Scouts John Waldron, Peplin, Durr, Blanchette, Martin, Dupree, Martin Waldron, Jr., Chennette, Regan, Gerton, Dupree and Adams. Scout Master Joseph Waldron was in charge of the scouts.

DR. LEE BRINGS DIVORCE SUIT, ALLEGING DESERTION

JUDGE RESERVES DECISION IN DIVORCE SUIT

The divorce suit of Mrs. Montana Selloum against Mhana Selloum, both of New London, which was in the superior court list as a contested case was heard here Tuesday afternoon by Judge John R. Booth as an uncontested case. He reserved his decision after hearing the evidence.

The suit was brought on the ground of intolerable cruelty. Mrs. Selloum testified that they were married in Syria Nov. 30, 1919 and came to New London five months thereafter. Her testimony as to cruelty was supported by testimony given by her brother-in-law, Nonseur Sabagh, her sister, Bahia Sabagh, and her aunt, Mrs. Ida Geonapoles.

BENCH WARRANTS FOR TWO NOW IN NORWICH JAIL

The jury in the criminal superior court at New London was excused until next Tuesday after it had finished the Keough case late Tuesday afternoon.

Two men now in the Norwich jail are to be brought in on bench warrants to the court today (Wednesday). These are Thomas Warner, the alleged Indian chief, who drove off to Providence last week with a horse and wagon belonging to a Norwich liveryman, and Harold Whalen of Hartford, who was arrested here on May 9 on the charge of embezzlement.

Vacation House Will Open.

Lakeville Manor, located in the Berkshires, the vacation house of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women will open Memorial Day with a reception in the afternoon. There will be a meeting of the administrative committee of the council Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Seraphin Geoghegan, O. F. M., of New York will give a Triduum May 30, 31 and June 1 for the benefit of the members of the council. All those desiring reservations for the week end are expected to notify the Diocesan Bureau of the Social Service, 244 Main street, Hartford, as soon as possible.

Flowers Around Lunch Cart.

An attractive effect has been created around the new lunch cart of James P. Hayes at the railroad station driveway entrance by beds of flowers that have been set out there. The work was done by Otto F. Ernst with his characteristic taste in that line.

Water Department Reports

The annual report of the water department has been issued in printed form. Copies are being distributed at the water office.

FINAL MEETING OF SEASON AT NORWICH BELT CO.

The series of noon meetings under Y. M. C. A. auspices at the Norwich Belt plant were brought to a close for the season Tuesday noon, when Rev. E. C. Dunbar interested the employes by a heart to heart talk on "The Religion of Joy." Mr. Dunbar spoke in part as follows:

"A few people have come to possess the idea that Christ was simply a man of sorrow and of grief; that the Christian religion as a religion is something to avoid if one wishes to have a good time in life. When one hears hymns of a certain character one can little wonder. "Thou has conquered a pale Galilean, the world has grown gray with thy truth." is the words of one. In the hymnal of my church are found the words, "The day of wrath, that dreadful day, when heaven and earth shall pass away." An old hymn, occasionally sung today is, "Lord what a barren land is this, that yields us no supply, no cheering fruits, no wholesome trees, no streams of living joy." Many of the hymns of this character makes the hairs of a man with a sensitive soul stand on end. It is any wonder that some church members have gained the impression that it is a sin to smile.

"As a matter of fact very few people believe the words of such hymns. Jesus was no pale anaemic sort of an individual but a man with a man's feelings. The money changers or the Jewish leaders would never have been repulsed by a "weak-sister" sort of a man. Children are not attracted to one unless there is something in the personality to attract them. Few people are hunting very hard or praying very earnestly for "the day of wrath, that dreadful day when heaven and earth shall pass away." Heaven is not going to vanish, and in my own opinion earth is going to remain as long as God remains a loving Heavenly Father.

"As for the earth "being a barren land" only an ignoramus, a fool, or an imbecile could believe such nonsense. A glance into an apple orchard would prove the truth of the matter. A moment's listening on our part would bring to us the sounds of thousands of bees, and the songs of a score of birds.

"Whether we look or whether we listen, we hear life murmur or see it glisten" is nearer the truth of life and the conception Christ had for the world. Jesus was a man of joy. He received many invitations to feasts, weddings and anniversaries. He was given a banquet in his own honor. At Matthew's feast he was the most popular man there for "many publicans and sinners came and sat down by him." Jesus was especially joyful when with his disciples. Jesus was optimistic, and optimism leads to happiness. He thought in results of thirtyfold, sixtyfold and an hundredfold. Jesus talked in terms of love, truth and service, all of which make joy and happiness. This man of Galilee was right with himself. He was living his life as he believed God wanted him to live it. Of course he had his moments of sorrow and discouragement as every one will. Some day we need a few tears to help us to appreciate joy but in Jesus' life these were few in comparison with what he might have shed. The great major theme in the Master's life was joy and service. His foundations are for us to build upon."

AUTOMOBILE DAMAGE SUIT HEARD BY JUDGE BOOTH

Suit for $3,000 damages brought by William J. Curtin of New London against Leon Buzdenski, of this city for damages to Curtin's automobile when it was in collision with the Buzdenski car on the night of May 18, 1923, was on trial in the superior court here Wednesday before Judge John R. Booth. The collision happened on or near the curve at the foot of Quaker Hill and it is the claim of the plaintiff that Buzdenski was driving at reckless speed and was on the wrong side of the road coming towards Norwich so that the Buzdenski car hit the left front wheel and the radiator of the Curtin car, which was traveling towards New London.

A woman and two children were thrown out of the Buzdenski car at the time of the crash. Attorney Frank L. McGuire was counsel for Curtin in the trial of the case and Attorney Berry of New Haven, counsel for the defendant, was assisted by Attorney R. M. Douglass.

Witnesses for the plaintiff were George K. Crandall, J. H. Tubbs, William J. Curtin, Frank G. Barber, Mary B. Saint, Manuel J. Martin and Rosario Geordani. Witnesses for the defendant were Ralph Brooks Cole, Leon Buzdenski, and Harry J. Flentje.

SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS IDA EISMAN

A pretty shower, which was attended by Norwich guests, was given Monday night for Miss Ida Eisman at her home, 2 Mountain avenue, New London, in honor of her approaching marriage to Jack Friedberg, a merchant on Franklin street, this city. The gifts to Miss Eisman included much silver, linen, a diamond ring and checks. Games and music were enjoyed by the guests and refreshments were served.

The guests were Mrs. H. Friedberg, Mrs. Herman Bruckner, Miss Esther Glasser, Miss Anna Herts, Miss Sylvia Jacobson, all of Norwich; Mrs. Gitlin and Mrs. Cohen of New Haven, Mrs. B. Household Work Done Under Practical Conditions

A practical house or model cottage is a part of the general equipment of home economics in all vocational schools of Oregon. Each girl has experience in all fundamentals of the household — food preparation, house cleaning, laundry, and sewing. The food-preparation classes give the actual experience of buying and preparing for a number of persons. The girls are taught the spending value of the dollar, principles of house decoration, child care, and home nursing.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY OF MR. AND MRS. H. J. ADAMS

Fifty years ago today (Wednesday) Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Adams of No. 7 Boswell avenue were united in marriage in the old Central Baptist church on Broadway. Their golden wedding day will be observed in an informal manner by Mr. and Mrs. Adams at their Boswell avenue home in which they have passed all of their married life. A large wedding cake will be cut by the bride of 50 years ago and refreshments will be served to the guests. With the exception of one son, Everett Adams and a grandson, of Rochester, N. Y., all the children and grand children will be present.

MRS. HENRY J. ADAMS

Mr. Adams was born in the house in which he now resides, Nov. 29, 1843, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams. All of his life has been spent in Norwich. As a boy he started out to be a printer. He entered the employ of The Bulletin as a "printers devil". The Bulletin was then located in the Franklin hall building on Franklin square. Mr. Adams also carried a Bulletin route in Norwich Town, walking up there with his load of papers. He usually got a ride back in a stage run by a man named Bennett. The stage was commonly called "Bennett's hourly." After learning the printer's trade Mr. Adams became interested in railroading and entered the employ of the Norwich and Worcester road as a fireman. After serving three years as an apprentice he became qualified for promotion to engineer. This was in the days of the old time wood burning locomotives. On a trip between this city and Worcester the engine had to stop to fill up with wood four or five times.

HENRY J. ADAMS

Mr. Adams remained with the railroad for 50 years and on June 30 1911 was placed on the retired list with a pension.

Mrs. Adams before her marriage was Annette Frances Stoddard. She was born in Ledyard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stoddard. Her father for years conducted a grocery store at No. 100 Franklin street.

May 28, 1874, Mr. and Mrs. Adams were married in the old Central Baptist church by Rev. John Davies, father of Attorney Andrew B. Davies of this city.

Fraternally Mr. Adams is a Mason and an Odd Fellow. He has gone through all the chairs in Somerset lodge No. 34, F. and A. M. and Shetucket Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F. For more than 65 years he has been a member of the Central Baptist church.

During their long residence on Boswell avenue Mr. and Mrs. Adams have seen many changes in that section. Years ago there were several old ramshackle buildings on what is now the little park on Franklin street in front of their house. One night these buildings caught fire in some mysterious way. When the volunteer fire department arrived on the scene bystanders hindered them in many ways in extinguishing the fire and there was evidently a general desire that the building be destroyed because they were eyesores to the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams have three children, Joseph S. Adams of Boswell avenue, Mrs. Reuben P. Potter of this city and Everett H. Adams of Rochester, N. Y. There are five grand children, Catherine Thompson Adams and Gilbert Adams, children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Adams; Lloyd Adams Potter and Mildred Potter, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben P. Potter and Everett H. Adams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Adams. Mrs. Adams has two brothers, John B Stoddard of this city and Austin A. Adams of New York, employed by the N. Y. N. H. and Hartford road. Mr. Adams has one brother, Frank B. Adams, "Yank" Adams of New York, the internationally known finger billiard expert.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Adams are enjoying the best of health. They are well known to a host of warm friends who extend them best wishes for a happy golden wedding anniversary.

WINDHAM

There was a large audience at the Congregational church Sunday morning when Rev. A. W. Clifford preached his last sermon as pastor of the church. Mr. Clifford begins his pastorate at North Weymouth, Mass., next Sunday and will move his family there June 4. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clifford have been efficient workers here and will be greatly missed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Huntington and daughter and two sons motored from Hartford Sunday and called on friends and attended service at the Congregational church.

The members of the Junior C. E. society had a delightful May party Saturday afternoon. They assembled at the chapel at 2.30 and dressed in costume with gay colored crepe paper trimmings, marched down South street and countermarched to the home of Sidney Alling, on North street. They carried a gayly decorated Maypole. Little Frances Alling was queen of May and rode in a decorated chariot. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in games and singing. A nice basket lunch with fruit punch and ice cream cones was an enjoyable part of the program. The party was in charge of Mrs. A. W. Clifford, assisted by Mrs. John Webster, Misses Charlotte Lathrop and Marguerite Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Alling and Rev. A. W. Clifford. After Mrs. Clifford returned home the juniors hung her a beautiful May basket containing flowers, candy, a boudoir electric lamp and a bargain.

Mrs. Ida W. Maclean is at Miss Neale's until June when she will occupy one of the Weir houses on the green.

During the light thunder showers between 7 and 8 Saturday night a broken electric light wire a short distance south of the Congregational church sputtering and popping and sending up balls of fire carried some excitement for a time. The R.-W. Light company was notified and turned off the current and the break was repaired Sunday morning but the town was without lights during the evening. The trouble was caused by a falling limb from a tree.

The final meeting this season of the Woman's Missionary society was held with the president, Mrs. F. E. Gulic with sixteen in attendance. Various communications were read by the secretary, Miss Dorothy Brown, including a letter from Rockford college thanking the society for napkins, etc. The study book having been finished at a previous meeting the program included discussion of current events along missionary lines. Mrs. A. W. Clifford was given a copy of Connecticut Beautiful, by Wallace Nutting, in appreciation of her services as histogian. Tea and cake were served.

Thursday, Ascension Day, holy communion will be celebrated in St. Paul's church at 9 a. m.

The C. E. meeting was omitted on Sunday evening and about 30 persons motored to South Windham and enjoyed an excellent illustrated lecture on India given by Rev. T. H. Jones of Mansfield Centre. Mr. Jones was born in South Africa and went to India at the age of 19 and after receiving his education there was in the service of the British government and was thoroughly familiar with his subject. Many of the views shown were taken by him.

ACADEMY TEAM PLAYING FINE GAME DEFEATS CONN. AGGIES FRESHMEN

Playing a fine all around game the Norwich Free academy ball team took the measure of the Freshman team of the Connecticut Agricultural college Tuesday afternoon at the campus, sending them home with the short end of a 6 to 4 score.

Although the score would not indicate it, the game was filled with tense situations, both teams narrowly escaping a landslide of runs by tightening up and playing a fast brand of ball.

The latter part of the game was played in a light drizzle but this failed to dampen the ardor of the local boys who managed to maintain a lead throughout the contest.

The up-state team threw a scare into the ranks of the Academy team for a moment in the final inning when Ajello singled to left and advanced second when Palmer was hit by pegal. One was down and Tiernan sent a foul past home plate which Hollander gathered in after a long run. Schofield, a dangerous man at the bat came up and a hit was looked for but Segal, playing them all alike, served them over and gave him the gate via the strike-out route, ending the game.

The Academy started off strong in the first. McNamara doubled to right and was sacrificed along by Burke. He scored when Mileski boosted a long home run over left field. The locals added two more in the third. Burke was safe on error by Palmer at third and made third when Palmer again threw to pasture and Mileski trotted home. Burke scored on Holland's double to center, but Mileski was out at home trying to score on a bit. Hinricks was safe on a fielder's choice and Hollander showed the boys some real baseball when he stole home plate, getting a long lead off second. Schofield. Another was added in the fourth when Busch hit to short and again dubbed the play. Steinman's single and the boys facing a four run lead went to the fifth inning fighting hard. A fly filed out to Hinricks but Ajello and Marnstaun were safe on errors by Burke and Cimikowski. Yarsley was safe filling the bases. Palmer forced Tiernan crashed the ball to center scoring Ryan and Mernstein and filed a long deep center ending the scoring.

The Aggies scored once in the fourth, two during the sixth when Burke made a wild past Segal.

Steinman threw a scare into the Academy in their part of the seventh when Mernstein and Yarsley singled in succession. Segal went in to relieve Steinman but was wild and walked Palmer, filling the sacks, with one out. Tiernan went out by fanning and two runs came in when Busch errored on Schofield's hit to short.

The Academy came back with one run in their part of the sixth and went into the last two frames leading by five runs, Segal holding the college boys back.

Until the seventh Steinman hurled a fine game allowing but three hits and two of the runs made against him were directly traceable to errors by his teammates. Segal also pitched a fine game, allowing three hits and holding the college team to two runs after taking up the duties with three on in the seventh.

For the C. A. C. Freshmen, Mernstein at second and Yarsley at short played a fine game, and the hitting of Mernstein and Yarsley figured in the run making for their team.

VILLA-ASH FIGHT NOW SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY

New York, May 27.—The weather man and the law conspired to halt the Pancho Villa-Frankie Ash flyweight title match in the big open air arena of the Nostrand A. C. in Brooklyn tonight.

The bout was postponed because of rain until Friday night when it will be staged, unless legal steps taken to obtain an injunction against the club, as a public nuisance, are upheld in supreme court.

Promoter Charles L. Henderson, who runs the big wooden saucer which has caused the ire of property owners in the vicinity, met the complaints in supreme court today and sought to have a hearing on the application for an injunction against the club postponed [illegible] The judge, however, refused to [illegible] the hearing [illegible] the court [illegible] promoter [illegible] rain.

PLAYERS OFF TO GOOD STARTS IN NATIONAL OPEN

Chicago, May 27.—MacDonald Smith of San Francisco, and Harry Hampton, Ohio, playing together in the westerns elimination of the national open golf championship at Oak Park country club, today took a commanding lead by scoring 72 and 73 respectively.

Smith had gone two over par on the first nine, but clipped two strokes [illegible] coming home for a 34. Hampton going out in one under par 36, by virtue of long putts on the last three greens, slipped on the homeward trip and although he halved the 455 fifteenth with Smith in an eagle three, he required 38 strokes for the home trip and finished one stroke behind the California open champion.

The 15th hole on which Smith and Hampton scored an eagle three in 455 yards long. Eagles were made there also by Al Espinosa and M. L. Wells of Grand Rapids.

George Sargent of Columbus, who yesterday set a course record of 69, today took 38-37—75, while the best Canadian score was that of J. B. Kinnear, Hamilton, Ont., who got 39-38—77. Dave Robertson of Detroit had 79 and Charles Lorms of Columbus, had 80.

Chick Evans finished in 77 while his partner, David Herron, took eighty. Abe Espinosa, San Francisco, required 40 strokes for the first nine but was par on the second and finished in 76, while John Rogers of Dayton, after taking 41 in the first nine, came home in 37, including an eagle three on the 580 yard 16th and totalled 78.

TIGERS DUMP BROWNS INTO FOURTH POSITION

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—Bert Cole won his first game of the season when Detroit defeated St. Louis, 5 to 4, and dumped the Browns out of third place. Cole held the Browns to three scattered hits until the ninth inning when he weakened. S. Johnson replaced him.

Manager Sisler of the Browns broke a long hitless run of games when he got a single in the ninth. Score:

REDS GET EVEN BREAK IN GAMES WITH ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, May 27.—Cincinnati and St. Louis broke even on a twin bill today, the Cardinals taking the first game, 4 to 3, and the Reds winning the second, 3 to 1. Cooney's double with Gonzales on second gave the locals the winning run in the ninth inning of the opener after the Reds had tied the score with a three run rally in the ninth. H. B. Miltenberger, a spectator, dropped dead of heart disease shortly after Daubert had hit a homer in the eighth inning of the second game. The scores:

WORCESTER WINS FAST GAME FROM PITTSFIELD

Worcester, Mass., May 27.—Worcester defeated Pittsfield today in the fastest game of the season on these grounds—one hour and 22 minutes. Webb's failure to cover the plate and take advantage of chance for a double play and Milan's failure to prevent a runner scoring enabled Worcester to make all six runs. Stapleton hit a homer over the right field fence. McGarry, recently of Bridgeport, pitched his first game for Worcester. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham Star New York Giants

Any inning. Score 6-2, in favor of team in the field. Team at bat has men on first and second with none out.

What play should the team in the field look for?

In a case of this kind the team at bat cannot afford to bunt to advance the runners as they have to score a lot of runs in order to tie or win the game. Consequently, the batsman will be instructed to hit. Therefore, the infield should play back in order to make a double but it must always make sure of one man. If the batsman does make a hit this team will still be three runs behind so the thing to do is to play for the double.

BOSTON TAKES BOTH GAMES FROM PHILLIES

Boston, May 27.—Boston won two games from Philadelphia today, 5 to 4, and 20 to 6. The first game was decided in favor of the Braves when in the last half of the tenth inning, Gibson singled with the bases full. In the second game the visitors batted freely but Genewich prevented any big inning. McInnis was out of the game through illness. Gibson batted and fielded well. The scores:

M'LEOD WITH 72 LEADING PLAYERS IN EASTERN QUALIFYING TOURNAMENT

Worcester, Mass., May 27.—(By The A. P.)—Freddy McLeod, grizzled little veteran of many a hard campaign and wearer of the premier crown of American golfdom nearly two decades ago, set the pace today for a field of 160 players in the first 18 holes of the two day 36 hole eastern qualifying test for the 1924 national open golf championship.

McLeod, open titleholder in 1903 and now professional at the Columbia club, Washington, D. C., who failed to qualify two years ago a skokie, came back to his own and led the pick of the east's linksmen impressively. His card of 72 was one over par for the difficult Worcester Country club course but it represented remarkably good golf in the face of a biting gale and occasional rain squalls that swept the links most of the day and sent a majority of the scores skyrocketing.

The little Scotch veteran led by a stroke his nearest rival, Johnny Farrell, young homebred of the Quaker-ridge club, Tuckahoe, N. Y., who lost a chance for a tie when he missed a two foot putt on the 15th green. Grouped behind Farrell in a tie for third place at 74 were four stars Jesse Guilford, Boston "siego gun" and leader of a small amateur entry; Dave Spittal, Savannah, Ga., crack; the veteran Mike Brady, now of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Peter O'Hara, of Haworth, N. J.

Outstanding stars of the field, in addition to these leaders, came through with scores that kept them well up in the vanguard but not before several had given their followers a scare. Walter Hagen, former British and American open king, took things easily to tally 75, as did his Worcester partner, Willie Ogg, but Gene Sarazen, 1922 champion, with 77, and Joe Kirkwood, former Australian champion, with 78, found the going a bit rough at times.

This trio attracted the major share of attention from a gallery of several thousand enthusiasts and gave the oilcookers an assorted variety of thrills. Hagen and Sarazen, Beau Brummels of the field, shot good and bad golf but each had enough in reserve at needed moments to emerge safely from trouble to sink long, tricky putts.

All told, only 44 or about 25 per cent. of the field broke eighty proof of the testing nature of the course and accompanying conditions, and experts tonight figured that it would take 160 or better at the end of tomorrow's final 18 holes to land among the 41 qualifiers, plus last place ties, allotted to the eastern section. This select group will battle it out for the title in the finals at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich., on Thursday and Friday of next week with the survivors of the western qualifying tournament now in progress at Oak Park, Ill.

Guilford, putting superbly, and averting threatened disaster at the eighth with a marvellous mashie shot that cleared several trees and made the green, was the bright star of the half dozen amateurs seeking honors. James J. Mapes of Boston, however, placed himself well up on the list with 73, but the others, the most notable of whom was John G. Anderson of New York, apparently are out of the running.

The leaders in today's round:

Fred McLeod, Washington, D. C., 72.
John Farrell, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 73.
Jess Guilford, Boston, 74.
Dave Spittal, Savannah, Ga., 74.
Peter O'Hara, Haworth, N. J., 74.
Mike Brady, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 74.
Chas. Hoffner, Philmont, Pa., 75.
Arthur Reid, Farmington, Conn., 75.
W. H. Cox, Brooklyn, N. Y., 75.
Walter Hagen, New York, 75.
Willie Ogg, Worcester, Mass., 75.
Cyril Hughes, Lancaster, Pa., 75.

HAPPY HOUR AT SUB BASE PRODUCES FINE BOXING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

U. S. Submarine Base, May 27.—There was plenty of action at the several boxing exhibitions at the U. S. Submarine Base Tuesday evening when the last of the Happy Hours for this season was held.

The first bout was an exhibition of three rounds between Quatrocki of the U. S. S. S-21 and Lally of the U. S. S. Savannah. Lally had all the favor of the bout which produced some fast boxing.

The next number was a comedy darky sketch put on by J. Aucoin and O. H. Palmer of the U. S. S. Lark, introducing boxing and clog steps in one.

The main bout was between Tankowitz of the 1st Lieut. Dept. and Plouffe of the U. S. S. Lark, for the middleweight championship of the base. The first round was even but Plouffe went down in the second and third rounds being saved by the bell, and his seconds threw in the towel in the fourth round. Lally challenged the winner.

Marine Magic, a stunt by Fallat of the U. S. Marine Corps, was the next feature, this being followed by an exhibition bout between Barry of the Commissary Dept. and Kilroy of the U. S. S. S-21, Kilroy having the best of the three rounds.

J. Casey of the Engineers Dept., the U. S. Base giant, then featured with feats of strength. He drove a spike into a wooden plank and broke it off with his teeth and followed this up by bending an iron bar with his teeth. As a final act he placed a 250 pound stone on his chest and using a 15 pound sledge, broke it into pieces.

The final bout was for the lightweight championship of the Base, but weight was not made and no decision was given. Woods, lightweight champion of the Base, won from Elliott, U. S. S. S-21 in the first round when Commander King stopped the bout because of the unsportsmanship of Elliott's seconds.

NEW LONDON CITY LEAGUE GETS UNDERWAY TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 27.—The opening day of the city baseball league, scheduled for this evening at Morgan park, had to be called off a day on account of rain. Because of the interest that Jupe Pluvius took in the opening day ceremony that was to get the City league officially under way this evening, the opening day has been postponed until this (Wednesday) evening and the Corticelli Silk Co. nine will take on the Tubs at 6.15.

No attempt was even made by the two teams scheduled for this evening's opening game to open the City league's season play. A thin drizzling rain fell at 5.45, a half hour before opening time. With the postponing of opening day of the league one day, it will give City Mayor Malcom F. Scott a chance to perfect his curve ball that he will use against Barry, the lead-off man for the Corticelli Co., this evening. Anytime Wednesday morning, both City Mayor Scott and City Manager William A. Holt, may be seen working together in the open lot in back of the city hall.

PLAINFIELD NOSES OUT CHAPMAN TECH IN 11TH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 27.—A ninth inning rally, scoring two runs for Plainfield High tied the contest up at 3-all for the Orange and Black, and in the eleventh frame two Plainfield runners trickled over the plate, giving the visitors a close and well fought decision, the final score reading 5 to 3. The eleven inning game was filled with good plays at one time and then at another the teams seemed to go to pieces completely, allowing the opposing base runners to go wild on the paths. For seven innings Morris Brown pitched as good a game as one could wish for and during that time the Plainfield batsmen could do nothing with his curves and he was on the road to fame for he had a no hit contest within his reach. With the beginning of the eighth, Brown, the gulf-pint Plainfield third baseman, shattered all of the dreams of a no hit contest for his namesake, Morris Brown. The Plainfield Brown shot a single to left that just escaped the clutches of Courbois,

NEW LONDON BOY, 8, ROBS MAIL BOX AND WOULD KNIFE POSTMASTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 27.—Yesterday afternoon a boy 8 years, residing on Main street was discovered to have robbed mail at the post office. After being reprimanded and the mail he had stolen taken from him, he went to the post office armed with a knife intending to inflict bodily injury on Assistant Postmaster Edward T. Corcoran. The matter will be reported to the federal authorities, but because of the age of the youth it is not likely that the lad will receive punishment for a crime, which, if it had been committed by an adult, would have carried a states prison sentence with it.

Monday an official of the Corticelli Silk company reported to the post office authorities that a youth had delivered a number of letters at the office of the company, claiming to have found them, but that the letters had been tampered with. Assistant Postmaster Corcoran learned the identity of the boy and went to the home where he waited his return. When the boy arrived, he claimed to have found the letters and then produced other letters addressed to the company, which he also asserted that he had found. These letters contained checks, some of them [illegible] Assistant Postmaster Corcoran reported to the post office the youth appeared at the office of the post forwarder on the second floor of the building and made inquiry for the "forwarder" declaring that he intended to "ride" him, meaning Mr. Corcoran. The city is to undertake a big job in cementing the roadway from the junction of Montauk avenue and Bank street to the city line at Waterford. The cost of the work is estimated at $55,000, which sum will build a street from curbing to curbing and [illegible] gutters, which are a source of expense and which do not take care of the surface water as does the paved surface from one side of the highway to the other. At the council meeting Monday evening this plan was decided upon and the city manager has now been instructed to have prepared plans and to secure estimates that will tell just what the work is to cost. Three plans were considered, including one that would provide for leaving the cement on a portion of the width of the road, but [illegible] was explained as the committee decided that it would be expensive to take care of the macadam on the sides of the cement and that in the long run the work would be just as costly as would be the provision of a wholly cement road. The state will have a hand in the work, for the [illegible] is to contribute something to the cost, inasmuch as the road is a so-called state road. Whether the state or the city will make the contract is not known. It is held that the city cannot delegates the making of a contract for it to the state, but the opinion is that such objection as that can be overcome if it turns that the state can do the work or secure its performance at a lower price than the city would be asked to pay. The purpose is to give the contracts to New London residents if that can be [illegible] but the successful bidder must agree to do the work as cheaply as [illegible] an outsider.

Horace Clift, one of the oldest Civil war veterans living here, was 84 Tuesday and received a shower of post cards from members of A. G. Latham camp, No. 19, Sons of Veterans, Williams Woman's Relief corps, No. 42, and Phoebe Parker Rathbun Tent, Daughters of Veterans, as well as baskets of fruit from the Sons and Daughters. The Relief corps hung Mr. Clift a fine May basket filled with fruit and candy. Mr. Clift enlisted May 6 1862, and was wounded May 27, 1863, at Fort Hudson, Louisiana, and was mustered out August 17, 1863, being a sergeant in Company K, 26th Connecticut infantry. Mr. Clift is well and active for a man of his years and is able to walk from his home on Pequot avenue to the village, which is a good test of endurance considering the hills or most.

Local members of the League of Women Voters are reminded notice of the annual meeting of the New London County League which is to be held at Uncasville school today (Wednesday) [illegible] from here [illegible] ing.

About 200 members of Stonington lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., and Mystic Rebekah lodge, were present on Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall at the reception given by these organizations for James Cooper, recently elected grand master of the state of Connecticut. The reception was held at eight o'clock and, after the members and guests, the past grand [illegible] of the state and extended congratulations there were solos by A. O. Lewis and Miss Marion Allen. In behalf of Stonington lodge, A. O. Lewis presented Mr. Cooper a Hamilton gold watch, which Mr. Cooper gratefully acknowledged. Mrs. William Van Pelt, for Mystic Rebekah lodge, presented Mr. Cooper as [illegible] and Mr. Cooper again responded in appreciation. Mrs. Cooper was presented a basket of flowers. [illegible] dancing followed. Music was furnished throughout the evening by Noyes' orchestra.

Members of Charity chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., are planning to go to Poquonnoc Thursday afternoon to attend a meeting of the Sewing society, at the home of Mrs. John Irving.

Miss Eleanor Fish has been a visitor in Preston.

The Home Missionary society of the Methodist church met Tuesday afternoon in the chapel. Plans were made for the supper next week at which time the mite boxes will be brought in and opened.

The annual canvass for memberships of the Visiting Nurse Association of Mystic is under way. The village and environs have been divided into districts which are in charge of the following members of the association: Mrs. F. A. Coates, Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler, Mrs. H. B. Noyes, John Rossie, Peter Flynn, Charles E. Wheeler, John B. Grinnell, A. W. George, Brenton Copp, Dr. G. S. B. Leonard and J. W. Jackson. It is expected that the response to this canvass for memberships will be generous, that all old members will renew their memberships and that many new ones will be added, thus enabling this efficient organization to continue its splendid work of alleviating suffering and bringing cheer to those in distress.

Henry Frink and family of Norwich were guests this week of relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fowler, Mrs. Marguerite Bridgman and son, Edward, of Westfield, Mass., have been guests of Mrs. Emeline Allyn.

The bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Luella Strickland Clark on Monday were Moses W. Wilcox, D. Elmer Wilcox, George W. GOING AWAY?

FOR A DAY? FOR A WEEK? FOR THE SUMMER?

The holiday demands holiday clothes, whether you intend to spend it in a leisurely manner, or quietly at home. There's a feeling of relief when the daily routine is broken, and this applies to clothes as well as to the tasks you are accustomed to performing. Memorial Day calls for holiday attire. The Boston Store has it for you.

A SPORT COAT SPECIAL

AND THE REDUCED PRICE COMES IN TIME FOR THE HOLIDAY

We are offering this week some very exceptional values in Sport Coats of late designs, developed in Downly Wool and Polaire. Former prices up to $25.00 . . . . . $15.00

SKIRTS

IN STYLES AND COLORS WHICH INTRIGUE

$7.95 to $14.75

A smart, sport skirt will help chase dull care away. Just a bit different from your every-day clothes, and so becoming with the new sweaters. Choose a pleated or a wrap-around model made of fancy Rosmanair, Wool Flannel, or Crepe de Chine. The colors are navy, black, tan, gray and white.

SWEATERS

WITH A SPORTY AIR

$2.95 to $12.50

They almost rule the vacation field, and certainly they are bright spots in this season's fashions. There are the coat effects—very trim. The Slip-ons—youthful and oh so comfortable have their devotees. The Jacquette models also claim much attention and [illegible]

BLOUSES

OF SOFT SILKS OR CRISP COTTONS

WILLIMANTIC

Of three cases assigned for Wednesday's session of the Windham county superior court in this city only one, that of Aaron M. Bowen vs Mabel Pierce, both of Eastford, was heard. The case was uncontested and was a suit for a bill of $103.10 for gasoline furnished by the plaintiff for autotrucks owned by the defendant, from January 2 to March 6, 1923. The plaintiff was allowed to recover the amount designated.

A lengthy conference of the attorneys in the case of Richard G. Watrous vs. Guilford Smith was held, prior to the opening of the session. The action in the suit dates back several years, plaintiff claiming that heirlooms belonging to his grandfather had come into the possession of the defendant's family. The attorneys, Alvin Hyde of Hartford and S. H. Harvey and William A. King of this city for the defendant, agreed to have the matter placed before a state referee for settlement. Judge Reed was named to act.

The case of T. & T. Dress company of Worcester, Mass., vs Mayer Goldwater, was declared off the list. On the application of Alfred Akers for a change of name to that of Alfred Joseph Mathewson, Attorney Frank H. Yoos appeared for the applicant. Akers was born in Adams, Mass., Aug. 24, 1920. His father died when he was a child and his mother remarried a man named Mathewson and the applicant had gone under that name for some time. He has been a resident of the town of Windham for five years. The petition for the change of name was granted by Judge Haines.

In the case of Nathan Weissler of Worcester vs. Peter Watman and Chassie Watman to recover $821.10 a decision was given for the plaintiff. The amount to be recovered was on merchandise

The uncontested divorce case of Marjorie C. Woodbury, of Killingly, from Ralph E. Woodbury, now of Bristol, was heard. The petitioner is the daughter of Judge Arthur G. Bill of Danielson. The couple were married in Danielson Sept. 10, 1919, and [illegible] Catherine Elizabeth, was born to them Oct. 19, 1922. Mrs. Woodbury alleged abuse on the part of her husband and her testimony was corroborated by relatives. The decree was granted on the grounds of intolerable cruelty.

Judge Haines then adjourned court for a indefinite recess, but said that he might return and preside over a short calendar session about the middle of June

Frank Bogue of Columbia, whose [illegible] and touring car struck and injured Charles J. Lee of this city, at Lincoln Square on Union street Tuesday afternoon, was in police court on Wednesday morning. Bogue was charged with operating his registration [illegible] possession at the time of the accident. He explained that [illegible] automobile a few days previously had been purchased another [illegible] owner told him [illegible] to drive it for a few days [illegible] no new registration [illegible] location was considered [illegible] one by Judge Haines [illegible] was nolled, on payment of $5.75. Bogue has [illegible] injury caused.

[illegible] of about ten veterans of [illegible] wars motored to the various [illegible] of the town Wednesday [illegible] markers and flags [illegible] graves of the soldier and [illegible] dead, in preparation for the [illegible] day exercises. Markers [illegible] are placed over some 466 graves, [illegible] over 300 of which are at Willimantic cemetery and the remainder distributed between St. Joseph's and the [illegible] Windham and Windham Center cemeteries.

San Jose Council No. 14, Knights of Columbus is to hold annual memorial exercises for the deceased members [illegible] afternoon, June 8. Rev. [illegible] R. DesSureault, of Occum, will deliver the memorial address. The Knights will attend services at St. Mary's church at 1.30 o'clock and the address will be given at St. Joseph's cemetery. The customary decoration of graves will take place. The procession will be led by the B. P. O. E. band.

The leading social school event of the year, the annual senior reception will be held by the class of 1924 of Windham High school at the state armory the latter part of June. The date also marks the meeting of the alumni and undergraduates. Miss Helen Thompson is at the head of a live wire committee and arrangements for the affair are progressing in a most satisfactory manner. Miss Celia [illegible] chairman of the [illegible] committee, is to be de[illegible] J. D. Donahue. The [illegible] of festal will pay for [illegible] and

With two more invasions of the [illegible] strike the Jackie Nichols All Star baseball troupe will conclude its [illegible] season within three days, with matches against the [illegible] and Eagleville outfits.

Postmaster Walter R. King made [illegible] announcement Wednesday that on Memorial Day there are to be no deliveries by either city or rural carriers, but that business men and others could be accommodated by calling at the post office for mail between 7.30 and 11 o'clock in the forenoon. The money order and postal savings departments will be closed during the day.

Victor, the 5-year-old son of Stephen and Rose LeClair Pekarovic, of Lebanon, died Wednesday morning.

Students of Windham High school are sprucing up the knowledge which they gained during the year in preparation for the annual mid-year examinations which will begin June 10 and be concluded June 13.

A large delegation of local residents will attend the convention of the French societies of Connecticut to be held at Putnam, beginning Sunday evening with sessions Monday and Tuesday.

The French-American Social club's soiree to be held at the Al-Pierre Tabarin on Valley street, promises to be an elaborate affair. It marks the culmination of a series of successful socials held in private homes during the winter months and is also a private affair in the form of a May Day festival. Members will enjoy dancing and refreshments.

Barney Gunshinan, professional of the Willimantic Country club is one of the contestants in the eastern open golf championships being staged by the Worcester Country Club on their links.

Leroy A. Dissinger, physical director at the local Y. M. C. A., has been invited to go to New Haven and work out with the St. Louis Cardinals. The invitation was received from Charlie Kelchner, the "profs" well known scout.

The sale of Chautauqua tickets is progressing rapidly. The guarantee this year is twenty-five hundred dollars and any sum taken in in excess of that will be donated to the local visiting nurse association.

The fact that the Willimantic-Norwich trolley was moving slowly probably prevented a serious accident, about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when the trolley left the rails in South Windham and collided with a horse-drawn baker cart belonging to Joseph Beladeau of this city. The damage was slight.

Frightened at the sight of the steam roller, a pair of horses owned by Foley & Henry started on a backward journey and ran the wagon which they were drawing into a Gardner touring car, owned by Raymond Foy of this city.

The radiator of the machine was damaged.

That stretch of Jackson street between Union and Valley streets, which for some time past has justified many a motorist to use profane words is undergoing repairs which promise to make the street veritable driver's delight. Acting Mayor George W. Hickey was assisting Superintendent of the Street John S. Sullivan Wednesday in supervising the work of putting the street into shape.

St. Mary's choir boys have gone in for baseball with a vengeance. They have organized a nine and filled out a schedule which runs up to the first of September with games every Sunday. Today (Thursday) the team will play the Valley Streets and Sunday the St. Joseph's school.

Noted Out and About

The first degree was conferred upon several candidates at the regular meeting of San Jose Council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus Tuesday evening. Grand Knight Gilbert P. Flynn and the council officers were in charge.

Ascension Day services will be held at St. Paul's church, Windham, Thursday, May 29.—Holy communion will be at 9.30 a. m. At St. Paul's church, this city, evening services and sermon will be at 7.30.

State Policemen Heinold and Hardisty of the Stafford Springs barracks were in this city on business Wednesday.

Miss Bertha Weeks is with Mrs. Spafford Warner, of North Windham, for two weeks.

Mrs. William A. Dawson who has been ill at her home on Johnson avenue, has been taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment.

Mrs. James G. McNally of Windham road has practically recovered from her recent illness and will leave St. Joseph's hospital shortly.

Herman and Eugene Fontaine, sons of Arthur Fontaine of Taftville underwent minor operations Wednesday morning, performed by Docetors S. J. Turcotte and W. P. S. Keating.

At a farewell surprise party to Mrs. George F. Taylor, who sails June 3 for Europe on S. S. Cleveland, Mrs. T. R. Parker and Mrs. Charles L. Crane entertained the West End Bridge club with twelve invited guests at Mr. Parker's home on Church street Tuesday afternoon. [illegible] was presented a handsome umbrella.

Mr. and Mrs. James [illegible] have been entertaining their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Bath, who motored here from New York and left Wednesday for Worcester, Mass.

SUFFERED WITH ECZEMA 3 YEARS

Itched and Burned So Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"I suffered for three years with eczema which broke out on my limbs, and soon spread to my neck and forehead. It itched and burned so that it was most impossible to sleep a night and every time I scratched it, it would bleed. The breaking out caused disfigurement. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after the first week I got relief. I continued the treatment and in about six months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. George Pottle, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Freedom, Me., Aug. 15, 1923.

Use Cuticura for all toilet purposes.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (25 and 50c.) sold throughout the world. Sample each free by mail. Address: "Cuticura," Dept. 20, Malden 48, Mass. Try our new Shaving Stick.

JEWETT CITY

Whatsoever Circle of The King's Daughters held its meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Nelbert Myott. As several of the members had said they wished to hear a report of the National Convention in South Carolina, Mrs. G. H. Prior notified the Circle that she would give her report that evening. She was not surprised then at the large attendance, therefore, nor at the presence of the county secretary, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, and the leader of Dorcas Circle, Miss M. A. Burdick, for she was told that they had been invited to hear the report. But, when she was invited to lead the party to the dining room and saw the beautifully decorated board and was told to sit at the head of the table and investigate the contents of the beautiful Maybasket, she saw the season for so large an attendance. At each place at the tables were small purple Maybaskets with a butterfly tip-tilted on the handle. They contained confections and nuts, but Mrs. Prior, found a purple velvet box which contained a wrist-watch. She has been the beloved leader of the circle for fifteen years, and her advancement to county, state and international president has been a source of great pride to the members. For once in her life, she was too surprised to speak, but in a few minutes she thanked the circle from the depths of her heart. The exquisite centerpiece was a plateau mirror bearing a bouquet of lilies of the valley and violets. Overhead, the chandelier was decorated with purple lilacs and a shower of purple and gold streamers decorated with butterflies depending from the light. The buffet was banked with purple and white lilacs and dainty white and purple napkin pond lilies held the punch glasses at each plate. Nutbread sandwiches and peanut butter cracker sandwiches, macaroons, strawberry shortcake and whipped cream and fruit punch were served by Mrs. Myott and Miss Alice A. Brown. Miss Doris Myott arranged the decorations. There were thirty-one present to enjoy this most delightful evening. Of special interest were the souvenirs from Charleston, which Mrs. Prior brought to the meeting.

Memorial Day, the procession will leave the town hall at 9 o'clock (daylight time). Led by Plainfield band, the line will move down Main street to Slater Library, where a wreath will be placed upon the honor roll which bears among the other names the names of the young man for whom the local American Legion Post was named, and whose place of burial is unknown to his family, and of several other young men who died in the service. Miss Eva LaFlamme will place a wreath upon the honor roll and Miss Ida Foster upon the tree planted by Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter D. A. R. in memory of the young men from this town who died in the world war. The Jewett City, St. Mary's and Baptist cemeteries will be visited and the graves decorated in turn.

Exercises will be held at Fanning Park. Rev. E. E. Scates being the speaker. The monument will be decorated under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Haskell by children who are descendants of the men of past wars. The school children will sing here.

At Lisbon bridge flowers will be scattered on the waters in memory of the sailor dead.

Dinner will be served in St. Mary's church hall, under the direction of Mrs. M. E. Shea and a committee of three from each church. Mrs. N. J. Babcock will have charge of the distribution of wreaths.

It is hoped that ex-service men of all wars, sons of veterans, patriotic organizations, Boy Scouts, borough and town officials and citizens will make the parade and day a success. Dr. G. H. Jennings will be marshal of the day. It is expected that a firing squad will take part in the ceremonies. It is hoped each one will display a poppy, twelve hundred having been sold in this vicinity.

The names of Derious Bottom, Revolutionary war and William and Alonzo Palmer, Civil War, should be added to the names of the soldier dead in Ames cemetery.

The bronze marker placed on Slater Library lawn by Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter D. A. R. in memory of the world war veterans from this town, is to be placed upon the wall of the reading room in Slater Library, for the present. In years to come, when the tree planted for the same purpose, becames large enough, the marker will be placed upon the tree.

L. A. Thornton received Maybasket cards and flowers from the Woman's Relief Corps, of Norwich, Whatsoever Circle of The King's Daughters and many friends, on his eighty-eighth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Field and son and Miss Rose Crumb motored to Stottville, N. Y., Wednesday, to spend Memorial Day with relatives of Mrs. Field.

Posters in the Humane Society contest have been returned to the local schools. This contest was open to all the children in Connecticut. Leo Stedman, of Riverside Grammar school received one dollar as a prize, the subject of his poster being "Come Right In". Nitoldo Bakanowski received honorable mention. His poster was "Won't You Give Me a Bite?"

More wreaths must be made for Memorial Day. Fourteen patriotic women came to the Town Hall Wednesday afternoon and it will be necessary for a greater number to come today (Thursday) during the afternoon, to make the required number of wreaths.

STONINGTON

Today Ascension Thursday, masses will be offered at St. Mary's church at 5.45 and 7. Requiem masses for the deceased members of Welcome lodge, No. 11, Portuguese fraternity and St. Michael's association. An anniversary mass is announced for Saturday for Dr. J. L. May. Rev. J. E. O'Brien will officiate.

Now We Know Why People Have

Burning Feet

All In the Joints Says Maine Doctor

"What fools we mortals be."

All these years we have been trying to help thousands of footsore people by bathing and powdering the skin when all the time the real trouble is in the bones, ligament and cartilage—Or, to be short, in the joints.

There are 26 bones in the foot covered with cartilage and connected with ligaments and they have a tremendous amount of work to do.

The slightest strain on one little ligament from being "on the feet" too much inflames the whole foot, causing soreness and burning, aching and general misery.

"All this can be quickly proved," says a prominent Maine doctor whose name is known the world over.

Just try a remedy that is compounded for joint troubles only—such as Joint-Ease, which every druggist carries, and see how quickly your sore, tired, inflamed and tortured feet will get well and strong and sturdy again.

Forget your powdering and soaking and other makeshifts for just a few days and get rid of all foot misery by using Joint-Ease.

It's an active emollient that you rub on with your fingers for about a minute and it soaks right in through skin and flesh away down to the joints—the real seat of all troubles.

new responsibilities today, May 29, in a run from Springfield, Mass., to New York city and June 2nd for one week between Boston and New York, his regular run to be assigned later. Mr. Linke's family will remain in Canterbury for the present. He leaves with the best wishes of all his friends. Fred Sackett, substitute carrier, will have the route until another carrier is appointed.

Charles Pellett of Danielson, whose funeral was held Monday of last week was a former Westminster resident and has relatives and many friends here. His wife is sister of Columbus Smith, now of Norwich, formerly of Brookside farm, now owned by the Deanes.

May 17th Mrs. Kent, teacher of Raymond school, was very pleasantly surprised by receiving two generous sized and well filled May baskets. Nineteen participants in the gift sharing in the delightful evening that followed the presentation.

Mrs. M. E. Squires and L. H. Pendleton of Willimantic spent some hours May 20, with their sister, Mrs. Wm. E. Davis and family of Raymond district.

Carl Stahnke, his son, Frank and Waino Rinen were recent Willimantic visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Viteaz were in Baltic Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barstow were in Attawaugan, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rollinson, last Friday and with them called on the Barstows in Goodyear.

Mrs. Jessie A. Meade who has spent several weeks in town at Mr. Ida Shorter's has returned to New York.

HANOVER

Rev. Roderick MacLeod gave an instructive Memorial day sermon on Peace, Sunday morning. Sunday evening the last Yale University Press picture was enjoyed by a large number at the Parish house. The subject matter of the picture was the Clark expedition to the northwest. "Vincennes" was the name of the picture.

Miss Julia Delaney and Miss Alice Hadfield spent the week end in Boston.

The photoplay The Christian, was shown in the Parish house Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Hazen were guests of B. W. Jones of Davisville, R. I., over the week-end.

Louis Milach is visiting Mr. [illegible] Mrs. Tomas Bamford.

Friday morning there will be a Memorial day service at the cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Witter and Mr. and Mrs. William Witter and son were visitors in town Monday.

GOSHEN

Not only is it apple blossom time just now but the air is also laden with the fragrance of the purple and white lilacs and the blossoms of wild honeysuckle. Violets were never seen in such numbers as this year.

A natural curiosity is the shelving ledge of rock by the roadside, just above the Waterman school house. The space under this overhanging ledge is large enough to accommodate quite a number of people sitting, and could shelter them dry during a hard rain storm.

Another curiosity telling of the days gone by is the old farmhouse now collapsed and going to decay formerly known as the Harry Fowler house. It is interesting to note the heavy 8x12 beams and plates and girder timbers. The mortices are still plainly seen, numbered in Roman figures, the dovetail joining and other ingenious craft of the carpenter of 200 years ago, who had but the scribe rule and plumb line to go by. In a nearby field is a private cemetery in the small enclosure, but one stone of three remains, telling of the three graves, this stone lying flat on the ground indicates it has been used in recent years for a dead fall trap. On this stone is the inscription recording that one named Fowler died in 1777 of smallpox in his 22nd year.

CONNECTICUT'S BONUS

SHARE IS 1.4 PER CENT.

Connecticut furnished 1.403 per cent. of the men who served in the army, navy and marine corps during the Word war, war department charts reveal and Connecticut men will therefore receive approximately this proportion of the whole amount of benefits under the administration of the bonus bill.

The allotment of bonus application blanks will be made on this basis. New York furnished by far the largest proportion of the whole armed force, the percentage being 10.367. Pennsylvania was second with

There is no substitute for Victor products

No other records present such a quality or variety of musical entertainment as the Victor Records contained in the Victor Record Catalogs and in the new lists issued every week. No other talking-machine attains such perfection of reproduction as the Victrola; and the range of sizes, designs and prices provides a style for every home. As no other talking-machines or records equal Victor products individually, it is apparent that no other combination than Victor Records and the Victrola used together can produce the best results.

		Number	DOUBLE-FACED List Price
Hungarian Dance No. 4, in B Minor (Brahms-Auer) Violin Solo	Cecilia Hansen	6447	$2.00
Rondino (Vieuxtemps) Violin Solo	Cecilia Hansen

First Victor Record by this celebrated young violinist who has gained the recognition her splendid powers deserve. A beautiful tone, a splendid technique, an amazing breadth of style—all are revealed in this record.

Light Vocal Selections

Love Makes the World a Merry-Go-Round	Sir Harry Lauder	55222	1.50
I Like My Old Home Town	Sir Harry Lauder

The first a song of good humor, wholesome and tonic as the wind off the Scotch heather. The other is almost in military style, so far as its music goes. Both are heartening [illegible] and the records are Sir Harry out and out.

A Little Bit o' Honey	Olive Kline	45412	1.00
Sonny Boy	Olive Kline

Two songs, with softly "fetching" cradle-rhythms, for the heart of motherhood. The voice is one of those rare ones which we are always glad to hear, and the record is a splendid example of Victor recording.

When Love Comes Stealing	Lewis James	19326	.75
I'm Waiting for Ships That Never Come In	Bruce Wallace

Popular songs of love and human experience. The first is in waltz time and is one of the finest records James ever made. The second is somewhat in fox trot style and combines admirably with the first number.

Melodious Instrumental

Sunshine Capers Piano Solo	Roy Bargy	19320	.75
Rufenreddy Piano Solo	Roy Bargy

Two piano numbers of Bargy's own composing. You may dance to them, for they are in excellent fox trot rhythms. But you must not consider them dance records alone, for they are examples of American popular piano music, delightful to hear.

Dance Records

The Little Wooden Whistle Wouldn't Whistle—Fox Trot with vocal refrain	S. S. Leviathan Orchestra	19323	.75
Arabianna—Fox Trot

A pair of fox trots of far more than ordinary melodic interest, the first with a vocal refrain by Billy Murray. "Arabianna" is in true oriental style. Records par excellence from the dancer's viewpoint.

Oriental Love Dreams—Fox Trot with vocal refrain	Coon-Sanders Original	19325	.75
My Daddy's Dreamtime	Night Hawk Orchestra
Lullaby—Fox Trot with vocal refrain

Lively fox trots. The first number though snappy in style, has some subdued saxophone melodies. The second syncopates remotely on Schumann's "Traumerei" and "In the Gloaming." These records clearly show why this organization has made such a hit with the dance fans.

Wait'll You See My Gal—Fox Trot	The Benson Orchestra of Chicago	19327	.75
Eileen—Fox Trot	Jean Goldkette and His Orchestra

The first number features the xylophone in a light graceful dance. "Eileen" is melodious and introduces "The Minstrel Boy." Both orchestras are favorites with dance lovers and these records will win them new adherents.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Mrs. Zebra and Her Colt

Dont you hear those jolly bells,
Those cheery, merry trolley bells?
'Pears to me they seem to say,
"Come along with us today.

Tom and Jerry, Mary and Prue,
Come, we're going to the Zoo!"
Sisters, brothers, playmates, pals!
Come and see the animans!

Well, well, well! Did you ever suppose that trolley bells could sing like that? Maybe I'm dreaming, but I once knew a little colored girl who used to pretend she had a playmate named Rastus. She'd talk and play with him all day long. She was a regular make-believe little colored girl. Oh, my yes. So let us fancy the trolley bells are calling us.

Goodness me! I'm wasting a lot of time. I know you are waiting on tip-toe to hear more about Little Jack Rabbit whom we left in the last story at the circus in Turnip Town. Hurrah! Here comes the Circus Elephant. Hurrah! again. Windy the Orang-outang is with him.

"Seems to me, we ought to meet Elephant. But before he could say more, the little rabbit answered: "I'm so glad to see again the friends I made here last week that I've almost forgotten there is anybody else."

Well, although Mrs. Zebra was very polite, Mr. Zebra wasn't. Oh, dear me, no. He kicked up a dreadful row, snorting and braying and behaved in a most unfriendly manner.

"Perhaps he doesn't like my jacket," sighed the little rabbit. "His has stripes like Chippy Chipmunks—maybe he doesn't like checks!"

Just then the baby colt zebra came up to the fence, and pressing close, whispered something in the bunny boy's ear. Now, what do you suppose it was? Why, you'd never guess if I gave you until the 30th of February, so I'll tell you right away.

"Mother reads to me in the Bunnyville Bugle every night what you do every day!"

"Ha, ha," laughed the little rabbit. "I must be careful not to do anything wrong. But what do you like best in the stories?"

"We-l-l," hesitated the little baby colt zebra, "after you I like dear Uncle Lucky and Bobbie Redvest. The Big Brown Bear is nice, too. So is the Yellow Dog Tramp. Oh, dear, when I try to tell whom I really like best, I can't. But, most prob'ly it's Uncle Lucky!"

"Maybe pretty soon he'll come to visit all you animals," said the little rabbit. "Just wait till I tell him all I've done." And then, goodness me, all of a sudden that dear little rabbit gave a hop, skip and jump, and hopped right into tomorrow's story.

NATURE'S DANGER SIGNALS

Nervousness, melancholia, backache, headache and pain in the side are all nature's danger signals which indicate some ailment peculiar to a woman. When such warning symptoms appear women may avoid much pain and suffering if they will rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as its tonic, strengthening influence speedily removes the cause and restores the system to a healthy, normal condition.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Such an authority on French literature as Pierre Petac, it is rumored, has been engaged to write the signs in the French language that will be one of the interesting features of the big event the American legion is to stage [illegible] in connection with [illegible] a voiture here Saturday evening. Even for the boys who were "over there" there will be memories in encountering signs printed in the French language on street corners "over here."

In carrying out a plan to give Dan- [illegible] the United States [illegible] the great work of [illegible] enemy forces—and [illegible] such little reminders of France [illegible] they will find in Danielson Saturday [illegible] have been more or [illegible] it could not be wholly [illegible] account of the serious—and often fatal—tasks to be faced.

Today those boys who came back see the things they saw over there in a different light and many of the incidents of their experiences, if lightly dealt with, but help lessen the strain from which many have never fully recovered, of a period that was barely normal for any of Uncle Sam's forces who went abroad.

More than 40 looms are now running in the Main street part of the Paco Manufacturing company, formerly the Danielson Cotton Co. plant and more recently the property of the Connecticut Mills, from which the Paco Co. has leased the property with privilege of purchase.

Daily shipments of looms are coming in and this fine new industry is gradually advancing toward a production capacity that means a great deal to the industrial advancement of Danielson and the success of its many business enterprises.

Incomes are being set up as rapidly as is possible after they come in and more and more of them are in operation every week. Increase in production is expected to be steady throughout the summer period, with the plant operating in full within a comparatively few weeks.

At the American Eagle diner, now open on Main street, at the railroad crossing you will find an immaculate place to get good food at moderate prices. Open day and night. Regular dinners daily, 11 to 2. Steaks, chops and a variety of substantial lunches at all hours.—adv.

Business reviews published Wednesday contained words of optimism as to the apparent forthcoming improvement in the cotton manufacturing industry. One review suggests that cotton manufacturers will lead the way to a general revival of business, a forecast that is of special interest in manufacturing centers in the Quinebaug valley.

It is probable that a delegation from the Catholic Women's Welfare council of Danielson, will be present when Lakeville Manor, the summer vacation home of the state council, is opened on Memorial day. In connection with the opening, Rev. Seraphim Geogheaghan, O. S. M., of New York will begin Friday a tridium or three days' devotion that will continue through Saturday and Sunday.

We wish to remind you that if you deposit your funds in the Savings department of the Windham County National bank, Danielson, Conn., on or before June 5th, they will draw interest from June 1st.—adv.

Joseph Dragon, long resident here and formerly of Goodyear, was reported Wednesday as dangerously ill at his home on Railroad street.

Attorney E. L. Darbie, an officer of the Masonic Grand lodge of Connecticut, has been at Hartford this week to attend the conferring of the 32nd degree upon a class of candidates.

Miss Annie Carver of Norwich is the guest of Michael Head and family of Academy street, who also will have as guests over the holiday, Thomas Head and Thomas Head, Jr., of Winsted.

The West Wauregan Fire company announces an all day carnival at Sacred Heart grave for Memorial day, with a baseball game at 2 p. m., standard time.—adv.

Keeping up its unhappy record, May turned in another cloudy day Wednesday, though the temperature reached a higher level than has been the rule for the month.

At East Killingly the big hill is being graveled at points needing attention preparatory to oiling this stretch of highway, which is badly broken down in places between the Valley district and Elmville.

Not much of a start was made on street decorations in Danielson Wednesday, but the work is expected to be in full swing today (Thursday).

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Brooks of Westwood, Mass., announce the engagements of their daughter, Ruth Hannah Woodward to Dr. Henry C. Dixon of Danielson.

County Investigator William E. Jackson of Willimantic was in Danielson on a business visit Wednesday.

Graduation exercises of the grammar schools of Killingly are to be held in the town hall on the afternoon of June 12.

A holiday schedule of service will be in force at the post office tomorrow (Memorial day), the office excepting the lobby, closing at 10.30 for the day. There will be no deliveries by carriers.

Howard A. Elliott, chief special deputy of the commissioner of domestic animals, is engaged on work of his department in towns hereabouts this week.

Preparations are being made to lay the new and heavier rails being put in by the New Haven road between Putnam and a point north of Wauregan at the Main street crossing here.

Danielson's banks will observe Memorial day as a holiday and will be closed on Friday.

St. James' school baseball team defeated the Dayville grammar school team at Dayville, 13 to 2. St. James' next game will be played here Memorial day morning with All Hallows' school team of Moosup. An afternoon game will be played between the teams in Moosup.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howarth of Lawrence, Mass., are guests of Miss Kathryn Brennan.

PUTNAM

The committee in charge of the state convention of the French societies in Connecticut, which opens in Putnam Sunday evening with a children's play, has planned to entertain the three hundred or more visitors who will be in Putnam Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Monday morning will see the big parade. This will form at St Jean's hall, Providence street, at 9 o'clock. Rosaris Beausoleil will be marshal and Ernest Duarant assistant marshal. Following a detail of police will come the Canadian band, of North Grosvenordale, officers of the common council of the city of Putnam, all [illegible] in the city, and the [illegible] The parade will move from the hall to Main street, to Union square, back on Main street to Bridge street, to Woodstock avenue, to Marshall street, to Providence street and return to the hall.

The committee of arrangements realizes fully the business conditions now existing in Putnam but it is hoped that those who can will decorate their homes and places of business and if no elaborate decorations can be made at least display an American flag. The convention is a big thing for Putnam and the common council, headed by the mayor, is enthusiastically co-operating in making the visitors welcome. All citizens are being invited to assist in the welcome to the strangers who will be in the city the first of the week.

The case of Margaret O'Leary vs. Valerie Delage, executrix of the estate of her husband, Remi Delage, began in the superior court room at Putnam, Tuesday, before Judge Gardiner Greene of Norwich, acting as state referee, came to a sudden ending, Wednesday morning, following a conference of counsel before court came in. It was learned after the matter was adjusted that the settlement was reached by an offer and acceptance of an additional $3,000. This makes the price paid for the property $14,000 cash, as the original consideration was $11,000.

Following the execution of a deed by Mrs. O'Leary, the plaintiff, Remi Delage, who was killed in an automobile accident in May 1923, while he was holding the office of captain of police of Putnam, the grantor repudiated her contract and relatives caused a conservator of her person and property to be appointed by the Putnam probate court. Patrick M. O'Dwyer of Webster was appointed conservator and steps were immediately taken to have the deed set aside.

During Tuesday there was much testimony, both by laymen and by expert witnesses, that at the time Mrs. O'Leary conveyed the property she was not mentally competent to transact business.

The property in question is situated on Main street north of the Court House block and south of the property of the Congregational church. It has a 32-foot frontage on Main street and is occupied by a two-story, antiquated wooden structure, occupied on the ground floor by a store and on the second floor by a tailor shop and tenement, the rental income being somewhat over $100 a month.

Miss Nina Hall, daughter of Joseph H. Hall, of Walnut street, has graduated from Tuskegee institute, Alabama, as a nurse. Miss Hall won a prize given annually by the hospital in which she trained, a silver nurse's watch. She has been offered an appointment in a government hospital in the south.

Miss O. M. Speck of the Day Kimball hospital staff, is spending a few days with relatives in Paterson, N. J.

Miss Elsie Diamond, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, has returned to her home on Grove street.

The more impatient Putnam citizens believe that someone has stolen the sun. It has not been seen here since last Sunday.

Mayor Chapdelaine was asked by a Bulletin reporter, Wednesday, whether, as mayor or as ex-officio chief of the police department, he contemplated taking action in the matter of Patrolman John Ryan, arrested Tuesday afternoon on a charge of illegally transporting liquor. Mayor Chapdelaine stated that he had but recently heard of the patrolman's arrest. When asked if Ryan would go on duty that night the mayor replied that he understood that the patrolman was having a week's vacation.

A good number of Putnam house-wives attended a lecture and demonstration at Putnam high school, Wednesday afternoon, by Miss Evelyn Spencer, working under the auspices of the state fish and game commission. The lecture was regarding the value of fish as food. Following Miss Spencer's talk she demonstrated in the domestic science department several methods of cooking fish. The lecture and demonstration has been given in most of the cities in the state and is in line with the government's program of educating the people as to the advantages of fish as a food, both from an economic standpoint and a health point of view.

Miss Blanche Green, a student at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, has arrived in Putnam to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Greene.

Mrs. Alice Hayward and daughter Elizabeth, of Hartford, formerly of Putnam, were guests of friends in the city Tuesday and Wednesday. They will leave here this (Thursday) morning to meet Mrs. Hayward's son, Sidney Hayward, a student at Dartmouth, for the holiday.

The engagement is announced of Miss Jennie Levine of Putnam to Philip Goldstein of Norwich. The wedding is to take place at an early date.

Miss Constance Russell has returned after a two days' visit in Boston.

Allen Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer, of Putnam a member of this year's senior class at Putnam high school, has received an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point from Congressman Richard P. Freeman of this district. Young Thayer is not required to take a competitive examination and if he meets the required tests of the academy will entre this summer. Thayer takes to the life of a soldier naturally. His grandfather, Colonel H. J. Thayer worked from the ranks to come colonel of the Third Regiment, C. N. G. and his father was for some years identified with military affairs in Rhode Island while the family lived in Pawtucket. In his younger days he was a member of the U. S. Naval Reserves.

Captain John J. McGarry of head-quarters company of the 43rd division, being formed in Putnam, stated Wednesday that eight more men are needed to fill the minimum quota of 65 required, before the company can be formally organized and begin to function. Captain McGarry has received word from Hartford headquarters that if the headquarters company is to have fifteen days' field duty at the Niantic camp this summer it will be necessary that the company's quota is filled and the company organized at once. The men already enrolled, as well as the captain are anxious for the camp experience and eight more men should be enrolled within the next five days. Those having any intention of joining are asked to do so immediately, that the desired end may be gained. The excellent opportunities afforded by a headheadquarters company and specialrating to be gained are many. This should make the proposition unusually attractive to young men.

Summer courses will be organized at the State Trade school in all departments. Special attention being given to the work in the home economics department in courses for high school students who wish to carry on in this work for six weeks and short unit courses organized for the benefit of women of the homes in this section.

Type courses are offered in trades for boys of the seventh grade and up for 7 weeks during the summer vacation.

The carpentry boys are busy building window and porch screens and trellis, and getting out plans for a new store front in a building on School street.

The machine shop department boys are engaged in the production of worms and worm wheels for the Keegan Co. of Wilsonville, the building of special machinery and making of tools designed by the boys in the drafting room.

In the textile department work is progressing favorably on the making of a special piece of cloth for the Parker Short Co. of New Britain, also on cloth to be made for local stores. The cloth products of the school are having special markers, these are being made by the Bridgeport Trade school printing department.

Electrical work is being conducted on the basis of experience and analysis involved; a good deal of class room work is being carried on at this time.

Summer courses offer splendid opportunity for a young man to obtain valuable experience in a number of well established industrial pursuits and it is expected that this year as in previous years the summer courses will be well patronized.

The drafting department has a number of very interesting projects at present, one being the making of complete house plans and specifications for a local customer.

Two boys will be graduated from the machine shop within the next few weeks, Harry Morgan from Woodstock and Alfred Gallant from Putnam. The principles and practices generally covered in this course include elementary and advance machine shop practice, hardening, tempering, drafting, mathematic and technical subjects.

ROCKVILLE

Last week Mrs. and Mrs. Emory C Kenyon were called to the bedside of their son, Wilfred Kenyon, critically ill with blood poisoning, following the extraction of an ulcerated tooth. Mr Kenyon returned home Saturday night but Mrs. Kenyon remained for a longer period. The son was thought to be better in some ways, but not out of danger. He is in the Flushing, L. I hospital, where everything possible is being done for his recovery.

Memorial day services will be held in the Seventh Day Baptist church here Friday at 4 p. m.

Misses Elva Woodmansee and Grace Jordan were guests of Miss Florence Barber, at Woodcrest, Sunday evening.

Miss Lucetta Crandall reached he 97th birthday, May 21st in fairly good health. She was given a post card shower, as well as being otherwise remembered by friends.

SUFFERED TWO YEARS, SAYS MRS. DEPUGH

But By The Help of Tanlac She Regained Normal Health and Weight.

Adding her voice to the thousands who are praising Tanlac for the return of their health and strength, Mrs. Vera A. DePugh, 96 Washington Street, Brighton, Mass., recently said:

"By the help of Tanlac I have overcome a case of indigestion that had caused me intense suffering for at least two years and I have also gained nine pounds in weight. My appetite had deserted me entirely, my energy had about all left me and at times I did not have strength to do my house work.

"Tanlac has certainly brought about a great change in my condition. I have a perfectly grand appetite, never feel a touch of indigestion, sleep like a child at night and, in fact, I am enjoying the best of health. The best is none too good to say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

TODAY—Ride in this Remarkable Six

Scientifically balanced, holds the road at all speeds. All-steel body. One-piece windshield. Luxurious, genuine leather cushions, ten inches deep. Cowl lights. Standard non-skid cord tires.

Now here's a car to-put the song of the open in your heart!

HERE is the open of the country, the quiet of star-leavened skies, the power of a thousand giants to transport you magically to the land of dreams-come-true.

A car world-famous and distinguished, the product of a vehicle-maker internationally acclaimed for the supreme in fine carriages since the days of Lincoln and Grant.

All the luxuries of a fine car—for it is a fine car. The same steels, the same engineering as the most costly Studebaker models—and that means the best men know. The same ease of handling, the same quiet, smooth operation, long life, low upkeep cost.

Now ride in it. Note its quick response to the slightest touch of the accelerator. Feel the thrill of its tremendously powerful six-cylinder motor. Mark its ease of handling, its comfort, its fine car refinements.

Then note its price is well within the limits of economy—the cost of upkeep low. The terms of payment liberal. It offers the supreme value of today in the $1000 field.

We invite you to take out a Light-Six model for comparison with other cars at near its price. Then with cars selling for several hundred dollars more. We'll place a Light-Six at your disposal for this purpose any time you name.

CLEAR HEADS MAKE KEEN BRAINS

Pleasure and Profit Come To Many In Norwich

The Simple Solution Is: Perfect Digestion and Proper Elimination of Waste, Brought About By Beecham's Pills

Norwich folk are bright beyond the ordinary. One is struck with this fact immediately in both social and business intercourse. Generally, they possess minds that grasp quickly, reason logically, decide intelligently — minds that bespeak healthy bodies.

What dulls natural wit, slows up thinking, and makes mere conversation and the performance of ordinary duties arduous undertakings, is usually simply a matter of bad digestion, sluggish lives, biliousness or constipation.

Clear the beclouded head by clearing the clogged system of the impurities generated by waste matter which has accumulated in the intestinal tract. Take Beecham's Pills, as thousands of others are doing, and quickly will digestion improve, the liverish condition vanish with the restoration of complete bowel movement regularly every day, and the brain return to its normal activity.

FREE TRIAL: Why not be counted among the "bright" ones by maintaining healthy digestive and eliminative organs with Beecham's Pills? Send us your name and address and we will send you, absolutely free, a Trial Packet of Beecham's Pills and a valuable Booklet, "The Way to Health." Address: B. F. ALLEN CO., Dept. 64, 417 Canal St., NEW YORK. Beecham's Pills are sold in boxes: 12 pills, 10c; 40 pills, 25c; 90 pills, 50c.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

Attached to the bill for increasing the salaries in the postal service was the rider concerning publicity for contributions to federal election campaigns. This move was made to get action at this session, after being brought up at a late date, that it might be effective for the coming campaign.

Under the provisions of this bill it will be necessary to make public the lists of the contributors and the amount which is contributed to all campaign committees every ten days. This means that the donors and what they are giving will be public property every few days, that it will be known where the money is coming from and in what amounts as the campaign progresses and it is to be regarded as an effort to overcome suspicion through keeping the limelight focused upon these lists.

That there is no serious objection to any such requirement is indicated by the manner in which the amendment was accepted. It experienced no opposition. Action on it was unanimous. Publicity is to be provided for, since the house can be expected to take a similar view to the senate upon this matter.

Such a provision not only opens the lists but it makes it impossible for those unfounded claims to be made about the enormous campaign funds that are being piled up, claims which are intentionally exaggerated for the effect it will have and the correction of which will never overtake the misstatement. The lists will be available and will refute the charges before they are made.

Because the lists are to be subject to public scrutiny and use does not necessarily mean that there will be widespread publicity. No one cares who contributes or what they contribute, so long as it is reasonable. If the postal bill amendment, which by no way has nothing to do with postal salaries, accomplishes its purpose all will be well and everyone happy. If intended as a preventive measure through the influence of publicity and if we can judge by the senate vote it terrorizes no one.

KEEPING UP THE NAVY.

If the approval by the lower house of an increase of an appropriation of $111,000,000 for naval construction can be regarded as the result of the discussion that has been engaged in within the past month concerning the shortcomings of the navy, it indicates, what is invariably the case, that all that is needed to stimulate naval appropriations is to point out how and where our navy fails to measure up to those of other countries.

It is to be realized that such an appropriation and such a building programme as it makes possible are entirely within the terms of the naval agreement. Nothing is being undertaken that would put us in excess of our quota under the 5-5-3 ratio. It is because we have not been providing cruisers and auxiliary ships that we have dropped a point from what we are entitled to under the agreement and it is evident that we have not as yet reached the point where we are ready to make any prolonged stand alone in behalf of limited armament in other than the battleship class.

The navy has been and must continue to be the first line of defense. When we maintain it at the point where we fill our designated strength we are setting no bad examples and doing nothing to make other nations nervous. We are nevertheless doing something to increase our peace of mind and it is possible to regard it as contributing to the peace of the world through indicating our determination to stand therefore.

QUOTA LAW UPHELD.

When it is declared that there are about 800 immigrants who have come to this country in the hopes that they will be admitted under a ruling similar to that in the Gottlieb case, before that decision had been passed on by the supreme court, it is evident that they were willing to take the chance of being sent back. If the decision was upheld they could enter. If it was upset they would have to go back. Inasmuch as the supreme court has declared that the decision of the lower court was erroneous they lose.

The whole matter hinged on the quota. In the Gottlieb case because the husband had preceded the wife and son to this country by some years and had taken out his first citizenship papers it was maintained that his wife and son should be admitted even though the quota from Palestine was full. It is this lower court decision which the highest court in the land now upsets by finding that the quota law was violated.

If the law which fixes the number who can be permitted to come in each year can be disregarded in such a manner it is evident that the immigration restrictions could easily be brushed aside. Probably the 800 who have landed, in expectation that the Gottlieb decision would be favorable, are only a small part of those who might seek admission on the very same grounds.

Either the quota regulations mean something or they do not. It is the practice to give a fair minded interpretation to the laws but it is well that this matter has been carried to the highest court and a decision obtained at this time. There are too many who are getting into the country in deliberate violation of the immigration restrictions without permitting the letting down of the bars in a way that would do much to break down the effectiveness of the established regulations. It is unfortunate that there are so many facing deportation, but that was apparently an alternative they knew about before they departed from other shores.

LAFOLLETTE'S STUNT.

The announcement that comes from LaFollette creates no surprise. He has been giving indications which disclosed his determination to continue his policy of trouble making and now he comes out from ambush and lets it be known that he is not only going to force one party to clean house but both of them. If they do not do this according to his ideas and in keeping with his judgment he threatens to be an independent candidate.

LaFollette has long had the presidential bee. It doesn't startle the country to learn that he is willing to be a candidate, but it is believed that his announcement will create no more favorable impression than has his antics as a member of congress in the radical and troublemaking attitude he has taken.

Apparently he is to be the judge as to whether the republican and democratic parties respond to his demands. He insists upon dictating their platforms and policies and generously gives them a chance to reform by announcing his intentions before their conventions meet instead of after. It is highly probable that Senator LaFollette takes himself much more seriously than most other people do, and now that he has gotten his candidacy out of his system his state of health may show greater improvement.

FIGHTING CANCER.

At a time when energies are being bent toward obtaining the relief for humanity that would come from the discovery of a cure for cancer, there is a significant statement made by Dr. C. H. Mayo that commands attention. Many claims have been made in regard to cancer cures. From time to time what is believed to be a noteworthy advance in the fight against the disease is made and yet it remains the fact that deaths from cancer continue to increase. There are of course the fake claims and there are others which are put forth in earnest hopefulness. An effort to awaken a greater interest in having the disease diagnosed and treated in its earliest possible stages is unquestionably doing much to help.

Dr. Mayo doesn't claim that a cure has been found, but he does say that he believes a cancer cure will be found within a few years if the efforts that are being made in that direction can be centralized. Dr. Mayo isn't holding out false hopes. His purpose isn't to cause the people to expect something that is not likely to be obtained. His position in the medical world is such as to sidetrack any such thought.

There is much to be learned in regard to cancer. Just what the cause of it is is not known; therefore there is bound to be uncertainty regarding its treatment. Such progress as has been made in combatting it has failed to produce a positive cure, but with each new bit of light that is being shed, and the results gained through surgery, during the early stages, it is disclosed that one of the leaders does not take a disheartening view of the outlook. Rather is he impressed with the progress and possibilities of success. Just what "a few years" means, and how near Dr. Mayo has come to the successful treatment when he intimates that it may come through the X-ray or a serum remains for time to disclose. Certainly it cannot come any too soon.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There's a duty before the republicans on election day. It is none too early to plan on getting out to vote.

Poor city government reflects on the electorate. A wasteful administration cannot be expected to be contained.

The man on the corner says: What is demanded of the weatherman for the rest of the month is to do the improbable.

Great Britain has denied Russia the guarantee of a loan. And it was supposed the soviet government had the British eating out of its hand.

Good government should be the desire of every citizen. It can be assured by going to the polls next Monday and voting the republican ticket.

Inasmuch as Massachusetts is not to have a new state prison this year it will be a big disappointment to those who have a fondness for such places.

Remember that the city election means the picking of those you would have run the municipal affairs, in which you are particularly interested, for the next two years.

The fellow who is trying to get his house painted thinks he has a special grievance against May, but sympathizes with the chap who is about ready to plant his garden over again.

Berlin hears soviet Russia faces a deficit of $200,000,000. But knowing that the American congress considers such a thing as justification for a raid on the treasury, why should Moscow worry? The people will have to stand it.

AN OFFICIAL TRAGEDY

"Don't ever let anybody persuade you to be vice-president of a club," Eve remarked bitterly. "I have found out different. Belle told me that a vice-president had nothing to do, so I let them elect me to that office in the Art and Music Lovers. Next time I do, I don't I'm telling you that!"

"But what do vice-presidents do, anyway? Seems to me they work about as hard as a wax figure in a show window," Eve's friend responded.

"It's all a mistake. Belle knew all the time she was going to New York over the holidays and, as she is president, that would leave me in charge. At our meeting we always have somebody to speak and somebody to sing and Belle said not to work because Prof. Wilgus had promised to talk on "The Psychology of Art" and Mattie Best would be home from college and sing for us. All I'd have to do was put on a pretty gown and do my hair becomingly and preside at the December meeting.

"The Alyord Teales asked me to a house-warming at their new country place but it was just the night of our club meeting and I had to decline," "I consoled myself with the thought that I would be hostess to Bert Wilgus in such an effective way that he would just have to realize that perhaps I was more intellectual and worth-while than he had ever deigned to think me.

"And what do you suppose he did? "Called me up the night before the meeting to say he had such a cold he could hardly talk and he'd asked the chief of his department, Prof. Montjoy, to speak in his place, I was awfully disappointed, as you can imagine. I had heard of Prof. Montjoy and thought he must be a very old man indeed, as he has such a vast reputation.

"Well, I went out skating next afternoon and it was pretty late when I got home to dinner because Tommy Dexter had raced me down the river and when we got to the bend we were so tired we just had to stop and get a chowder at the inn there and it was nearly 6 when I suddenly realized that I had to be at that club meeting by 8.

"When I reached home mother was a bit curt and said that the club secretary had phoned she would be delayed and I must be sure to get there early to open up the hall and turn on the light. You can just imagine! I hadn't time for any dinner except dessert before I rushed upstairs to dress. There was not a minute to waste, so instead of getting into that new Nile green gown that I'd planned to wear I slipped into my old henna one that makes me look like a beet when I've been outdoors all afternoon and my color is high. But with an old man like Prof. Montjoy it wouldn't make much difference, if I were properly admiring. I did up my hair any way to get it neat, threw on a cloak and rushed for a trolley.

"And then, of course, the trolley was late so that I reached the club rooms about ten minutes after the meeting should have begun. But the place had been lighted up and the folks seemed to be having a good time.

"Somebody had brought the best-looking man you ever saw and he was the center of a group and evidently the life of the party. I wondered how anyone like that cared to come and hear about the psychology of anything whatever, when up rushed Mattie Best and said, 'Oh, Miss Eve, I hope you don't mind, but you weren't here so I opened up the room and turned on the lights and I took Prof. Montjoy in charge and introduced him to some of the members so he wouldn't mind waiting.'

"Naturally, I couldn't object, but I asked Mattie where she had stowed the professor. And if she didn't walk up to that stunning man across the room and bring him over!

"Me in my henna dress and Mattie in the loveliest pale blue that my green would have made just sickly pale! I could have wept. And then, didn't that awful man finish, by saying, 'Glad nothing serious delayed you, Miss Eve, but it really was jolly having this extra time to get acquainted. The members of your club have been so cordial I shan't have a spare minute during my whole holiday in town!'

"Don't tell me it's nothing to act as vice-president of a club. It has blasted my whole holiday season. Of course, I will be invited to some of the same affairs, but I'll just be one of the chorus—and I might have been the leading lady!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Westminster's Heroic Dead.

Mr. Editor: Until the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the dedication of Westminster's present and only church edifice, there had been no certain knowledge of the number of soldiers' graves in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Henry Dorrance, lately gone Beyond, well-known for her historical research work, thoroughly established the identity of 26 in that yard of Revolutionary fame.

Last Labor Day Westminster observed an "Old Home Patriotic day," and in the afternoon dedicated, with appropriate ceremonies, S. A. R. markers (on those graves, given and set by George Hale Nutting of Boston). Mrs. Dorrance giving a fine exposition of the methods used in her work and much deep historic interest about the men whose names are listed below:

Capt. Sherebiah Butts (also master-builder of the church), Capt. Jos. Hurgess, Capt. Samuel Henry, Capt. Hezekiah Kingsley, Capt. Jos. Raynsford, Joseph Adams, John Barstow, Samuel Barstow, Bethnel Bond, Jonas Bond, Asa Burgess, Josiah Butts, Joseph Carter, John Curtis, Wm. D. Foster, Alex. Gordon, William Hebbard, Joseph Herrick, Rufus Johnson, Jedidiah Leach, John Park, Richard Raynsford, Joseph Safford, Rufus Safford, Ezra Starkweather Ebenezer Storer.

It had been hoped that later Mrs. Dorrance might identify the graves of those in other wars of our country in Westminster church cemetery. But it is not to be.

There are twelve cemeteries, public and private, in various parts of Westminster the western half of Canterbury, doubtless several with graves of those serving their country in its wars and many of them yet unidentified.

Westminster Hill school will decorate with flags the 26 Revolutionary and two or three other graves known in Westminster church yard with flowers, which they will also place on the grave of the Revolutionary soldier in Spicer private cemetery, as has been their custom for some years.

George S. Godard, state librarian, Hartford, states that Westminster church cemetery has the largest number of Revolutionary graves marked, of any cemetery in the state. He had expected to give an address at the celebration but was unexpectedly prevented.

MRS. T. EDWARD DAVIES.
Westminster, May 26, 1924.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Few English authors of the period have managed to receive more publicity than Gilbert K. Chesterton, who today celebrates his 50th birthday. Possessed of an interesting personality and a penchant for engaging in controversy, he has long enjoyed a conspicuous and rather unique place in English literary circles. Between "Greybeards at Play," which he wrote in 1900 and "The Crimes of England" (a paradoxical title for a tremendous outburst against Prussianism), which was published during the war, Chesterton has written more than 30 books, and it has been said of them that every one is worth reading. He is England's greatest authority on Dickens, but personally prides himself on being England's greatest authority on hams and bacon. He makes his home in a country house as proportionately small as he is large. He weighs around 300 pounds and looks like a composite picture of Balzac and Samuel Johnson.

HANG-OVER COUGHS

Now is the time to get rid of that stubborn cough which has been "hanging on" all winter. A few doses of the good, reliable FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND will speedily relieve same. Mrs. Sarah Heck, 341 St. Paul St., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I have been wonderfully benefited by FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The first dose stopped my cough. It was a stubborn cough and I had been troubled with it since the first cold spell." Best for coughs and colds.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

"CRATERS OF THE MOON" — IN IDAHO

"Craters of the Moon" is the United States' youngest national monument.

On May 2, President Coolidge signed the order setting aside a little-known district in Idaho. It is a wild, colorful region containing one of the most unusual volcanic fields in America. From the twisted brilliant contours of frozen lava fields and crimson cones and the absence of verdure it takes its official name, "Craters of the Moon National Monument."

Of "Craters of the Moon," lying along the Lincoln highway between Carey and Arco, Idaho, R. W. Limbert writes in a communication to the National Geographic Society:

"Although almost totally unknown at present, this section is destined some day to attract tourists from all America, for its lava flows are as interesting as those of Vesuvius, Mauna Loa or Kilauea.

"The district consists of some 63 volcanic craters, lava and cinder cones, all at present extinct or dormant. The largest and most conspicuous is 600 feet high, rising in the midst of a belt of craters two or three miles wide and 30 miles long."

The major flows, the Blue Dragon Flow and the Pahoehoe Flow roughly parallel the Lincoln highway and are but two to five miles from it. A wagon trail from the national road goes into rocky volcanic desert a short way.

"Streiching to the southwest for about 11 miles, we saw perhaps one of the most remarkable lava flows in the world," continues R. W. Limbert, describing the Blue Dragon Flow. "Its color is a deep cobalt blue with generally a high gloss, as if the flow had been given a coat of blue varnish. The surface is netted and veined with small cracks, having the appearance of the scales of some prehistoric reptile. It merits the name Blue Dragon, as in many places it has burst through the crevasse of an older flow, and the ropy twists of blue lava spreading out in branches, together with its scaled surface, need but little stretch of imagination to suggest the claws and legs of a dragon.

"In appearance the 'Craters of the Moon' flows seem as if they had happened only yesterday, but in reality the latest probably occurred about 150 or possibly 200 years ago.

"The total area of the six young lava flows is about 300 square miles, while that extending above and below this point along the Snake river plains reaches the astounding total of approximately 27,000 square miles."

Of the 300 square miles of lava desert, some 40 square miles have been set aside by President Coolidge. "Craters of the Moon National Monument" is about 150 miles southwest of Yellowstone National Park.

"Picture yourself standing in some vast amphitheater whose towering walls are a riot of yellow, green, orange, brown, and black, with brick red and vermillion predominating," Mr. Limbert writes in describing the district. "Imagine, too, an awesome, enveloping silence. I noticed that at places we had nothing to say. It was little wonder the Indians feared and shunned the region.

"East of the Bridge of Tears we came to the entrance of what we afterwards decided to call Amphitheater Cave. Climbing down, we found ourselves on the east side of a room some 40 feet wide and 60 feet long, with a domed ceiling 20 feet high. As we sat on the north side, we beheld to the south a perfect stage. The floor was double, the lower section being about an exact model of a modern theater. At the top of the dome the roof had caved in, leaving a circular skylight 6 inches in diameter.

"By lining flights of doves, five water holes were located in old volcanic blowholes or fumaroles. Dipping up a cupful of water we were astonished to find it icy cold, so cold in fact, that it hurt our teeth, and we put the cup down on the hot rocks to warm. This phenomenon can only be accounted for by the supposition that it was the seepage water from one of the ice caves, of which we found a number. One water hole was covered with an inch coat of drowned hornets that had been chilled and had fallen in. The water underneath was pure and sweet. We called this Yellow Jacket Water Hole."

Weeks Gave Up His Vocation.

John W. Weeks was a farmer boy, he wanted to go to sea, and studied hard to prepare himself, but he had to give up the desire after he had proved that he was ready and capable.

He was born on his father's farm near Lancaster, N. H., and when a boy had to rise early to help with the chores before he trudged more than a mile to the country school. At thirteen his duties included sap-carrying in the maple sugar camp, and at sixteen he taught at the district school.

His dream of being a sailor grew more urgent and when seventeen he grasped the opportunity of an unexpected vacancy at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, and entered the institution. After four years of intensive study he received a diploma as midshipman from President Garfield.

For two years he served on the United States ship Richmond, then was mustered out because the navy had too few ships to provide commissions for all academy graduates.

Next he was a surveyor in Florida and became assistant land commissioner for the Florida Southern Railroad.

After eight years in the southern state he went to Boston to become junior partner in the banking and brokerage firm of Hornblower and Weeks. He was successful, the firm grew and he became interested in many large industries and railroad enterprises.

When 40 he was elected alderman of Newton, Mass., his home town. Three years later he was mayor and after serving two years was elected to congress, where he remained for eight years. His career led to his being chosen United States senator. In 1916 he received 105 votes for the presidential nomination at the republican national convention, and three years later he was defeated for re-election to the senate.

Now he is secretary of war in President Coolidge's cabinet, is rated as a millionaire and has a beautiful home on the farm where he, as a boy, dreamed of going to sea.

Stories That Recall Others

Working the Rule

A mother was sending her little girl to the substation with ten cents to buy five two cent stamps for the five letters she was sending. She had been in the habit of giving the few extra pennies left for a purchase to the little girl, so she said:

"What will I get back, mother?"

"Nothing dear, I am sending the exact amount this time," but the negative reply brought disappointment to the little girl.

Immediately the conversation was changed to loving people, the mother telling her that if we love people they will love us, that we get back what we give. The little girl looked up with a face beaming with hope. "Then I ought to get this ten cents back, mother."

Protection Against Lightning.

It was after a thunderstorm and a number of women were telling of how they had gathered their valuables together, and even thought of taking a small safe nearer to the front door when one of the party, a schoolteacher before the Civil war, turned to a former pupil and said, "Alice, you must remember the time a terrible storm came up in the afternoon and lightning struck several trees right close to the schoolhouse. I got so scared I pulled the door back to hide myself the best I could, and took off my steel hoopskirt!"

ROADSTER JUMPS BANK AND LANDS IN BROOK

An Apperson roadster left the highway on Boswell avenue a short distance north of the corner of North Main street Wednesday night about 10.05 o'clock, plunged off a bank and landed on its right side with its front wheels in a brook at this point. The machine was scarcely damaged and the two men in it were unhurt.

The machine is registered in the name of Ralph A. Lafermina of 79 High street and was driven at the time by James McKelvey of 11 Elm street riding with him, according to the report made at police headquarters where both men came after the accident. The machine registration is N-4472.

The report to the police was that while they were driving towards the city either the steeling gear went wrong or the machine caught in the car tracks and shot over the bank before the driver could regain control of it.

Officer Gwizdowski telephoned word of the accident to police headquarters and Mr. McKelvey also telephoned in before he went there.

GETTING NO INCOME FROM HARRIS BUILDING

Alleging that changes of conditions since the death of Jonathan N. Harris of New London have substantially and practically defeated his charitable intent in giving by his will the income of the Harris building on State street to the Second Congregational church of New London, Cedar Grave Cemetery association, Mt. Hermon school for boys, Memorial Hospital association, and Northfield seminary, the trustees of the building, and the executors of the estate have brought suit in the superior court for permission to sell the building. It is alleged that there has never been any surplus over expenses of the building to pay to the beneficiaries except in 1920 and 1921, when $1700 and $1,000 respectively were paid to the beneficiaries. The trustees are not possessed now of sufficient funds to make the extensive repairs and improvements which are needed to obtain larger revenue therefrom and if a large mortgage were placed on it, it would require many years to pay it off, thereby postponing for a long time any payments to the beneficiaries.

The order for sale is asked for in order that the money may be reinvested to carry into effect the charitable intent of the testator. Construction of some questions arising under the will is also sought.

Jonathan Harris died in New London October 18, 1896 and the trust became operative 21 years after his death. The plaintiffs in the suit that has been brought are William H. Rowe, Alfred Coit and Judge Walter C. Noyes, executors of the Harris will, and George S. Palmer, Alfred Coit, Albert C. Woodruff, Ernest E. Rogers and Ambert G. Moody, trustees in charge of the Harris building.

BOY WANDERS FROM CITY AND IS FOUND AT YANTIC

Six year old Joseph Chimelewski of 34 White street took a long walk Wednesday that landed him in Yantic and gave the police two hours of active searching Wednesday night for the lost boy. Joseph attends the Polish parochial school and was at the Breed theatre with other children Wednesday morning for a rehearsal which was over at 11 o'clock.

He had not reached home by 7.30 Wednesday night when a neighbor telephoned in to Capt. D. J. Twomey at police headquarters. The captain immediately started the officers on an active search for the lost boy, sending out the patrol wagon on several trips. It was reported that the boy had been seen going up Franklin street, but no trace of him was found until Miss Blanche Richards, who lives north of the railroad station at Yantic, telephoned that she had taken in a small boy that seemed to be lost. The little fellow was walking towards Willimantic and said he was going home.

This proved to be Joseph, who was brought to police headquarters in the patrol wagon and was restored to his father. The boy said he had walked all the way to Yantic.

V. F. W. WILL PARADE ON MEMORIAL DAY

The regular meeting of R. E. Hourigan Post 594 V. F. W. was held on Tuesday evening in the post rooms at No. 2 Market street with Commander A. J. Turner in the chair. The large attendance included three past commanders. It was voted to turn out on Memorial day. Members in civilian clothes will wear arm bands with V. F. W. insignia and will all report at post quarters at 9.30 a. m. Two recruits were given the obligation and several applications were received during the evening.

Delegates for the state convention which is to be held in Waterbury, Conn., on June 5, 6, 7, were nominated. Those who will attend are Comrades Kane, J. Evans, L. Jacques, O. Leseman and A. Fitzgerald. The Buddy Poppy Committee reported 2,200 popies sold to date and that the remainder will be sold Memorial Day. The color bearers and guards were appointed as follows: Comrades Graham, Jaques, Mumblow and White. It was also voted to have a picture of the post taken after the parade Memorial Day.

VICIOUS DOG ATTACKED PIG IN ITS PEN

A fine six months old pig in a pen in the yard of the residence of Joseph Delissio at 442 Boswell avenue was badly bitten by a big black dog Tuesday night and may have to be killed because of its injuries. The dog got into the pen while the family was away, but the commotion that was raised attracted the attention of Jack Mathews and a man named Brennan who drove the dog off with stones. The pig was bitten about the head and had a bad gash in its hind leg at the hip.

PLAINFIELD RALLY TO OPEN WINDHAM HOUSE CAMPAIGN

The campaign of a week—from June 3 to June 9—to complete the fund of $100,000 or more to build Windham House, a Windham county dormitory at Connecticut college, is to open at Plainfield next Monday evening with a big Windham county rally and supper at Plainfield Community house. All the members of the various committees in the organization for the drive and specially invited guests will be in attendance at the rally and supper.

The programme is to open with an informal reception at 5.30, standard time, and will be carried out with a musical programme by the College Glee club and the Mandolin club, while the guests are being seated. Community singing during the supper will be led by William G. Park of Hanover and there will be special numbers by the glee club.

G. Harold Gilpatric of Putnam, general chairman, will introduce Geo. B. Chandler of Rocky Hill as toastmaster. The principal address of the evening will be by Lieut. Governor Hiram Bingham and there will be greetings from the founders and trustees of Connecticut college by George S. Palmer of New London, greetings from the student body and by the president of the student government, a talk by President B. T. Marshall of the college, and an address upon Windham county by Allen B. Lincoln of Hartford. The plans of the campaign will be presented by Charles Hill of Willimantic, and the address by Lieut. Governor Bingham will close the programme.

The campaign will be carried out by the Windham House association, with an extensive organization that is headed by Mr. Gilpatric as general chairman; Allen B. Lincoln, chairman of former residents; W. Irving Bullard of Danielson, industrial committee chairman, John B. Whitehead, Jr., of Putnam, publicity chairman; and the following town chairmen: Valentine Murphy, Willimantic; Henry H. Davenport, Putnam; Harry Magoon, Danielson; Thomas Seaton, Moosup; Wm. G. Park and Arthur F. Bruton, Dayville; Miss Joanna O. Kirby, Plainfield, who are assisting the executive committee.

The campaign starts with $32,000 already having been pledged including the following memorials:

David Hale Fanning of Worcester has been the largest donor, contributing $7,500, $5,000 to be used for a reception room, in memory of his wife; $1,500 for a room in memory of Miss Mary Dexter of Danielson, $1,000 towards general fund.

$5,000—Gift by will of Guilford Smith of South Windham, $3,500 to be used for suite; $1,500 for single room.

$3,500—Gift of Mrs. Tourtellotte in memory of her father and mother, to be used for suite.

$3,500—Gift of Mrs. Rienzi Robinson, in memory of her husband, Dr. Robinson, late of Danielson, to be used for a suite with study.

$1,500—Gift of Mrs. Hugh C. Murray of Willimantic, in memory of her husband, for a single room.

Other large gifts were:

$1,000—Gift of Mrs. John Milnar.

$500—Gift of the late Floyd Cranska.

The remainder of the total represents various teas, garden and card parties, suppers, fairs, recitals, lectures, dances, many delightful social activities, drawing from all parts of the county, engaging citizenry, faithful to an ideal and to the traditions of a glorious past.

It is hoped that other memorials will be given during this campaign

NORWICH GIRL WINS SECOND ESSAY PRIZE

Miss Alice N. Parsons of 10 Elizabeth street, who is a scholar in the Eighth grade of the Elizabeth Street school, is the winner of the second prize in this state in the Safety essay contest. OFFICIAL OPENING OF DUWELL A. A. FIELD SCHEDULED FOR JUNE 8TH

After two months of hard and steady work, Manager Jimmy Pedace of the Duwell Athletic association last night announced that, weather permitting, the new association would positively open their new field on the East Side on Sunday, June 8.

The people of Norwich as a whole have loyally supported the association in building this fine field that is to be the home of baseball in Norwich during the season and no doubt will be pleased to know that everything is nearly ready for the grand opening.

A new grandstand to accommodate five hundred people will be built during the coming week and everything possible will be done to make the fans comfortable during the games. Manager Pedace has already booked some of the fastest teams in the state and promises that during the season he will present many different attractions for the local fans.

In addition to the regular Sunday games during the months of July and August the annual series between the married men and single men, which proved to be such a success last year will be played and promises to be bigger and better than ever. It is also the intention of the Duwell A. A. to hold a field day, possibly on the Fourth of July, when the different clubs of Eastern Connecticut will meet in different athletic events. Whatever money is taken in from the admissions will be turned into the treasury and sports of other promotion so that it will be left up to the people of Norwich to see that they shall have some real baseball and other different sports during the summer months.

The Twilight League clubs now organized in the city will use the grounds for their games so that on practically every day during the season there will be something doing at the new Duwell grounds.

Manager Pedace has a baseball team which will consist of 18 players and several fast teams from out of town. Any local boys with baseball aspirations will be given an opportunity to try out for the team that is to represent Norwich.

Jacks' Sport Shop will supply uniforms and a complete outfit for the team, and these will be on display in the store during the week.

No expense will be spared or stone left unturned to make the opening of the Duwell field on June 8 a memorable day in the sporting circles of Eastern Connecticut.

MANY ENTRIES FOR HORSE RACE AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 28.—With a total up to date of twenty-four horses entered for the three classes in matinee races to be conducted at Recreation park on Memorial day, Friday, by the American Thread Athletic association, the opening event of the season promises to place racing as a popular sport here this summer. GIANTS TAKE DOUBLE BILL FROM DODGERS

New York, May 28.—The New York Nationals returned home from an unsuccessful road trip today and defeated Brooklyn in both games of a doubleheader, 6-5 and 4-3. Rain fell steadily during the latter part of both games.

New York put on a strong late inning rally in the first game, tying the score in the ninth on singles by Snyder and Young and a Southworth double. Brooklyn won in the ninth run of the second game.

Benton held Brooklyn to two hits in the second game, but in the ninth Wheat singled and Brooklyn rally after two were scored. The score:

WESTERLY

A box car of the Fruit Growers Dispatch Co., in a freight train Bl13 Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock broke in the middle, east of the Westerly station of the New Haven road and west of the Frazier highway bridge. As the freight started on the down grade bound for New London the car in wrecking jumped the track and blockaded two tracks at that point on the main line, and the long siding from Westerly to Bradford, known as track No. 3, so that altogether three tracks were blocked. At the place of the accident there is another siding, track No. 6, which was used to let [illegible] the wrecked car, one end of [illegible] equipped to handling.

The Midway wrecker was sent for and work of clearing up begun, but was not completed until after 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the wrecked running gear and what was left of one end of the box car had been [illegible] into an empty gondola. [illegible] It was unnecessary for the road men to spend much time [illegible] of the splintered wood [illegible] the Italian residents in that section looked out for that detail and increased their supply of firewood. The wrecked car was one of a long string of empty cars but an adjoining car loaded with lumber had to be placed by the roadside to expedite the clearance. A section of the roadbed [illegible] was torn up was replaced [illegible] Plympton and section [illegible] blocking system was also [illegible] rearranged. The front [illegible] ends of the freight were sent [illegible] two trains and the Cannon[illegible] perishables sent west [illegible] back on track 6 which was [illegible] by the east-bound Gilt Edge passenger express due to leave Westerly station at 8.48.

A surprise miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Ethel Mae Wilson, of the West Side whose engagement to Harold Duncan Campbell, formerly of Norwich, now of Westerly and Groton, was announced recently. The wedding is to take place later in the year. The shower was given at the Lorraine Community House on Mechanic street, Wednesday evening. The hostesses of the evening were nearly thirty members of the King's Daughters of Pawcatuck Congregational church, of which Miss Wilson has been a most active member.

Elihu or Ledward's island located in the north part of Little Narragansett bay and reached by a causeway from the mainland, familiar landmark to [illegible] was sold last week by [illegible] Livingston. It was said that the [illegible] price was something like $ 5,000.

From Elihu Island Watch Hill can be plainly seen two and one-half statute miles by the channel across Little Narragansett bay. From any point of the island, a choice site on Long Island sound, Montauk Point lighthouse can be plainly seen on a [illegible] At low tide a nine-foot [illegible] to deep water which is [illegible] 11 feet at high tide. This [illegible] consists of 33 acres of land [illegible] mansion house of 12 rooms, [illegible] 32 by George Ledward, a [illegible] who purchased the [illegible] from Frederick Chesebro. [illegible] said to have been the property of the Pequot Indians and a part of the 2380 acres of land acquired from the Indians by William Chesebro, one of the early settlers of Wequetequock and Stonington. From [illegible] Chesebro the island became [illegible] or Elihu, son of Elisha Chesebro who was married in Westerly to Miss McDowell in 1735.

Elihu Chesebro, who was pastor of the First Baptist church, Stonington, was known as Elder Elihu and he bequeathed the island to his two sons and grandson, the son of Gilbert Chesebro, from whose interests one-half of the island was purchased by [illegible] Ledward and the other half from [illegible] Hinckley. The Mansion house which Mr. Ledward erected was finished in [illegible] with [illegible] plated door knobs and Italian [illegible] mantels. With the large house the purchase includes two cottage houses, garage and other buildings. It is declared to be the intentions of Mr. Johnstone, the new owner, to have the house repaired, repainted and modern conveniences installed in time to be occupied by him this season and later to have other improvements made. The causeway is to be repaired and resurfaced and as Mr. Johnstone is interested in yachting, a wharf is to be erected. Electric lighting service is to be carried to the island.

Deborah Chapter, No. 9, O. E. S., held a dance Wednesday evening, in the Westerly town hall, music being by the George O. Murphy orchestra.

Miss Sylvia W. Lanphear entertained at [illegible] her home on Moss [illegible] Pawcatuck, Tuesday evening. [illegible] tables were in play. At the conclusion of the evening an elaborate luncheon was served.

Librarian Basil B. Wood of the Wilcox Memorial and Public Library, at [illegible] was in attendance when the [illegible] and Library Association held [illegible] ual meeting with the Manchester Public Library at Chepachet [illegible] The meeting was held in the Congregational church, with [illegible] one at 10.30 and the other at 2 o'clock.

[illegible] gramme follows: Morning [illegible] business meeting; reports of [illegible] officers and committees [illegible] address, "An Adventure [illegible] Service," Charles R. [illegible] the Providence Journal; [illegible] A. Lincoln Barnard of the [illegible] Hall Library; "The young people's [illegible] the Providence Public Library," [illegible] dozen books for [illegible] have been published [illegible] Westerly or Rhode Island;" each library gave a report of the most significant event in its work since the last meeting. At 1 o'clock luncheon was served in the vestry of the church by the Needle-Book Club.

The speaker of the afternoon was George T. Marsha of Kingston, who gave an address on "The Tyranny of the Editor and Publisher."

Ex-Mayor William Bradford of Quincy, Mass., and a former Westerly boy, was a business caller in Westerly on Wednesday afternoon.

Florence McGonegal of New York city has leased the Dennison Gallaudet place on the Westerly-Stonington road for the summer season.

Steven E. Evans of the Vars drug store in Westerly has been called to Toms River, N. J., by the death Monday of his mother, Mrs. Flora V. Evans.

Mrs. James McGarvie and son William, Miss Katherine Gildea and Raymond Stillman, Jr., are Westerly members of an automobile party to visit New York city over Memorial day.

A tree at the corner of West and Dixon streets is to be dedicated Memorial day morning to Genera. Ambrose Burnside, by the members of Budlong Woman's Relief corps, with the assistance of Amos P. Chapman camp, Sons of Veterans.

Mrs. Daniel Watkins, formerly Miss Velena Babcock of Westerly, two children and sister, Mrs. Horace H. Babcock, left Westerly Wednesday night for New York city from which port they will sail Saturday for a three months' visit in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Clyde Burdick are shortly to move from Westerly to Bradford.

Edward Pierce of Wakefield, was a Westerly business visitor Wednesday. Mr. Pierce was a member of a group of twenty men just returned by automobile from an inspection of electric light and traction properties at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Wheeling, W. Va.

Richard J. Butler has moved his household goods from Elm street to a residence on Dixon street.

Robert Hazard of the West Side has returned to his duties as clerk in the Westerly post office after several days' absence due to illness.

Mr and Mrs. Dexter R. Hoxie of Peacedale, R. I., were guest Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Martin in Pawcatuck.

The committee having in charge the drive to procure moveable bleacher seats for the Westerly Playground field off High street, report 250 of the required 800 already taken.

The "Baronet and Butterfly" Co., putting on a play featuring the life of James McNeil Whistler, a former Stonington resident, arrived in Westerly Wednesday evening from New London, leaving this (Thursday) morning for Worcester, Mass.

MYSTIC

The exhibit of old shawls at the Congregational Parish House Tuesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, was a most enjoyable affair. Miss Helen Marshall, of Norwich, gave an interesting and instructive talk on the various kinds of old shawls, giving a detailed description of the processes employed in making both India and Paisley shawls.

The India shawls, she stated, were made entirely by hand on hand looms and oftentimes in small pieces afterward sewed together so deftly that it is frequently impossible to see where the pieces are joined which form the whole shawl. Shawls made in India, she observed, were always registered by the government of India and bore the maker's name, some of the finest of these shawls because of their more intricate design and finish requiring months of labor to complete. The borders of these shawls were made in sections hand embroidered. Being made entirely by hand India shawls are often irregular in design.

Miss Marshall described Paisley shawls as made in Paisley, Scotland, and being manufactured on looms, are more regular in design than the India shawls but are of many different styles and the process by which they were made was most interesting.

The Persian shawl, known as the broche, is different texture from either the Indian or Paisley shawls and antedates the Paisley shawl.

An account was given of several famous shawls, as well as of Spanish and Chinese shawls. Mention was made of one Spanish lace shawl which it took 98 years to complete, the work being carried on by succeeding generations of the same family, until it was finally completed. Neither India nor Paisley shawls are now made, therefore those in existence are priceless in value.

The exhibit of shawls was in charge of a committee, Mrs. John W. McDonald and Mrs. Newton A. Dickinson, and contained a splendid collection of shawls worn at different periods. Among those specially noticed were three genuine India shawls of rich design, owned respectively by Mrs. Charles H. Davis, Mrs. Frederick Denison and Mrs. Charles Fairbanks; three handsome broche shawls exhibited by Miss Emily F. Denison, Miss Julia G. Foote and Mrs. John G. As they were about opposite the Lamphere House they noticed that their car seemed to go hard and brought the machine to a stop opposite the Post Office where they found that the rear wheel had dropped off and the axle was broken. The machine was taken into a garage near by for repairs.

Worth racing for

Here are six reasons why it's so delicious: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges—which gives that delicate and distinctive flavor; (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes)—which gives the tang; (3) Orange juice; (4) Carbonated water—which gives "zip," sparkle, purity; (5) U. S. Certified food color—which makes it as appealing to the eye as to the taste; (6) Pure cane sugar.

That's all. My, what a drink!

POETRY

Mean of May

Over the iris in the garden closes,
Over the buds that June will know as roses,
Over the snow of cherry trees in bloom,
Over the lilacs, heavy with perfume,
Along your ancien, star-encompassed way,
Tread lightly, Moon of May, bright Moon of May.

Over the hearts of lovers where they follow
The breath of violets by slope and hollow,
Over the leafage where the oriole's nest
Trembles with all the winds, beneath her breast,
Up to heaven's quiet from the glare of day,
Rise on your cloud-laced pinions, Moon of May.

On country roads where happy passions tingle
With night-blown coolness from some wayside dingle,
On love, on life, on beauty bright in birth,
On all the strangeness and the joy of earth,
From your full silver urn for our today
Pour out the wine of promise Moon of May.

I'd Rather

I'd rather own the lips that give the kiss
Than all the fame and wealth this world could give!
What Hector holds I could not seem to miss—
And Croesus' life I could not bear to live!

I'd rather touch the aching human heart
Within God's Palace of the living Sou
Than hold the power that money can impart—
Or raise my flag on Fame's cloud-piercing pole!

I'd rather know the fragrance of the flower,
Than breathe the incense of the waiting bed;
I'd rather be one minute of Love's hour
Than wear the crown of Caesar on my head!

I'd rather sing one note of hope, and die—
Than preach a sermon on the way to live;
I'd rather help some wounded bird to fly
Than close my lips to mutely pray, and give.

NEW LONDON HEARS COAST GUARD IS TO CUT OFF RUM ROW SUPPLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, May 28—Information reached this city today that the coast guard arm of the government's forces is soon to make an extraordinary effort to put a stop to the flow of liquor into the cities and towns along the Atlantic coast. Revenue cutters from other districts are to be brought into service in Long Island Sound for the specific purpose of bottling up the vessels that get their supply off Rum Row, the section which has become known as such and located off Montauk and Block Island. The liquor that finds its way into use in New England and New York comes from ships that have brought it across the ocean and which anchor within a dozen miles of the coast and there peddle their cargoes to smaller boats that go out to get it. The talk of a scarcity of liquor may be a scheme of the carriers to sell what they have and to sell it at a better price than has been obtained to the present time. The dealers have been known to circulate rumors before that would be a benefit to their business. It is a sure thing that there is less liquor arriving here direct by boat from Rum Row now than at any time in recent months. The liquor may be landed at points along the shore both east and west of this harbor and then brought here by truck, but that it comes direct to this port is denied by those who are in a position to know. The police, when Sergeant Hickey and Patrolman Philopena were chasing the liquor carriers put fear into the hearts of the runners and that scared the gang so that they have been more cautious how they brought liquor to New London harbor.

The body of Frederick Reaves, 37, colored, was found this morning at his home, 29 Moore court, death having been caused from gas asphyxiation, but whether from accidental causes or suicide, Medical Examiner Harold H. Heyer has not determined. From the facts in possession of the authorities, it is believed that Reaves' death was due to his carelessness. Reaves had been employed as engineer of the steamer Quinnipiac owned by the Fishers Products company of Wilmington, Del. He came about the city last evening with companions and returned to the Moore court residence late at night. The other occupants of the house, Charles Jacobi and family, were absent from the city and Reaves was the sole occupant of the place last night. This morning residents of the lower part of the house detected the odor of gas and being unable to gain admission to the upper story, Jason Thomas, 27 Moore court, was summoned. Thomas reached a veranda roof and opening a window the gas fumes were intensely strong. Entering the room Thomas found Reaves dead in bed and in an adjoining room a gas heater was located with the cocks open and quantities of the deadly fumes entering the room. The flow of gas was shut off and the police were notified. City Physician George P. Clancy responded with a pulmotor, but all efforts to revive Reaves failed. Medical Examiner Heyer conducted an investigation after which the body was ordered moved to an undertaking establishment. The Medical Examiner stated that in his opinion, Reaves had been dead several hours when the body was discovered.

Julia Trowbridge, a woman of advanced years was committed to Norwich State Hospital today by Judge of Probate Arthur B. Calkins. The woman was taken to the institution by Motorcycle Officer George Laboue and Commissioner of Charities Henry S. Dorsey.

An automobile, owned and operated by Frederick H. Adams, of Groton, struck and killed a dog on Shaw street this morning.

A number of young women employed in the various offices in the municipal building went to Groton Long Point tonight to remain over night at one of the cottages.

Andrew J. Maynard has complained to the police because of boys damaging his property at 28 Linden street. The most recent destruction by the youths was an ornamental tree.

The continued hearing of Capt. Mitchell, master of the steam lighter Sabina, which was seized at the freight wharf of the Central Vermont railroad several weeks ago as a liquor transporter, has been continued again by the federal authorities, this time for two weeks. The continuance is made at the request of United States District Attorney George H. Cohen of Hartford, permitting that official to further investigate the facts of the case. Capt. Mitchell and his crew of 10 men are at liberty on bail, Mitchell having secured a surety on his bond of $5,000 and the crew $500 each. The Sabina was seized after her cargo of $2,000 cases of Bass' ale and stout had been transferred to two freight cars for shipment to North Adams, Mass., and to New York.

Justice of the Peace Thomas S. Mortin has returned to his home in Waterford from New York, where he consulted a specialist early in the week for a malady that he has been a sufferer for a long time.

Morris Barca, employed as driver by Isaac Merran, a Truman street butcher, was arrested today by State Policeman Charles Paduba, of the Groton barracks, charged with violation of the automobile laws in not having the amount of tonnage allowed by law printed on the sides of the truck. Barca has been operating the truck without complying with the law over a year and pleaded guilty to the charge. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed. Barca, by the advice of his employer, took an appeal to the next term of the superior court. Merran became surety on Barca's bond of $250 for appearance at that time.

Cornelius Harrington, of Methodist street, employed at the plant of the Robert Gair company at Montville, is a patient at Lawrence hospital and in a serious condition as a result of burns and lacerations to his face and arms, sustained at his work this afternoon. Harrington was operating a machine when the mechanism is understood to have become disabled, causing his hand to be caught in it and torn. In an endeavor to extricate himself before the machinery was stopped his face came in contact with heated parts, producing painful burns.

William Oldroyd, of West Coit street, is the latest sufferer from wood alcohol poisoning. As a result of Oldroyd's imbibing in bootlegger drinks he is under treatment at the Lawrence hospital, where it is not known whether he will recover. Oldroyd was taken ill at a Bank street place this evening and when he became partially unconscious Dr. Isadore Hendel was summoned. A diagnosis of the case revealed the alcohol poisoning and Oldroyd was rushed to the hospital.

Albert Geer, 38 Twelfth street, Mrs. John Cremers, and infant daughter, of Mystic, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

A brush company of Hartford is soon to locate in New London, for became known today that the company has leased from the Connecticut Power company the entire top floor of the brick building on Water street, recently acquired by the power company. The building was formerly occupied by the Mohegan Cotton Mill company and as soon as the machinery of that concern is removed, the manufacture of brushes of varied description will commence. Already machinery and material used in the brush manufacture has arrived at the Water street building and it is expected that work there will be underway by the middle of June. It is planned to begin operations with 25 or 30 hands and increase the force, as conditions warrant, from time to time.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hess, residents at the Hotel Mohican, sailed yesterday on the liner Republic, for Hamburg, where they will remain the greater part of the summer.

Mrs. Mary Sullivan of Water street and Miss Celia Lyons of Williams street have been summoned to Yonkers, N. Y., by the sudden death of Patrick Sullivan, brother-in-law of Mrs. Sullivan and uncle of Miss Lyons.

Norris Joseph of Lyme was before Justice Morton, in Waterford, for reckless driving of an automobile in Waterford on the 21st inst. He was driving with his father on the shore road when he met Perry Gallup in an automobile. Both were speeding at a pretty good clip and at the point where they were to pass they made a move of the operation and Joseph's machine smashed into a fence in front of the residence of Dr. Allyn. He sustained three broken ribs and his father was similarly injured. Joseph was unable to be in court the day the mishap occurred but he was presented today and was fined $25. Of this amount Judge Morton remitted $10. Still the fine carries with it some $15 costs so that it is a substantial amount. Add to this the bill of the doctor and the loss of time that Joseph has experienced and the experience is a pretty expensive one.

Farmers and gardeners generally are discouraged because of the continued wet weather. They complain that nothing but grass and weeds are thriving and that early garden truck is later this year than has been the case for many seasons.

The funeral of Andrew Somers, of Graniteville, Waterford, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church. The solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Revd William C. Fitzsimons, with Rev. Alexander Wolleschlaeger deacon and Rev. John J. McGrath sub-deacon. The bearers were Edward Cody, William Riley, Bernard Cullen, William L. Driscoll, John Watters and John Gallagher. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where a committal service was read by Father Fitzsimons.

Yony Salogu, of Quaker Hill, Mrs. John T. McArdle and infant son of Montauk avenue, Mrs. Carl B. Allen of Quaker Hill, Frederick Emerson of Westerly and Thaddeus Tooker of Hadlyme, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The deed transferring the Pequot Casino, Pequot avenue, from the Pequot Casino association to Robert Moore, of New Orleans, a summer resident here where he owns considerable real estate, was received for record at the office of the city clerk today. The property was sold by Charles L. Smiddy, acting as a committee of the superior court, to Mr. Moore several weeks ago. Mr. Moore is now in Europe, but will return to New London next month at which time it will become known what disposition the new owner intends to make of the property.

Andrew Lemeskha has sold a house and lot on West Colt street to Timothy and Bridget Driscoll.

An automobile owned by the City Dye Works and operated by Lloyd Potter, 106 Green street, struck Betty Murphy, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Murphy, 41 West Colt street, this morning on Bank street, near Tilley street. The child escaped injury other than minor bruises.

Fire Marshal Thomas Shipman is endeavoring to collect the fees the city council has fixed upon for the owners of gasoline tanks to pay. The city council does not term the expense a tax, but calls it a fee and provides that every tank shall pay, whether the tank is a public or private receptacle. The men who sell gasoline must pay a tax on that ufild such as is fixed by the state. The fee goes to the city and is for the general municipal expense.

Thomas J. Kehr and Mrs. Kehr, with Mr. and Mrs. James Fowler started today for Glenn Falls, New York, close to the Canada line, where they will pass a fortnight or so. They are making the journey by automobile. At Glenn Falls the plan is for a visit to various country clubs and to be guests of friends.

Pansies, geraniums and artificial flowers will be the main decorations for plots in the cemeteries and burial places for Memorial Day. More of these flowers have been disposed of this year than in many years preceding.

Carlisle White, 19, was fined $25 in the police court this morning for operating an automobile without having a license so to do. Assistant Judge Crandall was on the bench and he warned White that he would be sent to jail if he came before the court again on a similar charge. White pleaded guilty through his guardian ad litem, and was allowed to pay the fine and the costs in installments. White was operating the automobile of Mrs. S. F. Phillips when apprehended. He was fined $10 on the 2d of April for a similar offense and in the same car. The state automobile department will take the matter up with White, also with Mrs. Phillips.

The lessees of the ferry line, who are employes of the city, put a proposition to the city to pay half the expense of putting the boat in repair, which the employes claim was practically new work, instead of the renewal of work that had worn out. But the council did not take that view of the matter and the members have referred the payment of any money to the committee of the whole, which is the membership of the council in secret session. The expense is some $600. Some members of the council are disposed to be lenient with the lessees on the ground that they are not making any money on the operation of the boat, but the matter is to be thrashed out in secret.

Manufacturers on Pequot avenue are not disposed to sit down under the action of the council in granting permission to the Dixie company to erect a gasoline tank on Pequot avenue. The section is in the middle of a nest of manufacturing plants and the claim is that the gasoline tank creates a fire hazard that should not be tolerated.

The LaPoint company, the Babcock press company and the proprietors of a dairy company have protested and the remonstrance is to be heard next Monday evening, to decide whether the property owners complaining are to be subjected to an extraordinary fire hazard.

James McCarthy was in the police court Tuesday for the tenth time within a few years, for intoxication. He pleaded for another chance but it was pointed out to him that he had already had all the chance a reasonable man would expect, so he was fined $10. That took him to jail and with the costs attached will keep him in confinement for 24 days.

William H. Cadman, who has been delivering the mail of Uncle Sam in the lower section of the city for more than fifteen years, has tired of his task and has handed his resignation to the postmaster. Mr. Carman is to engage in business with a son-in-law.

Steamer Philip Taussig is enroute to this port with a million and a half feet of lumber from the Pacific coast. The vessel is coming by way of the Panama Canal and is due here about the 5th of June. The ship will dock at the state pier and her cargo will there be discharged and forwarded to the west and to Canada.

Brainard Masonic lodge worked the master mason degree Tuesday evening in short form. The lodge has grown very rapidly during the past three years.

NORWICH TOWN

Following are extracts from letters in circulation this week, by the Norwich Rural Association: To the friends and residents of Norwich Town —You are cordially invited to renew your membership, or become a member, if you are not already one. There are no limitations on this membership; and the association welcomes the financial and moral support of all.

During the year just closed, the association has been interested in planting fifteen trees on the River Road, laying board-walks, community picrope on flag pole on Meeting House hic in Lowthrop Meadows, replacing Rocks, planting weeping willows from St. Helena, in the Old cemetery, building more than 1,320 feet of permanent walks, Community Christmas Tree on Norwich Town Green, and starting movement for new school in Norwich Town.

The purpose of the association is the accomplishing by organized and co-opration effort, rsults that would be attained with far greater difficulty if attempted by the individual.

With your hlp the Norwich Rural association may become more and more an influential factor in the community.

CHARLES B. GILBERT, Treasurer

Today (Thursday) the feast of the Ascension of Our Lord, masses at the Sacred Heart church will be at five and seven o'clock, at this church Friday morning. At the 7:30 o'clock mass, a Novena, or nine days' devotion in honor of the Holy Ghost, will begin.

In a game Tuesday afternoon on the Green, the Norwich Town Sluggers defeated the Hobart avenue team, 9 to 0.

Miss Gladys Belle Beebe, R. N., of the Hartford Hospital, has returned, following a brief visit at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. George S. Beebe, of Scotland road. Miss Beebe was accompanied as far as Colchester by her mother who motored there, having as her guest Mrs. George A. Peck, of Otrobando avenue. While in Colchester Mrs. Peck called on her sisters the Misses Smith.

Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park Congregational church, accompanied by his church quartet, will have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

Miss Viola Turnbull, a member of the Nurses' Training class at Backus Hospital, has resumed her duties there, following several days rest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Turnbull, of Wauwecus Hill.

An indigo bunting due the last of May, came last week to a home near Washington street. It winters in Central America and will stay until September. It was noticed in the yard picking up insects or seeds. The observers watched it for some time, noting the beauty of its plumage, the blending of lighter and darker shades of blue. Its song is a warble, many notes like those of the canary.

It is said that summer birds should not be fed because then they will be more hungry for insect pests, but a feeding place where are crumbs or bits of food attracts birds to nest about homes and stay in gardens and trees nearby. Catbirds these May days come every few minutes at times during the day and carry away bits to their fledgelings.

Mr. and Mrs. James Moran of the West Side have purchased the house 47 East Town street and will occupy it about the first of June.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moran of Peck's Corner have purchased from John Mullin the old Carpenter homestead near the Green, and will soon move there.

Little City Court Business.

Three cases occupied the attention of Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Wednesday morning. Felix Macuta was presented on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge of intoxication but pleaded not guilty to the breach of the peace charge. His wife testified to her husband striking her. Judge Libby fined the accused $5 on the intoxication charge and $15 and costs on the breach of the peace charge. A jail sentence of 15 days was suspended for one year. The wife paid her husband's fine which totaled $29.62.

Two other men were fined on intoxication charges and paid their bills.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS DULL

New York, May 28—Stock prices drifted aimlessly today as the approach of the extended week end holiday dulled the edge of trading. Price changes were narrow and unimportant, with accumulation of high grade investment issues being offset by profit taking operations among speculative groups. Total transactions, slightly exceeding 400,000 shares, were the smallest of any full day session this year.

The tendency of professional traders to await final disposition of the tax measure now before the president before extending their operations was further in evidence today. Expansion of trading also was discouraged by reports from Washington that certain senators would make a determined effort to prevent adjournment of congress early in June.

High grade public utility issues gave the best demonstration of group strength. Unfavorable April earnings by most of the railroads diverted the small volume of current investment buying from these stocks into the better class of utilities. American Telephone, North American, Philadelphia Company and Market Street Railway issues scoring moderate gains. The latter's second preferred shares advanced six points to twenty on a small turnover.

The uncertain tone of the weekly steel trade reviews furnished little stimulus for buying of the steel shares most of which moved fractionally lower. While the rate of decline in production was less pronounced this week, little hope was held out for early change in the situation. Gulf States Steel declined 1 1-8 to 63 3-4 but losses in U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic were confined to fractions.

Failure of Pennsylvania Railroad directors to announce any action on an expected offer to Norfolk and Western for a controlling interest threw large blocks of the latter's stock on the market in the final hour. From a high price of 126 1-4, reached early in the day, the shares tumbled to 122 5-8, closing 1 3-4 points net lower on the day. Scattered selling of other rail issues was induced by the continued flow of poor April earnings statements, but the decline in St. Paul stocks was arrested, the common scoring a moderate gain.

A listless trading session in the foreign exchanges resulted from the intermittent flow of an unusually small volume of orders into the market. Price changes were extremely narrow, French francs moving only a point above 5.35 1-2 cents and demand sterling sagging 3-8 of a cent to around $4.33 1-2.

Call money, after opening at 3 1-2 per cent, dropped back to 3 per cent early in the day and held at that rate until the close. Time money was dull at the prevailing rate of 4 per cent and prime commercial paper was quoted from 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent.

CURB MARKET

New York, May 28—Trading in today's curb market was of an extremely lethargic character with the only price changes of importance taking place in the high-priced shares. National Tea was one of the individual features, jumping ten points to 410, or 88 points above the initial sale less than two months ago.

A break of 5 1-2 points to 5 13 1-2 in Prairie Oil and Gas brought about some selling of the other oils, net losses in the active issues, however, being limited to fractions. Standard Oil of Nebraska, Northern Pipe and Swan and Finch dropped 3 to 4 points but the turnover [illegible].

Speculative activity in the industrial group was confined principally to the radio stocks which showed little change on the day. [illegible] inclined to heaviness of [illegible] that some of the large [illegible] were [illegible] substantial [illegible] accessories [illegible] to 15 1-2. Hudson and Mis[illegible] sues continued in good [illegible] common [illegible] 1-2 point[illegible] 16 1-2.

BOND MARKET

New York, May 28—Bond prices drifted irregularly lower today with a number of railroad and industrial issues failing to the year's lowest levels although investment buying buoyed up the public utility list. Price fluctuations widened in contrast to the extremely narrow changes in stock trading.

Execution of the banking syndicate which offered the new Swiss government 5 1-2s last month brought heavy liquidation of these bonds, and the price broke 3 points to 94 1-2 as large blocks were thrown [illegible] market. The [illegible] was sold to provide funds for the purchase of [illegible] reported [illegible] today's [illegible] were [illegible] a natural readjustment.

...ag program. The bonds will be priced at par. The keen demand for railroad issues was shown in the fact that $20,000,000 "big four" offerings was three times oversubscribed.

Conflicting price movements marked dealings in several groups today. St. Paul convertible obligations declined two to three points while other of the road's issues made moderate improvement. Losses of 1 to 4 points in Iowa Central 5s, Virginia-Carolina 7 1-2s, Cerro de Pasco 8s, Kelly-Springfield 8s, and the Wilson issues were partially offset by gains of 1 to 3 points in Wickwire-Spencer 7s, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Income 5s, Erie convertible 4s, Dery 7s, Chicago Railways 5s, and Public Service of New Jersey 5s. Liberty bonds were steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, May 28—Indications that drought complaints, especially from Kansas had ceased, did a good deal today to lower the value of wheat. Closing prices in the wheat market were unsettled at 1-4c to 3-4c net decline, July 1.07 3-8 to 1.07 1-2 and Sept[illegible] Corn finished 5-8 [illegible] down. Oats [illegible] and provisions virtually unchanged.

With more rain reported to have fallen in Kansas late yesterday and last night and with improvement of the crop prospect in Nebraska also reported, today's wheat trade consisted largely of selling out on the part of speculative holders. Besides some selling here against simultaneous buying at Liverpool was in progress, the Liverpool October delivery [illegible] per bushel and Chicago Sept[illegible] Meanwhile, the Winnipeg market failed to show as much of a downward tendency as Chicago did. As a result domestic wheat was regarded as being closer to export business with bids on hard winter grades said to be less than 2c out of line.

Rallies in the wheat market today were hard to maintain, although on setbacks the support for prices was fairly good. Talk was current that some wheat had been taken for shipment to Europe from ports on the Gulf of Mexico, but the gossip was unconfirmed and it was estimated that only 250,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was bought today for across the Atlantic. On the other [illegible] the world's available supply this week showed nearly 19,000,000 bushels decrease.

Corn and oats were weakened by heavy receipts of corn and by favorable weather. Demand from shorts in corn was missing.

Provisions were neglected but were quoted about steady.

LIBERTY HILL

The sewing society is to meet at the church rooms this (Thursday) afternoon, preparing for a fair.

At Calmere, Milo Davoll has a two weeks' old Leghorn rooster which is crowing.

Miss Mary Frazer of New York is the guest of Miss Abbie Goodrich for the summer, providing we have one.

The weekly Wednesday night prayer meeting is held in the church rooms as is also the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening while the church is being repaired.

Mr. Winchester of Hartford was a recent guest of Charles E. Goodrich.

Two deer were seen on J. George Clark's mowing field feeding, Sunday morning.

Frank A. Davoll has completed painting the interior of the church and is now doing the varnishing.

It is expected that Rev. W. S. Woolworth and family will return the latter part of this week.

A number from here attended the services at the Baptist church in Lebanon Center, last Sunday morning. The music was very fine.

There were frosts Saturday and Monday mornings. Kalil Haddad of Tobacco street had tomato plants killed by the frost.

William F. Harvey of Norwich spent the week end with local relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Payson and son Carle, went to Bozrah Sunday morning to hear Rev. Wilson R. Stewart preach. They started on standard time, but Bozrah has daylight saving, therefore they missed part of the service, which was a great disappointment.

MEETS GENERAL WOOD AT MANILA RECEPTION

Under the Stars and Stripes again, R. C. Plaut of this city reached Manila on April 11 in his tour around the world and wrote from there to Norwich friends on the 13th as he was about to start for Hong Kong, Canton and Shanghai. His letter follows:

Leaving Manila April 13th, 1924.
My dear Ed and all at the Store:

Was I glad to get the mail and the Bulletins at Manila? I'll say I was. It took away the homesick feeling that I was beginning to get permeated with—and not myself alone. It was prevalent. Imagine when you have to put on three clean shirts a day—each one soaked through more than the other. Can you imagine my laundry bills? My poor laundry is beginning to show the wear and tear of it all, too.

It was Friday morning early on April eleventh that we came to anchor in Manila Bay, the same spot where Admiral Dewey sent the Spanish Squadron to its doom. We were forced to anchor to allow the quarantine officers to inspect us all, so as to see that we were in perfect condition and the passengers were all able to pass before the doctors, so we were 100 per cent to the good as far as the health of our passengers were concerned. Our boat then slipped into its big dock and we were ready to land. When the gangplank had been placed, we were all ready to go ashore. Here I was confronted with another style of conveyance called the carromatas. It is a small, two wheeled carriage, and stands near the dock to take travelers wherever they care to go. And there are guides who will, for a few pesos, show one the city. A peso is equivalent to 50c in United States currency and consists of 100 centavos.

We first visited the Walled City through one of the picturesque gates of which there are five in the same state of preservation as at the close of the Spanish regime. Beginning at the northwest end, near Fort Santiago, and following the wall, the tourist is struck by the difference in architecture. It was begun in 1590 and completed in 1872, each engineer changing the plans to accord with the period. The wall is comprised of dungeons. Most of the churches are found in the Walled City. After leaving Fort Santiago, the cathedral comes first with its famous shrine. It took seven years to build this church and it was finished in 1879. The previous ones, three in number, were destroyed by earthquakes. The artist's brush has done much to ornament the interior. Across from the church is the council chamber with its marble steps and marble hall. Carrie and Cadden went inside, but I was too hot to move and I remained in the auto. In the aquarium we saw on display some of the most beautiful fishes in the world, as well as some of the strangest in form and habit. There were delicate sapphire blue coral beauties, sturgeon fish with their knives on each side of their tail, zebra fish, whose venomous spines carry death, and here, Ed, we saw some of our old friends the puffer fish that we used to catch because it pleased the children so to see them swell up like a ball. In a separate cage were two enormous pythons. One of them was 28 feet in length and it is believed to be the largest snake in captivity. I would like to see our friend Turnbull of Wawecus street handle this baby. In a big pool are several kinds of sea turtles, some of them weighing more than 300 pounds.

Before I forget, Ed, I want to tell you about the wonderful band that serenaded us as we came down the gangplank. It sure made us feel good to hear our national airs and to see our stars and stripes waving. This band took the second prize at the Saint Louis World's Fair, Sousa taking first. Then we were invited to a reception with General and Mrs. Wood and several other distinguished guests. The palace looked lovely. It has large, comfortable rooms, and a beautiful outlook over the river. I was introduced to the Governor as Mr. R. C. Plaut of Norwich, Connecticut. He grasped my hand with a firm grip and said, "Mr. Plaut, I am very pleased to meet you," and then, without letting go of my hand, "And how is my old chum Charlie Haskell?" Before I could answer, he said, "Give him my regards and tell him I heard he was not feeling well but I do hope he is better." I assured the General that I would deliver his message and then I moved on to have a lunch at Uncle Sam's expense.

The river I referred to is very beautiful and can satisfy the most fastidious. It is green fringed and filled with cascoes, bearing their cargoes of fruits, vegetables, animals, and fowls, pottery and dusky humanity, in tow of little puffing launches; bancas (canoes,) loaded with fish, grass for forage and other things; coal barges and patches of Japanese hyacinths and green sea lettuce. From the bank, clumps of feathery bamboo bend out over the water and native houses with their pretty gardens edge the river. (Do you know what I was just wishing? That I could go across the street to St. Clair's and get an ice cream soda.)

We stopped at Guadalupe, an old battle ground between the insurgents and the Americans. Then we saw the picturesque ruins of the Augustinian monastery, built three centuries ago, once the shrine of 10,000 pilgrims. It was destroyed by fire during the insurrection. Tobacco is one of the leading products of the islands and the manufacture of cigars and cigarettes and other forms of tobacco for consumption is one of Manila's principal industries. Thousands of men, women, and children are busy from morning until night. We were welcome to visit any of these factories and were met with cordial treatment. A very interesting scene to me was at Hospicio of San Jose. This is an asylum for orphans. It was established in 1782 and is headed by the archbishop of Manila and administered by Sisters of Charity under a Mother Superior. At one side is a turning wheel, on whose dainty wadded cushions are laid abandoned children. When a child is placed in the wheel at any hour of the day or night, they say usually at night, a bell is rung. A nun, who sleeps in the room, awakes and takes in the little outcast.

Friends gave me a hurried trip to see the Maypajo Cockpit, one of the largest just outside of the city limits. Cock fighting in Manila is a prohibited sport, so all cockpits are located just outside of the city limits. Fighting is only allowed on Sundays and holidays, when thousands his themselves to the pits, many of them carrying birds in their arms. Admission to the pits is usually 20 centavos, ten cents in our money. Seats are extra. The hours are from six in the morning until seven in the evening and in few instances until midnight. The Chinese and the Filipinos are the fans. A small knife is fastened to one of the cock's spurs. Generally one of the birds is killed. Betting wages now and, of course, makes the sport more interesting. We drove over an awful[illegible] query road for twenty miles to Montalban, the source of Manila's water supply. We were repaid when we reached it, after eating at least a peck of dust. There is front of us was a stack of ice and several kegs of beer and it was just cool and touched the spot. I stopped counting after I had had eleven good schooners. They were as large as the picture of one that used to be painted on the building where Clendenning had the Point Saloon. The object was to see the dam and water falls here. Cadden says he saw them. I did not.

For real amusement one must see the Santa Anna Cabaret. Here one finds the largest amusement place of its kind in the world. A short motor drive naturally becomes necessary in the evening that one may see for himself this immense dancing floor. The stupendous arches of the roof are aglow with countless colored lights and the costumes of the patrons are brilliant. The music of Professor Juan Tolentino's orchestra is unequalled in the Orient.

Most of the Filipino men of the better class wear European clothes, those of a lesser degree wearing pantaloons and a coat of cotton cloth. Women of the higher social standing wear dresses with large puffed slee

TAFTVILLE

Miss Margaret Seidel and Miss Anna [illegible] street are visiting [illegible] and sister, Mrs. Richard Meyer and family [illegible] Brunswick, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knowles of Norwich are spending the week with relatives in Newark, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Hoyle of South B street are the guests of their son, Thomas Hoyle of Boston, Mass.

Joseph Kershaw and Fred Kershaw of the Ponemah house and John Meyer of Providence street motored to Narragansett Pier, R. I., Wednesday in Mr. Kershaw's new touring car.

Otilia Chancerelle of Merchants' avenue is spending the remainder of the week with friends in Arctic, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Petelle and their daughter, Miss Lilyose Petelle of Terrace avenue are visiting friends in Ludlow, Mass., this week.

The Taftville Athletic Association are to give a subscription old fashioned dance at Ponemah hall Saturday evening, the proceeds going into the treasury of the association to help pay current expenses. As a long list of invitations have been sent out, it is expected that the affair will be well attended and will net the association a neat sum. Most of the members have signified their intention of attending.

Four young boys of the village took a plunge into the Shetucket at the old swimming hole above the Ponemah mill dam Wednesday morning. So far as could be learned, this was the first swimming done in the river this spring, although last January three boys startled the villagers by donning their bathing suits and taking a dip in the water. From now on it is believed the swimming holes at both the dam and the sandbank will be well patronized. Nothing further has been done about building a dock at the latter place, although some of the members of the Taftville Boat and Canoe club are favoring the idea.

Repairs are being laid on the [illegible] replacing those that have become weak and broken.

The iron fence which is to be erected in front of the No. 3 mill of the Ponemah company, is rapidly going up. About fifty feet of the fence had been erected on Wednesday.

A new sewer is being installed at the home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Krause in Lisbon.

Fred Caplet and Alexis Davignon of South Third avenue and Henry Wesselius of North B street were on a fishing trip Tuesday to Kinneys brook and [illegible] landed one brook trout that [illegible] tipped the beam at [illegible] ounces. This is the largest trout that [illegible] caught here this season. The trout measured 13 inches in length, weighed 2 1-4 pounds, and will be placed on exhibition in a Norwich store. Several fishermen agree that Mr. [illegible]'s catch was the best so far this year.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Malone of Providence street are in Providence, R. I., for the remainder of the week.

As the guardian, Mrs. E. Tracy Clark, will be out of town, the weekly meeting of the Aowakiya Camp Fire Girls will not be held this (Thursday) evening.

Joseph D. Aiken of the Ponemah house is spending a few days in Boston, Mass.

Desire J. Dufresne and Alfred Dufresne of Norwich were visitors in town Wednesday

The tenement house at 16-18 North Third avenue is being roofed with asbestos shingles

The hours to be observed at the Taftville post office on Memorial day will be as follows: 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., 12 m. to 12.20 p. m.; 7 p. m. to 7.20 p. m., according to a statement issued by Postmaster Dennis C. Murphy Wednesday.

Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A., held a conclave Wednesday evening at the Taftville Congregational church, which was attended by the knights, squires and pages of the order. Two squires who were raised at the last conclave from the rank of page, were awarded the red robes of their rank. Committees in charge of a supper to be held on June 7th reported that arrangements had been completed for the affair, and they announced that a group photograph would be taken of the members of the Castle in their regalia at that time. A few patron ladies have been invited to the supper, and there is to be music and speaking.

Most of the village people were wearing small red poppies Wednesday which had been sold by some of the Boy Scouts of the local troops.

During the days this week that the local mills have been idle, many of the Canadian men of the town are earning quite a little by chopping wood for farmers who have plenty of woodland.

The young girls of the O. J. S., who are planning to give a missionary play next month held a rehearsal in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church Tuesday evening

NORWICH WOMAN BRINGS $10,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES IN AUTO CRASH

New suits for the superior court in this county, returnable in June, were filed here Wednesday with the clerk of the court, Judge George E. Parsons, as follows:

Mrs. Leon Buzenski of Norwich sues William J. Curtin of New London for $10,000 damages because of her injuries in an automobile accident May 18, 1923 when the defendant's machine and a machine driven by the plaintiff's husband were in collision at Quaker Hill on the Norwich-New London turnpike. Mrs. Buzenski was thrown out sustaining a broken leg and other injuries, from which she claims she did not recover for six months. A civil suit between Curtin and Mr. Buzenski was on trial in the superior court here Tuesday in which Curtin sued Buzenski for $3,000 for damages to his automobile.

Divorce for Desertion

William J. Prescott of Waterford seeks divorce from Florence Winters Prescott of that town on the ground of desertion, March 11, 1921. They were married June 8, 1917. He asks the custody of their four children, aged 6, 5, 4 and 3 years.

North Stonington Replevin Suit

Albert Stanley Maine of North Stonington brings a replevin suit against Malcolm E. Thompson of that town to recover certain articles which he claims were wrongfully taken from him in Thompson on April 20, 1924. These include one horse, one cow, one small motor truck, harnesses, two wagons, one power saw and engine and other articles all of the value of $1,000.

On Claim for $13,000

Frank M. Roche of Old Lyme sues John C. Robinson of Springfield on a claim brought on the common counts for $13,000 due May 22, 1924.

Suits on Seven Notes

Suits against Soltz Co., Inc., of New London and the endorsers on seven notes for a total of $32,000 on which $31,000 has been paid are as follows:

Union Bank and Trust Co. vs. Soltz Co., Inc., on note for $4,000 dated April 13, 1920, endorsed by Jeremiah Twomey and protested May 7, 1924.

Union Bank and Trust Co., vs. Soltz Co., Inc., on note for $5,000, dated July 7, 1920, endorsed by Jeremiah Twomey, A. Gordon and James R. May, protested, May 7, 1924.

Union Bank and Trust Co., vs. Soltz Co., Inc., on note for $10,000 dated Oct. 18, 1920, endorsed by B. Lubow, A. Gordon and James R. May, protested May 7, 1924.

Union Bank and Trust Co., vs. Soltz Co., Inc., on note for $4,600 dated Nov. 6, 1922, endorsed by James R. May and J. Twomey on which $400 has been paid, last renewal due May 6, 1924.

Union Bank and Trust Co., vs. Soltz Co., Inc., on note for $4,600, dated Nov. 6, 1922 on which $400 has been paid, last renewal due May 5, 1924. Note endorsed by H. Prottas, Ruth Soltz and J. H. Twomey.

Union Bank and Trust Co., vs. Soltz Co., Inc., on note of Hyman Prottas for $2,100, dated Dec. 9, 1922, on which $600 has been paid, endorsed by The Soltz Co., last renewal due on May 11, 1924.

Union Bank and Trust Co., of New London vs. Joseph and Max Soltz of New London on note of Dec. 30, 1922 for $2,000 on which $1,500 has been paid, last renewal due May 14, 1924.

Foreclosure of a mortgage dated Dec. 29, 1922 on four pieces of real estate is also sought by the bank. The real estate is on Whalley street, Bradley street and Douglass street. Joseph Soltz, Ruth Soltz, Thomas Soltz, Max Soltz, James R. May, Jeremiah Twomey, Abraham Gordon, Hyman Prottas and Bennet Rubow, all of New London, are named as party defendants in the foreclosure suit.

It is a fact worthy of note that this year marks the 50th anniversary celebration of Memorial Day in Norwich. The National Grand Army of the Republic was organized in the year 1867, but the first public observance of Memorial Day in this city was in 1874.

Boy Scout Formation.

F. A. Benton, Scout Executive, has issued the following order for the Boy Scout formation for Memorial Day parade:

Executive and Staff; Troop 4 Bugle and Drum corps; Troop 4, Troop 1, Troop 3, Troop 12, Troop 6 Drum corps, Troop 5, Troop 10, Troop 6, Troop 7, Troop 9, Troop 12, Troop 20, out-of-town troops.

Troops assemble in the above order on Shetucket street, fronting on Main street, promptly at 9.40 a. m. Parade starts at 10.02 a. m. sharp. Troops will march in columns of fours; Gold neckerchiefs requested.

GOLDEN WEDDING GIFTS TO MR. AND MRS. ADAMS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Adams, observed their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday at their home, No. 7 Boswell avenue in an informal manner. During the day over 50 friends called to extend the couple congratulations and best wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Adams received a number of beautiful gifts including a purse of gold, cut glass, and a handsome electric table lamp, the latter a gift from their children. There were also half a dozen bouquets of flowers and numerous post cards. Ice cream and cake were served to the guests.

Rummage Sale Nets $77

To secure a fund for renovating the church school rooms, a committee of women from the United Congregational church, with Mrs. William Wade chairman, held a successful rummage sale at Buckingham Memorial Wednesday, netting $77. Assisting Mrs. Wade were Mrs. Arthur H. Lathrop, Mrs. Susan Kampf, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, Mrs. Jerome Conant, Mrs. John V. Reynolds, Miss Clara Griswold, Mrs. John H. Sherman, Mrs. John Tefft, Mrs. Emil M. Fox, Mrs. John Trankla, Mrs. George E. Zimmerman and Mrs. James Fitzpatrick.

GIVEN FEATURE PLACE IN BOSTON NEWSPAPER

Miss Loretta Higgins, the Norwich musical star who is billed to appear at the Broadway theatre for the last three days of this week in a double musical act with Miss Hazel Hurd, a talented singer and pianist, was featured in a two column story with a two column picture in the Boston Advertiser last Saturday.

Romance in This Story

The Boston paper's story follows:

Success achieved is an old story. Less often is the story of success begun clearly limned. Fortunately in the case of Loretta Higgins, romance, clean-cut and crisp, characterizes the chapter of her introduction to the world of musical achievement.

Perhaps her story of three years ago might be called that of "A Connecticut Yankee in the World Court." Here it is:

On a night that was to be memorable there sat about a banquet table in the Carlton at Cannes many of the world's leading statesmen: Lloyd George, Aristide Briand of France, Premier Theunis of Belgium, Sig. Benomi of Italy and the late Dr. Walter Rathenau of Germany, to name only a few.

MISS LORETTA HIGGINS

A great singer of the Paris Opera was to sing for the guests. At a corner table sat a group of newspaper correspondents, English, French, Italian, German, Swiss, Belgian and American. Among the latter was a quiet girl of serious countenance, made more serious by the decoration of dark-rimmed spectacles.

The dinner progressed, but gradually there arose an uneasy stir. The prima donna had not appeared. Finally came a telegram announcing a train mishap and the impossibility of reaching Cannes that night.

Wilbur Forrest, veteran war correspondent of the New York Tribune, turned to the girl by his side, Loretta Higgins, and whispered in his good-natured, bantering fashion:

Dares Her to Sing

"I dare you to sing for them. Why don't you sing that little Irish folk song that I heard you warbling this morning?"

"Go ahead," chorused the other correspondents at the table. "Don't be stumped."

After a moment's hesitation, Loretta, who was the only female correspondent in the group, answered:

"They've got England and France and Italy and all the other nations here except Ireland. Maybe I'm a Connecticut Yankee, but I'm going to represent Ireland at this meeting."

Slipping over to the group of musicians, she whispered into the ear of the pianist that she was a singer from the Dublin Opera, and proceeded to hum into his ear the air of the song which she intended to sing. Amidst the din of animated talk on the part of a couple of hundred guests, Loretta quickly gave the pianist the theme of her song. The musician nodded, and the girl turned toward the assembly:

All was hushed and into every far corner of the room floated a clear young voice, crystal as dew, and carrying a thrill that exists only in the God-given voices of a few.

Pale as death stood Loretta Higgins, singing an Irish folk song of the utmost simplicity.

Tumultuous Applause

Applause, tumultuous and emphatic, burst upon her when the last lingering note faded away. Eager listeners thronged about her to heap upon her their felicitations, invitations, requests for permission to call upon her —all the excited enthusiasms that are only possible to a continental group.

With voice trembling, and with tears in her eyes, the girl attempted to acknowledge the showering congratulations and then, turning to the pianist, she sought his pardon for having deceived him with the story that she was an opera singer.

Newspaper instinct and training told her, however, that the job was not one of occupying the spotlight that night. She was part of the newsgathering organization of her paper, and back to her table she hastened, to take up once more her pencil and prepare for the world the political story of the night's gathering.

It was not to end with that, however. There were keen ears in that night's assembly, ears that caught the operatic calibre of the girl's voice and within a few short weeks Loretta Higgins had been given a government scholarship at the American Conservatory of Music at Fontainebleau, with an additional subsidy from the state of Connecticut. Telegraphic reports had reached Governor Everett Locke, and he was prompt in arranging for her livelihood while she should be a student at the school.

"It was through Georges d'Esbarbes, governor of the palace at Fontainebleau, that I finally reached the Opera Comique," said Miss Higgins today.

Tells of Training

"Through him I met Albert Wolff, director of the Comique. Mme. Wolff took me under her wing and into her home. She trained me in all the roles which I sang, and I was made to feel like their daughter.

"We had many wonderful dinners at the Fontainebleau palace, served on Napoleonic china. Afterward we would wander in the beautiful gardens and gather flowers at midnight. It was heavenly. The greatest musicians would be there, Ravel, Marthe Chenal, young Martin, the Harvard boy who is making a sensation in tenor roles at the Comique.

"Then there came Brussels and Zurich and my debut in 'Louise' at the Opera Comique.

"Afterward I sang in Ireland and England. Everywhere I go people tell me I look like some one or other, Georges d'Esbarbes and his family insisted I was the reincarnation of Diane of Poitiers. In Rome they talked about the Mona Lisa. In Ireland I was Peg Woffington. But that's all rubbish. I don't believe in reincarnation. I'm just Loretta Higgins and I expect to stay so.

"After I have made a lot of money I'm going to start a newspaper that will print all the best stories of newspaper men that invariably go into the waste basket."

HEARINGS GIVEN ON MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

A hearing on the cases of several automobile drivers who had lost their licenses for infractions of the law was held at the county courthouse in New London, Tuesday afternoon before Hearing Inspector M. E. Snow of Hartford, several Norwich men being among those heard.

Nicholas J. Doyle, R. F. D. No. 7, Norwich, charged with evading responsibility, was given a suspension of three months, during which he will not be allowed to drive cars. O. E. Neff of 14 Lincoln court, New London, had his license returned. He was charged with operating under the influence of liquor. Leonard McBroome, Jewett City, charged with operating under the influence, was given a three months' suspension. Fred W. Wenzel, R. F. D., 1, Norwich, alleged to have been operating under the influence, did not appear and his case was referred to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel at Hartford.

George H. Enos of 75 Jefferson avenue, well known New London bus driver, was given the right to operate motor vehicles in this state but was denied the privilege of taking out a public service license again. Enos was charged with operating while under the influence of liquor and being involved in an accident in which the commissioner could not find he was not without fault.

Peter Moran of 99 Franklin street, Norwich; Theodol Ethier, also of Norwich and Fred Breault of Central Village, Plainfield, all had their licenses returned upon furnishing satisfactory proof that they were abstaining from intoxicating liquor.

Rosario Lacroix, 203 Main street, Putnam, was given a three months' suspension while John O'Brien of Groton, also charged with operating while under the influence of liquor, was ordered to turn in three affidavits as to his character.

TWO GIVEN SENTENCES TO STATE REFORMATORY

Two men who had been bound over to the September term of the criminal superior court and were in the Norwich jail in default of bonds were brought into the May term of the court in session at New London Wednesday and were put to plea before Judge Frederick M. Peasley.

Thomas W[illegible], the alleged Indian chief, who hired a horse and wagon from W. F. Bailey's livery stable to go to Montville, but drove it to Providence where he was arrested, pleaded guilty to the charge of cruelty to animals in overdriving a horse and was sentenced to the Connecticut reformatory.

Harold Whalen, 19, of Hartford was also sentenced to the reformatory when he pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzlement. He was arrested in this city where he had been selling vacuum cleaners for the local agent.

Court adjourned to next Tuesday when another judge will take Judge Peasley's place on the bench.

SAYS PILES HEAL UP AND DISAPPEAR FOREVER

Seldom Fails to Give Absolute Relief from All Pain and Suffering. Guaranteed by Lee & Osgood Co. and All Good Druggists.

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, miraculous results have been obtained. MOAVA is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and any sufferer from Piles or Hemorrhoids who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

PROPOSING TO BOOST EASTERN CONNECTICUT

The Norwich Rotary club held its regular monthly business meeting on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan house. There was the usual large attendance and President Hugh B. Campbell presided. The song leader was Russell A. Clapp who introduced several new musical stunts, Henry J. LaFontaine entertained with a vocal solo and there was a duet number by George W. Carroll and E. Howard Baker.

Extracts from the Rotary Code of Ethics were read by President Campbell. The right hand of fellowship was extended to one new member. Tentative arrangements were announced for a joint dinner the Meriden club is to give the Norwich club at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, June 16th. At least 40 Norwich Rotarians will attend the supper.

Monday June 23rd, a joint meeting is to be held to considered an amalgamated organization of the Commercial Travellers, the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary club and the Lions club to act in fostering the general interests of Eastern Connecticut. The Rotary club approved the movement. A proposition to have the next Annual Tech show given in Norwich under Rotary auspices, March 25 [illegible] was referred to the board of directors.

E. LaRue Bliven, chairman of the Rotary baseball committee offered an explanation of the reason the Rotary team went down to defeat by a score of 6 to 5 by the N. F. A. team last Saturday. Chairman Herbert B. Clapp of the programme committee announced several new features for coming meetings. The gathering June 4 will be a "stunt" meeting in charge of Charles A. Saxton, William G. Park, Frederick S. Crowell and Edward W. Jewett. At the meeting on June 11th will come the joint debate between the Rotary and Lions clubs on the question, Resolved: That we flapper is a superior type to her grandmother. Those who will take part in the debate are Rotarians Nelson C. Axling and Arthur M. Brown and Lions John T. Barry and R. B. [illegible]. Each speaker will be allowed five minutes for and each side five minutes for rebuttal. The song leaders will be Joseph C. Worth and Tyler Starr.

The meeting on June 18th will be in charge of Lucius Briggs and motion pictures will be shown [illegible] Economy in the Use of Coal. Governor Ely will be the song leader. At the business meeting on June 25th Myles Emerson Standish will be the song leader. The Yale and Harvard boat crews will probably be invited to attend one of the June meetings.

The meeting Wednesday closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

the boat left at one a. m. Sunday, we were together. Their business is hemp, which is a big business here. The Philippines supply the world with hemp ropes. I sometimes think that I am foolish to write such long letters as perhaps you get tired reading them, but, let me tell you that every letter I get I read over at least six times and the Bulletins and Records are read and reread and then passed on to other passengers to do likewise with. I was pleased with Major Watres' card for my birthday and tell him so when you see him. Do you ever go to see Mr. Kimball at the hospital? Please see that the barber goes to him regularly. I left orders and I am sure that it is being attended to, but "look into it" as poor Mikolasi used to say. Everyday in every way, we are getting nearer and nearer and today at 3 p. m. we will be in Hong Kong. The nearest I ever expected to be to Hong Kong was when my mother used to take me into a tea store where Morley's Hat store is now. It was called H. Reid's Hong Kong Tea store and it had a statue of a chinaman with a long blue moustache there. Well, today I will see the real Hong Kong and Canton. We stay there four days and then go on to Shanghai.

Give my regards to all and write often.

That his wooden leg, which caused him to stagger, caused him to walk like a drunken man was the defense of Thomas B. McDonald, foreman in a saw making plant—in district court in Fitchburg, Mass., when he was tried on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

RELIEVED CONSTIPATION

"I have been troubled the last 4 or 5 year with constipation and have tried everything under the sun, but could not find any relief until I got FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS, and you can bet they are the pills," writes Robert E. Smith, 417 N. Robert St., Ludington, Mich. FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS give quick relief from constipation, also act on the liver. Especially comforting to stout persons. Refuse substitutes. WILLIMANTIC

At St. Mary's parish, South Coventry, Sunday, Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, D. D., of Hartford, will confer the sacrament of confirmation on more than 90 candidates. Adults and children from the following sections of this parish make up the class: South Coventry, Eagleville, Storrs, Curleyville, Hanks Hill, Mansfield City, Mansfield Four Corners, Mansfield Depot, Andover and North Coventry. Several of the neighboring priests will attend and many visitors will be present. Sunday will also mark the beginning of a week's mission, when Rev. Arthur Keegan of the Vincentian order will be the preacher.

Business enterprises will halt during the entire day today, Memorial day. Granted good weather, principal source of attraction for the day will be the memorial exercises in the morning and afternoon and the sports at Recreation park. Dances will be held in the evening. The sports will include a Connecticut State Baseball league game in the forenoon between Manchester and Willimantic and matinee horse races in the afternoon, under the auspices of the American Thread Athletic association. The service of sixteen large auto trucks have been donated to transport those who will participate in the annual pilgrimage to the Windham Center North Windham and St Joseph's cemeteries in the forenoon. The afternoon procession to Willimantic cemetery, under Marshal F. P. Fenton will start at 2 o'clock from the town building.

Orders posted in the patrolmen's room of police station Thursday include one that all officers report for duty this (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock to take part in the Memorial day parade to Willimantic cemetery. The officers are also ordered to be at headquarters Saturday afternoon in summer uniform, with white gloves for the annual spring inspection.

The third order is the assignment of the regular officers for duty during June. Officers Arthur Hurley will cover the Sodom beat; Officer Edward Leahy will appear on Jackson street; Officers Roderick Larviere will spot the brass buttons on the Center Main street beat; and Officer Bombria will timber up his injured foot on the upper Main street round. Officer William Hurley will be compass man on the Main street day duty job.

Rev. Arthur Wheelock of Andover, Mass., has been extended a call to become pastor of the First Congregational church, as the result of action taken at a meeting of the church society this week. W. B. Knight was moderator. Rev. Mr. Wheelock is now pastor of the Andover Congregational church. The committee was prompted to have the call extended to him after the local congregation had heard him deliver a most inspiring sermon here recently. The local church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. Harry S. McCready who has gone to Oakland, California. The salary fixed by the call is $6,200 and should he accept he will assume the pastorate the first of September. Mr. Wheelock is a young man, a graduate of Dartmouth. He is to be married June 21 and will make a honeymoon journey in Europe.

The campaign for the proposed dormitory for Connecticut College for Women is being advertised in this city by a twelve by six feet banner strung conspicuously across Main street, between the H. C. Murray building and a pole at the corner of Main and Railroad street. The banner reads "Help Build Windham House."

Listed below are the results of the annual business meeting of the Ladies Guild of St. Paul's church held in the Parish house: President, Mrs. Caleb Albro; vice president, Mrs. Frank M. Lincoln; treasurer, Mrs. Charles G. Van Zandt; secretary, Miss Ida Davidson; committees, hospitality, Mrs. Frank M. Lincoln; supper, Mrs. Charles E. Lovell; work, Mrs. Fred Burnett. Mrs F. C. Williams' report of the meeting of the Guild in Norwich last week was read.

The Lion and the Mouse was successfully presented at the High school auditorium, Thursday evening by the senior class of Windham High school. The production was carried out in a manner that won a great deal of hearty applause. The performance was a portrayal of the capitalist, the politician and the society leader. Miss Madelyn Wheeler, Harold Simonds and Harry Brown carried the leading roles with ability.

Frank Christina, who was taken to St. Joseph's hospital last week, after he had received a gunshot wound in his left leg, is still a patient at the institution. The man still maintains that the shooting was accidental caused when he started to put a loaded .38 calibre revolver in a holster belt which he wore. The accident was reported to have happened in his room at 1155 Main street but the members of the household there knew nothing of the affair until some time after Christine was taken to the hospital.

Suddenly taken ill about 7.30 o'clock Thursday morning, Walter Olin of 826 Main street fell against a letter box in front of the Union block on Main street and sustained slight injury to his face. He was taken into a store and given medical attention by Dr. S. J. Turcotte who was called, and later was taken to the store conducted by his mother.

Doctors William E. Hendry, Fred M. Smith, Clarence E. Simonds and F. E. Guild were among local physicians who attended the annual meeting of the Hartford County Medical society in Hartford Thursday afternoon.

The first regular meeting of the Exchange club was held here Thursday noon, President Dr. George E. Wilcox presiding. Although some of the charter members were called away on business so could not attend, the session was a most enthusiastic one and members took steps to further interest in the meetings and increase the membership to the necessary quota of 25, when the club will be awarded its charter. The members listened with interest to a report of the state convention at Hartford Wednesday, given by Secretary Roderick A. Jodoin. The National Exchange Club has been steadily rising to popularity since its inauguration in 1886 by a handful of Detroit business men. In bringing out the point that service was the foundation of success, President Wilcox explained the several ways in which an Exchange club is beneficial to the community, as well as to the individual and to members themselves. For the furtherance of the activities at the weekly meetings it was voted that the Exchangeites take turns in giving educational talks at the future sessions. The responsibility of giving the first speech next week was imposed on President Wilcox who will have for his subject, "Life, Its Attributes and their Developments." Methods to be be followed in connection with the increasing of the membership were thoroughly discussed and action was taken on the matter.

The weekly meetings will be held Wednesday at noon with the exception of next week when of necessity the session will be held Thursday noon. The members who were present were President Dr. Wilcox; Secretary Jodoin, Harold C. Lincoln, Russell W. Potter, Clarence A. Bowen and Edwin B. Hayes.

The seven Exchange clubs of Connecticut were affiliated into a state organization Wednesday at a convention held at Hartford with an attendance of over one hundred members, their wives and young women friends. The cities represented were: Hartford, Meriden, New Haven, Bridgeport, Southington, Middletown and Willimantic. Members of the newly organized club in this city who attended were Secretary Roderick A. Jodoin, Robert E. Mitchell, Clarence A Bowen and Dr. C. E. Simonds. Sessions were held in the forenoon and afternoon with a luncheon at 12.15 o'clock. Business was conducted at 10 a. m. until lunch. At 1.30 o'clock a conference of the committees on constitution and by-laws and nomination was held and the by-laws and constitution were adopted and officers elected as recommended by the committees. The results of the election were: State president, Dr. John E. Stoddard of Meriden; first vice president, Morris Perry of Bridgeport, second, Warren Williams of New Haven; third, Howard Norton of Middletown; secretary, F. A. Hunt of Meriden; treasurer, C. E. Smith of Southington; marshal, Stewart Finley of Hartford; sentry, Harold C. Lincoln of Willimantic. Committees were appointed on the speaker bureau and extension work. The next state convention will be held in May, 1925 at Bridgeport. The women's program consisted of a shopping tour in the forenoon and bridge and tea at the Wangum club in the afternoon. A banquet was served to the gathering at 7.30 that evening, at which Mayor Norman C. Stevens of Hartford was the principal speaker. Organizer Mr. Harold and National Secretary Mr. Hunter were other speakers.

Brevities

Miss A. Louis Laramee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre J. Laramee of this city will be graduated next month in the classical course at the Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic.

South Coventry appears to be heading the list of the town's graduation exercises this year. Diplomas there will be awarded June 9, in charge of supervisor A. W. Greer.

"Circus Al" Green, one of Willimantic's successful circus men made a hasty trip to this city Thursday afternoon from Manchester, where Spark's circus was encamped for a showing in the evening. Al Green is the advance man.

The Daughter of the Kings of St. Paul's parish made up a well filled May basket for little Donald De Montigny, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital for some time. Games, toys and fruit were in the basket.

Plans for vacation outings today, Memorial day, were being halted Thursday afternoon and evening when the heavens again opened up and shed unwelcome rain on the city.

Carl E. Milliken, former governor of Maine, who was appointed collector of customs at Portland Wednesday by President Coolidge, is the father of Miss Nellie K. Milliken, of Windham High school faculty.

At a covered dish supper served Wednesday night to 18 members of Trusting circle of the King's Daughters at the home of Mrs. Frank M. Smith, of Cottage Place, officers were elected as follows: Leader, Mrs. Charles B. Lamb; vice leader, Mrs. Fred Wright; secretary, Mrs. Teresa Condon; treasurer, Mrs. Ellison S. Smith; auditors, Miss Annie Smith and Mrs. Louis A. Kingsbury of South Coventry.

Raymond Benson and Miss Ida Chamberlain were married at St. Mary's rectory Wednesday evening by Rev. E. A. Mathieu. A. G. Bushnell was best man and Miss Agnes Mullen was bridesmaid.

JEWETT CITY

The news of the death of Judge Henry H. Burnham, 79, on Tuesday, at the home of his son, Alfred H. Burnham, in Baltimore, Md., where he spent the winter each year, was received by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Chester Dudkowski Thursday. Mr. Burnham was the son of Andrew and Cynthia Burnham and was born in Lisbon in 1845. For over forty years he has lived in Jewett City. He was a graduate of Andover and of Yale university, attending the commencement reunions every year. He had passed his fiftieth anniversary as a Yale graduate. He was appointed judge of the town court when it was instituted and held the office for twelve years, when he was retired by the constitutional age limit. Since then he has acted as prosecuting attorney. He was county liquor prosecuting agent until that office was abolished.

Mr. Burnham possessed a very brilliant mind in legal matters and was a constant reader of the best literature.

He was twice married, his first wife being Sophia Burnham, whose three sons, Alfred and Charles of Baltimore, and Theodore, of Torrington, survive their father. His second wife was Emma Racheler Johnson, who is dead. Judge Burnham is to be buried in Norwich this (Friday) afternoon.

Much excitement prevailed in the borough Thursday afternoon when an aeroplane dropped on F. H. Gilbert's land opposite the home of Daniel Morgan. It was on its way from Boston to Maryland, and the atmosphere had become so thick that it became necessary to land. Two men who were in the plane, said they flew from Maryland to Boston in the morning and were on the return trip. At first they thought they would spend the night here, but finally, after remaining an hour and a half, they started for Hartford where there is a field. In no time at all, people came from every direction—hatless, coatless, no umbrellas, some common crossists, while cars were parked on both sides of the road for a long distance. They were well repair with the close-up view of the machine and witnessing the rise for the flight, which the majority never had seen except in the movies.

Rain all Thursday afternoon was discouraging to preparations for Memorial Day. It is most devoutly hoped that today (Friday) will be pleasant at least during the morning. There are only two or three old soldiers left to participate in the parade. L. A. Thornton, who until this year has been at every memorial service, was unable to go out Sunday on account of a severe cold, although H. George Wilcox went for him with his automobile. Hugh McLaughlin is confined to his room.

Earl Gray will motor to North Richmond, N. H., today (Friday) to visit his wife and son Lewis Herbert Gray. The son is three weeks old and is named for two grandfathers and three uncles.

Miss S. K. Adams attended the county meeting of the Women's League of Voters in Uncasville on Wednesday.

George Davis of Boston is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Davis.

MEMORIAL DAY

It is with heightened sense of gratitude and a deepened feeling of reverence that we approach once more the day set aside in sacred memory of those who in the past have given freely and unstintingly of their all, that we as a nation might survive.

As a part of this community, we join in bowing our heads in silent prayer, that those who have gone before may know that they are not forgotten, but that their deeds of heroic sacrifice are still fresh with those still left behind, and that ever will we hold in our hearts a chamber sacred to their memory.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In what may be regarded as a sacrifice to those of the nation who have borne arms in its defense and have now passed to their eternal rest, Danielson and other communities here-about will pause today to carry out the annual memorial exercises that have come to be of greater and greater significance with the passing years. MEMORIAL DAY.

Memorial day is the fixed occasion for paying tribute to the valiant services that were rendered to the country in times of great emergency. Though inaugurated following the Civil war when much stress was placed upon the sacrifices of those who saved the Union, it has become a day when the deeds of all who have fought for their country are recalled and the nation pours forth its undivided gratitude.

It is a day for keeping green the memory of those who went forth in the full vigor of their life and made the supreme sacrifice on the field of battle, those who were carried off by disease, those who were maimed and those who were ready to serve. There are no survivors of the earlier wars. The number of Civil war veterans is rapidly diminishing but the large number of survivors of subsequent wars impels the hope that peace in the future will prevent any addition to their numbers.

Of Memorial day it has been most fittingly said that "There has not in the world's history been so splendid and continuing testimonial of a nation's gratitude as the United States has paid to its citizen soldiers; but it has not measured up to their deserts. The last and most impressive of all tributes is that which comes from the heart, bespoken by the faltering voice, the moistening eye, the quickening pulse. It is the human testimony to the fact that as a nation we have not forget—the pledge on this privileged day of a glorious anniversary, that we will never forget—the promise that the future shall bring forth sons and daughters capable and willing to sustain with equal sacrifice the structure of human liberty and national security that these veterans raised. There will be new and resolute determination that if need shall come, as come it may, this nation will rise to its obligation and its duty, inspired by the example of these men who preserved for us the institutions that have been made sacred by their sacrifices."

WINDHAM HOUSE.

In that appeal which is to be made to the people of Windham county next week for funds with which to complete a Windham county dormitory at the Connecticut College for Women there is much to interest the large and the small contributors. It can be expected that this county will be sending more and more of its young women to this growing institution, and it is desirable that the dormitory possibilities should measure up to the educational standing of the college.

Part of the funds are available for construction work which will mean that Windham county's building will stand conspicuously among the dormitory college buildings. That is the ambition of any county in such an institution. It is to be noted that much encouragement is being taken of the generosity in making pledges for this purpose.

The case for the cause of higher education must be regarded as a philanthropic service that will not be of much help now but will continue to be an effective force in the future. It means putting in operation for a higher and better educational plant, in which Windham county can be expected to have an interest since it is the pioneer institution of this kind for young women in the state.

That the interest of Windham county's people in Windham House has increased is only natural. That it will result in the completion of the fund is to be expected.

BLOCKING FIRE FIGHTERS.

Norwich is not the only place where the curiosity of the people to see all that goes on at a fire is apt to cause and has caused much embarrassment to the fire department. The situation is made all the worse these days because of the number of automobiles and the way in which they easily clog the streets and the area near a fire.

In the national capital this week automobilists flocking to the scene of a $125,000 fire caused such a traffic jam that a number of engine companies were prevented from reaching the fire and the chief of the department was obliged to leave his car three blocks away and proceed afoot to the blaze. Police reserves after a while cleared the streets, but it meant the loss of valuable time and gave the fire an advantage which was unfortunate. It is not only loss of property but loss of life that are probable results of such a handicap for the firefighters.

There is something of the spirit of the volunteer firemen in many people. They like to be present at a fire, especially if it is a big one, even though they cannot help. It is deplorable, however, that there should be such inconsideration as to prevent others from working.

Washington officials had a conference immediately following the fire where the apparatus was blocked and different methods of overcoming the situation were discussed. Regulations that will deal with the situation in such a way as to prevent it in the future are the logical outcome. In the meantime appeals have been made to the autoists to give the fire apparatus a clear path when proceeding to a fire, but also to allow the firemen sufficient room in which to get into action.

The appeal is not likely to produce any great relief. The interest in the spectacular is too great to expect much thought to be given to anything else. It is through the regulations and their enforcement that the desired results will be obtained. It is an odd situation when huge sums are paid for fire protection to have those who are demanding efficiency in fire fighting put serious obstacles in the way of it.

GET OUT AND VOTE.

In their demands for good government, the replacement of a costly, do-nothing government with an active, businesslike administration, the citizens of Norwich cannot disregard the fact that it is to be obtained by getting out and going to the polls and not by staying at home

Election day is the time for the manifestation of interest and the conversion of that interest into votes. These is a well balanced, confidence inspiring ticket nominated by the republicans. It is one that should gain not only the support of the entire party but of all other voters who are desirous of benefiting from the fruits of an economical and efficient city government.

There is nothing that makes a better impression than an alert, well-run, effective administration of city affairs to which is applied the principles of private business, where the welfare of the community and the interests of all rather than those of a few are being served. There is no reason why Norwich should not be able to pride itself on such. It is quite evident that it is not going to be obtained by the disposition of an apathetic spirit. It is a situation which demands a response to duty on the part of every voter.

The excellence of the respective candidates on the republican ticket, men of affairs who are a success in their respective activities, affords a sound reason for putting them in charge of city affairs, and through them insisting upon a city government in which the community can take pride. The way to get rid of a wasteful and extravagant administration is to go to the polls and vote for a change.

The opportunity is before the citizens to put in office those who stand for good government in all departments of the city. The time to do it is next Monday and the place is the voting booth in the respective districts. The time for a change was never better. Get out and by your vote do your part.

HOW KANSAS REACTS.

New England is not the only section of the country where resentment of the people against the refusal of members of congress to stand back of the president is being manifested.

We have been told in a curious explanation that it was for the purpose of getting the support of certain northwestern states for him that opposition was displayed to the president by those members of congress who clearly misrepresented the sentiment of their constituents.

From Kansas, however, comes evidence to the effect that the people are greatly disturbed over the action of Senator Capper who, among others, helped to override the veto. This is the year when Senator Capper is up for re-election and Kansas has been a strong Capper state. There was no reason to suppose that anyone could beat him. When, however, the senator started to put his nomination papers into circulation he found evidence that the worm will turn. One leader, depended upon for this work, refused to have anything to do with it and the first 27 asked to sign a Capper nomination paper refused, and what happened to that happened to others.

Capper doesn't come from New England, but he is finding that the people in Kansas feel the same way about the overriding of the veto that the people of New England do. And what's worse he faces an early election.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: How are you getting along with your clean-up efforts?

Memorial day. Throw out your flags and doff your hat when Old Glory goes by.

Have you noticed lately some evidence of life in the street department? Election is coming.

There are times when it looks as if May 1924 was strongly prejudiced against the straw hats.

Who can remember a bright sunshiny day when there wasn't a cloud in the sky from morning until night?

There is opposition to adjournment of congress next week. Probably some of the congressmen and senators hate to face their constituents.

If it is so that a mechanical bricklayer has been perfected it is none too soon. The human factors in that line of employment must be about ready to retire.

Bobbed hair girls are obliged to wear a wig when presented at court in England. That is according to the order of Queen Mary, but probably King George wouldn't make a kick.

There's always something to grumble about. Just at the present time it is the weather, but it cannot quite overshadow the dissatisfaction which is being manifested over the manner in which the city has been run for the past two years.

LEAP YEAR PROPOSALS

From the very first day that Wainridge, the New York agent of the company, entered the home office in Chicago, every young woman there employed began to take a more serious interest in her own appearance. Even Phoebe Gray looked a little wistfully into the mirror as she removed her hat after lunch, smoothed back the straight locks of her bobbed hair, readjusted the white collar on her plain office gown, then turned away to her work with a little sigh.

She had for a long time been quite sure that she was resigned to her lack of beauty, and she had prided herself upon making no attempts to improve her appearance with paint and powder or any other frills. But there was something about Wainridge's genial air of modest success and his handsome boyish face framed in slightly graying hair that made her wish to be pretty.

"Isn't he a darb, though?" said the girl occupying the desk close to Phoebe. She had laid aside her work for a moment to attend to her complexion, which had been neglected during the long hour she had been receiving dictation. "This is the worst stick I ever saw. They say he isn't married, either. Don't you think he's stunning Phoebe?"

"He is nice-looking," answered Phoebe quietly, as she went steadily on with her stack of letters.

"Oh, you!" scoffed her neighbor, putting away her lip stick, "'If you die an old maid you'll have only yourself to blame.' Did you ever hear that song?"

"No," answered Phoebe abstractedly and she consistently avoided all the laughing, gay discussions of the New York agent during the month that he came daily to the office. He was delightfully friendly to them all in a most impersonal way, and he appeared totally unconscious of the stir his presence made.

Feb. 29, a week after Wainridge's return to New York, one of the girls suggested that each one should send him a leap-year proposal, and the idea spread like wildfire in the office. Phoebe was the only one of the fourteen women who did not write him an amorous letter. That is, she did not send one. She laughingly told the girls that that sort of thing wasn't in her line, and knowing her gentle firmness they did not insist. But her desk companion, noticing Phoebe's shining eyes as she tore into bits a few scribbled lines, said to herself with surprise: "Phoebe might almost be good looking if she'd only be enterprising enough to fix herself up some."

Three days after the sheaf of proposals had been sent Phoebe received a telegram. Fortunately it came at the noon hour, when she had remained alone in her part of the office to look over some extra important letters. It was perhaps the first telegram of her whole life and she signed for it with shaking fingers, which continued to tremble in a way that made it difficult to tear open the envelope.

She read with amazement and grasped as she read it again, and her eyes filled with tears and her breath came in stormy gusts as she quickly folded the wonderful bit of sand colored paper and thrust it out of sight, very near her heart. She looked around the room to be sure that no one was watching and then she went out as steadily as any one can who is walking on nothing firmer than air.

"I do think if Wainy is any sport at all he'll answer our proposals," said one of the girls in the dressing room in the late afternoon when they were powdering their noses for the homeward journey. Phoebe felt the guilty color rise in her cheeks. She hurried away. She simply could not deliver the message she had for them, which said:

"Please thank your charming friends for the honor they have done me, and tell them I hope soon to be otherwise engaged. Am called to Chicago. Will you be so good as to save Saturday evening for me? Wainridge." — Exchange.

DAVID LUBIN FROM THE GHETTO

Making his way over the world, David Lubin battled hardships until he became a man, then educated himself.

From a ghetto in Poland, where he was born in 1840, he came to the United States. At 14, he was polisher for a goldsmith in New York. For three years he toiled in a sawmill and, at 18, went to Arizona. In San Francisco, after holding many jobs, he made a success of a small business. With a partner, he opened a store in Sacramento and prospered.

Long hours at night were passed learning to spell, read, write and figure. Within ten years he had many of the accomplishments of a scholar, had patented an invention and was rich.

Puzzled that California wheat though among the best, could not compete in the markets of the world, he established a farm and by marketing his own product, grasped the idea that the price of wheat was fixed arbitrarily by middlemen because the world lacked accurate data on the amounts of wheat annually produced and consumed. At his own expense he traveled in the United States investigating. At an agricultural congress in Poland, the idea of an international institute of agriculture came to him. He went to Washington to place the idea before congress, but was cold-shouldered. He went to England and other countries, again at his own expense, seeking to interest various governments, but they turned deaf ears. He was making a stir in the world and, in 1905, President Roosevelt sent him to Rome as a delegate to the first International Agricultural Congress. His plan appealed to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who obtained the financial assistance of a few other nations and established the International Institute of Agriculture, building for Lubin a $60,000 palace in which to carry on his work.

Lubin saw his idea operate to the great advantage of the Allies during the war, and when he died, in 1919, the institute was receiving the support of 58 nations.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Edward Weston, who has been awarded the Franklin medal of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, is a resident of Newark, N. J., where he has had his factory and laboratories as well as his home, for many years. Previous honors from numerous scientific societies and universities had established precedents in the way of recognition of his high place as an electrician and inventor, along with Edison, Thomson and other Americans of international eminence. Dr. Weston is a native of England, who, coming to the United States early in his career, abandoned the medical profession for which he had studied and took up commercial chemistry. In 1875 he established in Newark the first factory in America, devoted exclusively to the making of dynamic-electric machines. In later years he invented many improvements in electric lighting and became widely known as an inventor and manufacturer of measuring instruments.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Him

The "kidders" were breezing along merrily when Charley appeared in the shop going about his usual tasks. Talk turned toward election and Charley was asked if he was going to vote the Australian ballot.

"No sir," he replied with emphasis. "I'm an American."

A Father and Son Episode

The head of a family recently bought a spring suit and had it delivered to his home. Being a rather busy man he paid little attention to his new apparel until a few days later, when he had occasion to attend a social affair and decided to wear his new suit.

Accordingly he went to the clothes closet, got the suit that was hanging there and prepared to appear in all his splendor. However, when he tried the trousers on they were too small, and the vest was a very bad misfit. Thinking the tailor had made a mistake in closing and having no time to lose, he took a pair of scissors and cut the vest up the back and in the same way loosened the trousers at the waistband. This made it possible for him to get into the suit but it was very uncomfortable. As he was about to leave his son came into the room.

"Why dad, what are you doing with my suit on?" the son exclaimed.

It was then disclosed that the son had a new suit of a similar color to his father's and that father had gotten into the son's suit!

It took the head of the family several days to smooth matters over when the actual condition of the suit was disclosed.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

A Letter to His Mother.

I wonder if the letter man
Will find Old Bramble Patch?
And if he does if he'll know how
To litt the wooden latch.

I'm sure that pretty Lady Love
Will lose all hope and joy
If she doesn't get this letter
From her darling bunny boy.

even if I told you, that the little rabbit is posting a letter at Turnip City to his dear mother at Old Bramble Patch, Rail Fence Corner, Rabbitville.

But that's just what he's doing. Beg pardon, I mean that's just what he's asked the Circus Elephant to do when the little rabbit found he wasn't tall enough to reach the letter box.

If he had been out on the Sunny Meadow or in the Shady Forest, I'm sure Bobbie Redvest would have posted it for him, although there are very few letter boxes in Rabbit Country.

"That's very kind of you," said the little rabbit, politely as his kind circus friend dropped the letter in the big green iron box. "I suppose in a few minutes it will be at the Post Office in Bunnybridge!" After that the little rabbit hopped across the street to a candy shop.

"Oh, please don't go away," cried a little girl. "I want you to stay and play with me."

Sorry, I can't," answered the little rabbit. "But you can buy a little stuffed bunny just like me down at the Three-In-One-Cent Store in Rabbitville." And away he hopped, clipperty clip, to the Circus Grounds.

To say to the monkey howdydo,
The elephant and the kangaroo,
The lion and the cinnamon bear,
And the porcupine with his bristly hair.

But, oh dear me. Just as he reached Cabbage Square,

A big green bus came rolling by,
Rumperty, bumperty, bump.
It was filled inside and crowded up high
With people who hollered and said "Oh my!"
When the bunny boy gave a jump.

"Oh ho!" they shouted. "Stop the stage!
Here's the rabbit who 'pears on the children's page
Of the Bunnybridge Bugle every day in the week.
Stop the bus for we want to get on and speak!"

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

POETRY

Yesterday's Voice
A Memorial Day Poem

Flowers—You bring us flowers,
Laying the exquisite blooms at our feet
Moist with your tears and kisses of sweet,
We who are dead to the physical touch
And seemingly cannot appreciate such,
We whom you think are forever away,
Spirit apart from your temple of clay,
Yesterday's voice—a memory now,
Dead to your thought, your sorrow, somehow.

Flowers—You bring us flowers,
Delicate perfumes ascend in the air,
Incense of love that you for us bear.
We are as real as the flowers you bring;
Oh, if you knew, you would joyously sing,
We are as near as aught that you see,
Your eyes are but blinded to things that shall be;
We have but answered the Infinite's call,
The body is nothing—the spirit is all.

Flowers—You bring us flowers,
Lillies and roses, emblems of hope,
The seed must be planted and die ere it grope
Into the light that clothes it again
Till it gladdens the eye as a flower to men;
So we, whose poor bodies lie under the sod
Have emerged in the light of the Spirit of God,
Seeing, unseen, yet sensing the thought
Expressed in the flowers that you in love brought.

—By Charles L. H. Wagner.

Strangers yet!
After years of life together,
After fair and stormy weather,
After travel in far lands,
After touch of wedded hands,
Why thus joined, why ever met,
If they must be strangers yet?

Strangers yet!
After childhood's winning ways,
After care and blame and praise,
Counsel asked and wisdom given,
After mutual prayers to Heaven,
Child and parent scarce regret
When they apart—are strangers yet.

Strangers yet!
After strife for common ends,
After title of old friends,
After passion fierce and tender,
After cheerful self-surrender,
Hearts may beat, and eyes be wet,
And the souls be strangers yet.

Strangers yet!
Strange and bitter thought to scan
All the loneliness of man,—
Nature, by magnetic laws,
Circle unto circle draws;
Circles only touch when met,
Never mingle—Strangers yet.

Strangers yet!
Will it evermore be thus—
Spirits still impervious?
Shall we ever fairly stand
Soul to soul as hand to hand?
Are the bounds eternal set
To retain us strangers yet?

Strangers yet!
Fell not love it must aspire
Into something other—higher.
God himself we loved the best
Where man's sympathies at rest;
Rest above the strain and fret
Of the world of strangers yet.

—Lord Houghton.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Fresh—Say, prof, how long could I live without brains?

"Well, John," said the eminent personage, who was now an invalid, "who it wishes to see me now? My biographer?" "No, your excellency," replied the butler, "your physician."

"Ah! Almost the same thing. He's work upon my life, too."—Philadelphia Record.

Yes, but where does the surprise come in?

Oh, the surprise is when I get the bill for it. I'm the one that is surprised.—Florida Times-Union.

Mrs. Whiffle—Don't you know it's very rude to whistle while you are waiting on a lady?

Grocer's Boy—Well, the guv-nor told me to do it when I served you.

Mrs. W.—He told you to whistle?

Boy—Yes'm—he said if ever we sold you anything we'd have to whistle for the money.— The Progressive Grocer.

"Any rags? Any old iron?" chanted the scrap merchant as he knocked at the door of a suburban villa. The knock was answered by the man of the house himself.

"No; go away!" he snapped irritably. "There's nothing for you. My wife's away."

AGENT SUES FOR COMMISSION ON SALE OF SHETUCKET CO

With Judge John R. Booth on the bench in the superior court here on Thursday morning, the trial was started in the suit of George W. Carroll against the Shetucket company of this city for a 5 per cent commission of $8,750 on the sale of the Shetucket company mill property on North Main street to the Atlantic Carton corporation of this city for $175,000 on May 22, 1923, which was the date of passing the deed.

E. Howard Baker, Jr., secretary, treasurer and a director of the Shetucket company, was the first witness. The witness testified that the Atlantic Carton Corp. bought the property east of North Main street and the price paid was $175,000. Following the second directors' meeting held on Jan. 31, 1924, the witness with others met and held a conference with Messrs. Turner and Van Wagenen of the Atlantic Carton Corp., and George W. Carroll, the plaintiff in the case, was with Mr. Turner and Mr. Van Wagenen, but he did not participate in the discussion. The witness identified several letters passing between himself and the plaintiff, among which was one from Mr. Carroll in which he stated he (Mr. Carroll) would expect 5 per cent if a sale of the property was made. Mr. Baker named the stockholders owning the 12,550 shares comprising the majority stock.

After cross examination of Mr. Baker, George W. Carroll, the plaintiff in the case, was called to the stand. He told of selling stock of manufacturing concerns in Norwich and elsewhere. On a Wednesday morning in November, Mr. Twist telephoned the witness and said he wanted to see him on a business matter. He met him in the lobby of the Wauregan and told him Mr. Baker had the controlling stock of the Shetucket company to sell and asked him if he could find a customer or not. The witness said Mr. Twist then told him to see what he could do. Mr. Carroll told Mr. Twist that if he did sell the stock or the real estate he would expect 5 per cent.

On the day of the annual stockholders' meeting Mr. Carroll stated that Mr. Baker telephoned him that the stockholders' meeting was in session and he wanted the witness to bring his clients up there. He met Mr. Turner and Mr. Van Wagenen of the Atlantic Carton corporation at the hotel and went with them from the hotel to the office of the Shetucket company. Here they met all present at the meeting and after some discussion Messrs. Turner and Van Wagenen raised their offer for everything but the machinery. After going through the tenement houses it was decided that nothing but the property east of North Main street would be wanted and Messrs. Turner and Van Wagenen made the offer of $175,000. The Monday after the sale was consummated Mr. Baker called the witness on the telephone and told him that the charge of five per cent was too high and that the Shetucket company would not pay. On Feb. 22, 1924, the witness sent a letter to the Shetucket company, enclosing his bill of 5 per cent on the purchase price.

The court adjourned at 2 o'clock, standard time, to next Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, standard time.

LION FINN TO HEAD SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

With the usual large attendance the Norwich Lions club held its weekly meeting and luncheon Thursday noon at the Wauregan house. There were several guests including visiting Lion from New London. President George A. Finn presided at the meeting and Lion Abner Schwartz acted as song leader. Quartette numbers featured the song programme.

Edward T. Connelly, the popular tenor, entertained with vocal selections and also told a number of humorous stories. He was given a hearty vote of thanks for his contribution to the day's programme.

Lion Max Hanover announced the acceptance of President Finn as chairman of the annual Salvation Army drive which is soon to start in Norwich. The goal is $5,000. President Finn in brief remarks asked the club members to co-operate with him in making the drive a success and he was assured that the club will stand back of him in his efforts.

Campaign Director Nicol was introduced and briefly spoke of the work accomplished in Norwich by the Salvation Army. He spoke very highly of Commandant and Mrs. E. W. Wilbur who is in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army.

Lion Frank A. Sisk was elected a delegate to the Lions' International convention to be held in Omaha, Neb., beginning June 23rd. Lion George P. Madden was elected alternate delegate. During the meeting poppies were sold by Mrs. W. F. Bogue and Mrs. George Fraser of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The May entertainment committee was discharged with a vote of thanks and the following were appointed to serve for the month of June:

Lions Kopland K. Markoff, Frank O'Neil and Charles Frink. The attendance contest prize awarded Thursday to Lion J. B. Caron was an attractive Art Metal strong-box, donated by Lion Walter Block. Tail-twister Frank Rinella announced that Lion Kopland K. Markoff will be song leader for the next meeting. The session closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

QUANTITY OF FLOWERS FOR MEMORIAL BOUQUETS

Contrary to expectations because of the backward season, an unusual quantity of flowers was brought to the Buckingham Memorial Thursday evening to be made into bouquets for the decorations of the soldiers' graves in the cemeteries of Norwich and vicinity.

The women of Sedgwick Relief Corps were on hand at the Memorial to fashion the flowers into bouquets and by the time they had concluded work for the evening had completed the total of about 800 which are needed for the day.

The work was done under direction of the conference committee of Sedgwick corps, Mrs. Jayne E. Seed, chairman; with the following assisting: Mrs. Lena Pukallus, Mrs. M. Florence Dean, Mrs. Clara P. Burke, Mrs. Grace Manning, Mrs. Gertrude Tootill, Mrs. Emily Irish, Mrs. Florence Bliven, Mrs. Jennie Newbury, Mrs. Nellie Bailey, Mrs. Elizabeth Risley, Miss Virginia Disque, Miss Florence Seed and Miss Gladys Newbury. Adjutant John Irish of Sedgwick post assisted in the work also.

HOPE FOR GOOD WEATHER FOR MEMORIAL DAY

On Friday night, the members of the Grand Army and of patriotic organizations that will assist them in the observance of Memorial day were anxiously scanning the sky and hoping for a fine day for the parade and the exercises at the Chelsea Parade that will comprise the celebration of the day.

The parade will start from the Buckingham Memorial at 10.02, daylight time, and follow the line of march that has already been announced.

DECORATED GRAVES OF WORLD WAR SOLDIERS

American Legion markers with a flag and large red poppies were placed Thursday on over 50 of the graves of World war soldiers in the cemeteries of Norwich. The work was done by a committee of Robert O. Fletcher post.

Hill Top Casino Opened Season

Hill Top Casino opened Wednesday night for the season with an attendance of 450 people. Music was furnished by Thumm's augmented orchestra of seven pieces. A number of novelty dances were introduced and the evening proved a very enjoyable one for the large crowd.

The casino is one of the best and most popular dance halls in this section. The hall has been renovated and redecorated for the coming season.

Parish Hope Chest on View

The hope chest for St. Patrick's parish, assembled under direction of Rev. Father Guerriero, is attracting attention in one of the display windows of Hourigan Bros.' store, on Main street. The fine chest holding the collection of elegant handwork was donated by the Hourigan firm.

HOLD WESTERLY MEN ON ROBBERY SUSPICION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, May 29.—When the full stories are all told, Kenneth Whitford, 18, son of Allen C. Whitford of 14 Park avenue, detained by the Westerly police, and Lester Strong, 19, son of Erastus L. Strong of 35 Highland avenue, taken in by Patrolman Michael Curtin on Wednesday, the mystery of numerous house robberies and thefts will probably be cleared up to a certain extent. It is thought that the youths are not alone in these escapades which are said to have included the taking of an automobile on several occasions without the owners' consent and subsequent trips to Providence and other places. A watch valued at $100 is reported to have been located and returned to its owner after having been missing for some time. Efforts of the Westerly police force are being directed to obtain as complete knowledge as possible of these various depredations before determining the course to be pursued.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR PASTOR'S WIFE'S BIRTHDAY

Mrs. H. Hunzinger, wife of Rev. H. Hunzinger, pastor of the German Lutheran church, Franklin street was given a surprise party Wednesday evening by the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the church. The party was in honor of Mrs. Hunzinger's birthday and there were 53 present. The occasion also marked the completion of one year's service by Rev. Mr. Hunzinger as pastor of the local church.

Mrs. Hunzinger was presented a purse of money and other valuable gifts while Rev. Mr. Hunzinger was presented an anniversary cake with one large candle. The gifts were presented in behalf of the society by Mrs. Frank Decker, president of the society.

During the evening vocal and instrumental selections were heard and games were played. At ten o'clock the hostess served supper for the guests.

REMARKABLE WISTARIA AT GEN. AIKEN'S HOME

Almost remarkable slight, during this exceptional season, is the purple wistaria at the residence of Gen. and Mrs. William A. Aiken, on Washington street. This vine, which was planted at the side piazza has grown so amazingly that it extends along the south of the house on the two piazzas and the roll and post now is a mass of spinitz, purple clusters.

The main vine is so large and of such strength that where it originally twined about one of the piazza pillars it warped the post out of plumb, so that a new pillar had to be substituted. Against the gray of the house, and in contrast this week with white and purple lilacs and pink dogwood in the grounds so beautifully kept, as for the past 17 years, by the gardener, Carl Steinke, the wistaria is a sight which hundreds pause to admire, day by day.

TWO ARRESTS MADE IN RAIDS FOR LIQUOR

A squad of three officers, Sergt. Thomas Murphy, Officer John Dombroske, and Constable Lucius Fenton, raided the place on Merchants avenue, Taftville, conducted by Hormisdas Germaine Thursday night. They secured evidence of a liquor sale and Mr. Germaine was arrested on a charge of violation of the liquor law. He was released on bonds of $1,000 for appearance in the city court to answer the charge.

The officers also raided the place on North Main street conducted by Louis Mether. One bottle containing what is alleged to be liquor was seized and evidence of a sale secured. Mr. Mether was arrested on a liquor law violation charge. At an early hour this (Friday) morning he was endeavoring to secure a bondsman. He will be presented in the city court.

ASCENSION SERVICE AT GRACE CHURCH, YANTIC

At the Ascension Day service at Grace church, Yantic, Thursday morning at 6 o'clock the Woman's Auxiliary were present and gave their thank offering at the service.

On Friday morning at 9 o'clock a short memorial service will be held at Grace church.

Miss Louise Fuller will preside at the organ and poppies will be for sale in the vestibule of the church. The service will be held at this hour to enable those attending an opportunity to attend the parade which is to be held in the city at a later hour. The flag will fly from the church tower at half staff and the bells will be muffled for the occasion. It is hoped a large number of people recognizing what the day stands for will be in attendance.

Visited Ex-Service Patients

For the Knights of Columbus' welfare department, during Thursday afternoon, Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero and John P. Corcoran visited the 65 ex-service men at Norwich state hospital, taking down supplies of candy, gum, cigarette, magazines, paper, etc. The car of Charles C. McNamara was donated for the trip down.

STANDING ROOM HOUSE GREETS LORETTA HIGGINS

A sold-out house in which there was standing room only Thursday night, gave round after round of applause to Miss Loretta Higgins of this city and Miss Hazel Hurd of Montana, when they opened their three-day appearance at the Broadway theater in vaudeville in a particularly clever and tuneful musical act under the title of Two Girls and a Piano.

With soprano voices that blended splendidly for duets and were admirable in solo work, a winning stage presence and well chosen selections they won their audience from the first number which was The Blue Lagoon, a duet that was given in fine harmony with orchestra accompaniment. Miss Hurd followed with an operatic number, The Flower Song from Faust, given with appealing artistry, for which Miss Higgins played the accompaniment. The rich mezzo-soprano of Miss Higgins was heard in a finished production of two solo numbers, Kerry Dance and Roses of Picardy, with accompaniment by Miss Hurd. Their act was concluded with a tuneful medley of popular airs sung with verve and spirit that made this a most attractive number and brought them back to bow to repeated curtain calls.

Their appearance on the fine bill of vaudeville which the theater management is presenting promises crowded houses for the rest of the week.

CONTINUE COMPETITION TO NAME NORWICH SANATORIUM

When the state tuberculosis commission decided that future residents in the five state sanatoria should have their first approach through pleasant sounding names, they, as custodians of the institutions, took a novel step which has already resulted in the selection of permanent titles for the Hartford and Shelton sanatoria, which has caused several hundred school children of the state to write essays on tuberculosis and health and submit proposed names for the institutions, and which has caused general comment throughout Connecticut.

In naming the picturesque sanatorium at Niantic, The Seaside, the commission made a beginning. Recently they determined to give similar titles of good cheer to the other institutions. While they realized that Meriden sanatorium from its beginning has been euphemistically known as Undercliff, they did not call for a name to supplant this title, but announced that prizes of ten dollars each would be given to school children who suggested a name which pleased the commission for the Shelton, Norwich and Hartford sanatoria.

Most of the proposed names were for the Shelton sanatorium, probably because of its proximity to the large cities of New Haven, Bridgeport, Derby and Ansonia. The commission decided to adopt the name Laurel Heights, which was suggested by Carl Shilkowsky, nine years old pupil of the fourth grade of Ferry school, Shelton, who resides at 212 Division avenue. Here is the letter written by the tot who has named for all time the institution which carried some 200 beds constantly filled with patients who are being cured of the white plague: "I thought Laurel Heights would be a good name because mountain laurel is Connecticut's native flower and there is lots of it growing in the Shelton woods along the road to the sanatorium."

In naming the Shelton sanatorium "Hopewell" a twelve year old boy of New Haven, and a former patient at the Meriden sanatorium, wrote: "I think 'Hopewell' would be a good name for a sanatorium first of all because it is an easy name to say, second because it has a pleasant sound, but chiefly because it contains a cheerful message. Sick people are apt to prefer a sanatorium that even in its name gives them a promise of returning good health. Then too, it is a good advertisement. When people read in the newspaper about what Connecticut is doing for tuberculosis at "Hopewell," they will think they must be getting good results there, or they wouldn't dare call it by such a promising name. I was at Undercliff sanatorium when I was a baby. I was cured in nine months. The doctor who sent me hoped I would get well, which I did, and so I think "Hopewell" is a good name."

"Cedar Crest", the attractive name of the Hartford sanatorium was suggested by Miss Marjorie Hale, 11 years old, and of 1650 Broad street Hartford and received the prize. Miss Hale is a pupil in the outdoor school and she is therefore taking the fresh air and nutritional treatment. Also in the suggestive names for the three sanatoria, I think "Restawhile" for Newington, "Cedar Crest" for the Hartford sanatorium on Cedar mountain and "Sunnyside Lodge" for Shelton, would be desirable names". Miss Hale's crisp suggestions were seriously considered for all three of the sanatoria, and one taken as the permanent title for one of the largest institutions for treating tuberculosis in New England.

The commission has decided to continue the competition for a permanent name for the Norwich sanatorium, and to date Actually thirty-two suggestions for name have been received.

STATE SPENDS $46,000,000 ON HIGHWAYS IN 28 YEARS

A total of $46,000,000 exclusive of overhead, was spent on highways in Connecticut from 1895 when the state highway department was organized until July 1, 1923, according to the report of the department for the fiscal period ending on that date, which has just been submitted to the governor. The report is the last written by former Commissioner Charles J. Bennett, its delay being caused by the change in administration.

Increasingly heavy traffic and the inability of the state to construct much new work or replace as many worn out roads as the largely increasing demand of the traveling public would permit marked the period covered by the report, former Commissioner Bennett points out. Practically 15 per cent. of the total number of miles of road in the state had been improved the report shows.

At the date of the report, 1,114 miles of trunk line system had been improved. "It goes without saying," the report says, "that until the connecting links are finished, the demand for super-road activity will not cease." Of the side or feeder roads, known as the state aid system, 68.51 miles had been completed.

The report covers in detail the new construction, reconstruction, repair and maintenance of highways and bridges, and outlines the manner in which monies allotted for road improvements through motor vehicle department receipts has been spent.

The total gross expenditures of the department from June 30, 1922 to June 30, 1923, were $6,912,856.15. The refunds from all sources for the same period amounted to $1,223,201.71, making a total net expenditure for the year of $5,619,654.44. The net income from automobile fees for the corresponding terms was $4,227,767.23.

During the year, 81.69 miles were built, which brings the total net mileage of state highways, including both state aid and trunk line to $1,780.55. The department reconstructed 25.37 miles during the period.

Expenditures for actual work of the department are made under three heads. First, construction of highways, second, reconstruction and maintenance of highways third, maintenance, repair and reconstruction of existing bridges. The amounts spent during the period covered by the report on the state roads and bridges was as follows:

Construction of all new roads	$1,960,741.24
Maintenance and construction of bridges	350,338.57
Reconstruction or repairs	2,002,622.12
Ordinary repairs and equipment	1,755,062.07
Overhead expenditures which include cost of office and engineering totalled $224,141.57.

The report shows that a total of $2,294,332.39 was received from the federal government for aid in building highways from 1917 to June 30, 1923.

The fact that $1,09[illegible]6 is yet to be allotted to Connecticut this year by the U. S. government is noted, also. The following table shows the amounts allotted to Connecticut by congress since 1917:

FAST BOXING BOUTS SCHEDULED AT DANIELSON SATURDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, May 29.—Along with the big parade and institution of a "Voiture" that the American legion has planned for this town Saturday evening there will be a series of boxing bouts at the Casino arena, of which Frank Barber is promoter.

Sensing the importance of the occasion, Promoter Barber has arranged a fine card of bouts, and if they all go the limit, the fans will see a total of 32 rounds of fast milling.

In the star bout Jimmy Wilde of Boston will meet Kid Boston of Fall River. The boys are scheduled to go 12 rounds, at 128 pounds. These boys have fought at the Arena in Boston and thrilled the fans there with the whirlwind exhibition they gave. A sharp division of opinion resulting as to who was the winner.

Each has an impressive record. Wilde has K. O.'d such boys as Barney McAtee in five rounds; Andy Martin in seven rounds, Young Leonard in three rounds, Johnny Thomas in two rounds, Frankie Ketchell in six rounds, Patsy Kline in two rounds, Young Gorman in four rounds and has won from Bud Dempsey and Charley Baxter in eight rounds in each instance.

Among Kid Boston's best bouts were those in which he won from Young Mack in 10 rounds, from Henry Ford in 10 rounds, from Tony Thomas in 10 rounds, from Bud Dempsey in eight rounds, from K. O. Brown in 10 rounds and got draws with Tommy Nee and Young Falvey, each in 10 rounds. He is matched to meet Larry Goldberg at New Bedford on June 6. He is a great two-handed mixer and always a fast performer.

In the semi-finals Paul Dexter will go against Bobby Valger of Fall River in an eight round match. Here is a pair that never stop until the bell rings, if they are on their feet. They have fought some of the best boys of their class in New England and are really main bout performers.

Another worthwhile match is that planned between Young Sennar, a Filipino, and Young Robideau of Putnam. They are matched to meet at 133 pounds and to go six rounds. Sennar is a terror and is always boring in. Robideau is of the same type—and that means action.

In the other preliminary Kid McCoy of New Bedford is matched for six rounds at 122 pounds with Young Baker of Sterling. This should make a good match, as both are real action boxers.

With his usual open-handedness Promoter Barber has made known that he will give a portion of the proceeds of these bouts to the American legion post in Danielson.

RIVERVIEW MEETS THE CORBIN RED SOX TODAY

The Riverview club will meet the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain today (Friday) on the Hospital grounds at 4:45 p. m. (daylight saving time). The club will be one of the strongest opponents that the Riverview team will be obliged to encounter this season and are invading Norwich fresh from victories over Meriden (State league entrant), also the fast Norwalk K. of C. Manager Tobin of the Sox will send his men to bat in the following order:

Couillard 1b, Harrold lf, Mills 3b, Moore ss, Burns 2b, Corcoran cf, Belair c, O'Neil rf and Posick p.

SPRINGFIELD HITS TO BEAT HARTFORD, 7 TO 3

Hartford, May 29. — Springfield hit hard and defeated Hartford today, 7 to 3. Braxton held Hartford safely after the second inning. Rain fell throughout most of the game. Gehrig was put out of the game in the seventh inning after he had threatened to attack Braxton whom he accused of hitting him purposely with a pitched ball. The score:

Springfield	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	7	—7

Two base hits, Hauk, Neiderkorn Simpson, Post.

BOSTON TAKES THREE OUT OF FOUR WITH PHILLIES

Boston, May 29.—Boston made it three out of four from Philadelphia today, winning 5 to 4. The fielding and batting of Padgett featured the game. Henline of Philadelphia, made a single, double and triple, but also had a passed ball which let in a run. Fletcher was put off the field by Umpire Wilson. McInnis' hand was injured in the second and Gibson replaced him at first. In the ninth inning Padgett was knocked out by Wrightstone who was rounding third. The score.

TIGERS TRIM ST. LOUIS IN HARD HITTING GAME

Detroit, May 29.—Detroit defeated St. Louis here today, 23 to 7, in the only game played in the American league. The contest, played in unusually cold weather and under leaden skies, stretched over two hours and forty minutes. St. Louis used five pitchers who gave a total of 12 bases on balls, but one batsman made one wild pitch and one balk. The score.

MAY MATCH GENE TUNNEY AGAINST JACK RENAULT

New York, May 29. — Promoter James J. Johnston announced today that he had signed Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion for three bouts to be held this summer. Tunney will first meet the winner of the Carpentier-Gibbons fight. Either Jack Renault Canadian heavyweight, or Harry Willis, will be his second opponent. If he succeeds in winning these bouts Tunney will be matched with Jack Dempsey, Johnston said.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Fordham, New York Giants

Eighth inning. Score 2-2. Runner on second. None out. Instead of bunting, batsman hits a long foul fly to left field.

Should the outfielder catch the ball if he has any chance of catching runner coming from second to third?

It is a good policy for the left-fielder to let the ball go in a case of this kind if the batter has only one strike, for his next attempt is almost certain to be a bunt and the infielders would then have an opportunity to catch the runner at third base.

J. B. MARTIN WILL MEET ROSSIE VELVET SUNDAY

On Sunday afternoon the J. B. Martin nine will cavort for their second attraction the fast Rossie Velvet A. A. of Mystic. This club which played under the name of the Mystic Independents last season defeated the Martin team on the local grounds, and with a considerable amount of strength added this year, feel confident to hand the local boys a defeat. They will line up as follows: Marchand will do the backstop work, Chappel, formerly of New London Independents will do the pitching. Wilson will play first, while Jack Murphy who played several seasons with Taftville A. A. will cover the keystone sack. C. Wilhelm will play third, and Walsh short, Tedford, O. Wilhelm and Barnaslough will roam the outfield.

The J. B. Martin will use the same lineup which defeated Ashland last week: Eccleston and Morin will do the battery work, Joubert will play first, Cardle covers second with F. Grey at third and Decelles at short, Bill Grey, E. Murphy, Jim Murphy and E. Joubert will play the outfield.

Yankees to Play Rosedales.

This (Friday) morning, the Norwich Yankees will clash with the Greeneville Rosedales at the Academy campus, instead of the Mohegan park diamond as was announced. A fast game is looked for as both teams are evenly matched.

NORTH HIGH OF WORCESTER AGAINST N. F. A. TODAY

The Norwich Free academy has two hard games ahead of them this week, both of them being with teams that will make the local team travel at a fast pace to win. Today, Memorial day, at 3 o'clock, the North High school of Worcester will be the opponent at the Academy campus and on Saturday, Bulkeley High, state champions, will be the opposing team.

Tuesday the Academy boys showed that they were back in the old time stride when they took the measure of the Connecticut Agricultural college freshmen, beating them by a score of 6 to 4. Since that time Coach Brigham has put his men through stiff practice and they are on edge for the coming contests.

As the game against Bulkeley requires the best the Academy has got, Segal will be saved for that game and Coach Brigham will send Steinman or Healy onto the mound today. Steinman has been going strong and the college men found him hard to hit Tuesday.

The rest of the team is set for the game today and the local team expects to show the fans some real baseball that will indicate what can be expected of them against Bulkeley on Saturday.

With Steinman on the mound Mileski will do backstop duty and base runners will need to watch their step, Burke on first, Tomberi at second, Cimikowski at third and Busch at short completes an infield that has been showing up fine in recent games. McNamara in right, Hollander in center and Hinricks in left will cover the ground in the field and it will take a good man to hit safely by them. Davis is to umpire and call the game at 3 o'clock sharp.

CORBIN RED SOX PLAY TAFTVILLE ON SATURDAY

Taftville tackles a hard week end ball when it faces the fast Corbin Red Sox of New Britain at the Providence street grounds Saturday and goes to Webster, Mass., Sunday.

After beating Bronkie's All Stars Taftville expects to clean up on both games but plenty of action is anticipated.

Taftville will use Dugas or Donais in right, Ed Murphy in center and Goudette in left field. Chip Dugas takes care of third, Nap Liberty short, Bus Murphy second and Joubert takes first. Davis will do mound duty and Liberty the backstop work on Saturday.

Manager Tobin of the Corbins has announced his lineup as follows:

Corbin cf, Fitzpatrick 3b, Snyder lf, Huber rf, Patrus 2b, Preisser ss, Blanchard 1b, Boom c, Wolf or Hein p.

The game will start at 3:30 o'clock sharp.

WORCESTER EASILY DEFEATS PITTSFIELD

Worcester, Mass., May 29.—Pittsfield was easy today, Worcester winning, 15 to 1. The third inning saw great execution. Five hits, two men hit by Johnson, a base on balls by the same twirler and one by Shields who relieved him, and a muff by Lavallee with the bags filled gave Worcester nine runs in that inning. Worcester hit hard. Roser led with a triple, and home run, the latter over the right field fence. Herman played a remarkable game at third. The score:

Pittsfield	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	—1
Worcester	2	0	0	0	0	0	2	x		—15

Two base hit, Goldsmith; three base hits, Roser, Lefler, home run, Roser.

CALL OFF CHAPMAN TECH AND MORGAN HIGH GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 29.—The scheduled contest between Chapman Technical High and Morgan High of Clinton at Morgan park was called off by the Morgan High management, late this morning stating that a condition in dates of the Morgan High schedule made it impossible for the team from Clinton to travel to the Whaling City and oppose the Red and Black as scheduled.

BAN MAY BE LIFTED ON QUEENSBORO STADIUM

New York, May 29.—Rumor current in fight circles today that the fire department's ban on the Queensboro stadium in Long Island City would be lifted to enable the promoters to stage the Wills-Madden bout, weight for next week, was substantiated to some extent late today by George E. Brower, chairman of the state athletic commission.

BUCKLEY WILL PLAY BRIDGEPORT HIGH TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 29.—The Bulkeley baseball team had its first real workout of the week this afternoon at Morgan park in preparation for its contest with the fast Bridgeport High nine, at New London as a special Memorial day attraction. The inclemency of the weather and unforseen accidents caused the calling off of practice for two days this week.

TWENTY-TWO CARS ENTER 500-MILE SWEEPSTAKES

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—(By The A. P.)—Twenty-two little speedsters, almost as tiny as toy automobiles, but capable of marvelous speed, today received the careful caresses of the pilots who will guide them in the twelfth annual 500-mile sweepstakes at the Indianapolis speedway tomorrow.

URUGUAY SOCCER TEAM ELIMINATES UNITED STATES IN OLYMPIC GAMES

Paris, May 29.—(By The A. P.)—Uruguay today qualified for the quarter finals in the Olympic soccer football competition by defeating the United States, three goals to nothing, in a match the result of which depended upon the difference in goals between the two teams.

In a duel between North American and South American football supremacy of the world, the former was outplayed, outgeneralled, outrun, outscored—in short was worsted in everything but courage.

The other teams which qualified today were Sweden which electrified the Olympic football world by defeating Belgium, one of the prime favorites in the tournament, eight to one, Egypt which proved another great surprise by scoring a thumping victory over Italy which took from Luxemboug two to nothing. Thus the day furnished two big surprises and two favorites, Uruguay and Italy, won.

Fine passing, wonderful speed and greater knowledge of the technique of the game won the Uruguayans victory over the strength and physical strength of the North American players. The entire South American line played such football as has rarely been seen in Europe and as has seldom been seen equalled in England's best professional teams.

The match again served to show that one thing is certain — French crowds do not like United States players in sports. The Uruguayans were the pets of the largest attendance, 20,000 persons, which has ever gathered in the pretty little Colombes stadium on the Seine. Cheers greeted every clearance and checking by the hooking Back. The fair but somewhat North American were hissed and booed by the crowds which overlooked similar tactics by the opposing teams.

For the United States F. E. O'Connor of Lynn, Mass., left back, played an excellent defensive game while A. G. Shaddam of Philadelphia, the best man in the line was well supported by his mates who were too slow.

Uruguayan superiority was unquestioned excepting for goalkeeping where J. Douglas of Kearny N. J. gave an exhibition surpassing anything which has been seen since the tournament began. He played a brave game and showed initiative in judging when to run out and when to remain at goal, thereby saving countless scores.

During the second period the Uruguayans played well within themselves, mindful of their future matches. They showed great sporting spirit even when they had the match safely won, refused to kick outside when their goal was threatened or to play for time.

Manager Tobin said after the game, "We were defeated by a team which today was superior in every way today we became we are seeking any excuses but because I am sure they have been, times when our team could have won." Captain Nasazzi of the Uruguayans complimented the courageous showing of his opponents especially since they were without the services of two of their best men, Rudd and Brix. He said he did not believe the presence of these two men in the lineup would have made any difference but that he would have preferred to have beaten the North Americans when they were playing a full fledged team.

The following matches will be played in the quarter finals: France-Uruguay at the Colombes stadium and Egypt-Sweden at the Pershing stadium Sunday. Jewish-Holland at the Paris stadium Monday, and Italy against the winner of the Czechoslovak Swiss tie tomorrow at the Bergere stadium Sunday.

VILLA-ASH FIGHT TAKES PLACE TONIGHT

New York, May 29.—Supreme Court Justice Benedict in Brooklyn today vacated the temporary injunction issued on Monday to restrain the Nostrand A. C. from holding the Pancho Villa-Frankie Ash flyweight title bout in the club's outdoor arena. The promoters announced that the fight would be held tomorrow night.

A Challenge.

The School Street Potatoes would like to play the Washington Street Eagles Saturday, May 31st, or any diamond they wish. Answer through The Bulletin.

HOW NEW ENGLAND FARMER CAN BE INDEPENDENT

(Written Specially for the Bulletin.)

I don't know how much truth there was in the story of the Hoyt brothers which is to come from Wil-

Briefly, this story is that the two brothers, Gardner and Wilbur Hoyt, almost 80 years old, live in an old colonial farmhouse in Wilton in almost absolute independence of wage and market profiteers as their colonial ancestors of 1754. In other works, they live almost wholly upon the produce of their farm and their own ingenuity.

Practically the only concession they make to the modern factory system is in buying factory-woven cloth. If put to it, they doubtless could and would weave their own cloth. They do make their own clothing. They also make their own gloves or mittens and caps and socks, knitting them evenings and at odd minutes.

They also make their own boots and shoes from leather of their own tanning, taken from cattle of their own raising.

"Robinson Crusoe" once soberly set down the reflection, based on his own island experience, that a man of ordinary capacity and reasonable industry could, if driven to it by necessity, become the master of any mechanic trade. Thus, he, who knew nothing whatever of tools before his shipwreck, eventually made of himself a tolerable tailor, hat-maker, shoe-maker, carpenter, umbrella-maker, boat-builder, potter and farmer.

According to the newspaper story, the Hoyt brothers have corroborated and demonstrated the truth of this.

They are good enough farmers and tailors and shoe-makers and tanners and butchers and cooks and basket-makers, etc. All their needs along these and some other lines their own industry supplies from the products of their farm.

Their cows furnish them with milk, cream, butter and cheese; the calves with semi-annual supplies of veal. For the remainer of the meat ration they depend on pigs, chickens and eggs.

They corn their own beef; smoke hams and bacon from their own hogs over green hickory twigs; put down eggs for the eggless months during April and May; raise enough broom-corn to make their own brooms, and enough tobacco to keep their own pipes fragrant. They could make their own candles, but find it cheaper to sell the tallow and buy kerosene.

According to the reporter who claims to have visited them, their old colonial farm house is "well-kept and tidy" and their front yard is, in season, [illegible] with perennial flowers.

They are not cranks nor misers, but well-housed, comfortably clothed, well-informed and widely read. Says the reporter: "They take a daily and a weekly newspaper, they read substantial books and discuss current questions with clearness and sense. For pastime, they go fishing."

Their usual occupation in the long winter evenings is to sit before the roaring fire fed with logs from their own woods, and, while one weaves baskets from white oak or white ash splints, the other reads, first the news of the day, then from some worthwhile book. As these baskets are honestly made, out of selected material, intelligently prepared and woven, it goes without saying that they not only last well in farm use, but find a ready sale to such as appreciate the difference between handwork and factory product.

Only twice in their lives have they visited New York city. And, as the last trip was more than 30 years ago, they doubtless feel that these lanses from serene vanity ought to be forgiven them under the statute of limitations.

One observant reporter closes by saying that, if lack of contact with newspapers and subways and express elevators and morgues and jostling mobs [illegible] of depression on Brothers Hoyt, [illegible] part of it in manner or speech.

I've always liked to read Robinson Crusoe. That story of a man fresh from the civilization of Europe who was always ready to do things for himself—for a consideration,—who found himself suddenly compelled to do even single blessed little thing for himself, and learn how to do it, first, this has always had a fascination for me.

I've always had more admiration for active-brained and two-handed people who go at difficulties as they go at a wood-pile, and work their way through the show and somehow [illegible] than for the cultured and [illegible] who have [illegible] from tumbling down.

This tale of the Hoyt brothers is [illegible] as good as a new Robinson Crusoe. I don't know, and I'm not going to Wilton to find out whether it is true or not. What with rain every day, and [illegible] every morning, I've [illegible] to saving a little [illegible] nature's too stepmotherly [illegible].

Then, too, that Robinson Crusoe was largely fiction. Perhaps this last tale, which I've been boiling down for you, may be likewise fiction. This matters little. The Italian saying has it: 'Si non vero, ben trovata,' which means, in idiomatic English, "If it's not true it ought to be."

But there is need of some equally striking demonstration to be put before the eyes of the too dependent New England farmer, showing him how he can, when need arises, declare his independence once more.

Too many of us have absorbed the idea that, when Hancock and Franklin and Jefferson and the other "signers" issued their world famous Declaration of Independence from Philadelphia, some century and a half ago, the job was done once for all.

Never was a sorrier or more dangerous mistake.

There must be new declarations of independence every time changing conditions bring us to the verge of too abject dependence on outside bolstering. There must not only be new declarations of independence, but also new Bunker Hills and new Crossings of the Delaware,—aye, and new Valley Forges, too, to maintain and make effective such declarations.

If we farmers are going to stand on our own legs, we must have legs fit to stand on; good, sturdy, brawn-thewed [illegible] as will never develop from feeding on government pap or leaning on factory-made crutches.

I certainly don't want to have to knit my own socks or make my own shoes. But if the cost of shoes and stockings, driven upward by the impositions of greedy profiteers and equally greedy "labor" should reach such a point that I must either go barefoot through the snow or make my own, for example, crickets, I'd make my own.

Same as Robinson Crusoe and the Hoyt Brothers are said to have done. Why not?

It actually makes me laugh, this minute, as I picture to myself what the first pair of shoes I might attempt to construct would look like. I can regard with some affectionate admiration the mental photograph of the fifth or sixth pair, after I had learned some of the tricks of the awl and some of the whims of the leather. They might not pass muster on Fifth avenue. But I'll bet they would keep the toes warm and dry.

One trouble with us New England farmers is that we're leaning too heavily on the shop and the factory and the feed-store. I know of one dairyman who frankly admits that the feed he buys for his milk cows costs him more than their milk sells for. He has "kept tab" and knows whereof he speaks. There are a good many who haven't "kept tab" who are just as badly off, if they only knew it.

I know of no professedly farm paper which is in closer sympathy with real farm conditions than The Rural New Yorker. This fact gives emphasis to its recent editorial on changes in eastern farming conditions. May I quote a paragraph?

'We think, too, that eastern farmers have got to learn to produce more of their own food and supplies. Of course we know this is against the popular theory, but most of us have gone too far in the matter of buying cash feed. Too much of our own food and the feed for our live stock. Some of us at least are living too much on the shop and the store. We can produce, either individually or co-operatively, 80 per cent of the necessities we now pay cash for. We cannot go on much longer at the present rate. We have got to save at least a part of this outgo by doing it ourselves."

Even the Hoyt Brothers, who pro-duce, individually, a good deal more than eighty per cent of their needs, don't seem to have degenerated into mere drudges. They have time to keep their house tidy, their front yard flowery, their farm and garden productive. They even have time for making things to sell, for informative and educational reading, and for occasional fishing trips.

Personally, I should not prefer to live as they do. But if the [illegible] drawn of them is anywhere near to life, they are not such soulless [illegible] and [illegible] despised drudges as the farmer who works from sun-up to dark merely in order to [illegible] and [illegible] wages and [illegible] payments. They are, at least, living on the fruits of their own labors, and [illegible] are not [illegible] sense [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible].

"Needs must when the devil drives." The devil of greed is abroad in the land. His cohorts are organized as "labor." Just as present farmers are the easiest and most available victims. His locusts swarm over our fields, and his locusts snare and devour. Meanwhile, we [illegible] of us stand as if helpless and [illegible] as devastation we are too nerveless to stay or avoid.

Yet the remedy is always in our own hands,—not in that of either federal or state government.

It may not be an agreeable remedy to take. It may, indeed, be a very difficult one for many of us to swallow. Some may think,—they act as if they did,—that the remedy would be worse than the disease. In that case they have their free choice. If they prefer [illegible] rich to sulphur ointment, there is nothing to prevent them from itching and scratching to their hearts' content.

The point is that they don't have to. They can issue their own declaration of independence any minute when they choose. It may involve a good deal of sacrifice. It may necessitate an extra lot of hard work. It may require an unusual amount of forethought and planning ahead. It may result in some deprivation.

The question is whether liberty is worth the eternal vigilance which is its fixed price; whether a triumph at Newtown is worth a winter at Valley Forge; whether independence and Prince Wolf-bong are worth the struggle they inevitably cost.

And our answers to those questions will depend very largely on another question, to wit, namely, that is to say . . .

Are we men or mice?

OIL STOVE

Now You Can Get The New Type Sanitary Red Star Oil Stove On These Wonderful Terms

HERE IS OUR OFFER:

$5 DOWN

BALANCE IN EASY PAYMENTS

The new type, sanitary Red Star Oil Stove is like NO OTHER oil stove in the world.

Thousands of enthusiastic women already know this; but we want EVERY woman to know it. We want every woman to know why the Red Star is so different from other stoves; why it cooks as fast as gas, but uses oil for fuel.

The best way we can have every woman know this is to have them actually see a Red Star stove in operation.

Two things especially delight the women who see it. One is the unusual beauty of the stove with its smooth flowing stream lines combined with the sanitary white porcelain and black enamel finish. The other is the absense of wicks or wick substitutes.

Beginning Saturday, May 31st and continue during the week following, we will have an actual demonstration of this wonderful oil stove at our store. We invite you to come. See how the patented burner vaporizes kerosene. See how wicks or wick substitutes have been abolished. See how two blue rings of clean, odorless flame are forced right against the bottom of the utensil—where the heat belongs. See how you regulate the flame just like a gas stove.

During demonstration week you can get one of these modern oil stoves on special terms arranged just for this event. We have just the model you need at a price to fit your pocketbook.

THE PORTEOUS & MITCHELL COMPANY

CAPTURED YACHT, RUM-LADEN, TAKEN TO NEW YORK FROM NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 29.—Yacht Theodora, owned in Greenport, seized in the race last night with a cargo of whiskey, and brought into port together with the cargo and crew, by the New York patrol boat Liberty, was taken to New York this morning when the yacht, crew and liquor cleared from the harbor. The master of the Theodora, is George Matthews and his crew declared themselves to be Walter Ferguson, Joseph Sprague and John E. Lievis, and all asserted that they resided in Greenport, but their identity and addresses are believed to be fictitious by the federal authorities. The capture of the Theodora is the third time that the boat has been seized in the traffic of rum.

The capture was made when the Liberty, with Customs Inspector P. J. Sullivan, of the New York district in charge, was cruising through the race in an endeavor to apprehend some of the rum-running craft that were known to have been lurking for several days in the vicinity of "Rum Row" where several liquor laden ships have been supplying smaller craft. When the Theodora was sighted a short distance west of New London harbor and headed westerly, the Liberty headed off the Long Island craft and a crew from the enforcement boat was sent aboard the suspected craft. A search of the Theodora revealed 500 cases of Sandy McDonald Scotch whiskey and Atherton rye whiskey, of the approximate value of $2500.

Karl Paul Topasch, a patient at Norwich State hospital, made his escape this forenoon and came to New London. This afternoon he was observed by Patrolman Clarence Wells near the corner of State and North Bank streets apparently in a weakened mental condition. The officer took Topasch to the police station where he was held until the arrival of an attendant from the hospital, who took him back to the institution.

The body of Frederick Reaves, who was found dead of gas asphyxiation at his lodging house, 29 Moore court yesterday morning, will be forwarded to Reaves' former home in Wilmington, N. C., tomorrow. The authorities are satisfied Reaves came to his death as a result of the inhalation of the gas fumes to enter the rooms the carelessness of Reaves, who left the corks turned on, allowing the fumes fumes to enter the rooms. Reaves is known to have been indulging in drink during the evening, but there is nothing that would tend to indicate foul play as having brought about the man's death.

The condition of William Allred, West Cliff street, who was found in a barn in the rear of lower Bank street yesterday afternoon suffering from alcohol poisoning, is reported as considerably improved today at Lawrence hospital, although when admitted to the institution he was in a semi-conscious condition and it was not known whether he would recover. The police have not made any attempt to ascertain where Allred obtained his supply of poison liquor.

Mrs. Donald Strachan and infant son of Niantic, Thomas Oldroyd, Sherman street, Mrs. Walter Griffin and infant son, Fishers Island, Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Ashaway, R. I., Mrs. Nathaniel Avery and infant son, [illegible] place and Miss Arlene Lipton, Huntington street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. Catherine Murphy Casey, of 22 Ashcraft road, died last night at Lawrence hospital, following a sudden attack resulting from a complication of diseases. She was the widow of James Casey, a former member of the New London police force and is survived by three sons, William, James and Marion Murphy, of New London; two sisters, Mrs. Michael O'Donohue, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Miss Margaret Murphy, of New London. A brother, James Murphy, of New York, also survives. Mrs. Casey yesterday forenoon suffered a collapse and was removed to the institution, where she lingered until last night.

Paul Manoves and Peter Johns have sold the dwelling house at 89 Squire street to Morris Itzcowitz and Ethel Greenblatt.

City Manager William A. Holt has written a congratulatory letter to Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney in relation to the recent apprehension of a trio of automobile trucks containing 500 five-gallon cans of alcohol by members of the department.

Louis Schwartz, 71 Squire street, parked his automobile on Meridian street, last evening and when he returned to the car to go to his home he discovered that his motor meter had been stolen. Because of traffic conditions on Meridian street and because of numerous thefts from automobiles, a police officer has been stationed there throughout the night, but in spite of the vigil of the police, thefts [illegible]

Roland D. Whitmer, 4 Harlow street, Worcester, Mass., who has been in the city several days selling road maps, appeared at the Y. M. C. A. last night, and because of his peculiar actions and his refusal to reveal his identity, the police were summoned. Sergeant Patrick Murphy took Whitmer to the police station and there he made known his home address. Whitmer was attended by a physician and then was allowed to go to the association and remain over night. This morning Whitmer's father, Benjamin F. Whitmer came here and took charge of the young man.

Tommy Murphy, a young man residing over to the eastward of Winthrop's cove bridge, while partly under the influence of liquor last night got into Meridian street alongside the Mohican hotel and seeing his opportunity, stole a couple of overcoats and several caps belonging to musicians playing for a dance in the hotel. The musicians when they began their engagement left their garments in a window that was open and there Murphy found them and took them away. He was in the company of Charles Brax, a Syria. When a complaint was made to the police station the case was turned over to Sergeant Cavanaugh and to Patrolmen William Graham and Thomas Leyden. They started out to fathom the mystery that surrounded the disappearance of the clothes. They soon learned of the presence of Murphy and Brax in the vicinity of the Mohican, so the officers sought them. The task was one that was not concluded till this morning at 6 o'clock, but when the men were arrested they proved to be guilty of the theft. Murphy owned up, but Brax denied that he took the clothes though he could not deny the possession of them, for an overcoat that was stolen was found at his home underneath a bed. Brax evidently depended upon proving his innocence through stupidity. He admitted sharing in the plunder and said he was with Murphy from 10 o'clock in the evening until after 1 o'clock this morning. His excuse for the possession of the coat was that Murphy gave the garment to him, and he said he was not at all surprised that a fellow with whom he did not have an intimate acquaintance should give him a garment that was worth $20 or more. The clothing stolen was the property of Charles Howley and Cornelius D. Heffernan of Thames street, Groton. Each of the accused men was found guilty and fined $50. Murphy's mother came to his aid and paid his fine and costs. Brax was committed to jail.

Louis Pollard, while operating a bicycle yesterday ran down a girl named Unzonki, injuring her somewhat. Pollard was arrested and today in the police court was arraigned for operating a motor vehicle without lights upon it. Pollard's father came to his rescue and arranged to pay the bill of the doctor who attended the Unzonki child and to settle for any other expenses the injuries to the girl occasioned. To allow him to do that the case went over till the 28th of June.

An automobile truck owned by Tait Brothers, and operated by Francis J. Sullivan, 22 Crystal avenue, was [illegible]ped by one of the government's [illegible]ing cars from the submarine base. The truck escaped damage, but the front of the automobile was disfigured. The accident occurred at the approach of the west side of the bridge and while the truck was motionless, the touring car crashing against the rear of the heavier vehicle.

Francis H. Holmes, 461 Williams street, complained to the police this evening because of the acts of boys residing in that neighborhood, who have frequently caused damage to Mr. Holmes' property.

Carl Schellens of Waller court is the guest of relatives in Mystic.

Miss Isabel Autin, employed in the office of City Treasurer Herbert L. Hamilton, is in New York, the guest of relatives over Sunday.

Announcements have been received here of the marriage of Harry Holmes and Miss Ella M. Marvin, both residents of St. Albans, Vt. Mrs. Holmes is a former resident of New London, the daughter of Mrs. Albert Barto of South Main street, St. Albans.

Robert J. Sisk, of Montauk avenue, recently operated upon at Lawrence hospital, is reported as improving rapidly.

Misses Ethel Saunders and Laura Comi and Mrs. Florence Hermans of the clerical force in the offices of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, left this evening for Washington to remain over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Glassman and family of Colman street are spending a few days in New York.

Mrs. Pettigrew, wife of Capt. James D. Pettigrew, master of the City of Lowell, is entertaining Mrs. George A. Arnold of New Haven at the Pettigrew home, Ocean avenue.

A well known member of one of the New London fire companies was taken into custody tonight by Patrolman Braxton Hill when the officer found the fireman rolling about State street intoxicated and in danger of falling through windows of stores. The young man has never been arrested before and it is possible that he will escape penalization in the police court tomorrow morning.

Patrolman Charles Hammond, who returned to duty Tuesday night after a several days' confinement to his home on Blinman street because of illness, is again confined to his residence, having been compelled to leave his post at the corner of State and Bank streets last night. He is under the care of a physician.

Mrs. Charles Starr and infant daughter, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today.

Mrs. Annie O'Neill Flaherty, 58, of Moore avenue, wife of John Flaherty, died at Lawrence hospital today, following an illness of two weeks. Mrs. Flaherty, besides her husband, is survived by four children, John O'Neill of Noank and James, Gertrude and Alice O'Neil of New London. Three brothers, James and Philip Murphy of New London and Dennis Murphy of New York, and two sisters, Miss Catherine Murphy and Miss Margaret McLaughlin of New London, also survive.

Joseph Segal of Hartford has sold a house and lot on the south side of Bentley avenue to Sam Kantrowitz and Moses C. Abuza of New York.

Miss Beth Keeney, assistant city clerk, is spending a few days with friends in Springfield and Hartford.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardwich of Quaker Hill, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine Merrill Hardwick, to Thomas Hamilton Latimer, son of Judge Frederick P. Latimer, of Groton. Mr. Latimer is employed by the Massasoit Manufacturing company, at Oakdale.

Dr. Thomas Soltz is spending a few days in Hartford. He was in attendance yesterday at the clinic of the Connecticut Medical association.

There was a very large attendance at the meeting of Brainerd Masonic lodge this evening when the full form Master Mason degree was worked. From all the southern part of the county members of the order were present. A banquet followed the work.

New London lodge of Elks met this evening with a very large attendance. The date of the meeting was changed because of other attractions next Thursday evening. A elaborate programme had been arranged.

The Winthrop Trust company has added Chester L. Harris, formerly credit man of the Merchants National bank of Boston. He will assume the duties which have been satisfactorily performed by Frank C. Cutler as treasurer, and Mr. Cutler will devote his attention to the duties of secretary of the company. Mr. Harris and Mr. Cutler were for a long time associates in the Boston bank.

There will be one of the most pretentious Memorial Day parades here that New London has known in recent years. The procession will move at 10 o'clock (daylight time) and the column will proceed direct to Cedar Grove cemetery. In the line will be troops from the submarine base, the government ships in the harbor, the Grand Army and the Sons of Veterans. The line is expected to include some 1,500 men. At Cedar Grove, George W. Sisson will deliver an address. Business will be generally suspended that all may participate in the solemn ceremonies attending the honoring of the dead who did service to their country. The task of arranging for the procession, which in years past has been the duty of the Grand Army veterans, is gradually being assumed by the sons of the veterans, a duty that is cheerfully performed.

The Soltz company is in financial difficulties in respect to the payment of its bills. Up to the present time, the Union Bank and Trust company, as well as other banks, have carried along the paper of the company endorsed by friends and other business men, so that with this accommodation the company was able to swing its business.

Recently the Union bank and all the other banks which had been accommodating the Soltz company have refused to honor the company's paper, and a number of the endorsers on its notes. With this source of credit shut off and with their inability to receive sufficient cash to pay current obligations, the company is forced to appeal to all the creditors for some suggestion that will enable the Soltz company to solve its problems.

An inventory of the assets and liabilities of this company shows that the liabilities are far in excess of its assets. The assets consisting principally of real estate, is encumbered by mortgages to savings banks and others, so that there are little assets available to the unsecured creditors.

The Soltz company, if its credit by banks was not suddenly shut off and the company was allowed to continue business, might have struggled along and eventually pay off a good deal of its obligations. Under the present circumstances, it cannot continue.

Accordingly a meeting of all the creditors of the company was held on Thursday for the purpose of considering the situation with a view perhaps to some adjustment that will be deemed best for the creditors. What action was taken was not given out Thursday evening.

MYSTIC

In connection with the observance of Memorial Day, it is recorded that the organization of Williams Post, No. 55, G. A. R., was effected on April 15, 1882, Dr. E. Hicks being Department Commander at that time. Following is a list of the charter members of this post: E. L. Tibbits, C. H. Hiscox, George F. Gabriel, Oliver Batty, Jr., Parmenas Avery, Edwin T. Batty, Patrick Cushing, John H. Godfrey, John G. Packer, John K. Bucklyn, William H. Chapman, Charles H. Hathbun, William J. Poole, A. E. Slack, James H. Alexander, Amos Clift, J. A. Rathbun, D. Craddock, C. H. Rowe, J. W. Fitch, A. Eldredge and C. E. Reynolds. The only charter member now living here is John H. Godfrey, but Charles Hiscox who is not now a member of the post is living in California. Since its organization there have been 123 members on the roll and of this number the following are living: Frank Cleveland, Hartford; Fladius Cheney, Orleans, Mass.; Benjamin Bailey, New London; John Russell, New Haven; James Turner, Norwich; Solomon D. Grimes, Roxbury, Mass.; J. W. Lake, Florida; George W. Rumbles, Noroton; ex-member Charles Hiscox, California; Calvin Burrows, Poquonnoc Bridge; Benjamin F. Latham, Noank; Horace Clift, Samuel Gardiner, John H. Godfrey, George W. Kelswin, Amos Hancox, and E. A. Schofield, all of Mystic. Other veterans living here are Isaac Cundall and Nathan H. Newbury, a member of the Westerly Post. Williams Post took the place of an earlier post organized here years before, known as Harris Post, and which disbanded. In a copy of an old newspaper published here years ago, "The Mystic Pioneer," under date of June 6, 1868, appears the following account of one of the early Memorial Day observances, entitled "Decorating Soldiers' Graves." Post No. 6, G. A. R., of this place assembled at their headquarters, in Good Templars' hall, at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, some forty or fifty in number, armed with wreaths, bouquets, floral crosses, etc., and formed in front of their hall. Col. W. W. Packer, marshal of the day, while Sergeant Charles Niles, of the 21st C. V., acted as captain of the returned veterans. These were preceded by Co. A, C. N. G., Capt James T. Niles, and followed by Charity Lodge F. and A. M., and the latter by citizens on foot and ladies and gentlemen in carriages. The procession, led by fife and drum, took up the line of march directly for Elm Grove cemetery. Arriving at the Cemetery, Col. Packer read the order of Gen. Logan and decorated graves numbered in the order of their location from the entrance.
Along the line of procession flags were hung out. Across the street near McHorry's block, was stretched a very large flag, while from dwellings and vessels, flags at half mast or draped were flying in every direction. The ladies showed a commendable interest in the good work of the day. Among the devices we noticed a memorial over the entrance to Elm Grove Cemetery, "In Memory of Comrades Who Are Buried Abroad." In the evening, the soldiers and citizens reassembled to hear William Cliff and others concerning the solemnities of the day, and the lesson it should teach us. In New London and Norwich similar ceremonies were held and large processions marched through the rain to do honor to the heroic dead.
Miss Annie B. Greenman, Mrs. Edna B. Colby, Mrs. Carl Cutler and Mrs. Conrad Kretzer attended the meeting of the New London County League of Women Voters at Uncasville Wednesday.
Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dickinson of Providence, R. I., are guests of Mrs. Frank Dickinson.
Mrs. E. W. Gaskell and children Winfield and Edith went to New York Thursday, to spend the holiday.
Business will be practically suspended in Mystic today, the 30th, the bank and post office being closed as well as the mills and factories and most of the stores.
William Carpenter left Wednesday for Watch Hill, where he has secured employment for the summer.
The semi-monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held Wednesday afternoon at the G. A. R. hall opened with singing "Some Glad Day," and devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb. Roll call was responded to with current event items. It was voted to hold a cake and food sale. Mrs. Wallace Billings gave an interesting report of the meeting held in the First Baptist church, Westerly, Monday, this being a meeting of the South-western district W. C. T. U. of Rhode Island, and quoted from the addresses of Mrs. Ida Wise Smith, of the national organization, Mrs. Ethelyn Roberts, State President of Rhode Island and Mrs. Lucian Appleby, Director of Literature for Rhode Island. An article and poem entitled "Spirituelle" were read by Mrs. J. E. Thompson.
Mrs. Mary L. Noyes and daughter, Miss Louise Noyes, have moved from the Green house on Broadway, where they have been spending the winter, to their summer cottage at Lord's Point.
Miss Geneva Rathbun is home from Milford for the holiday.
The May supper given by the women's society of the Union Baptist church was held Thursday.
Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Denison have returned from a trip to New York.
Mrs. Eva Burdick, and daughter, Miss Ethel Burdick, and Miss Edith Spencer left Thursday for a few days' stay at Atlantic City.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fairbanks and daughter, of Stamford, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fairbanks.
Miss Annie M. Packer went to West Somerville, Mass., Thursday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles D. Geer.
The May covenant meeting of the Union Baptist church is to be held this (Friday) evening.
There was an attendance of about fifty at the union service at the Methodist church Wednesday evening. Rev. J. G. Sallis presided, Rev. J. G. Osborne of the Baptist church read the scripture and preached the sermon and prayer was offered by Rev. J. P. Beauchamp of St. Mark's church.
All ex-service men have been requested to meet at G. A. R. hall on Pearl street today at 1 p. m. to participate in the Memorial Day exercises. The outside cemeteries were decorated Thursday afternoon and at Noank it will be done this morning and a delegation from the local post will take part in the parade there. SPECTACLES A CLUE TO SLAYERS OF SCHOOL BOY

Chicago, May 30.—Ownership of a pair of tortoise shell spectacles, which the police hoped would identify the slayers of Robert Franks, schools boy son of a Chicago millionaire, slain ten days ago, while his parents waited to pay $10,000 ransom, apparently was established tonight, but the solution of the boy's death was as much a mystery as ever.

Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., son of an [illegible] home admitted to the police [illegible] across the street from the [illegible] wealthy Chicagoan who lives [illegible] that the glasses, found near where the [illegible] boy's nude body was concealed in a South side swamp, probably belonged to him.

Young Leopold, however, denied all knowledge of the slaying although admitted freely that he had often visited the swamp where the body was found. He explained his interest in ornithology and said he had gone to the swamp in search of birds. Richard Loeb, friend of Leopold's and son of a Chicago millionaire who resides near the private school which the Franks boy attended substantiated the main points of Leopold's story.

Both boys' parents [illegible] were held for questioning tonight while [illegible] authorities attempted to piece together the bits of information obtained [illegible] and [illegible] students with whom they were friendly. While [illegible] admitting that there was little [illegible] Leopold and [illegible] except for spectacles officials from [illegible] reports of their [illegible] to find an explanation for [illegible] apparent motive.

Get Rid of The Guesswork!

Mysteriously guided by the behavior of a willow and, sometimes a "dowser"—the waterwizard—tells where to dig a well that yields water. Then much ado is made over the feat. But who ever hears similar cheer about the dry holes, dug when the dowser flivvered?

Now and then, possibly, it just happens that people buy wisely without heed to advertisements. But the chances are against any one having such luck!

It does not "just happen" that advertised values are invariably genuine buying opportunities. They must be, because they are openly offered to every one who reads them.

Advertised value must be true value. Else it could not keep on being advertised to a public so keen and critical as this public of ours.

Read the advertisements in The Bulletin to get rid of guesswork!

Anti-American Feeling in Japan

Is Backed By Former Service Men and Retired Officers of the Army and Navy.

Tokio, May 30.—(By the A. P.)—Anti-American feeling engendered by enactment of the United States immigration law with its Japanese exclusion provision threatens to become more widespread and intense, backed as it is by the jingo press and a small group of nationalistic publicists, politicians, former service men and retired officers of the army and navy.

Official Japan, represented by the Kiyoura government, absolutely opposes any retaliatory measures, and although Viscount Kato remained silent upon that point, it is generally believed in high quarters that the new ministry he is expected to form within the fortnight, will continue the same policy.

With this contradiction of public and certain private opinion so in evidence, Japanese officials express regret that they are unable entirely to control the anti-American expressions which are out-cropping almost daily in public meetings, published editorials, and newspaper advertisements. Propaganda is clearly under way to persuade the public to refuse to purchase American goods and demand instead Japanese or European substitutes.

In this connection, the vernacular press insists there is a significant

Civil War Veterans in New York Parade

Services For the Dead Were Held in Every Borough of the Great City.

New York, May 30.—Remnants of the blue battalions that battered their way through the wilderness and the defenses of Richmond carried the old flag proudly up Riverside Drive once more today.

One hundred and fifty strong, the boys of sixty-one tramped and rode the mile from 74th street to the soldiers' and sailors' monument, with a fife and drum corps to keep the time and a multitude to cheer. Sprily they walked, showing the way to the younger veterans of other wars, whose ranks were full and whose step was sure.

It was Memorial day—and New York remembered. Every borough and community of the great city held its services and its celebrations, services for the dead, celebrations for the living. But it was on Riverside Drive that the thousands of spectators took early stands; and as the grizzled ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic passed jubilantly by, the tribute of applause was mighty.

Behind the marchers came the scores of automobiles that carried the veterans for whom the walk in the sun and the brisk breeze off the Hudson would have been too severe a task; and behind these rode the young men in khaki who only a few years ago [illegible] boys off to war in France and [illegible] returning to spend their [illegible] on hospitals.

James Lucey of Northampton, Mass., the shoemaker friend of President Coolidge, announced that he was leaving early next week for the Republican national convention in Cleveland, where he has been engaged as a newspaper association to write a series of articles concerning the convention.

PEACE, THEME OF COOLIDGE IN MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS

At Exercises at Arlington President Coolidge Advocated American Membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice—Believes It Would Result in a Further Limitation of Armaments—Favors the Extension of a Loan to Germany by Private American Interests, With Governmental Encouragement.

Washington, May 30.—Further limitation of armaments and American adherence with reservations to the world court created under the League of Nations were set up by President Coolidge today as his goals in the field of foreign affairs.

Speaking at the Memorial Day exercises at Arlington, the president renewed his advocacy of the Harding-Hughes plan for American membership in the permanent court of international justice, and declared the ideal mutual covenants by the nations limiting their military establishments "should be made practical as far as possible."

The president gave notice that he would not oppose other reservations to the court protocol than those proposed by President Harding and Secretary Hughes but would not support "any material changes which would not probably receive the consent of the many other signatory nations." His declaration was interpreted generally as opposition to the plan of the republican majority of the senate foreign relations committee for American adherence provided the nations now members of the court agree to separate the tribunal from the league.

The two goals outlined by Mr. Coolidge today were declared by persons close to him, to be the major foreign policies upon which he will stand in the coming campaign. Combined with these the president it was said will place emphasis upon extension of a loan to Germany by private American interests with governmental encouragement with a view to carrying out the Dawes plan for European rehabilitation.

An attempt to make American entrance into the world court contingent on separation of the court from the league would be impracticable and unworthy of American principles and traditions, the president said after showing that the founders of the states had been based on [illegible] tion of certain [illegible] and association of men [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] to obtain greater [illegible]

WILLIMANTIC

In memory of those soldiers and sailors of the town of Windham who paid the supreme sacrifice that democracy might survive and the Stars and Stripes continue to fly over the Land of the Free, reverent exercises were carried out Memorial day. Veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars participated in the morning and afternoon processions, assisted by the mothers, widows and daughters of the soldier dead. The annual pilgrimage to the Windham Center, North Windham and St. Joseph's cemeteries was one of the largest in several years. The various semi-military and military organizations occupied 18 trucks, and nearly a dozen private automobiles were provided for the aged soldiers and patriotic women.

The start was from G. A. R. headquarters in the town building at 8 a. m. and the first stop was at Windham Center, where an impressive ceremonial was carried out. The journey was then resumed to North Windham. At both these cemeteries Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead of the Methodist church was the speaker. A brief address was made by Commander A. F. Bennet of the G. A. R. Taps were [illegible] Little Miss Margaret [illegible] Center. Richard [illegible] bearer and the color guards were Walter McNickle and Lester Hicks, representing the navy and marines, respectively. Arthur W. Sweet, color bearer for many years, was unable to act, due to illness sustained some months ago.

St. Joseph's cemetery was then visited. Speaking briefly, Adjutant James Haggerty of the G. A. R. presented Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, who in turn was followed by Rev. John E. Clark, pastor of St. Joseph's church. His address, delivered with eloquence and earnestness of purpose was one of the most inspiring ever heard at the cemetery. Organizations which took part in the ni[illegible] P. O. E. band, Co[illegible] Connecticut infantry, St. Joseph's Boy Scouts and their Scout Band A. C. Tyler camp, Spanish War Veterans, G. A. The Memorial day procession to Willimantic cemetery moved shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon from the town building, marshaled by Capt Frank P. Fenton, Jeremiah McCarthy and James J. Lee.

The formation follows: Platoon of police officers, Chief Allan MacArthur in charge; Capt. Frank P. Fenton, Capt. Dr. W. P. S. Keating, and Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, walking; the national colors, borne by Olie Rock and guarded by Messrs. McNickle and Hicks; the B. P. O. E. band, C. N. L. Hoover, leader; Company C, 169th infantry, Capt. Joseph R. Morrison; the Sacred Heart of St. [illegible] Arthur Vermette; Rev. [illegible] McCarthy in charge; Congregational Boy Scouts, Robert C. [illegible] scoutmaster; St. Paul's Boy Scouts, Theodore Ladd, scoutmaster; the color guard of World war veterans, Spanish war veterans, the Spanish war veterans and World war veterans. The Ladies' auxiliaries followed in automobiles. The procession moved to the music of a [illegible] and came to a halt on a hillside in the center of the cemetery, a site Fenton has held the line of march for the past 21 years.

Adjutant James Haggerty was the first of the speakers. His address was [illegible] in the style of a man of his type—a retired warrior. He was followed by a [illegible] talk on the spirit and purpose of Memorial day by Capt. Frank [illegible] Fenton, who then presented Acting Mayor George W. Hickey.

Friday marked the first instance in the history of Willimantic when [illegible] decorating the graves of the soldier dead for the part which they have played in making Memorial day a success. He also congratulated the citizens of the Willimantic and St. Joseph's cemeteries on the fine appearance of the grounds.

Russell Minman was bugler for the [illegible] exercises. Flowers for decorating the 446 graves in the various cemeteries were distributed by national guardsmen and Boy Scouts in charge of John J. Hoey of A. C. Tyler Camp.

That interest in Memorial day remains strong in the heart of local residents was manifested by the hundreds who witnessed the procession in the afternoon and who gathered at the various cemeteries to attend the impressive ceremonies.

The stork worked overtime in this vicinity during April and in spite of incessant rain and high winds is credited with a total of 44 new arrivals, several of them on the same date, and in one instance duplicated his favors. The male population was increased by 25 and the female by 19. Following is the list:

1—John Samuel O'Neal, son of Ebert and Eleanor Hanson O'Neal.

2—Lewis Robert Weintraub, son of Charles Carpin and Anna Yablousky Weintraub.

3—Pauline Dorothee Charron, daughter of Felix J. and Antoinette M. Lussier Charron.

4—Thomas Lugrand Sharpe, son of Archibald R. and Eleanor R. Schulling Sharpe.

5—Aldea Florette Schink, daughter of Elzear and Eva Theroux Schink.

6—Robert Arthur Keith, son of O. Leon and Ellen N. Greene Keith.

6—Marcel Henri Joseph Claing, son of George and Bernadette Labelle Claing.

7—Francis Wilbur Storrs, son of Norman W. and Lucy V. Payne Storrs.

8—Normand Edouard Veglard, son of Louis and Adelina Brousseau Veglard.

9—Russell Francis Foy, son of Raymond R. and Margaret L. Ellis Foy.

10—Henry Kroff, son of Anthony E. and Gertrude Fein Kroff.

11—Evelyn May Moseley, daughter of Richard G. and Jenny Pitcher Moseley.

—Phyllis Rogers, daughter of Harold and Ida Flubscher Rogers.

12—Harry Wilfred Brown, son of Harry C. and Annie May Desautels Brown.

—Akilla Lucas, son of Charles and Annie Romaniak Lucas.

—Helen Postemski, daughter of Frank and Katie Lobanski Postemski.

14—Laurent Edouard Desautels, son of Wilfrid and Rose Benoit Desautels.

—Marie Claire Geraldine D'Auteuil, daughter of Alphonse and Emma Turcotte D'Auteuil.

15—Barbara Elizabeth Phillips, daughter of Harold J. and Ethel E. Morse Phillips.

—Victor Louis Ouelette, son of Edward and Lillian Gladue Ouelette.

16—Dominico Ferrigno, son of James and Mary Angelina Crespino Ferrigno.

14—Mary Rita Cuna, daughter of Edouard and Dian Beaulieu Cuna.

17—Salvatore Adamo, son of Dominico and Elizabeth Oliva Adamo.

—Guiseppo Adamo, son of Dominico and Elizabeth Oliva Adamo.

—Eleanor Louis Burdick, daughter of Wilfred E. and Marion Powe Burdick.

18—Joseph E. Lussier, son of Eugene and Alleemi Thorcaux Lussier.

—Eleanor May Russ, daughter of George R. and Carrie M. Whitehouse Russ.

John Gunela, son of Joseph and Victoria Zaklukaritz Gunela.

James Paul Brennan, son of Daniel and Alice Lennon Brennan.

[illegible] Pisciello, son of Joseph and Domenica Rumpulla Pisciello.

Frederick Joseph Wogick, son of Michael and Mary Starzhuka Wogick.

—Janet Ruth Lord, daughter of Elmer M. and Dorothy L. Clark Lord.

—Nellie Edna Bigelaw, daughter of Albert and Edna Laflamme Bigelow.

3—Donald Sangster, son of William and Ruth Barstow Sangster of Brooklyn.

—Doris Sarah Marie Giroiard, daughter of Albert and Dora Rock Giroiard.

16—Lorraine Claire Marie Michaud, daughter of William and Marie Le[illegible] Michaud.

—Joseph Rosaire Marcel Gebry, son of Wilfred and ZZoe Dusson Gebry.

17—Mary Coury, daughter of Abraham and Alice Rachal Coury.

20—Angelina Leo, daughter of Dominic Teresa Euliano Leo.

—Edouard Arthur Carey, son of James and Marguerite Griffin Carey.

36—Ruth Kushner, daughter of Samuel and Armies Spector Kushner.

The funeral of Victor Pekarovix took place at his home in Lebanon Friday morning. Services were held at St. Joseph's church, this city, at 10 o'clock. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Engine company No. 1 was called out about 9.30 o'clock Friday morning for a stubborn chimney fire at 7 Elm street in a house owned by James S. Smith and occupied by C. W. Warren and family. Forty gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

William Normandie, 10 Bullock street, Pawtucket, reported at police headquarters Friday forenoon that while he was driving on the North Windham road near the Country club the 11 year old son of John Brecker of Ashford ran out from in front of his father's truck, which was stopped, and into Normandie's machine. The boy was knocked down. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where it was found that he had slight cuts on the hand and leg. Mr. Normandie paid for the treatment to the boy.

A Dodge touring car owned and driven by Stanley Field of Columbia was struck a broadside blow Friday afternoon by a Chevrolet machine owned and driven by Fred Clinton of Devon. Field was turning into the upper gate of the Willimantic cemetery when Clinton drove around the bend from the Hartford road and crashed into the Dodge. The steering wheel was broken on the Clinton car and a mudguard was damaged on the Field machine. The matter was reported to Chief of Police Allan MacArthur. The drivers reached a mutual settlement for damages.

Newsy Notes.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Jacobs of Potter street at this week end are Mrs. Daisie Seaton and Master Samuel Seaton, Mrs. Mary McCormick and daughter Sarah of Pawtucket, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Butler and son Robert and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Anderson of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jacobs and child of Holyoke.

Civil war veterans who took part in the memorial exercises Friday afternoon were Timothy Gillin, George Herrick, Adam Dunts, James Haggerty, Charles Henry, Dennis Shea and Benner, who spoke at the Windham cemeteries, was indisposed in the afternoon and could not take part in the procession.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Moriarty have as guests over the week end Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shea and family, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Moriarty and little daughter and Mrs. Harry D. Williamson of Providence.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Daniels Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Harford of Stratford are guests for the week end.

Miss Marion Hillhouse of Columbia college is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hillhouse, for a few days.

Miss Elizabeth Flynn, a teacher in Terryville, is spending the Memorial day recess at her home on Jackson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Downer had as a holiday dinner guest Miss Rose McQuillan of Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Eugene Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Martin and Mrs. John G. Bill spent Memorial day in Putnam, guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Converse.

Mrs. L. M. Lewis entertained at dinner Memorial day Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Latham, Mr. and Mrs. O. Leslie Dorman and daughter Shirley of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Dorman of Cheshire and Mrs. P. C. Dorman of Hartford.

Peter Morin of Holyoke, Mass., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hardman.

Mrs. William J. Donovan and daughter Mary of Fitchburg, Mass., are week end guests at the home of the former's father, Timothy M. Regan.

Harrison F. Topliff and family of Fall River, Mass., are at the Topliff homestead in South Coventry over the week end.

Capt Jean B. Paulhus of A. C. Tyler camp, Spanish American War Veterans, was chairman of the parade committee for the afternoon Memorial day exercises.

JEWETT CITY

Memorial day weather was a rarity in May this year for the sun shone nearly all day, and it was cool enough to suit anyone who marched or served the dinner. The procession left the town hall after nine o'clock led by the Plainfield band of 24 pieces Lawrence Krauss leader. Dr. G. H. Jennings, marshal of the day with his aides, 11 George Wilcox and Carl Benjamin, the color bearer Gilbert Miner and color guards, Walter Benjamin and Edward Knox, were followed by 50 ex-service men, in charge of J. Edw. Wyatt. Only one Civil war veteran, L. A. Thornton, was able to ride. A feature of the parade was the Jewett City Boy Scouts, thirteen of them with their assistant scoutmaster, Samuel Cahtcart, Jr. The American flag was carried by Earl Robinson. Charles Jaskiewicz and Spencer Johnson, the troop flag by Maurice Silverlief, the Beaver patrol flag by William Stebbins, and the Eagle patrol flag by Bennie Slovski. The scouts assisted in decorating the graves in Jewett City cemetery.

Automobiles followed with representations of Jewett City chapter, R. R. C., Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., the clergy, town and borough officials, Daughter of Veterans and citizens. It had been planned that the World war honor roll and the D. A. R. memorial tree should be decorated on the return of the march to Fanning park. But through an oversight, those in charge were not notified of a change in the plan, and the procession stopped on the way down. However, the beautiful wreath given by Mrs. F. C. Whiting was placed upon the honor roll by Miss Eva La Flamme, sister of the young man for whom the local post is named, and upon the memorial tree by Miss Ida J. Foster, a member of the D. A. R.

At Jewett City cemetery, Rev. A. H. Clement offered prayer, at St. Mary's cemetery Rev. J. J. Tyler read the prayers for the dead, and at the Baptist cemetery Rev. J. W. Payne offered prayer, there was music by the band, and a squad of eight men fired a salute. These men were in charge of D. W. Chase, and were Irving Thornton, George Cyr, Adelbert Babcock, Alex Desjardines, Victor St. John, Napoleon Cyrr, Ulysses Guillet and John Hanson. Bugler William Maynard sounded taps at each cemetery.

The ceremony at Lisbon bridge of strewing the water with flowers, in memory of the sailor dead, is especially solemn and picturesque, for there is no lovelier scene than the Quinebaug river at this particular place. The poppy red baskets and the flowers upon the waters scattered by John Driscoll and William Sharkey were watched in silence floating down the river, the band playing hymns tenderly and the firing squad saluting, following with taps. The baskets were made by Miss Rosanna DesJardines.

Before the exercises at the park, the men marched past the home of Velo Sharkey, where Comrade Hurb McLaughlin sat in a window and waved a flag as they paid him the honor of "eyes right."

At the park, the school children sang under the direction of Miss Irene Warner. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Clement, a man whom to hear pray once, fosters the desire to hear him pray again.

The address of the day was given by Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church. He said we take pride in America as a land of freedom and opportunity. From those who come to this country we hope a greater blessing may be communicated to all mankind and may we be a blessing to them. We are grateful for the part which service man have taken in the establishment and preservation of our nation.

In the days of the Revolution patriots were found who wished to establish a new independent nation. To them Washington looms as greatest of all, leaving an untarnished and undying heritage to our land. When the days came that the underlying principles of liberty of our land were threatened with destruction, others were found, and so loved the original principles of freedom that they rose to break the shackles of the slave, to maintain in undiminished strength the unity of our country. It has been hard for the north an dsouth to forget mutual prejudices. But in the World war boys from the north, south, east and west, without regard to days gone by sprang to the support of the same flag in the great common cause.

In the future we hope that our nation will be noted for progressiveness in reform, righteousness in sobriety of character, and a hearty spirit for cooperation with other nations to promote the welfare of mankind.

The soldiers' monument was decorated under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Haskell. Grace Jeffers, Mildred Gilbert, Ellen Prior, Eunice Webster, Ruby Gray, Frances Montgomery, Claire Shea, Viola McKenna, Junior Webster and Margaret Sullivan, placed bouquet upon the steps of the monument, while Margery Webster laid the elegant wreath given by Mrs. A A. Young at the foot of the pedestal.

Dinner was served to nearly two hundred in St. Mary's church hall, under the efficient direction of Mrs. M. E. Shea. The room was elaborately decorated wit bunting and flags, baskets and vases of purple and white lilacs being upon the tables about the hall. The menu included tomato bouilion, baked beans, salmon salad, potato salad, brown bread, rolls, radishes, olives, pickles, cake and coffee.

The committee in charge was Mrs. M. E. Shea, Mrs. T. A. Rioux, Miss May Driscoll, Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. Jennie Wild, Miss Susie Morgan, Mrs. G. H. Thornton, Mrs. Irving Thornton, Mrs. Ella Geer, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, H. T. Jeffers and Miss M. A. Burdick. They were assisted by Mrs. Albert Messier, Mrs. Frak Leyden, Mrs. Helen Walsh, Mrs. John McKenna, Mrs. Louis Gingras, Anna Walsh Leocard Couture, Alice Barnett, Margaret Driscoll, Mildred Olson, Helen Jeanett, Emma Bernard, Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Arlene and Christine Burdick, Gladys and Marian Jeffers, Irene Stewart, Bertha Davis, Mrs. Mary Mercier, Mrs. Grace Webster, Mrs. Redmond Walsh, Misses Jennie Blake, Bertha Ruszenas, Alice and Olivene Cadieux and Annie Driscoll.

The day's proceedings were in charge of Orville La Flamme post, American Legion, the general committee being G. H. Jennings, Gilbert Minet, H. George Wilcox, J. Edw. Wyatt and William Maynard.

Rixtown and Glasgo cemeteries were decorated by Peter Gustafson. The Leonard cemetery by Miss Bessie Burton, Pauchaug under direction of C. F. Morgan, Geer, Smith, Hopeville, Davis, Wilcox, Brown, Spy Rock, and Frye by W. H. Payne and John Barry; Read-Herskell by Harry Hull and Ames by Frank Johnson. This call for 255 flags, nine dozen of which are furnished by Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R. and the town of Lisbon provides forty-four.

One hundred and tweny-six wreaths were made under the direction of Mrs. N. J. Babcock. A special wreath was placed over the grave of George A. Haskell, who for so many years was at the head of the Memorial day arrangements, and who was so keenly and universally missed this year.

Judge John T. Barry, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski, Attorney Arthur M. Brown, Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan, and Deputy Judge Frank E. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson attended the funeral service for Judge H. H. Burnham held in Norwich Friday afternoon. The first five named were honary bearers with Judge Lucius Brown and Attorney William H. Shields, of Norwich. Judge Burnham's associates in the Griswold Town Court sent flowers.

Following the Memorial Day dinner, smokes were provided for those men wro cared for them.

MANSFIELD DEPOT

A party of school friends of Miss Clara Hernberg came over from Columbia last Friday evening and hung her a beautiful May basket. One of the young men had the ill luck to lose his eyeglasses so thoroughly that they have not yet been found.

Clifford Botham of Stamford came home Saturday, returning Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cosgrove and little son were in Holyoke Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Carpenter's theme Sunday morning was "Good Soldiers." II Timothy 2d, 3d.

A number went from this village to South Willington to the play "Patty Makes Things Hum" Tuesday evening.

The monthly covenant and business meeting of the church was held in the chapel Wednesday forenoon.

Rev. J. W. Carpenter went to Providence Wednesday afternoon for a short visit.

Henry Pollard of Willimantic spent a few hours at his farm here Wednesday.

Miss Ella McCollum while in Springfield, Mass., called on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, former residents of this village.

The many friends of Mr. Thompson are glad to know he is very comfortable, though not able to get out much.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOIL INOCULATION FOR ALFALFA AND SWEET CLOVER

Except on the few fields where they have been grown recently, alfalfa and sweet clover (including Hubam) need inoculation in this state. Inoculation is supplying these plants with the ege particular nitrogen fixing bacteria which lives with either of these plants. Nearly all sorts contain bacteria of the type which live with the more common clovers such as red and alsike.

Clovers will grow even if these bacteria are not present but they will be dependent on the nitrogen of the soil as are such crops as corn and timothy. On poor soils no inoculation means a poor growth of the crop while on good soils it means the soil is being depleted instead of enriched. The cost of inoculation is insignificant. No one can afford to sow alfalfa or sweet clover in this state without assurance of thorough inoculation.

There are several satisfactory methods of soil inoculation. Two of these methods seem most practical and meet every need.

1. Secure about one quart of soil for each bushel of seed to be sown from a well established field of alfalfa or sweet clover. Take a hand-full of soil from the roots of vigorous plants in about ten places. It is well to dig out roots and nodules with the soil.

2. Allow this soil to dry, crush and sieve to remove stones and roots.

3. Moisten the seeds with glue solution (6 oz. of liquid glue in one gallon of water).

4. Sift the dry soil over the moistened seed, and soil until the seeds are nearly dry. Each seed should then have soil particles adhered to it but the seeds should not cluster together from using too much glue solution.

5. Spread out in a thin layer and allow to become nearly dry and sow.

By stirring and thoroughly drying the seeds may then be stored for a few weeks without injury to either the seeds or the bacteria.

A sugar solution may be used in place of the glue solution to get the soil to stuck to the seeds.

Commercially prepared cultures are now reliable and easy to use. Most seedsmen keep alfalfa cultures stock. Since these vary in method of preparation, no general method for their use can be given. The manufacturer's directions should be followed closely.

COD LIVER OIL AS SALVE FOR CHICKS' LEG TROUBLE

Because April was unusually cold, many poultrymen did not allow their chicks to run outside. This has meant that the chicks have not received enough exercise, green feeds or mineral matter. On account of this fact many chicks have succumbed to leg weakness, and this weakness has developed to a stage where considerable mortality has been felt. Many poultrymen are wondering now what they can do to correct or to overcome this leg weakness.

To put the birds back quickly onto their feed, one agricultural agent recommends the use of raw cod liver oil in their dry mash. When cod liver oil is used it is essential that the raw be secured rather than the emulsion, as it is much more effective. In mixing oil into the dry mash one should take about one quart of it and spread it thoroughly into about eight quarts of dry mash, making sure that the liquid is all absorbed by this mixture. The eight quarts then should be thoroughly worked into 92 pounds more of the other dry mash, so that when the final mixture is completed one quart of oil is mixed with 100 pounds of dry mash.

This amount varies according to the degree of weakness and the age of the chicks. Some use from one pint to 100 pounds of grain of 1 1-2 quarts to 100 pounds of grain, but the average it is recommended to use one quart to 100 pounds of dry mash. This dry mash should be kept before the chicks at all times.

If it is impossible to feed the proper amount of green feed at any time of the year, it is well to put in the cod liver oil at this rate from the beginning, as it will insure a better condition of the chicks from the start.

HOW TO DESTROY THE APPLE BORERS

Most orchardists are well aware of the fact that apple borers, unless destroyed, will ruin many of their young trees. They do this by boring under the bark. Indications that this pest is at work in the orchard may be summarized as follows: Small mounds of sawdust or small wood particles at the base of the tree or the first foot of the tree trunk, these holes being about one-quarter of an inch in diameter. An unthrifty appearance in the young trees is also an indication that borers are at work.

When discovered, the most practical method of destroying the pest, is to probe for the grub with a soft wire the length of the boring. This wire should be slightly hooked on one end so that the borer may be withdrawn from the hole. If no borer can be found on probing, and yet the fresh sawdust shows this pest to be at work, the best method is to cut straight through the length of the boring, making a narrow incision from the outside of the trunk until the end of the boring is reached and the borer found.

Another sure method of destroying this pest is to use carbon disulphide. This is a poisonous liquid, very inflamable and very volatile. The gas formed by it is heavier than air. If a small wad of cotton is saturated with this liquid and the hole plugged at the mouth, the borer will ultimately be destroyed.

It is more economical to prevent the female from depositing her eggs than to destroy the full-grown pest later. This is accomplished by wrapping roofing paper, old newspapers, or something of the sort, around the first 18 inches of the trunk, care being taken that the wrapping is tied closely to the trunk at the upper end and that the lower end is buried at least two inches below the ground level. Fine wire screen is also an efficient protection, but is more expensive.

The female insect deposits her eggs in the tree trunk by making an incision in the bark, depositing the eggs under the bark from one-half to three-fourths of an inch to one side of the opening. For this reason washes and sprays will not reach the eggs.

The egg-laying season in Hampden county begins about the middle of May and continues for a month. It is therefore necessary to start the protective measures before that time. A white lead, linseed oil, paint, applied thickly to the trunk of the tree will sometimes prevent the female from depositing her eggs.

TIME FOR PINK SPRAY ON APPLE TREES THIS WEEK

Apple tree insects will get in their deadly work if the orchardist does not feed them with poisoned sprays this week. Now is the time for the pink sprays; it is one of the most important of the season. The bud moth, the green fruit worms, and the tent caterpillar are all on a rampage this week and unless destroyed at once the fruit and trees will be badly off this fall. Besides these insects which make so much havoc in the orchard unless controlled, this pink spray will also help very materially in the control of scab on McIntosh and other varieties subject to scab. The pink spray should be mixed up as follows: First, fill the tank nearly full of water, second add one and three-quarter pounds of dry lead arsenate, and last add one gallon of liquid lime sulphur or a paste made of four pounds of dry lime sulphur. The agitator should be working as these materials are added. The trunks, limbs, and branches and leaves should all be thoroughly covered. For plums and peaches, spray when the petals fall, to control curculio, rot, leaf spot, peach scab and aphis, using a paste made of flowers of sulphur, eight pounds, hydrated lime, four pounds and calcium caseinate or kayo for a spreader, one-half pound to be diluted with 50-gallons of water, plus one and one half pounds lead arsenate and one-half pint nicotine sulphate.

Leading In Race For Tammany Leadership

James A. Foley, Surrogate of New York county and husband of the late Charles F. Murphy's stepdaughter. Surrogate Foley is leading in the race for the Tammany chieftainship, left vacant by the death of Murphy, but is strongly opposed by Mayor John F. Hylan, political leaders see in the Mayor's public opposition to Foley an actual challenge to Governor Alfred E. Smith's leadership of the Democratic Party in New York.

Connecticut Farm Poultry

The production of the farm poultry flocks in Connecticut has been increasing each year since 1919, it is shown by figures of the annual home flock egg-laying contests held under the direction of the state agricultural extension service. Records are kept by the owners for the entire flock, not for picked hens, and monthly reports are made. Figures for November, the months in which egg production is lowest, are taken as indicative. In 1919 the average per bird for this month was 3.70; the second year, 3.91; the third, 4.95; the fourth, 5.45; and in November 1923, the average reached 5.49. The figures show the cost of feed and care for one bird in that month has averaged about the price of 2 1-2 eggs. Improved methods of poultry feeding and management are considered largely the means of increasing the production.

Spanish Desire Americaon Equipment for Trade Schools

An appeal from Malaga, Spain, has come to the United States Bureau of Education, through Harold B. Smith, American vice consul, for information to aid in establishing trade schools. City authorities, with leading citizens, are planning a school for training boys to become carpenters, electricians, mechanics, railway trainmen, plumbers, boilermakers, road builders, and contractors. Certain classes will also be given for girls. It is proposed to model the Malaga school after trade schools in the United States and to equip them with American products. Trade publications and catalogues from manufacturers of suitable equipment and building plans are especially desired.

The largest and most complete library of strictly educational literature in America is maintained by the United States Bureau of Education at Washington. This library is administered as a central reference and lending collection for the teachers and educators of the United States. Its bibliographers supply information to investigators of technical educational subjects. On request the library will give information and advice regarding methods of organization, administration, cataloguing, classifying, etc., for educational libraries and educational book collections.

A Good Corn Planter Is One of Your Best Friends

HERE is a point we want you to think over: If a planter misses only fifteen kernels in every 100 hills, there is a loss of five bushels per acre in the yield.

The accurate planter prevents that loss—it proves to be one of your best friends because it does faithful work in producing bigger yields.

We want to show you the John Deere No. 999 Corn Planter—a planter that has built a first-class reputation because of its accuracy. It plants just as accurately as the human hand.

You can plant two, three or four kernels without changing seed plates or stopping the team. You can change from hilling to drilling instantly. You get nine different drilling distances without changing the plates.

We will be glad to have you call and see why this planter has been termed "the accurate planter."

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Tex.—"I am writing to let you know how I have been benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt me continually, so I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about where it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

WHAT IS IT?

What's the most beautiful thing in life,
On earth the loveliest that ever can be
In lonely silence, in noisy strife—
The fairest that herat can feel or see—
What is it?

The soft wind blowing from the rose new-born,
Bringing her breath through the mists morning morn,
The dew-cold fragrance to your fevered lips—
Is there aught on earth the boon can eclipse?
Is it that?

Was it the dawn of your wedding day
When the future shone like an endless May,
And Nature smiled her brightest and best,
And never a coming woe you guessed?
Was it that?

Was it the day your heart was tossed
And racked by anguish for a loved one lost
On the sea, and a cable flashed to tell
That the lost was saved—and all was well?
Was it that?

Was it when your baby's fingers curled
Round one of your own in a sorrowful world,
And you caught his first little cooing laugh?
They say it's worth a kingdom, and not just half!
Was it that?

Was it the night your son came back
From riotous revels, and sin—and lack,
And the home light fell on his face at the door,
And you knew he was yours again evermore?
Was it that?

There are wonderful thrills that Fate may give,
But the loveliest things are the things that live;
And the fairest one hath never an end—
'Tis the deathless love of a faithful friend—
That's it!

Ay, that's the most beautiful thing in life,
On earth the loveliest that ever can be
In lonely silence, in noisy strife—
And, alas, it never has come to me—
Never to me!
—Samuel Minturn Peck, in Boston Transcript.

I FEEL HIS PRESENCE.

God wreathes His smiles
In wide green miles
Of the season's mystic bloom,
And I hear His note
In the salty throat
Of the breaker's distant boom.

I see His eye
Zi-zag the sky
And He shakes the hurricane,
And showers new birth
On the heated earth
With bountiful burts of rain.

I feel His Presence
In the sweet essence,
The soft wind's heaving breast,
And I know His love
When I see a dove
With folded wings at rest.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Guess my girl in college has changed her mind about basketball. She is evidently going in for something more useful.

How so?

Now she writes that she has made the scrub team.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"What do you make a week?" asked a magistrate of an Italian organ grinder who was complaining of boys throwing stones at him.

Four pounds, sare.

Eh, what? Four pounds for grinding an organ?

No, sarg; not for da grind—for to shut up and go away!—London Tit-Bits.

"Is it true you stopped your son's allowance when he married that pretty chorus girl?

Yes, I told him he needn't expect to get another dollar from me.

How does he manage to live?

I have increased his mother's allowance about $6,000 a year.—Boston Transcript.

Prospective Tenant—I like the flat very much, but I hear that the place is haunted.

Landlord—My dear madam, I attend to that personally. The ghosts only appear to tenants who do not pay their rent and refuse to move out.—London Answers.

Among the most interesting exhibits in the South Kensington Museum is the engine that propelled the boat in European waters. It was designed by Henry Bell, a Scotch genius, who amazed the world with his little steam-propelled boat puffing along at a speed of five miles an hour.

The first practical gas engine was invented in 1680 by a Frenchman named Lenoir. In general outward appearance the machine resembled a single cylinder, horisontal steam engine and was double acting. Gas was drawn into the cylinder during the first half of the forward stroke and exploded by an electric spark just as the piston was begining the second half of the stroke. The burnt gases were forced out during the return stroke when an explosion was taking place on the other side of the piston. Since the gas was ignited without being compressed, the engine was very wasteful.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Once again the roll of drums, the blare of bands and marching patriotic citizens has marked the passing of Memorial day in Danielson. The program as planned for the holiday was carried out as scheduled.

In the morning, members of McGregor post, G. A. R., and other organizations went to Brooklyn and assisted at the exercises held in that town, returning here in time for the things Danielson had planned for the afternoon.

Forming at G. A. R. hall at 1 o'clock, the procession with the Service battery acting as escort and a big delegation of World war veterans in line marched to the town hall, where the formal exercises were held. Following these, there was the usual service at the soldiers' monument on Davis park and then the exit to Westfield and St. James cemeteries for the decoration of graves.

That period of the afternoon given over to the observance was set especially aside for paying tribute to the memories of those honored. Special diversions planned for the afternoon were deferred until after the services.

the hundreds who regularly visit that popular place.

The large attendance on the holiday was representative of about every section of eastern Connecticut and others who were present came from nearby Massachusetts and Rhode Island towns.

A splendid floor of twice the space occupied by the floor of the old pavilion made a great hit with the dancers. They also gave free expression of their pleasure over the convenient appointments of the new dance palace and the extra comforts it provides over what was available at the park last year.

The season is now regularly open at Wildwood park and there will be dancing again there this evening.

There is more delay than there is any need of, on the part of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. company, in giving attention to the North street and Franklin street crossings in Danielson, through which heavier and taller rails hae been put in, some time since. Motor vehicles getting over these crossings drop into a depression between the rails and are subjected to unnecessary banging and wrenching that is a basis for just cause and complaint. A few hours' work would remedy the trouble, which has existed now for more than a month and has caused exasperation enough— and worse—to trouse even the interest of railroad men with many things to do. Broken springs on cars and other damage to machines already have been reported on account of these neglected crossings, which are used by a great number of people.

The Windham County National bank, Danielson, Conn., offers very strong protection to its depositors. Are you one of the many who are taking advantage of the protection by depositing in their savings department?—ad.v

Mr. and Mrs. John Reece of Norwich, and Miss Elizabeth Reece of Hartford were visitors with relatives and friends here over the holiday.

Mrs. Joseph Gibney and children of Webster were visitors in Danielson on the holiday.

Extra officers did patrol duty in Danielson, Memorial day. Traffic through the borough was exceptionally heavy.

Commander Walter F. Jacobs, U. S. N., Boston, was with his family here over Memorial day.

Residence along the line of the parade arranged by the American Legion for this (Saturday) evening will display flags and bunting.

At the Socquet place on the West Side Memorial day, the tri-color of France was displayed with the Star and Stripes.

William Murray of Norwich was among Memorial day visitors in Danielson.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward has sufficiently recovered from an illness to be able to be out.

Numbers of people from all the territory hereabouts were at the carnival conducted in Sacred Heart grove Memorial day by the West Wauregan fire comany.

Recent activity and enthusiasm of Leo J. L'Homme post, American legion, in recruiting its membership was reflected on Memorial day in the fine representations the post had in the procession.

The custom of decorating the graves of relatives and friends with flowers on Memorial day has grown to such an extent as to be amazing. An expenditure of several thousand dollars appeared to be represented in the flowers placed in Danielson cemeteries and other remeteries in the vicinity for Memorial day.

One abominable practice of some mo- tor drivers—that of turning around in the center of busy streets and blocking traffic in both directions— will be abolished here, when the new traffic regulations become effective.

Not even for the holiday did the weather man let up on his program of making the month of May a period of strongly unpleasant weather. Clouds, a sharp, cold wind out of the west and some sunshine were features of the day's weather.

Nimble wits have been at work on the signs, printed in French, that the American legion members are to put up today as a feature of the big celebration they have planned for Danielson this evening.

N. A. Jordan, who has been success- fully engaged in business here for nearly a quarter of a century, is to retire during the coming summer, selling out to some one of several persons who have made bids for his store.

Mrs. Marietta Stone and daughter, Miss Vesta Stone of Willimantic, were among the visitors to Danielson Memorial day.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Otis of Boston were in town Friday.

State officers stationed here found little to engage their attention on the holiday, though the usual routine of patrols and other duty was maintained.

At Goodyear Friday afternoon the funeral of Delia Sabourin, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Sabourin was held. The child was about a month and a half old. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery at Dayville. L. E. ennedy had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Camping parties planned by motorists for Memorial day were spoiled in this territory for many who came from distant points. Roadside lunching was so uncomfortable and so difficult because of the cold and high wind that the idea of it was abandoned by numbers of parties.

PUTNAM

With its business section a mass of red white and blue, and the residential section generously displaying the American flag, Putnam gave itself over to the earnest observance of Memorial Day, Friday afternoon. All business was suspended during the entire day, but it was not until after the noon hour that the real observance began. The fear, expressed a few weeks ago, that Putnam would make little effort in honoring the soldier dead, proved groundless. The observance of the day surpassed that of any previous years.

For the first time in some weeks the sun came out bright and warm, although the accompanying cool breeze kept the temperature at a comfortable degree for those marching in the procession that formed near the Putnam high school at 3 o'clock.

The memorial exercises centered around the dedication of the new bridge, recently completed by the state highway department over the Little river on Pomfret street, and the unveiling of the memorial tablet attached thereto in honor of Harry Clinton Hopkins, the Putnam boy who was seriously wounded in action and who died in a field hospital in France.

The parade formed [illegible] Francis Memorial [illegible] Ernest Durand in command of the ex-service men and John H. Sloss in command of the firing squad. Starting from the high school, headed by an escort of police and the Wauregan band, the line moved along Providence street to Marshal street, to Woodstock avenue, to Church street, to Bridge street, to Main street to Union square, to Pomfret street and to the new bridge.

In the line were ex-service men of Putnam, Thompson and Killingly, the drum corps of Oscar Swanson post accompanying them. Then came the Putnam high school cadets, Garde Foch, [illegible] children of the public and parochial schools, members of patriotic, fraternal and civic societies [illegible] honored place in the [illegible] which rode [illegible] Dunn in Buick [illegible]

At the bridge, James Dalton of Hartford [illegible] the state department of the American Legion, gave the [illegible] address. Sharing the honors on the program was State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald of Hartford, son of Postmaster and Mrs. Angus Macdonald of Putnam, whose [illegible] it was to have this [illegible] dedicated to some soldier to [illegible] the supreme sacrifice in the late war.

The program as carried out in the dedicatory exercises follows: Singing, America; invocation, Rev. Charles F. Bedard; selection by Wauregan band; address, State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald; unveiling of tablet; dedicatory of bridge to Harry Clinton Hopkins; address, James [illegible] pledge to the flag, singing, Star Spangled Banner; benediction, Rev. Simeon E. Cozad.

Michael White, principal of Israel Putnam school, who is acting commander of Anselm Mayotte Post, American Legion, was president of the day and had charge of the dedicatory exercises.

World war veterans of Putnam met at St. Mary's cemetery at 8 o'clock in the morning where the graves of all Soldiers were decorated. From there the detail went to the soldiers' monument on Grove street, where there were simple exercises and flowers were placed at the base of the monument. From there they went to Grove Street cemetery to decorate graves. The Sons of Veterans had charge of decorating graves in the Putnam Heights and East Putnam cemeteries.

The day passed uneventfully. There was little in the way of public entertainment. The local theatres were open and many people attended the opening of Wildwood park where the new pavilion was used for the first time.

There was a large gathering in Odd Fellows' hall, Thursday night, and all enjoyed the Dancing Revue, given in costume by the children of Miss Ware's dancing class. The program opened with a number by Harry Sharpe's orchestra followed by these dance numbers:

Comin' Thro' the Rye, Billy Morse Benton Miles, Lucy Carpenter, Doris Johnson, Thelma Smith; Gypsy Bezar, Edmaer Guy; sailors' hornpipe, Dorothy Mansfield, Jeanette McIntyre, Dorothy Bradford, Pauline Rawlee, [illegible] Elizabeth Hurdman, The Kutie Kids, Frances [illegible] Lois Bi[illegible] Shirley Miron, toe ballet, Thelma Sweet of Worcester; Graceful Steps, Marjorie Benoit, Lucy Carpenter, Edna Kent, Louis Sherman, Alice Tourtellotte, Alice Perry; Irish Colleen, Marion Lyon, Qui vive Ballet, Dorothy Bradford, Dorothy Mansfield, Pauline Rawley, Jeanette McIntyre, Elizabeth Hurdman; Spanish dance, Ethel Peterson; Vanity Fair, Baby Shirley Miron; Narcissus, Edmaer Guy; Valse Blue, toe dance, Paulianna Wasseau; cake walk, Elizabeth Hurdman, Jeanette McIntyre, Dorothy Mansfield, Pauline Rawley; Morning, Salva Sweet, Worcester; Auld Time minuet, Billy Moss, Nelson King, Kenneth Rawley, Marjorie Benoit, Louise Sherman, Edna Kent; Encore, Raymond Brousseau, Madeline Houghton; Humoresque, Madeline Houghton; grand march and fox trot by pupils.

State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald and family were guests of the commissioner's parents, Postmaster and Mrs. Archie Macdonald, of George street, over the holiday.

Rev. John C. Stoddard of the Put- nam Baptist church, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Woodstock academy at the church on Woodstock Hill, Sunday morning, June 8.

The fire department was called out Friday morning and again in the afternoon. No damage was done in either case and the trucks were only out a few minutes.

Quinebaug Pomona grange is to hold a meeting in Chandler's hall, Thompson hill, this (Saturday) evening. Granges from all towns in eastern Windham county will be represented.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barret and daughter of South Manchester, were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Cutler, on Oak Hill. The family formerly resided in Putnam.

Putnam will be honored by the pres- ence of Gov. C. A. Templeton, Sunday, when he comes here to address a mass meeting in the Bradley theatre under the auspices of the Citizens' Alliance. The Putnam band will play on Union square at 2.30 and at 2.55 will march to the Bradley theatre where a program of music and speaking will be carried out. The meeting is public.

WORKING ON MATTERS OF CIVIC IMPORTANCE

Equitable taxation, clean-up week, the Thames river and good streets are some of the subjects discussed in the May membership letter of the Norwich chamber of commerce, which shows that the chamber is taking an interest in all these things and exerting its influence for the benefit of the community along these and other lines.

The letter follows:

Equitable Taxation. — The second definite step has been taken in the development of the plan to inaugurate an equitable tax assessment system in Norwich. At the special town meeting held May 13th, a committee of Norwich citizens was duly authorized, to analyze the prevailing assessment method and to submit to the citizens recommendations that would enable the assessors to inaugurate an equitable and justifiable system.

Arad Manning, chairman of the board of assessors; Daniel T. Shea, John F. Rogers, Grosvenor Ely, and James L. Case comprise the committee having this important matter in charge. This committee is empowered to enlarge itself to a committee of fifteen. When the full committee is secured, and that is being done at present, the analysis committee will then proceed to study the entire question and make its recommendations to the citizens at a special town meeting to be called later. In all probability the work involved will consume many months as it cannot be expected that such a committee can give its entire time to the work during the period of the study of the question.

With the tax map well under way and the well known desire on the part of the majority of our citizens to see an honest and justifiable tax rate and assessment system established, a most important civic problem bids fair to come to a successful issue, one in which Norwich will have taken a most progressive step.

Eastern Connecticut — Norwich council, United Commercial Travelers of America, is sponsoring a movement for United action by all civic organizations in every city and town in eastern Connecticut for the development of public improvements in this section of the state.

The proposed association will supplant the efforts of the former Eastern Connecticut Chamber of Commerce which ceased to function several years ago. An endeavor will be made to interest the active support of chamber of commerce, Rotary and Lions clubs and Business Men's clubs wherever they may exist in this section.

Such subjects as good roads, bad curves, railroad crossings and narrow bridges will be considered and acted upon.

The sustained interest will be fostered by the members of the Norwich council who travel over this section and who meet representatives of all organization members. There is a need for such an organization and there is work to do. The result will be united action on a subject where at present only desultory activity is secured. The cooperation of the local chamber has been secured.

Clean-up Week—The mayor's proclamation regarding cleaning up the rubbish in Norwich during this week should receive the hearty support of all the citizens. This support can be given to him in two ways; by seeing to it that our premises are cleaned of rubbish; and by reporting those places that have ignored the proclamation.

Clean-up week has become a national institution. This movement started in 1912 and as a natural result from such a universal activity the following well defined benefits have resulted: First, development of community spirit; second, makes clean streets and alleys; third, fire losses are greatly reduced; fourth, vacant grounds improved; fifth public and private buildings renovated; sixth homes are beautified; seventh, creates a more healthy city; eighth, property values increased; ninth, advertises the city; tenth, focuses the public mind on the necessity for ridding communities of rats, mice and mosquitoes.

In addition a tree and shrubbery planting program in many cities has greatly beautified those communities. Salt Lake City, for example, last year, planted 8714 trees, 28,969 shrubs, 15,391 lawns or flowers beds. Locally the D. A. R. has begun a splendid movement in this respect by putting through a rosebush planting program in every school. An effort will also be made to have a tree and shrubbery planting program developed in Norwich during the year. Various patriotic and civic organizations are sponsoring this movement in cooperation with the chamber.

An appeal is made to every member to become actively interested in this clean-up movement. Surely it is worthwhile, and Norwich will become a community in the beauty of which we all should be and will be proud. Let us clean-up, and then KEEP IT CLEAN during the entire year.

Thames River—Major Peterson has completed his report of the detailed survey to estimate the cost of deepening the river channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich and has sent the report to Colonel H. C. Newcomer in New York. The result of Major Peterson's report is not made known at this time. The directors have requested an opportunity to confer with Colonel Newcomer in New York and the request has been granted. The conference is set for Wednesday, May 28th and President Lerou. Hon. E. W. Higgins and Mr. Lucius Briggs will represent the chamber.

Sometimes one hears the question "What good will it do Norwich to deepen the river channel?" Shreveport, La., located in the northern part of the state is agitating the canalizing of the Red River. At a meeting in Shreveport held in the interest of this subject it was stated "The building of cities is the survival of the fittest. You are surrounded by cities that are awake to their opportunities." Over in Rhode Island steps are now being taken to develop the port of Providence at an estimated expenditure of $6,000,000. Shreveport's population is given as nearly 50,000 while Providence is about 250,000. Both are striving to develop and increase their transportation facilities, and adequate transportation is the life blood of any manufacturing community. Not every city has the valuable asset of water transportation and those that do possess it foster its fullest development. Norwich has splendid transportation facilities, and we should promote them.

Good Streets—The eternal problem of every city is the maintenance of good, safe thoroughfares. In the coming city meeting a number of street appropriations will be acted upon. It is conceded that Main street from Market street to Washington square and West Main street from Washington square to Thames square is in a deplorable condition and should be rebuilt. Streets in the business section ought to receive proper attention. The rebuilding of part of this section of poor streets is included in this year's special appropriation, namely from Thames square to Washington square, and ought to have the support of the general public who have to use this thoroughfare.

Norwich Credit Exchange—This exchange is composed of a number of Norwich merchants, meeting regularly every week, to exchange credit information regarding unsatisfactory accounts.

Credit is referred to as the perfect lubricant of modern business. Credit is the buyer's promise to pay without the formality of a note and is a valuable asset to any person. There are times when it may be needed and the person who builds up a reputation for unreliability has no resources to call upon in an emergency.

Credit develops character; it cannot be bought—it must be earned. Credit is a trust reposed in a person—it needs to be safeguarded.

Mayor Hylan started a meeting of the city Sinking Fund commission in New York by asserting that a room in the Municipal building under control of Comptroller Craig had been used for "bootlegging and race track business."

What a Shabby Way to Treat Your Feet!

Not out of leather yet? Try wearing your fur cap for your after-dinner stroll some nice July evening. Then, when you replace it with the cool airiness of your Panama, you'll realize how your feet will welcome a pair of BRONCHOS—the new Converse recreation shoe for summer—instead of the same dead-weight of hard, stifling leather they've been carrying around all day long.

GIVE NORWICH GOOD GOVERNMENT.

Elsewhere in The Bulletin this morning there appears a sketch of the republican candidates for city offices, as noted above. There is contained therein much information concerning those men who have been placed before the voters of the city for endorsement. It is good reading and should be carefully digested by all citizens.

They are all men who are keenly alive to the welfare of the city, who can be relied upon to watch carefully over municipal expenditures, who will zealously guard against bad management, wasteful operations and unbusinesslike methods, whose aim will be against high taxation, who will give the same weighty consideration to public affairs that they do to private.

The candidates on the republican ticket have been drafted for service to their fellow citizens because they have the equipment and stand out as clean cut, successful men of affairs, whose business activities and whose judgments are well known and fully established.

They are men of the right caliber for faithful and conscientious public service. It is not a case of having been tried and found wanting or of the men seeking the office, but a case where the men have been prevailed upon to devote their efforts to giving the city an administration that can be referred to with pride both as to efficiency and accomplishment.

Norwich has the opportunity on Monday to provide for itself a city government that will give consideration to the interests of the many, that will not tolerate incompetency and inattention in any of the departments, that will be alert to wise economy in public expenditures and that will conduct the city affairs as a serious business proposition rather than as a political football.

The need of the change is unquestioned. The opportunity to obtain it is at hand. The duty of the republicans, as well as all believers in good government, is to see that it is accomplished.

Pull the first lever Monday and do your duty to yourself, your neighbors and the entire community.

MORAL RESPONSIBILITY.

What the outcome of the movement in England against the British rum running operations in aiding or abetting the violation of the laws of this country will result in is a problem. It is a new attitude that is taken by the prime minister and other leaders in recognition of the injustice done by British subjects.

It was believed that much help would be rendered by the British agreement to the so-called twelve-mile treaty, although Great Britain was under no real obligation to sign it. It gained advantages for its steamships thereunder while acceding to the wishes of this country, but now there is a disposition to go farther and to place restrictions or penalties on those subjects of Great Britain who are conniving to violate the dry laws of this country through the maintenance of rum row.

The impression gained is that it recognizes a moral responsibility in the situation, and it is not an unreasonable attitude to take. It is possible the tables might be turned some day on other than dry laws.

DANGEROUS FIRE HAZARDS.

From time to time there are dangerous fire conditions disclosed in spite of the efforts to prevent them through restrictions, licenses and inspections. The latest of these was the building in Newark used for hotel purposes where six lives were lost this week.

It was a wooden building, with wooden floors and partitions, apparently not constructed for hotel purposes but converted to that use, in which the fire traveled so quickly that it was impossible for those sleeping on the top floor to get out, or to get to the fire escapes.

As to the adequacy of the protective measures as required by the law it is noted that the building and hotel had been recently inspected by three departments, and that while the license of the hotel had expired with the coming of May its renewal was in the process and not being opposed. It was a case where the building, health and fire departments had found all the requirements of the law lived up to. And yet it was possible for six lives to be lost there within a month of the time of the triple inspection.

There are many buildings of a similar character which are used for rooming purposes, used as homes for aged and as part-time and permanent abodes for children. It is a question in many instances whether the requirements of the law are being met, but every fire of the character of that in Newark sounds a solumn warning against the kindling and spread of fires and means of exit for those who may be prevented from using the usual means of getting out.

Newark may find that there is reason for increasing its restrictions concerning rooming houses, but the Newark building was not the only one where dangerous fire hazards menace the lives of the occupants.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

Muscle Shoals hasn't as yet been disposed of. It is seriously doubted whether this matter will be determined at this session of congress. There has been a lot of talk about it, about the Ford offer, about other offers and about government operation, but it doesn't appear that there has been a real serious effort to get down to the basic facts and to make a hard and fast comparison of the merits of the various offers.

There have been ups and downs for the Ford offer. Somehow it seems to be regarded as the one upon which the greatest reliance can be placed, but that isn't openly declared. The agricultural committee of the senate has in fact declared against it, and if we can judge from some statements made by committee members that is due in no slight degree to the fact that there is an unwillingness on the part of Mr. Ford to modify his offer in any way. He is not even willing to change his offer so that it will cover but 50 years and therefore come under the federal water power act.

The committee has voted against the Ford offer because he insists upon getting control for 100 years. It doesn't appear to have taken up the other offers. The reason for this is not disclosed. The rejection of the Ford offer resulted in immediate attention being directed to government operation and a favorable report thereon. Government operation of railroads as an experience which the country would not care to see repeated.

JAPAN'S PROTEST.

The formal protest which has been made to this country by Japan because of the exclusion clause of the immigration bill and based upon the claim of violated treaty rights reflects the reception which the recently enacted legislation was bound to get.

Japan is peeved and it was bound to be. It has opposed the day when her subjects would be entirely excluded from this country, although it has recognized that we had quite as much right to say who shall come in and who shall stay out as Japan has relative to the empire of the mikado.

The claim that Japan makes relative to violated treaty rights is one that could and should have been avoided. Efforts were made to prevent it, but congress was unwilling to take the longer way around. It insisted upon the short, abrupt termination of the gentlemen's agreement by legislation rather than by negotiation and along with it goes the ill feeling which such act creates.

It is not to be expected that Japan is going to lay the foundation for military and naval operations on that matter, but it nevertheless caused a change from good feelings between the nations to irritations all of which was needless. The method, quite as much as the act itself, has furnished the means for creating increased prejudice. All that was gained by the peace conference and the humanitarian response of this country to distressed conditions in Japan has been seriously damaged. It opens the way for war talk, however irresponsible it may be and however improbable anything of the kind is.

And the worst of it all is that it could have been so easily avoided. It can be appreciated that this country is bound to look out for itself, that in so doing it may receive protests from Japan or other nations, but it is unfortunate when animosities are needlessly invited at a time when there is such a worldwide demand for better national relationships and peace.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Did you observe or celebrate Memorial day?

No one would undertake to reform two parties at the same time except LaFollette.

Accusations made by Gaston Means should mean the acquittal of the accused without further hearing.

The straight republican ticket next Monday will mean a city government that will be a credit to the community.

The state of Tabasco is reported to be the last hot spot of Mexican revolt. That's running true to reputation.

Senator Borah is not going to the Cleveland convention. But that is not because Senator Johnson intends to keep away.

Don't show indifference about the city election. Make your vote count for good government and against extravagance and waste.

Was it cheering news for the theater managers when the Methodists were allowed to determine for themselves whether they should attend the theaters?

It is well to remember that the city's business is your business, and the wise voter and taxpayer will insist on placing those in charge of it who will run it economically and efficiently.

With the communistic convention, about which LaFollette had so much to say, determined to support it it is quite evident that it knows what can be expected from the Wisconsin senator.

A republican candidate campaigning for congress in Massachusetts declares that he has been loudly applauded every time he criticised Senator Lodge for refusing to support the president's veto. Thus another New Englander hears from home.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Those who are engaged in fighting for righteousness will be pleased to learn that the prospect of winning the long contest against the evils of child labor is growing decidedly more encouraging. Heretofore all measures passed by congress tending to ameliorate the condition of child labor have been pronounced unconstitutional by the supreme court. It is now undertaken to so amend the federal constitution that measures may be enacted by congress that will have the power to limit, "regulate or prohibit" the labor of children under 18 years of age. The house has already passed such a resolution by a very substantial majority both parties showing considerable interest in the bill. As was to be expected the greatest opposition came from the south where child labor is far more menacing than it is in other sections of the country. It needs no argument to prove that the manner in which the child was compelled to labor in the cotton mills of the south was most deplorable.

Was it poor Richard who coined the expression that "honesty is the best policy?" At any rate it was a good one whatever be its authorship. But isn't it an equally good policy to be truthful? Is there any justification in a wilful deception? Ought a man ever to tell a lie, whether it is white or black? Isn't it a mistake on the part of parents to deceive their children when they ask some searching question concerning their origin? Why beat about the bush, and quibble, and put off and at last end up with a scientific absurdity? Remember that unless you give a clear, honest and refined explanation of which no one ought to be ashamed, that child is going to get it in the gutter in a way so crude and foul that his innocence will be stained—perhaps permanently. What reason is there of trying to fool the child about Santa Claus? Do you realize what the reaction is likely to be? One child made this confession: "Now I have caught onto Santa Claus, I think I will look into this Christ business!"

The question is not so much how great is our population, as what is its character. Is it this more than anything else that is going to tell in the future physical and moral strength of this republic. Blood certainly counts fully as much with men as it does with horses. By blood I simply mean pure virile strength wherever and under whatever conditions it may be found. The unfit comes just as much from the has beens who allowed a great family name to decay as from those who have never risen above mere animalism. As far as a political menace is concerned a degenerate American living anywhere in New England is as much to be dreaded as a Sicilian bandit who has been smuggled into the Bowery. It may be impossible to prevent Americans from becoming degenerates by any public action, but we can and we ought by the arm of statue law to keep crooks, criminals and all sorts of incompetents from our shores. If we cannot legislate a degenerate into the Kingdom of God, we can legislate him away from the American republic.

"If you tried it, you'd be surprised to see how much strength it takes to be kind." The writer has no idea who is the author of that saying, but he said a "whole mouthful" when he uttered it. To be sure it is much easier for some to be kind than others, because it comes more naturally. Some people are not kind by nature, due, no doubt, to a long process of heredity. There are others who grow unkind because they have allowed their dispositions to get soured by the hard knocks that life has given. But even when all the conditions are favorable for exercising kindness, it is a very hard thing to do, because it must oftentimes be given in a way that will cause resentment. A man gets his leg badly crushed, and the surgeon knows that amputation will alone save the man's life. But the man begs him not to do it because he will be a cripple. If the surgeon does his duty he will be kind to the man, and will anyone say that it is easy?

There seems to be quite an uproar in New York's automobile world over Magistrate Marah's act in suspending sentence on Abbie Rockefeller, 21-year old daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., after finding her guilty of speeding several days ago. The case was aggravated by the fact it was her second offense, and because of the fact that she had imperilled several lives. The contention, on the part of all automobile drivers is that the fact of belonging to a family of fabulous wealth ought not to be looked upon as a sufficient reason for suspending her sentence. There is no reason for treating her differently than any other woman guilty of the same offense. The situation is unfortunate for it gives rise to the objection that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor. The socialists have been claiming this for a long time, and a case like this seems to strengthen their position.

Norwich has done well in having its "clean-up" week, for it was sorely needed, in spots, as any observer could testify. For filth and untidiness it would be extravagance, of course, to compare it with Hongkong—especially with Guayaquil, Ecuador, which until recently, was known as the "dirtiest" city in the world—but the least fastidious in matters pertaining to cleanliness can hardly have been satisfied with the conditions of most of our streets in the business section of the city, and in some others. Saturday afternoon of last week the writer made a note of the litter on Main street between the Shannon corner and the McGrory building, and wondered if it was typical of cities of the same size throughout New England. To say the least it did not appeal to one's civic pride. Possibly litter is not to be classified as filth; it may not be unhealthy, nor the breeder of disease, but it is unsightly, and undoubtedly points to an easy, sluttish public spirit.

All right minded people have it in their hearts to say "all hail every great humanitarian object that has in mind the comfort and uplift of the needy." Nothing along this line has struck the writer as more commendable and noteworthy than the project advanced by the Shriners for building and supporting homes for crippled children for any race, color or creed. In all eight have been planned to be strategically placed in different parts of the country. Four of them have already been built. The corner stone of the fifth was laid last Monday in Springfield, Mass., with beautiful and impressive ceremonies. The whole city was touched as rarely ever before. The National Council of the Congregationalists which met there in October, and the great Methodist General Conference just adjourned did not arouse this progressive city with such enthusiasm as the laying of this corner stone. To help the cripple is a great humanitarian work.

Is there not something in Memorial day that puts emphasis on the immortality of spirit, or the superiority of the mental and moral over the physical? Was Memorial day was instituted many years ago it was for the purpose of paying tribute to the soldiers who lost their lives in the Civil war. Then the majority of those who had seen action had come back and were for the most part then alive. Today by far the greater number have passed on, and the comparatively few now alive are in advanced life. Still the day is not forgotten, because the great moral and spiritual idea that lies back of it is still here, and will be here long after the last old veteran has been called. The idea which Memorial day seeks to express belongs to the unchanging.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Prayer.

And it came to pass, that as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.—Luke 11, 1. Moses, Samuel, Elijah and many others of the prophets, priests and kings of Israel, were mighty through prayer. They understood both the purport and method of prayer; they practiced it as a habit. But masters, as they were, beyond their own example, have left us no definite instruction. That they exorted their own generations and guided them in communing with God, may be inferred from the fact that John, the last of the prophets, taught his disciples to pray. But the first recorded instruction for our guidance in prayer, fell from the lips of Jesus in response to the disciples' appeal, "Lord, teach us to pray."

There must be some significance in the fact; that the words of Jesus are the only utterances that may be defined as lessons in prayer. Examples and exortation are multiplied by others. But Jesus is the great teacher. He above all others understood its necessity and power. He, more than all others, entered into deepest exercise and privileges. All that went before Him found some limitations in approaching and communing with God. Moses ascended Sinai's height and talked with God until his face shone with the reflected glory of the Almighty. Aaron entered the holy of holies and looked upon the Shekinah of the Lord's presence until dismissed with the benediction of grace. Elijah stood in the secret of Jehovah's counsel until he went forth as His ambassador. Yet all these communed with some measure of apprehension, and were at times troubled with fear and discouragement.

But with Jesus the way of approach was not barred by the fall of man, nor obstructed by any personal transgression. The way into the secret presence of the Most High was ever open to Him. When He retired into the privacy of secret prayer it was with confident assurance, acceptance and joy. All veils parted before Him, and He entered the presence of the eternal God to commune with Him who dwelleth in the light which no man can approach; whom no man hath seen nor can see." In that presence Jesus became the embodiment of the Father's purpose; the revelation of His will; the channel of His grace, and the manifestation of His glory. Jesus did the works which none other man did, because He could pray as none other had ever prayed.

HOW AND TO WHOM BONUS WILL BE PAID

The American Legion and the Red Cross have sent instructions to all their local organizations in New England instructing them to assist World war veterans in obtaining the adjusted compensation or bonus passed by Congress.

The Legion has sent to all New England posts the following general information on eligibility and procedure:

Requirements of Service

"1. Some service must have been had between April 5, 1917, and Nov. 12, 1918, in the military or naval forces, in order to be eligible; and

"2. No payments can be made to—

(a) Any individual who at any time during such period or thereafter was separated from such forces under other than honorable conditions;

(b) Any conscientious objector who performed no military duty whatever or refused to wear the uniform; or

(c) Any alien who at any time during such period or thereafter was discharged from the military or naval forces on account of his alienage.

"'Overseas Service' means service on shore in Europe or Asia, exclusive of China, Japan and the Philippine Islands; and service afloat, not on receiving ships; including in either case the period from the date of embarkation for such service to the date of disembarkation on return from such service, both dates inclusive.

"'Home Service' means all service not oversea service.

"Service is credited only after April 5, 1917, and before July 1, 1919. The sum of $1 a day is allowed for 'home service,' and $1.25 a day for 'oversea service.' From this must be deducted 60 days service because of the $60 each veteran received upon discharge. This 60 day deduction may be made from 'home service.'

"The service as computed in the foregoing is known as the 'adjusted service credit,' and this adjusted service credit is the basis upon which the cash payments are made, and the 20 year endowment life insurance policies are issued.

How to Figure It

"The manner in which a veteran may calculate his 'adjusted service credit' is illustrated in the following example:

"A veteran enlisted Feb. 16, 1918; he was sent first to camp, from where he was sent to Port of Embarkation, sailing for overseas June 21, 1918; he arrived home from overseas at the American Port, May 25, 1919; he was sent to camp here and discharged June 4, 1919. This service would give him the following credit:

"Home Credit: Feb. 16 to June 20, 1918, equals 126 days, plus May 26 to June 4, 1919 (10 days) equals 136 days less 60 days, equals 76 days @ $1 a day or a total home credit of $76.00.

"Overseas Credit: June 21, 1918, to May 25, 1919, equals 339 days. Multiply this 339 by $1.25 and you have a total overseas credit of $423.75.

"Total credit (Home and Overseas) which is called 'adjusted service credit,' $499.75.

Those Not Included

"There are certain ranks, grades or commissions held, and duties performed or not performed, during which period a veteran, otherwise eligible, will receive no credit. Days or service in the credit period under these conditions should therefore be deducted in computing the adjusted service credit. These include:

"Any commissioned officer above the grade of captain in the army or marine corps, lieutenant in the navy, first lieutenant or first lieutenant of engineers in the Coast Guard, or passed assistant surgeon in the public health service, or having the pay and allowances of not the rank, of any officer above or in rank to any of such grades in each case for the period of service of such:

"Any individual holding a permanent or provisional commission or permanent or acting warrant in any branch of the military or naval forces, or (while holding such commission or warrant) serving under a temporary commission in a higher grade—in each case for the period of service under such commission or warrant or in such higher grade after the accrual of the right to pay thereunder. This subdivision shall not apply to any noncommissioned officer:

"Any civilian officer or employe of any branch of the military or naval forces, contract surgeon, cadet of the United States military academy, midshipman, cadet or cadet engineer of the Coast Guard, member of the Reserve officers' Training Corps, member of the students' army training corps (except an enlisted man detailed there), Philippine scout member of the Philippine Guard, member of the Philippine Constabulary, member of the National Guard of Hawaii, member of the insular force of the navy, member of the Samoan native guard and band of the navy, or Indian scout—in each case for the period of service as such:

"Any commissioned or warrant officer performing home service not with troops and receiving commutation of quarters or of subsistence—for the period of such service;

"Any member of the public health service for any period during which he was not detailed for duty with the army or the navy;

"Any individual granted a farm or industrial furlough—for the period of such furlough; or

"Any individual detailed for work on roads or other construction or repair work—for the period during which his pay was equalized to conform to the compensation paid to civilian employees in the same or like employment;

"Any individual who was discharged or otherwise released from the draft—for the period of service terminating with such discharge or release.

What a Veteran Can Receive

"Each veteran shall be entitled:

"To receive 'adjusted service pay if the amount of his adjusted service credit is $50 or less.

"To receive 'adjusted service certificate' if the amount of his adjusted service credit is more than $50.

Application

"Application blanks have been prepared by the war and navy departments. These blanks will be available to veterans through local posts of the legion, where veterans will be assisted in filling them out correctly by American Legion officials. The applications must then be forwarded to the war department at Washington, if the last service of the veteran was with the military forces, or to the navy department at Washington, if the last service of the veteran was with the naval forces. This application must be made before January 1, 1928, and if not made on or before this date will be held void.

Payment

"The administration of the law is under the United States Veterans' Bureau, which after March 1, 1925, will make the $50 or less cash payments to veterans, and after January 1, 1925, will begin issuing the 20 year endowment life insurance policy certificates. The certificates will be dated at the time issued to veterans, and no loans will be made on a certificate until two years after its date of issue.

"If a veteran has died, before making application his dependents will be paid the amount of his adjusted service credit. If this credit is $50 or less, payment will be made in one sum by the veterans' bureau. If the credit is more than $50, the payment will be made in ten quarterly installments.

"If the veteran has died after making application, but before January 1, 1925, then the amount of the full face value of the insurance policy will be paid in the same manner as if he had received the policy prior to his death, but not before January 1, 1925.

Insurance Policies

"The face value of the 20 year endowment insurance policy which a veteran will receive, is the amount which his adjusted service credit, plus 25 per cent, would purchase at his age, based upon American experience tables of mortality, with interest at 4 per cent per annum, compounded annually. If the veteran dies before the expiration of the 20 years, his beneficiaries of estate will receive the full amount of the policy, in case in one sum. If the veteran is living at the end of the 20 year period the government will pay him the full face value of his policy in cash, less any claims for the sums borrowed on it.

"The following will show veterans the amount of paid up twenty-year endowment life insurance to which they are entitled, together with the sums they may borrow at any given year:

"Multiply the amount of the adjusted service credit by one of the factors shown in the following. Choose the factor opposite the age nearest the birthday at date certificate is issued (the 25 per cent increase is included in the factor.)

"A veteran has an adjusted service credit of $625. He is thirty years old at the date his insurance certificate is issued to him. In order to obtain the face value of his insurance certificate, he must multiply the factor opposite the age 30 (which is 2.624) by $625. This will give him $1,577.50 as the face value of his insurance certificate.

"At the seventh year he will be able to borrow $.22532 for each $1 of his insurance. Therefore, multiply $1,577.50 by $.22532 and you will obtain $355.44 which is the sum he may borrow at the seventh year. Apply this same procedure to the figures opposite any year in order to obtain the amount which can be borrowed that year.

"A museum in every high school" is a new slogan in Kansas. Local history and the botany and geology of the respective localities are the subjects to be emphasized. The collections are to be made by the pupils to stimulate interest in their studies. Many high schools have found museums so conducted to be of great value.

The Registering Piano

The Registering Piano

The Gulbransen Registering Piano of today is the world's latest achievement in musical instruments.

It stands absolutely alone in the artistic results it produces and the ease with which they are obtained. It is played by music roll and pedals, as are other instruments of its type, but there the similarity ends.

The Gulbransen registers one's exact "touch" on each note. It can be played with all the feeling, the life, the delicacy of the very finest piano music you ever listened to.

Because these are facts, we are insistent that the Gulbransen be not confused with other instruments of the same type. We challenge investigation of it as an Easy-to-Play Registering Piano that registers your exact touch, that registers your time, that registers your expression.

Farming Advice 103 Years Ago.

Mr. Editor: Through the courtesy of William H. Phelps of the state humane society, I own a copy of The Farmers' Manual, published 103 years ago by Frederick Butler, A. M., of Wethersfield, Conn., and find that much of our scientific writing today does not get us but a very little way beyond suggestions to farmers 103 years ago by Prof. Butler. In closing one chapter on reclaiming land, he says "Clay soil, when under tillage, cannot be ploughed too frequently, while sandy soil must not be ploughed but once and that should be deep as the furrow which buried the sward when broken up, and no deeper. Clover and buckwheat may be used on both if ploughed in while green as a fertilizing crop, when the soils begin to mix and become fertile; both these soils may be reduced to a rich, profitable tillage for every description of crop.

The farmer must always observe this caution. If he exhausts their strength by bad tillage they will both revert to their original state, and become sand or clay again; but by perfect tillage they will continue to improve until the one becomes a rich clay loam and the other a rich sand loam, fit for clover or wheat forever."

In connection with labor prices I quote once more from Mr. Butler in the same chapter:

"I am fully sensible that the high price of labour in our country is a serious objection to any very extensive improvements in reclaiming lands in this mode; but such lands as near to our dwellings become more immediately the object of our attention: try these first, and you can then determine how far it will be for your interest to continue the improvements."

Mr. Mallet of Milford said in regard to ploughing for corn "When I plough my land for Indian corn, I always lay it in ridges, and those ridges I never disturb by cross ploughing, while my corn is upon the land. I am fully convinced by my own experience and that of all my neighbours, who pursue the same method, that one-fifth more corn will be raised—at least—than in any other way on the same land."

Mr. Holebrook of Derby, Judge Chauncey of New Haven, and several other scientific men of 103 years ago agreed with Mr. Mallet.

In regard to weeds Prof. Butler says:

"1—Plant such fallows with potatoes, as are infested with wire-grass and noxious weeds. Plough and hoe together can alone destroy this pest."

Ain't it the truth?

"2—Suffer no weeds to seed in your fallows, either summer or autumn.

"3—Be careful that your seed grain is clean from weed seed.

"4—Observe the same in your grass seed at stocking down.

"5—Pull out your docks upon your mowing ground before the seed ripens, that they may not further foul your mowing, or be carted into your barn and fed out with your hay to foul the dung.

"7—Suffer no tired field to lie waste, as a nursery for weeds. The expense of ploughing will bear no proportion to the after expense of weeding.

"8—Weed your wheat, rye, barley, oats, flax and hemp; the profit will be as great as your corn, and the expense comparatively small. Try it and see."

All through the book is just such up to now suggestions or suggestions that would work equally as well today—103 years after the book was printed—all the more so because the greatest trouble the farmer had in both those days and today was the high cost of labor, then spelled labour.

If these farm notes are of any interest I will gladly copy what Professor Butler says on any subject he covers if any other Bulletin reader would like to read them.

Some of his potato stories especially are most surely interesting.

B. MONTGOMERY.

Carrie Chapman Catt's Life of Work

Carrie Chapman Catt went through many troubles of her own, then took up those of others in her years of effort.

She, as Carrie Lane, was born on a farm near Ripon, Wis., and as a girl had to help with the housework. When she was 7, her parents moved to Charles City, Iowa, and she attended the public school.

At 14 she taught school and saved her pennies to pay her way at college. At Iowa College, at Grinnell, she was the first girl to deliver an oration. While a student she earned all but $100 of her way.

Graduating when 21, she became principal of a high school at Mason City and a year afterward was appointed superintendent of all Mason City public schools.

Three years later she was married to Leo Chapman, editor of a Mason City newspaper, and became joint owner and editor of the paper. Mr. Chapman's health failed and a year after their marriage they sold the newspaper and started for San Francisco.

Mr. Chapman died a year later and she was left alone in a strange city 2,000 miles from home. She became an advertising solicitor and was the first woman reporter on a trade journal in San Francisco.

Returning to Iowa, she, at 28, made her first speech for suffrage, then spent two years as state organizer for the Iowa suffragists. Her campaigns in other states followed, then she went to Europe, where she was consulted by statesmen and political leaders.

In New York she married George W. Catt, an old Grinnel schoolmate, who had gone East and become a millionaire. He greatly aided her in her suffrage work, but died in 1905 after a long illness with a baffling disease.

Mrs. Catt founded the International Suffrage Alliance, which comprised twenty-six countries, and was its first president. She also was president of the National Woman Suffrage association and was the directing head during the closing years of the battle for adoption of the constitutional suffrage amendment.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. George A. Miller, one of the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, is a native of Illinois, but studied at the University of Southern California and Leland Stanford Jr. University. After pastorates at Fresno and other cities in California he went, as a missionary, to the Philippines, living for two years in Manila. Upon his return from the Philippines, he again entered the pastorate, serving churches in San Jose and San Francisco, and then, in 1916, went to Central America as superintendent of the Panama mission of the Methodist church. For the past four years Dr. Miller has been centenary secretary of the Methodist church for all South America, his work there taking him into every section of the southern continent. He is the author of several books based on his observations as a missionary and executive in foreign lands.

Wishes Respect for Dad

The teacher was filling out monthly report cards and writing the names of the children's fathers. She turned to ten year old Mary and asked: "Mary, isn't your father's name Joan?"

Mary gave the teacher a cutting look. "Yes it is," she admitted, "but I would rather you would call him Mr. Jones."

American House In Flames—Two Alarm Fire

At 3.30 o'clock this (Saturday) morning the American house, Shetucket street, was discovered in flames. Harry R Jervis, who discovered the fire on his way home from the Bulletin office pulled in Box 4. Ten minutes later a second alarm called out additional apparatus.

The interior of the building was a seething mass of flames which were shooting out through the roof of the wooden structure when the firemen arrived. Dense volumes of smoke were rolling down from the windows and filling the streets.

One man was taken down a ladder from the second story. At press time it could not be learned whether all occupants of the building had escaped.

BULKELEY WINS THRILLER FROM BRIDGEPORT HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 30. — Before a crowd of approximately 1,500 people, the Bulkeley High school baseball team sent Bridgeport High down to a 3 to 2 defeat, in a contest that was [illegible]. A ninth inning rally [illegible] for the Orange and Black were down in the [illegible]

From the very first inning the contest developed into a pitchers' battle between Daniels for Bulkeley and [illegible] for Bridgeport and for six innings neither team was able to [illegible] were down in the [illegible]

In the seventh inning Bridgeport attempted to squeeze the Bulkeley shortstop in, but this attempt failed and with two men on, Bolt erred on Colway's fly to him and Cremins scored with the first run of the game. A wild pitch by Daniels and a passed ball scored Colwell and Bridgeport had two runs to the good.

Bulkeley registered one in their half of the inning, Sheffloit walked and some daring base running when he stole both second and third, counted in the scoring of this run. Tuttle followed with a grounder to Cremins at short, and when the latter mussed it Sheffloit scored. PANCHO VILLA DEFENDS HIS TITLE SUCCESSFULLY AGAINST FRANKIE ASH

New York, May 30.—Pancho Villa, sensational Filipino flyweight, and holder of the world's 112-pound crown, successfully defended his title by decisively outpointing Frankie Ash of England in a 15-round match at the Nostrand A. C., in Brooklyn, tonight. The champion carried a relentless attack to his challenger throughout the bout and easily won every round. Villa weighed the flyweight limit of 112 while Ash scaled 110 1-2.

The champion frantically tried for a knockout in the closing rounds and at one time—in the thirteenth round—it appeared that he might accomplish his purpose but the Britisher pluckily clung to his guns and survived the ordeal.

Villa concentrated his attack on the challenger's body in the early rounds, then shifted his attack to Ash's head. The challenger rocked and reeled about the ring, waivering half way between an upright and a horizontal position but the little champion could not muster the strength and punch to bowl over his fast weakening challenger.

Ash, had he any punch, might have spoiled the little titleholder's game trouble. The Englishman boxed Villa at every turn and many times forced the Filipino to miss. His counters landed but carried no force and Villa was able to meet his man wide open.

Villa was warned on several occasions by Referee Ed Purdy for using a banned backhand punch and for hitting after the bell.

A crowd of 10,000 fans braved a frigid atmosphere and a cold wind to see the title match.

In the 12 round semi-final Mike Ballerino of Bayonne, N. J., easily outpointed Kid Sullivan of Brooklyn. In six round preliminary Vic Brog of Pittsburgh won a decision over Joe Rossi of New York.

PONIES COME FROM BEHIND, BEAT WORCESTER 16 TO 10

Springfield, Mass., May 30. — The Ponies, coming from six runs behind after Garry Fortune had been batted out of the box in the third inning, based Graham to the showers in the fifth and hit Reinhardt freely, winning 16 to 10. Obere connected for two homers and Niederkorn had a perfect day with the willow. The score:

Worcester ..... 2 0 3 0 0 0 3 2 0—10
Springfield ..... 0 1 1 4 7 1 1 1 x—16

WATERBURY HITS HARD TO BEAT HARTFORD, 8 TO 4

Hartford, May 30.—Waterbury hit Swaney Ward and Hartford played ragged ball, the visitors defeating the champions, eight to four, in the game here. Ulrich kept nine hits well scattered. The score:

Waterbury ..... 0 2 0 2 3 1 0 0 0—8
Hartford ..... 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 2—4

WESTERLY HIGH BEATS STONINGTON, SCORE 8 TO 4

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., May 30.—Westerly High school continued its winning streak Memorial day in Westerly by crowning its strongest rival for Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic Baseball league honors, the Stonington High school nine, by the score of 8 to 4. Coincident with the importance of winning the game to continue the winning streak unbroken was the successful conclusion of the drive to obtain moveable bleacher seats for the Playground field on which the home games are played. Over the 900 mark set, the drive of the past week is now recorded. An attendance of over 1,000 baseball fans were on the field and automobiles were parked on one side of High street, Mountain avenue and in a long line on the high ground east of the third base line. W. H. S. Football Coach D. Harold Rogers made a short announcement concerning the seat drive and Umpire Finnell of Providence announced the batteries, Dennett and Foote for Stonington; Smith and Larsen for Westerly," and the game was on.

The score by innings:

Stonington High 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 2—4
Westerly High .. 0 1 2 0 1 4 0 0 x—8

YANKS AND ATHLETICS DIVIDE DOUBLE BILL

New York, May 30.—The New York world's champions divided a holiday doubleheader with Philadelphia here today. New York won the first one by a score of 6 to 0 and Philadelphia took the second, 5 to 4, it being their first victory over New York this season.

Ruth also hit the 250th home run of his career in the first game. The Athletics won the second game with a four run rally in the eighth inning, Miller hitting a home run with two men on base. New York filled the bases with two out in the ninth, but Baumgartner, a relief pitcher, struck out Ruth with three pitched balls.

BROWNS AND WHITE SOX SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER

St. Louis, May 30.—The local pitchers were off form this afternoon and the Browns lost to the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 11, after taking the morning game, 5 to 2. Ken Williams, Browns' left fielder, increased his string of homers to eight for the season by hitting for the circuit in both games. Sisler, who had been in a batting slump the last two weeks, got three hits in four times at bat in the morning game, but was able to connect only once in the last contest. The first game was a pitching duel with Danforth the master over McWeeny. Afternoon attendance was about 20,000. Score:

ACADEMY ERRORS COST GAME WITH NORTH HIGH

North High of Worcester defeated the Norwich Free academy team Friday afternoon at the Academy campus by a score of 29 to 15, in the worst game Norwich fans have seen in many years.

It was certainly an off day for the Academy team, which had been going strong earlier in the week, when the Freshmen of Connecticut Agricultural college were beaten in this city by a score of 6 to 4. Errors by the Academy team reached 18, after which Loring an adding machine, lost the the scorekeeper, who had forgotten to count.

With this bunch of rotten playing out of their systems the Academy is certain to be in fine shape for a comeback for the biggest battle of the season, which takes place today, Saturday, when Bulkeley comes to Norwich.

Both teams hit well, North High getting 15 hits, one home run, a double and 13 singles, the Academy, 11 hits, two triples, two doubles and seven singles, one of the triples coming when Hlinicks hit over the fence and completed the circuit only to lose credit for failure to touch third. Both teams used several pitchers but the Academy refused to start Segal who is the ace of the team and must be saved for Bulkeley. Score by innings:

North High 1 0 4 1 5 6 5 1 6—29 15 7

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham, New York Giants

Ninth inning. Three men on bases. Score 7-7. The batter up is one of the best hitters of his club and the man who follows him is not quite so good.

Would it be a good idea to give the batter a base on balls even though it puts the other team ahead and trust to retire the side on the next batter?

It is never a sound policy to put a team ahead in a baseball game. Remember that in a case of this kind a one run lead means that you have to make two runs. The batter should always be pitched to as he may hit into a double play. You just have to play the game to stop runs and you are out of luck if the other team scores by means of a hit or long fly to the outfield. Don't give the game away. Fight for it until the last man is out.

MANY ATTRACTIONS OVER WEEK END FOR EASTERN CONNECTICUT FANS

Fans of Eastern Connecticut are promised plenty of sports over the week end including several baseball games and a fine boxing card at Danielson tonight, Saturday, in connection with the holding of a celebration by the Voiture, an American legion organization. The attractions are as follows:

N. F. A. vs. Bulkeley.

Norwich Free academy clashes with its old time rival, Bulkeley, at the Academy campus today, the game to start at 3 o'clock sharp. Bulkeley, state champion team, expects an easy time today but the Academy team after a meeting Friday night intends to go into the game to win and may throw a surprise into the confident ranks of the Orange and Black. N. F. A. will use Segal on the mound and expects this little hurler to give a fine account of himself against the champions. Montall, who beat the Academy at New London, will go on the mound for Bulkeley.

Boxing at Danielson.

In connection with the big parade and institution of a Voiture in Danielson tonight, Promoter Barber has arranged 32 rounds of A-1 boxing starring several of the well known fighters of Massachusetts and Connecticut. Jimmy Wilde of Boston and Kid Boston of Fall River meet in the star bout and other bouts will be between Paul Dexter and Bobby Valger of Fall River, semi-finals, Young Sennar and Young Robideau, Kid McCoy and Young Baker. A portion of the receipts are to be given to the Danielson legion post.

Taftville-Corbin Red Sox.

Taftville tackles the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain this afternoon at the Providence street grounds, game to be called at 3.30 o'clock. Taftville will put its usual strong lineup into the field and expects to duplicate Riverview's feat by handing the up-state boys a trimming. Davis will be on the mound for Taftville with Liberty behind the bat.

J. B. Martin-Rossie Velvet.

On Sunday afternoon at the Martin field in Taftville the J. B. Martin team faces the fast Rossie Velvet nine of Mystic and a real battle is anticipated. The Martin company will be represented by the same team that beat Ashland last week and the battery will be Eccleston and Morin.

Other Attractions.

Besides these games high school games are scheduled at New London between Windham High and Chapman Tech; the American Thread will play and there are games at the State hospital and numerous other local fields.

For news the fans will await the results of the Gibbons-Carpentier fight, the American Henley, intercollegiate track and field meets at Cambridge and several other attractions on the diamond and on the field, which are booked for today and Sunday.

GOOD RACING BILL AT WILLIMANTIC FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 30.—Matinee racing proved a popular sport here Memorial day afternoon when several hundred fans gathered at Recreation park and witnessed there spectacular events staged under the auspices of the American Thread Athletic association. Walter R. King was starter and the judges were James Johnson of Scotland, J. C. Witter of Danielson and Charles W. Hill of this city. On the racing committee were Carleton P. King, J. Barney Davis, Jos. Vincelotte, Adelard Lord and John Moriarty. The prizes were 100 bushels of oats to the winners of each event. Following are the entries, results of heats and time of the mile:

Class A—Patsy Chatham, N. Fountain, Lisbon, Conn., 2-1-1 winner, time 2:26 1-4; Fred Grey, N. Fountain, Lisbon, Conn., 1-2-2 second, 2:25 1-4.

Class B—Dan Gane, J. F. Flood, Danielson, 6-6 drawn, time 2:26 1-4; Peter Daw, Thread City Driving club, 4-4-4-4-4, time 2:26 1-4; Bannles Baby, Burns, Norwich, 2-2-4-2 second, time, 2:27 1-4; Star Bond, S. L. Turner, Norwich, 1-3-3-3, time 2:28 1-4; Crissie Chimes, Lisee, Willimantic, 5-5 drawn; Famous Nutwood, Fred Burnham, Hebron, 3-1-1-1 winner.

Class C—Knight Errant, J. F. Flood, Danielson, 6-5-6, time 2:32 1-4; Samie Chatham, Youngs, Eagleville, 5-5-5, time 2:33 1-2; Lucy Chatham, Sodom Social club, 4-3-4, time 2:38 1-2; Peter Agan, 2nd, J. LaFaven, Occum, 2-2-3, second; Sally Ann, Frank A. Smith, Norwich, 3-4-2; Black Thunder, S. L. Turner, Norwich, 1-1-1, winner; Davy Brocket, William Nye, Westerly, R. I., 6-7-7; Berdine, Delorme, Willimantic, 7 drawn.

Fred Burnham of Hebron, formerly livery man in Willimamntic and driver of Famous Nutwood, winner in Class B event had not driven in a race in twenty-two years. There was a slight mishap at the conclusion of the first heat in the Class C event when the horse Berdine, driven by Delorme, ran too close to Knight Errant, owned by J. F. Flood of Danielson and was thrown to the track. The sulkies locked wheels and in the mixup the local horse was thrown.

NINTH INNING RALLY WINS FOR RIVERVIEW

Fighting hard in the final half of the ninth Riverview came from behind and won from the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain, Friday afternoon at the hospital grounds, by a score of 4 to 3. Riverview made two in the third after the Corbins had made one. This ended the scoring until the ninth when the visitors made two runs, giving them the lead by one run. Riverview came right back with two and took the game after two were down.

Today, Saturday, Riverview meets the West Ends of Taftville at the hospital, the Riverview lineup being as follows: Couillard 1b, Burns 2b, Mills 3b, Moore ss, Belair c, Corcoran lf, O'Neil cf, Hamel rf, Zemke p. Holden will umpire.

AMERICAN THREAD BEATS MANCHESTER IN THRILLER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 30.—A game that was nip and tuck throughout was won by Willimantic's state league entry from their old rivals from Manchester at Recreation park yesterday morning by the narrowest of margins, 1 to 0. "Rube" Richards in the box for the locals and "Lefty" Thompson for the opposition hooked up in a pretty a pitchers' battle as one would care to see. Each boxman wormed his way out of a number of holes. The Thread Makers supported Richards better afield and therein lies the story of the outcome. Smith, Sharpe, the Trauske brothers, Adams and Flaherty, and Richards himself turned in fielding plays that helped mightily in turning back the Silktown lads. Willimantic threatened to score in the first, third and fifth innings but not until the lucky seventh were they able to dent the platter for the lone score of the game. Gaudette beat out a hit to short for a starter and Adams also hit one past that station. Flaherty walked, filling the sacks. A pitch out foiled an attempted squeeze play and Gaudette was nabbed at the plate. "Eddie" Trauske hit to Bronkie who fell down with the ball and Adams scored, but Flaherty who also tried to make home was run down for the third out. The score:

A May basket party was planned by Miss Annie Mitchell for her uncle, William T. Curry, in honor of his birthday, May 24th. Games, dancing, and Victrola selections furnished entertainment for the evening. Ice cream, cake and lemonade were served. A box of cigars was presented Mr. Curry by his niece, Miss Annie Mitchell. Owing to unpleasant weather, there was not a large attendance.

LISBON

Newent church was well filled again Sunday when a number came from adjoining towns to listen to the very interesting address by A. B. Meredith, secretary of the state board of education. The pastor and people consider it a rare privilege to have had two such able speakers two Sundays in succession as Chaplain Maurice Reynolds and Secretary Meredith.

In compliance with the request to pastors all over the country to preach on law enforcement the first Sunday in June, Rev. W. J. Reynolds has announced that his subject will be Hail Wet and Hail Dry.

During the thunder storm Saturday evening the large maple in the center of the pasture back of the church was struck by lightning.

Mrs. Charles A. Whitaker was given a birthday surprise Tuesday evening by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Whitaker, at their home. The company, numbering about twenty with the family was entertained with the radio and Victrola. The hostess served refreshments.

Frank Mell, Harold Mell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, Miss Martha Davis, Miss Christine Burdick, Miss Clara Hyde and Walter Hyde attended a May basket party given for C. Orford Mell at his home in Versailles, Saturday evening.

School Savings Successful in Small Community

That the school savings system works well in small communities as in the cities is demonstrated by the schools of Gilbert Minn. Within 10 weeks from the day the first savings were deposited 1,950 out of the 2,066 pupils enrolled opened bank accounts, according to School Life, a publication of the Bureau of Education.

Detail work of the system within the schools is in charge of W. A. Pike, head of the commercial department. Within two months more he expects that every child will have a bank account. Weekly and monthly reports showing the percentage standing of all the rooms are sent to every room in the district. They are also published in the local papers. It has been proposed that as soon as every pupil in a school gets a holiday

Mustapha Fosi Effendi, Head Of Moslem Church

When the Sultan was deposed he lost much of the spiritual control over devout Moslems who looked upon him as the successor to the great Prophet Mahomet. But the 'Ulema and its head, the Sheik of Islam, remains, and the Sheik now stands out as the spiritual leader of Islam and his power is but little lessened by the political changes.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., was completing preparations for the observance of Memoral Day. The programme for the day included the decoration of the graves of the civil war soldiers, a parade and exercises at the Yantic cemetery. The same week the republicans of the city held a caucus in the town hall to nominate candidates for the city election. Interesting events of that week taken from the files of The Bulletin are as follows:

Monday, May 25, 1874—Patrick Foley of Bean Hill, a boy about 7 years old, was drowned in the Yantic river, Saturday afternoon while fishing. He was in company with another lad of about the same age and both were standing on a bridge over the river. It is not known how the accident happened, as his comrade did not hear an outcry and di not miss him until he heard a splash and saw a cap floating in the river. The river was dragged thoroughly but up to last evening no report of their success had been received.

During a brief absence of the family the dwelling house of Randall Davis was broken into and a silver watch and a pocketbook containing five dollars in money were stolen from a toilet box the lock of which was broken.

The Thamesville club, flushed with their victory over the Blackstone hose nine, crowned themselves as champions of Norwich. The cigarmakers' nine immediately challenged them to play a match for that title. The game came off on Williams park Saturday afternoon. At the close of the game the cigarmakers stood 24 to the Thamesville 17.

Decoration Day next Saturday, the ceremonies of the day will be observed in Norwich in the usual appropriate manner.

Tuesday, May 26, 1874—Homer Bliss left on the steamboat train last evening for St. Louis to attend the annual session of the International Typographical Union which begins in that city on Monday next. He goes as a delegate from Norwich Typographical Union No. 100 of this city.

The last grand ball of the season will be in the village View House, Taftville, next Friday evening. Music will be furnished by Gurdon Cady's band and Gurdon will officiate as promptor. An abundance of dancing and refreshments will be insured for all.

The coal schooner Curtis Goodwin, belonging to J. S. Rogers and Co., sprung a leak Friday while coming frim New York to Norwich. She was taken in charge by the tug Wellington and was leaking badly when she arrived at her destination. She had on board 198 tons of coal.

Next Monday the annual city election takes place and there is already considerable interest being developed in reference to it. The officers to be elected are two aldermen, four councilmen, city clerk, city treasurer, sheriff, two water commissioners and several minor officers.

Wednesday, May 27, 1874—The bed of the Greeneville Horse Railroad has been repaired and we understand that negotiations are being made to obtain a better class of cars for the entire road.

Decoration Day—The near approach of the day upon which the graves of the soldiers are decorated, renders it necessary that active measures be taken for the appropriate celebration of the usual ceremonies. At a meeting of Sedgwick Post G. A. R. the following committees were appointed:

Committee on flowers for the city: Edward Harland, S. B. Meech, B. P. Learned, Greeneville; Henry M. Durfey, John Martin, Henry Irish, West Side; L. M. Manning. Committee on decorations for the city: S. T. C. Merwin, G. W. Whittlesey, George Kampf, S. R. Knapp, G. S. Smith, James Ecclestone, J. H. Jewett, Joab B. Rogers, Greeneville; Henry M. Durfey, John Martin, Henry Irish, F. N. Cook, D. N. Carpenter, Charles W. Rouse. It is desired that the ladies of the town do everything in their power to forward the work by providing flowers for the decorative services as promptly as possible.

Thursday, May 28, 1874—The business of the C. B. Rogers & Company manufactory has been increasing of late and their shipments have been in excess of the goods they are producing. They have shipped several machines of different patterns to Norway and Sweden within the last few weeks.

The court of common pleas Judge Holbrook presiding, held a short session here yesterday. Three cases were brought up, two of which were arranged between the parties and the other continued. The court meets this morning at 9 o'clock.

We learn that Thomas Browning for a long time connected with the hat establishment of J. T. Clark of this city, and who sometime ago removed to Northampton, Mass., is very pleasantly and prosperously situated there.

The steamer Ella was taken across the river yesterday for a suitable place for the erection of her smokestack.

Last Sunday night S. H. Phelps of Lyme took 38 shad in one haul, which is the largest catch reported this season. A great many shad are being shipped from Lyme and that vicinity to New York.

Friday, May 28, 1874—Henry J. Adams, an engineer of long standing and popularity on the Norwich & Worcester road, was married at the Central Baptist church yesterday to Miss Nettie Stoddard; the best wishes of their many friends go with them on their united journey.

There was a very pleasant gathering at the home of Jedediah Spaulding on Thames street yesterday it being the occasion of his 70th birthday. A party of 60 relatives assembled at the house early in the day and sat down to a very bountiful dinner which was greatly enjoyed. After dinner Mr. Spaulding was presented with a gold headed ebony cane by his nephew and niece. The cane is a very handsome one and was bought in New York by Lieut. Woodward.

The house of H. Fenner, Jewett City, was struck by lightning during the storm Monday. A portion of the building was slightly damaged and the occupants of the house considerably shaken up but not much injured. This is one of several times that Mr. Fenner has been visited by electricity.

The members of the Park Congregational society will meet at their chapel on Wednesday evening next to consider the question of inviting a pastor.

Saturday, May 29, 1874—A large caucus of the republican party was held in the town hall last evening to select nominees for the city election on Monday. E. S. Bishop called the meeting to order and Amos W. Prentice was chosen chairman. E. S. Bishop was appointed secretary. The vote for alderman resulted as follows: William L. Brewer, James S. Carew. Councilmen, J. Hunt Smith, Lyman Gould, H. L. Parker, J. P. Collins. John L. Devotion was unanimously chosen city clerk by acclamation. For city treasurer, Charles Webb. City sheriffs, Joab B. Rogers, George E. Smith, water commissioner, Alba F. Smith, All chosen by acclamation.

Decoration services—The procession today will form at about 2 o'clock in front of the hall of the Sedgwick Post in the following order: Tubbs band; Co. C., Norwich Guards; Sedgwick Post; orator; city government; invited guests. The line of march will be from the hall of the G. A. R., through Main street to Water, to Main, to Union, to Broadway, to Sachem, to Lafayette to the cemetery. Return, down Broadway, to Broad, to Franklin, to Main, to the hall.

Vaughn's foundry at the depot has yielded to the tidal wave of paint.

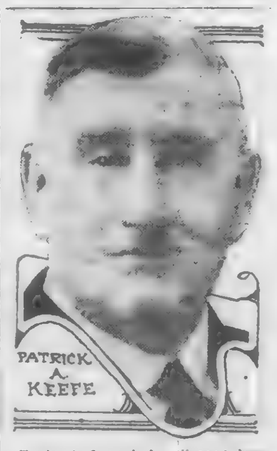
LIKE DIFFERENT MAN, SAYS PATRICK KEEFE

New Haven Citizen Says Tanlac Overcame His Troubles.



"Since taking Tanlac myself I have had some friends use it with amazing results too," declares Patrick A. Keefe, a moulder, residing at 848 State St., New Haven, Conn.

"My stomach had troubled me for a number of years, but for two years past I could hardly eat anything without suffering terrible pains. I suffered from constipation, liver and kidney disorders, pains in the back, bad nerves and loss of sleep and had no energy to do anything.

"I was skeptical of Tanlac at first, having been disappointed so many times, but the first bottle convinced me that Tanlac was different. So I continued taking it with the result that my troubles are gone and I am a new and different man."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Bible Reading Required in Kentucky Schools

That "the teachers in charge shall read, or cause to be read, a portion of the Bible daily in every classroom or session room of the common schools of the state of Kentucky in the presence of the pupils therein assembled," is the gist of a bill recently signed by the governor of Kentucky. No pupil will be required to read the Bible against the wish of his parents or guardians. Failure of any teacher to carry out the provisions of this bill will be cause for revoking his certificate.

Trouble is the only thing a man can borrow without being asked to pay back.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY NEIGHBORS

Who's that a-coming up the path?
Run, Betsy Jane and see,
I'll bet it's hateful old Miss Jones
A-coming here to tea.
Miss Perkins, is it? Deary me!
I'd rather hear it thunder—
She's allers out a-tattin',
What brings her here, I wonder.

I hope she's only come to call—
Don't ask her, dear, to stay.
For if you urge her hard enough
She'd never go away.
Of all the wimmin that I know
Mis' Perkins beats them holler;
She's comin' here to spy around
I'll bet a silver dollar.

She's got her old sick bonnet on
It's older than the hills
I'm sure it looks rediculous
And ruffles, tucks and frills.
Good gracious me, she's got her work
I'll have to get my knittin'—
I s'pose you know Bill Smith has give
Her daughter Ann the mitten.

Come in, Mis' Perkins, is that you;
I'm despit glad you've come,
For, as I said to Betsey Jane,
This house seems awful dumb.
Mis' Perkins, take the rockin' chair,
And, Betsey, take her bonnet,
Be sure you put it where the flies
And dust won't get upon it

Sez I, not half an hour ago,
Sez I to Betsey Jane,
I wonder where Mis' Perkins is
Why don't she come again?
Sez I, I hope she'll come today,
If nothin's up to hinder;
She's comin' now, says Betsey Jane,
A-lookin out the winder.

Mis' Perkins, take a pinch of snuff
And tell us all the news:
I haven't heard 'em in so long
I've almost got the blues.
Miss Johnson got a new silk dress,
Mis' Perkins, well I never—
I wonder if she really thinks
The money'll last forever

Mis' Perkins, yes, I was at church;
Now, war't you glad to hear
The preacher preach so plain on dress:
It hit some folks so clear.
Miss Primrose colored like a beet—
You know she wore a feather.
An' Sarah Grime was awful mad,
It bit 'em both together.

I wonder if, Squire Pettibone
Ain't got a brand-new wig"
I really do dislike that man.
He feels so awful big:
You saw him walkin' tother night
Along with Catherine Snyder,
Mis' Perkins, that will make a match.
I'll bet a pint of cider

The deacon's son is waitin' on
Miss Grimes' cousin Rose—
What for, do you suppose?
I hardly think he'll marry her,
His father won't be willin'.
For she's as poor as poor can be—
She isn't worth a shillin'.
I suppose you know Maria Smith
Had named her baby Lily;
I'd call her Cabbage Hollyhock—
It ain't a bit more silly.

Mis' Perkins, have you heard about
That fuss with Peleg Brown?
You hain't? Why goodness gracious me,
[illegible] about it
[illegible] customers
[illegible]
And [illegible] youngest
[illegible]
[illegible] green tomatoes

Of course you've heard the talk that's round
About the widder Hatch:
They say she's after Thomas Sweet,
And that'll be a match.
Her husband ain't been dead six months.
And now she wants another
She'd never be my darter-in-law
If I was Thomas' mother.

Have I heard of the weddin'? No,
Who underneath the sun?
John Wait and Huldy Robinson!
Mis' Perkins, you're in fun;
Why, he's as much as fifty-two
And Huldy isn't twenty;
But then, you know the reason why
The old fool's gash is plenty

Mis' Perkins, now twixt you and I,
Mis' Betsey and your Ann
Are smart, as any girls in town,
Deservin' of a man.
But scarce young clerk in Woodward's store,
As I was just remarkin',
Was here till ten last Sunday night;
I guess I'm thinks of sparkin'.

Mis' Perkins, are you goin' now
One thing I'd like to know—
Go bring her bonnet, Betsey Jane—
What makes you hurry so.
Your bonnet's just as nice as new;
I swan, it's right in fashion;
Them ruffles and them gathers there
Are rally very dashin'.
O, yes, Mis' Perkins, I shall come;
You must come down again;
You haven't been here in so long
It really is a sin.

Good afternoon! Yes, Betsey Jane
Shall come to see your darter.
There! Is she gone? I really hope
She's got what see was after.
In all my life I never did
See such a tattlin' critter.
They ought to call her "Scandal Bones,"
I'm sure the name would fit her.
I s'pose I must return her call,
But I warn't sociable at all.

HOW GRANDMA KEPT WELL AND HAPPY

How many times in days gone, I've heard my grandma say:
"I wonder what I'd ever do without my dear 'crochay'"
And, oh, the lovely things she wrought, the lifelike birds and flowers,
The chubby cupids peeping out from latticed, vine-wreathed bowers!
Work delicate and dreamlike as frost upon the pane—
Work done for very love of it, with ne'er a thought of gain!

And when she'd grown too old to walk, she used to sit all day,
Her slender fingers flying over her beloved crochet,
Humming a sweet old hymn-tune, or showing us the way
To fashion a sweet edging or beautiful filet.
We never saw her angry or hear her, once, complain;
She always seemed so placid, so free from pain.

She used to think "crochaying" kept all life's ills away,
And what one thinks is everything—according to "Cocay"

THE COMEDY OF THE TOP FLOOR CONTINUED

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: My letter on the "radio" so amused my colleagues that I have ventured another edition.

The silence remained unbroken. The top floor needed inspiration. It was dead. The girl from the west remarked, "It does seem doleful around here." We have all heard about the science of making environment, but I will have to be shown.

The radio had become so agitated that she consulted upon consultation with authority that it was no place for her to be in the company of two such wild women. Her morals might become impaired, or made worse (I believe that is the correct rendering) so after the fashion of not letting the right hand know what the left hand was doing, she locked up and went visiting.

There was no one on hand now to explore waste baskets or closets in the hope of finding a stock of bank [illegible] investing to discover amber documents nor dive into bureau drawers, nor undergo mental lapses. It leads to unfortunate conclusions similar to that of shuffling money around in a valise, et[illegible]

Once more our [illegible] and the cool breath of [illegible] morning and the sweet peace of the evening swept through the rooms and halls.

Meanwhile the loquacious young man had called. He had previously confided that he had always been very popular, that several girls had passed on his account, and wanted explanations away, lost flesh in abundance and declined. Oh! he said, "they all wanted me." I think he meant it. While indulging in this mental process, he would wriggle and stretch his ankles, so as to display his lavender silk hose. He inquired for us singly and in bulk, and was told that we were "just fine."

I came home one evening to find that the radio had returned, quite subdued. Where visiting she had been sitting up nights tending twins, nominally the spare hand, and when it came to an issue, tending twins was more enervating that the contaminating influence of comparative morals.

The finale is yet more interesting. He came back. Came back in a [illegible] lilac car to take me driving in Central park. His chief solicitude was to be assured if "he had been missed." (No reduction in conceit.) Age (you know, does not matter when love exists. (They say I have no heart.)

But he says he "is coming back." The girl from the west is about to move, but adds, "How I hate to go, for I shall miss all the fun."

THE LITTLE SPINSTER

ROLL CALL

Editor and All Corner Sisters: As the roll calls of our names I think we all shall be prompt in answering and see many [illegible]s on the list we say, present. I think this a grand idea as it calls out the names of our old writers from whom we have not heard or seen anything in so long that we have almost forgotten some of them. So sisters be prompt in answering. Let us hear from all as we are all anxious to welcome you here. I became interested as one of the old writers as I wrote my first letter the second year after the Corner page started. Have found many dear friends and acquaintances through this Social Corner and will say I have in my Social Corner book the names of over 250 of the Corner sisters whom I have met. Also have found the different ideas which the sisters have sent in very helpful in many ways, also wish to mention the pleasant times we have at the gatherings. I am also glad to see so many new ones are still joining the Corner. I say welcome to you all, and long may our Corner live and grow.

And I wish to thank all the sisters who so kindly remembered me with cards on my birthday. I wont call all their names as I don't want to take up too much room this time

So with best wishes to all Corner members, will sign as ever, [illegible] H. S.

LONGING FOR SUMMER WEATHER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I sit down this lovely (?) foggy morning to pen a few lines for the Social Corner page. One of the sisters was inquiring why I did not write. This will let her know I am alive, although not very lively as I am recovering from the grip. We are longing for bright sunny weather which we think we would all enjoy. I have been looking for another letter from Elizabeth Henry. My curiosity was aroused by her last letter as she says she knows me and has been to my house. I am very anxious to know her and I attended the May meeting in Buckingham Memorial and interviewed nearly every sister and inquired if they knew Elizabeth Henry but failed to find a clue. Do please let me know your address and I will write you.

Some one said at the last meeting it would surely storm the next day when so many women turned out and it surely has been very unpleasant weather ever since. But the June meeting will be here before we realize it, time flies so fast, and lets hope fine warm weather will then be on the calendar. I am very anxious to get my house plants outdoors and get my dahlia toes planted. I have had beautiful geranium blossoms. Some of the sisters have finished housecleaning and I am glad for them. I am waiting to get stronger and for help, but I'll get it done before long.

I have finished the blocks for a bedquilt. It is called Kaleidoscope but it was a great deal of work with such small pieces. I would not advise any one to try it unless they were longing for work.

Glad of the roll call and we will now know how many sisters we have. The editor is very kind to send the names in and it will be our own fault if we do not keep a list of them.

I enjoy reading the letters from those in Maine and Florida. I tell Hubby it is Florida for him another winter, as he has been sick nearly all winter, with bronchial trouble but we have much to be thankful for, all our children are so kind to us.

Since I began this letter I have been interrupted several times. First I was invited to go for a drive and I went and had a fine time out on a country road, where the apple trees were in bloom, also lovely blue violets all along each side of the road. We passed two little brooks gurgling along over the stones and I was reminded how many times I had stopped and played in brooks like those when a child going home from school. The fog cleared up, the sun came out and I felt much better for my ride.

Now I have forgotten several things I wanted to tell the sisters. Perhaps will write again some time. It was through the kindness of Free Air I attended the May meeting. I hope the June meeting will be the best of all the years and you will have an entertainment to please all.

And now Elizabeth Henry do please write me, send the letter to the editor and he will forward it to me. With kindest regards to all.

GRANDMA GRAY.

PICNIC AT VERSAILLES ON 19TH

Dear Sofia: Corner Sisters: I am not going to wait for the roll call. I just can't wait any longer. Now Club No. 2 wants to have their annual picnic at Versailles Methodist church same as last year and have set the date June 19. I am putting this in early so there won't be other picnics planned for the same day for we want a good large crowd. I think most every one knows where the church is. It is only a short walk from the trolley. Get off at the ton of the hill where the conductors usually call out, "Jewett and Versailles." I will have my place marked with a yellow flag and follow the yellow streamers to the church. Now this invitation is for all the Corner clubs and any of their friends they wish to bring.

Now let's have a good time and any one who will read, recite or sing I shall be very glad to call on. Please bring your own plate cup, knife, fork and spoon and something good to eat.

There will be a ten cent collection taken to pay for paper for the tables and the coffee and the cleaning up of the vestry and what is left over we will give to the Ladies Aid of the church as I did last year. There will be ice cream sold on the ground to those who wish to buy, by a girl who wishes to earn some money for a vacation.

This is all I think of just now. If I think of anything else I will jot in another notice next week.

Hoping to see a large number from all clubs, will sign as ever,

STUDENT.

MOTHERS

Editor of Social Corner: Articles about mothers are always good as mother's day is past. This verse I found in a book owned by the Kingsley [illegible] and written in 1840

My Mother

How gentle her chiding,
So patient, gentle and kind,
Her love how abiding
What presence of mind!
While memory lingers
I never shall forget
The [illegible] mother
It belongs to me yet.

When autograph albums were in use I asked my mother to write in mine at her convenience and was a bit surprised to read this verse which I appreciate now more than I did then. The case is not but a single tongue. Reversing's laws to man was given
But lesson she would teach is clear
Repeat but half of what you hear
Equa rights now so must apply to our own sex as well.

AVOIDING POCRASTINATION

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I don't know why it is, but somehow it takes me a long time to get going on a letter. That's probably why I don't write oftener. But seeing the C members of the Corner were being called I made up my mind not to be the last to respond and not let procrastination charm me until too late to write.

I have been reading the Corner page with great interest in the last several months. Have enjoyed the letters by the sisters in the south and have been pleased to see more [illegible], a number of which have been read with good results.

I am still some of the sisters whose [illegible] I always enjoy who are conspicuous by their absence. I hope the roll call will perk them up a bit. Isn't it a great idea?

May 1st has been a disappointment to me. I expected something different. Possibly I'm feeling a little scratchy about the weather but that's to be expected from a CENTURY PLANT.

GLAD SHE JOINED CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: In answer to my name in the roll call will say I have never been sorry I joined the Corner. Some friendships have been formed that will last as long as life. There are friends that I never would have made only through the Corner. And thanks to Aunty No. 1. If it had not been for her kindness I would not be making tatting now.

The thought of writing the first letter I wrote seemed like a mountain, but when I saw that first letter in print the mountain melted into an ant hill. Hope some faint heart will find courage by this letter and will write. As I write now I can think of some of our dear sisters that have answered the roll call of the Great Master. Wishing the Corner success and best wishes to all, I remain

BON AMI.

ANSWERING THE ROLL CALL

Dear Social Corner, Editor and Sisters: Seeing my name in the roll call I will answer. Present.

I certainly do take pleasure in reading the Bulletin every Saturday, but the first page I read is the Corner page. I have taken the Bulletin daily a good many years and cannot get along without it.

Primrose, Last Rose of Summer and I met Practical Polly at the W. R. C. convention at Waterbury. It was nice to meet people you had met at the Social Corner events. I guess I have answered the roll call.

Best wishes to all.

SAVE HAIR AND PREVENT DANDRUFF

Dear Sister of the Corner: Dr. Herman Goodman says in the Boston Post, there are a number of superstitions about the hair that merit correction. It takes a hair about 6 weeks to grow one inch and that cutting the hair does not improve its growing qualities. The hair of various persons varies in thickness from 150 to the inch if laid side by side, to as many as 500 to the inch. There is a hollow tube the length of the hair. The above fact will come as a surprise to those persons who are inclined to have the hair singed on various occasions.

Singeing the hair is usually recommended to overcome splitting of the ends and to prevent falling of the hair, the reason for the latter according to beauty specialists that "it closes the pores and keeps the fluid in the hair."

The hair has no more sap than a buggy whip. With the long hair of a woman, which has a tendency to split at the ends, the singeing of the tips, substitutes a charred blunt point of fused horn for one that is cut clean. But even in such cases singeing is less useful than greasing the hair lightly thus supplying the fat which is lacking in such hair which leads to its splitting.

The hair is not nourished by any fluid in it, but by the blood that comes to the hair root. The hair above the skin surface is a spike of horn which is oiled from without.

The average number of hairs on a full grown woman or man is about 100,000 and every one of us would like to have all of them. Nevertheless they do take wings or fall by the wayside.

Soap tree bark is a good wash for the hair. Steep it and it is an excellent wash.

Dr. Herman Goodman says you can use a good undyed soap. After lathering the hair well with it, it is important to rinse repeatedly with warm water to make sure that all the soap is removed from the hair and the scalp. In drying the hair it is not necessary to rub vigorously, but rather to pat it with the warm Turkish towel. After the scalp has been dried a vigorous circulation of the blood may be induced by rubbing with the ends of the fingers, making certain that the nails do not scratch the scalp. If the scalp tends to be dry a small amount of olive oil may be used by parting the hair and rubbing it in on the scalp. A wide tooth comb is the only one to use. The space between the teeth should be oval, so that the hair cannot be caught and pulled out. The brush should be moderately stiff in the bristles and should be kept scrupulously clean. It should be washed every time the scalp is washed.

The bald headed man is likely to console himself that no grass grows on a busy street. He likes to feel that baldness is the sign of intelligence and a result of mental labor. Baldness may make a man look wiser, but it appears indifferently in the great and small, and is no more the sign of wisdom than the long hair is of genius.

Baldness is more likely a manifestation of a transitional stage of human evolution. This view has an ardent exponent in Dr. William A Pusey, who points out that it is the tendency of structures to disappear when they have ceased to function. The warmth and other protection afforded by the hair is no longer of great importance to man. We now use a hat instead of relying for protection on a shock of hair as did our aboriginal ancestors.

According to statistics dandruff is the cause of most baldness. Dandruff can be controlled in most cases by the simple hygiene of the scalp that has been recommended, and by suitable treatment applied under competent advice. Unfortunately most people overdo the matter of making applications to the scalp, applying strong hair tonics and washing the hair too frequently. If the scalp is massaged with the olive oil two or three times a week it sends the blood to circulating and prevents dandruff

PICNIC AT CENTRAL VILLAGE JUNE 18

Dear Members of the Corner: I thought I would write a few lines this morning as I have something quite interesting to say. I will give notice that there will be a gathering of the Social Corner at Central Village the 18th of June to which all are invited. We are having this meeting to accommodate the people around this vicinity but others will be welcome. It will be a basket lunch and everyone should bring their drink so as to save work. Also bring ork of any kind. There will be a program in the afternoon including a roll call of the sisters present, each one being expected to respond by reading or reciting a short piece or telling some funny experience. There will be music of different kinds. As a picnic wouldn't be complete without ice cream have decided that we will have some for which a collection will be taken which will not be much apiece so hope to see a large attendance and if anyone wants to bring a friend along they can do so. In that way perhaps we can add new members for the Corner. So all come and make the day a success. The picnic will be held in what is known as the Birls Club, Center Village. If the day should prove stormy it will be the next day. I hope everything will come out all right and perhaps we will have another meeting later on. What dreadful weather we have had of late. We are all hoping for the sunshine as it is needed very much. I hope this letter won't be too long so will stop to give the others a chance to write. With success as ever for the Corner. Will close

RURAL AUNTY.

ABSENTEES MISSED MUCH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: How are you all feeling after all this wet weather? Everything is looking lovely, the trees are full of blossoms and the air so sweet. Sorry for the sick ones and the shut ins. The sisters that did not go to the Willimantic Social Corner meeting do not know what they missed. There was the most delicious clam chowder that I ever ate, and the cutest May baskets [illegible]

Mary: Thanks to the sister telling how to clean zinc

Great Grandma: Am glad you got so many cards. I knew your son years ago. He boarded with my mother in East Haddam.

If anyone wants to get out letters that are printed on bags soak them in kerosene, then boil, and they will come out.

Guess: Your friends from Meriden were at Willimantic and were disappointed because you were not there. You are no sport. Look at the long way they had to come and drive that pretty car with the yellow bow.

WINDHAM BLUE BELL.

GREETINGS FROM WHIRLWIND

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters All: Foxglove and I arrived home all O. K. right side up with care from both meetings and what a good time we did have at both, eating, drinking and making merry! The weather was ideal both days, the dinner was fine and Foxglove and I did justice to it. The programme at Club No. 1, was fine and the exchange of May baskets was lots of fun. I do so enjoy a good programme and was sorry Club No. 2 did not have any. Think it a mistake not to have any more. Now Chocolate just get busy and have our good old time programmes once more.

Foxglove and myself have been kept busy attending Corner meetings and conventions this month, Tuesday the 20th, we attended the Sons and Daughters of Liberty (State Session) in Bridgeport, had a fine time, also a good dinner. Was raining as usual when we started but cleared before we started home.

Guess: Do you know what happens to little girls who tell Canterbury tales? They get spanked; yes, they do. You don't know what you missed by staying at home. You promised to attend Club No. 1's meeting. The dinner was a fine one, starting with clam chowder and ending with pie, cake and coffee.

Twice Twenty: Did you get my letter? Expected to see you at Willimantic at the meeting. So many asked where you were.

Keziah Doolittle: Where, oh, where are you? Are you lost, strayed or stolen? Have not heard from or seen you for ever and ever so long. Get busy and let's see how your name looks once more in the Corner page. You will have to write soon any way as your name will be in the roll call.

Scottie: Did you arrive home safe and sound from Hartford? Hope you enjoyed yourself. Didn't we have a fine time at the Corner meeting?

Wildwood: Sorry to read of your accident. Please accept my sympathy.

Potlach: Please tell what hospital Wildwood is in. Would like to send her a card occasionally. It is lonesome lying in bed especially among strangers.

Grace: I see in the Corner page you have had an accident in your family of some kind. May I extend to you my sincere sympathy to you and yours.

Josie: Received your letter and will answer soon. Have been busy nursing a sprained ankle. Its better now, but not well by any means.

Anna Z: Am sure if Foxglove knew you would go to either of the Corner meetings, she would pack up and bring you back

E. M. R. C. P.: [illegible] your letter and will write later. Glad you liked the card. Your letters are interesting.

Diana: Will write you soon. Am sorry you are so poorly and trust you will be better when the warm weather comes, if it ever does.

At last I have finished my letter to the Corner. Have been three weeks at it and hope it will not take the sisters as long to read it.

Yours for a good attendance at the next meeting.

WHIRLWIND.

HOUSECLEANING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I think the roll call idea is a very fine one, especially for a shake-like myself, for I know I am very poor at letter writing, but nevertheless, I must do my bit when I see my name among the list

I suppose most of the sisters are all through with their spring housecleaning. We are all upset here having improvements made on the house, so it is rather uncertain when I will be through.

I think Chelsea's suggestion in one of her recent letters might be a good one to adopt, to clean one room every month thoroughly. A great deal of hard work at this particular time of the year might be eliminated in that way, but yet perhaps one might not feel as well satisfied.

Although housecleaning time is a time to be dreaded more or less by everyone, yet what great joy and relief come to each one of us when we can feel that we have dug and scrubbed into every nook, corner and crevice, and can survey with pride every room in the house spotlessly clean and neat

I wonder how many of you ever put some kind of disinfectant in the water that you wash your floors with. I always like to do this whenever I have moved into a different house, and quite fequently like to do this anyway. It not only destroys any germs that may be there but it gives to a room a nice clean odor as well. I usually always use lysol or sulpho naphtol

Chelsea: I am still waiting for that afternoon call from you.

Accia: I am watching every day for those gladioli and dahlias to come up, but see no signs of them yet. I guess it is pretty cold for them.

True Blue: I had hoped to see you before this, but please do not wait for me. Easier for you to come down than for me to come up just now, while I am all torn up.

Black Eyed Susie: The next time you send me a card, please put your address on it that I may return the favor once in a while. I must bring my book and get the names of more of the sisters with their addresses.

I will close with this little verse which I think is a good motto for every one to follow

"We would ask for kindly guidance.
To give only of our best.
We would ask to be unselfish
And be equal to life's test—
To meet duties—as our pleasures—
With a heart clasp and a smile,
To make life well worth the living,
And make living worth the while."

Best wishes to all.

BLUE BELL.

WINDHAM HOUSE

Dear Members of the Social Corner: If there is ever a slacker list I am afraid that my name will lead it, but it will not be from lack of interest in the good old Social Corner, that means so much to us all.

I am wondering how many of the members are interested in the effort to raise a sufficient sum in Windham county to build the proposed Windham House at Connecticut College. It seems to be a worthy cause and a chance for the people of this county to show their pride in what is being undertaken in their name. It means making it possible for "your girl or my girl" to go to college and making it possible for just that many more girls to get a college education. Dormitory buildings are necessary and when built they will be self sustaining.

We are getting to the season of the year when there should be some picnics, and now that May is at its close possibly we will have some picnic weather.

Yours for the success of the Corner,

DORIS.

WORTH KNOWING AND IF TRUE SHOULD BE TRIED

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank all who sent me cards on my birthday.

During the present season complaints of the number of cut worms that have appeared in nearly all localities have been pouring in, and various remedies have been advocated for the extinction of this pest. A German gardener, who says he has used the remedy successfully for a number of years, says that five cents worth of common mustard placed in an ordinary fourteen quart pail will, if sprinkled over the infested ground remove all pests. Now this is simple and inexpensive and should be tried.

Best of good wishes to Social Corner.

MOLLIE LARKIN.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN

Dear Sisters: It seems to be an almost universal parental trait to say to children, "My goodness, child, what does make you behave so? I never thought of doing such things when I was of your age."

So mother and father build up in the little child's mind the image of a young paragon of perfection. When mother and father were little they never did anything bad. The child thinks this with discouragement.

I heard a story of a mother who was fooled by her daughter. The grandmother found a letter of her mother's which her father had written her some years ago and read it to her mother.

The mother gave her quite a scolding and said, "I should never have accepted a letter like that when I was your age. I would think you would be ashamed." The daughter showed her mother the letter with her father's name signed to it.

The revelations were so foolishly sentimental she thought her daughter would never become a sensible and well balanced woman.

Another woman found her daughter's diary. This is told by a physician of wide awake experience, who receives many confidences from parents and children. One day a sorely grieved mother sought him to say she had discovered her daughter's diary and read it. The revelations in that showed such a lack of intelligence she had to conclude her daughter was a hopeless case. A girl with such thoughts and feelings would never become a sensible woman, she decided. The physician read the diary, quite calmly, assured the woman her daughter was really above the average and there was nothing to worry about. All young girls pass through this silly sentimental period, he said. All boys too for that matter. The somewhat harsh word for it is the puppy love state; and it is just as natural and sure to come as measles, or chicken pox and requires just about as simple treatment. "I'm sure I never suffered such a complaint," said the mother departing unbelieving and uncomforted.

But a few days later when she was cleaning out an old trunk she came upon her own school diary almost word for word the two diaries read. The mother was honest enough to the physician to confess and she no longer thought her daughter on the road to ruin.

A boy was having a struggle with his temper to control it, he flared up so quickly. One day his father noticed [illegible] had a struggle to keep back words. "Keep at it son," he said "I had a temper like that too but I've learned to control my tongue no matter how mad I get. You can do it too."

"Oh, dad," cried the boy, "were you like this? Well I'll hang if you know how it is."

It was worth while telling dad how hard it was and how sometimes a fellow failed. Girls like to confide in their mothers. A young girl was discovered in her room one day sobbing in the abandon of despair. To her mother's questions she said it was too horrible to tell. Bit by bit the mother coaxed the story from her. It was neither horrible nor unusual. At the instigation of her chum, Ethel, she had written some letters to a boy cousin of Ethel's whom she had never seen. Now he had come for a visit and wished to call upon her. He was an impossible person and she didn't know what to do. "I know just how you feel, dear," said the mother, "I got in a scrape like that myself once."

After that all was easy. Probably a good proportion of the staid married women we see have done similar indiscreet things at the adventurous, irresponsible period of girlhood. But how many would own up to it now, especially to their own daughters?

Usually the parent is honest in assuming perfection. In truth we do forget so much of our youth that we think we never did do such startling things our children do. But it is safe to say that if we could have an honest record of our childhood we would find the child repeating our own thought and feelings, mistakes and failures, triumphs and virtues.

LET US HAVE PEACE

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: The annual Memorial day it at hand, and with it come the many sad memories, those scenes which can never be forgotten, as we bear tribute to this anniversary. The Memorial day is for those who have sacrificed all that was possible to give, that we might have peace and justice restored. There is much regarding the subject of peace the topic of nation wide press and conversation. Until there exists a universal harmony, centered individually, then collectively, there will be no true peace. As our great human family in disposition, it does seem at times impossible to promote peace, even by the strictest laws of compulsion. In our everyday surroundings, we find so many people, unwilling to give in to some offense, committed by another, either intentionally or accidentally. Too often we hear people say, they will not be "walked on," which resentment of course, we all feel but most frequently that idea is carried too far and creates trouble which might have been easily averted, and peace upheld. The attitude of peace seems to date back to the most ancient records of history. Wherever we see the beautiful white dove, we are reminded of its harmless, gentle, and innocent nature of its mission once performed by the olive branch it brought on its return to anxious people, to convey peace to troubled hearts. In centuries later, we read in biblical history, among the last teachings of the Master teacher his words for our good: "My peace I leave with you, but not as the world giveth, give I unto you." In the city of New York, and close to the bank of the beautiful Hudson river, there stands the white marble memorial and tomb of General Ulysses S. Grant and wife. There are thousands of people who daily pass by, or perchance who enter within the portal of this shrine. The important part which General Grant displayed, both political and military, and the result of the war days in the 60's, the memorial day which we now observe altogether, was to restore harmony. There's better tribute to the memory of Grant, or more fitting reminder to our people, than the few words carved over the entrance of that magnificent memorial, "Let Us Have Peace."

Without peace, we cannot be happy for it is the masterpiece of reason.

JENNIE, (June 5.)

SAY SOMETHING KIND

Dear Corner Sisters: How are you all? I heard my name called, and am glad to answer, present. I do not think any of us refrain from writing through lack of interest, but if we were all to write all the time, our good, and patient editor, would have to enlarge the paper.

There are so many new members now, with their helpful, and interesting letters. It is easy to sit back and enjoy the work of others. Our Corner is now a large happy family, each extending a helping hand to all, and multiply, and may the spirit of helpfulness, love and charity grow with it.

There is much pleasure derived from helping a weary or afflicted one over a rough spot on life's rugged road, and if we do not extend the helping hand, we leave a lot of beautiful work undone.

I think the tongue is the most unruly member of the human body. It is just as easy to say something kind, as unkind that predominates.

"Oh many a shaft at random sent,
Finds mark the archer little meant,
And many a word at random spoken,
May wooth, or wound a heart that is broken."

When one of my daughters was a little girl, and I was inclined to scold her, she would say, "Take a mouthful of water Mamma." So when we are inclined to be unkind in words, let us take a drink of water instead.

I do not get to the Corner meetings often, but am there in spirit. Wednesdays are busy days for me, and although I hope, to run into the hall before the day is over, many times, I cannot. Here is a verse of a poem I am fond of.

"Better to hope, though the clouds hang low,
And to keep the eyes still lifted.
For the sweet blue sky will still peep through,
When the ominous clouds are rifted.
There was never a night without a day,
Or an evening without a morning,
And the darkest hour, as the proverb goes,
Is the hour before the dawning."

I wish the name of each sister, or brother could be given with the pen-name. It would be nice to know who is who. I think we would have some pleasant surprises.

Now the D list is coming, we must get a few lines from Dew Drop.

L. H. K: Have not seen you down this way in a long time. Come.

Brownie: Where are you? Your pen will be getting rusty. Let us all resolve to do our bit to keep the good Corner flourishing and a credit to the paper.

With sympathy for our afflicted ones, and best wishes for all, I will ring off, as some one else wants to answer present.

Yours for the Corner.

TALKING PICNIC AT LEFFINGWELL

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think it time I wrote you a letter or [illegible] will all forget that there is a Wild Flower. But don't you think it too cold for them? I must tell you about the hen's egg we got today. 6 inches by 5 inches and weighing one quarter of a pound.

The Leffingwell sisters have been talking about a picnic at the [illegible] and will try and let you know sure.

Mavis: I don't know you, but I for one think it would be fine to have a picnic at Elizabeth park in rose time. I hear so many say that it is fine. We could take the bus at Norwich. How many more will say the word. Best wishes.

WILD FLOWER (March 4.)

AN EXPRESSION OF THANKS

Dear Cornerites, One and All: I want to express my thanks to you for the deep sympathy shown to us in our sudden bereavement. If I were to mention each name individually it would be a long, long list for nearly all the old writer's came forward in such a kind sisterly way, either to help, or with such loving words by pen or 'phone," also many of the new writers. They will be long remembered. If it were not for His presence with me and His guiding hand, I could hardly stand that shock.

Club No. 2: Please accept my thanks for the beautiful flowers. They had a sweet message of comfort to us I assure you.

GRACE.

HELP WANTED

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Will some one kindly inform me what to do for a laryngitis bunch, or swelling on the left side of the neck, or suggest a possible remedy, for same? It's about the size of a hen's egg, and so conspicuous, that I'm eager to eliminate the trouble. Any information regarding it will be gratefully received.

INQUIRER.

THE EASIER AND BETTER WAY

Dear Social Corner Members: In the roll call of May 24th, I see the name of Bess Starbright. I will answer, present. Although I have not written myself, I have enjoyed reading other letters. Am interested at this season of the year in ways of making housecleaning easier. I do not like to have the rooms torn up for a long time, or many rooms out of order at one time. It is much pleasanter for the family to come in and not find too much disturbance in the home. And it can be done if one will only plan the easy way of doing things. It may take a little longer time, but one's household will be happier, and if you should have sickness, you will not be so much stirred up.

BESS STARBRIGHT

BAGS FOR THE HOME

Dear Social Corner Editor: I noted among the recent roll call the name of Antique. She has crossed the river leaving us in the spring of '23.

Although I haven't written recently, am interested, but other things have pressed upon me so the Corner has been neglected.

While the sisters are busy renovating and cleaning it might be an opportune time to speak of one of my fads or conveniences,—Bags! Who doesn't get dismayed at times at accummulations of really necessary articles?

It dismays the orderly housewife. I solved such a problem when the children were young and I still cling to the fad, if it may be so called. First, in the pantry on the door I hung a short denim bag of four pockets, of harmonizing color to paint, where go papers from parcels, also sugar bags and small bags of all sizes. On another door leading from the kitchen to the backroom hangs one for gloves, every day gloves, with one pocket devoted to string. On a stair door, another one holds better-gloves, caps mufflers, etc. So much for the kitchen! On an inside door of a closet where coats are hung from living room, are my own driving gloves, veils, etc. In the closet that holds cleaning material hangs on the door a bag for dusters, etc. Near a window where I sew hangs a bag for pieces. It is also near the sewing machine.

These are made of cretonne with top made over an embroidery hoop. Then there is a bag of pockets for patterns in the sewing room.

Now we ascend the stairs. The closet doors (inside) hold shoe bags, also handkerchief bag. In the men's closets or room are coiled collar bags. All these can be as dainty as taste dictates or purse allows. I also have a weakness for shopping bags to match suit or dress, made of velvet or silk, usually from piece bag. Then I like a piece bag for pieces of garments in sewing room. I might go on and on but space forbids. Just try the scheme, sisters, and see if it doesn't eliminate some perplexing problem and spell efficiency for your housekeeping system.

NEW LONDON POLICE THINK REAVES DIED FROM POISONED DRINK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 30.—The police are working on the theory that Frederick Reaves, 37, colored, who was found asphyxiated at his home, 29 Moore court several days ago, came to his death through poisoned drink at a negro residence not far from the police station and it would not be surprising to the police to ascertain that the body of Reaves was placed in bed where it was found, after the man had died at the house where he obtained his drink. However, Medical Examiner Heyer is not of the same opinion as the police, for that official has permitted the body to be embalmed and no autopsy was held. Dr. Heyer being satisfied that Reaves died from gas asphyxiation through his own careless or irresponsible act. The body, however, is held at local undertaking rooms, waiting orders to permit forwarding it to Wilmington, N. C., where Reaves' father resides. In the meantime the police have been informed that Reaves drew $100 from one of the savings banks early in the week to enable him to attend some colored function. In stead of attending the affair Reaves is said to have visited several places frequented by the colored race, where liquor is sold and where narcotics are dispensed. During the evening Reaves, it is claimed, was given a drink in which a quantity of cocaine was slipped and it was from drinking this concoction that he died. It is by this, it is claimed, was administered to Reaves lodging house and placed in bed, after which the cocks of the gas stove were turned on and the fumes allowed to enter the room and make it appear that Reaves came to his death from the inhalation of the gas. The police also declare that no money was found in Reaves' clothing.

This afternoon several negroes and negresses were brought to the police station and questioned, and it is claimed that one of the men who was identified with the narcotic dispensing traffic in New London, admitted that cocaine was given Reaves.

A container of blood from Reaves' body will be taken to Newlands' laboratory, 11 Laurel street, Hartford, tomorrow for analysis.

Joseph Skadowsky, of Chesterfield, was arrested late Thursday afternoon in Montville by State Policemen Thomas Henry and Honeyman of the Groton barracks, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Skadowsky was brought to the New London police station and made a prisoner for the night and this morning he was before Justice of the Peace William Smiddy when a fine of $100 was imposed.

Patrolman Chas. Hammond resumed duty tonight as traffic officer, corner of State and Bank streets, having been confined to his home on Bluman street for two days by illness.

Sergeant Nelson Smith resumed duty today after his annual acation of two weeks.

A limb of a large tree at the corner of Williams street and Garfield avenue, was broken during the high wind today and for awhile was in danger of falling across trolley, telephone and electric light wires. A repair gang of the city removed the limb.

Patrolman Walter Rohn discovered a deep depression in the highway on Ocean avenue, near the corner of Gardner avenue this afternoon. The danger spot was reported to the highway department and will receive attention tomorrow.

Constantine Patterson, 86 Tilley street, was ordered to appear in the police court Saturday morning by Traffic Officer John Patterson for violation of motor vehicle department. Patterson has been implicated in several automobile accidents and a short time ago his operator's license was suspended. This afternoon Officer Courtney saw Patterson operating the automobile owned by James Saunders, 17 Jay street and upon interrogating Patterson the officer learned that Patterson's license had never been returned to the owner.

It is claimed that the city of New London did a wise thing in deciding not to place a new and larger water main in Ocean avenue at this time. The main in existence there will meet every demand upon it and the outlook is for much lower prices for material and wages before the new main is actually demanded. The cost of the renewal was astonishingly large and the council decided to forego the work for this season, at least.

Simon Frasier petitioned the council for permission to erect a garage on his land on Mohican avenue, but the location of it was such that Mcracey, a neighbor, objected and remonstrated with the city council against allowing the building to proceed. The objection was not considered by the council a valid one and the permission to build was granted. Mr. Frasier is going ahead with the work and will have the structure erected as soon as the labor can be performed.

Next week Saturday there is to be a drive here to raise funds for the relief of the people of the Near East, how much money is to be sought is not known.

Monday evening next the city council will hear the manufacturers who have protested against the erection of gasoline tanks in the Pequot avenue section on the ground that there are tanks enough there now and that more would be a menace to adjacent property. The council has already granted permission to a gas company concern to erect a big tank on the property of the petitioners, but all the manufacturers objected with the result that the erection of the tank has been held up. Now the manufacturers are to be allowed to present their reasons for objecting.

Steamer Philip Taussig is expected to arrive at the state pier during the early part of the coming week with a cargo of lumber from the Pacific coast that will measure up some million feet. The course will be by way of the Panama canal. New London and Providence are the only ports at which Pacific coast lumber is landed in New England with New London having a little advantage in being a shorter route than Providence.

P. Leroy Harwood and Waldo E. Clarke are to attend a meeting of the foreign trade commission in Boston the first week in June. They are members of the harbor commission and are interested in the business that will come before the meeting.

William H. Cadman, a letter carrier in New London nearly a score of years, is to retire about the first of June to engage in business with his son-in-law.

It is not yet decided whether the city or the state will make the contracts for the construction of a cement road to be built from the junction of Bank street [illegible] Waterford line, by way of Town [illegible]. The state is to pay a proportion of the cost of the road as it is a state highway, but whether the city will open the bid for the work is not yet known. It is expected that City Manager Holt will have received information that he will be able to present to the council at its meeting Monday evening which will determine the fact.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunt, of North Adams, Mass., are in the city for a few days, the guests of relatives.

Leopold Zeppieri, 135 Fairview avenue, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, charged with reckless driving of an automobile, owned by Alvara Alviani, 41 Fairview avenue, Groton. Zeppieri will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

The automobile owned and driven by Carl Swanson, Stamford, and a machine, operated by Arthur W. Weeks, 6 Broadway, Mystic, were in collision this afternoon, corner of Meridian and Church streets. Both cars were considerably damaged. When the drivers gave their respective versions of the accident at the police station, they agreed to defray the expense attached to the repair of the cars.

William Wicks was in the police court this morning for intoxication. It was his first appearance so judgment was suspended, that he might pull himself together and get back to work.

Brainard lodge held a most enjoyable meeting last evening which was attended by Masons from all parts of the state. The work was in the Master Mason degree in full form, the last that will be held during the summer season. There were some 300 members of the craft present. A feast of lamb and vegetables was served and there were brief addresses by interesting speakers at the tables.

New London lodge of Elks had one of its most enjoyable meetings of the year last evening with a very large attendance of members not only from New London but from all the sections hereabouts. An entertainment followed the work, when two candidates were initiated.

David Caird, 79, of Waterford, died yesterday afternoon at St. Frances' hospital, Hartford, where he had been a patient but a day or two. Mr. Caird was a widower, his wife having died about eight years ago. He was employed by Booth Brothers' Hurricane Island Quarry company many years as a stone-cutter. He is survived by several nephews and nieces. Mr. Caird went to Hartford about a week ago to visit relatives and while in that city he suffered a shock, being removed to the hospital Wednesday. His condition grew worse rapidly and the end came about noon. The body has been brought to New London for funeral services and burial.

William R. Thomas and Miss Mary A. Beebe, both of New London, were married Thursday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth performing the ceremony.

During the remainder of the progress of installing the brick pavement on State street, between Meridian and Huntington streets, a traffic officer will be stationed at the corner of Meridian and State streets to prevent motorists from driving over the new pavement, although two signs are located at that point to inform drivers of cars that the street is closed.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunt, of North Adams, Mass., are guests of Mrs. Hunt's sister, Mrs. Alfred W. Stoll.

Special Officer Samuel M. Barnes discovered the dental parlors of Dr. Isaac J. Levy at 32 Main street, open late last night and the place illuminated. The police were notified and Patrolman Howard Sloan, who was assigned to the matter, reported that nothing in the place had been disturbed and that Dr. Levy explained that he had undoubtedly left the door open when he hurriedly left, early in the evening.

A Buick touring car, owned by the Max Pollock company, Poquonoc road, Groton, which was stolen from that place Thursday afternoon, was found abandoned in Mystic this morning.

Two Hebrew junk dealers were held up by the police, this morning, upon suspicion of having stolen $4 and a check for $120 from John McIntosh at Mystic. The junkmen told a plausible story of their visit to the McIntosh place and as their identity was known to the police they were allowed their liberty. A short time after the junkmen were freed the police received a telephone message from McIntosh, stating that he had found his property.

The junkmen visited the premises of McIntosh earlier in the day and sought the purchase of junk. In the barn McIntosh's trousers were hanging from a nail and in one of the pockets were the cash and check, the check being drawn by Mrs. N. F. Gates, wife of McIntosh's employer. When the junkmen left the place, the trousers were discovered missing and it was then that complaint was made to the New London police, McIntosh supplying the authorities with a description of the junkmen and their vehicle. Three hours later when McIntosh went to where a buggy was stored, he found the trousers in the vehicle and the money and check in the garment. It is believed that some one intended to steal the trousers and after removing the clothing from the nail changed his mind and instead of placing the trousers back on the hook threw the clothing in the buggy.

For the first time in many months chicken thieves operated in this city last night. Early this forenoon Donald McIntosh, of 34 Lee avenue reported to the police that 22 chickens had been stolen from his hennery. Motorcycle Officer George La Bonne was assigned to the theft and ascertained that McIntosh had the chickens housed early Thursday evening and when he went to feed them this morning he discovered that the hennery had been cleaned of chickens. McIntosh did not hear any unusual sounds about his home during the night and was surprised when he discovered the theft.

An automobile owned and driven by Richard Sethmann, 401 Bergen street, Brooklyn, N. Y., was damaged this morning when the machine was in collision with a car owned and operated by A. F. Bowers, of Post Hill place. Sethmann was operating his machine easterly through Granite street, and at the corner of Brainard street the car driven by Bowers emerged from the latter street just as the Sethmann auto was about to pass. Neither driver could bring his car to a stop in time to avoid a collision. Bowers' automobile escaped with little or no damage.

Robert L. Ryder of Franklin, Mass., and Miss Mary Henrietta Slaiger of North Attleboro, Mass., were married Thursday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The One Who Laughs Best.

"Don't you wiggle, don't you pout,
Wait for the birdie to come out.
Smile a little, there, that's fine.
Now I have you all in line!"

said kind Photographer Crane as he snapped a picture of Little Jack Rabbit and his friends who had jumped out of the bus in the last story. I hope you remember how everybody got out of the bus to see the little rabbit.

"Oh, I'm the Circus Policeman Dog"

After the picture was taken, he hopped into the circus grounds where the children were running over the grass or sitting under the trees playing games.

Goodness me! As soon as they saw the little rabbit come lipperty lip, clipperty clip through the gate they shouted.

"Here's Little Jack Rabbit!"

At once a big fat policeman, turning around to see what was the trouble, began to sing:

"Oh, I'm the Circus Policeman Dog,
No. 23 Skidoo!
And if you try to crawl under the tent
You'll see what I will do.

But if you are good and do no wrong,
Just skip and rope and sing a song,
You'll find that Policeman 23
Is the children's friend, not their enemy.

and, swinging his club three times in the air, he walked away leaving Little Jack Rabbit wondering what to do next. But he didn't think very long or very hard. No sireeman. He just hopped over the grass till he met a little gray squirrel with a peanut.

"Have you been to the circus?" asked the bunny boy, knowing, of course, there were no peanuts in the Shady Forest. For a moment this little country rabbit forgot there were dozens of stands where one could buy peanuts and pink lemonade.

"Ha, ha, ho, ho!" laughed the little gray squirrel. "What's a circus?"

And this time it was the little rabbit who laughed. Oh, yes, he laughs best who laughs because he's happy.

"This is my Uncle Lucky's circus," he answered, and sitting down, he explained to the little Turnip Town squirrel that Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot was so generous that if ever a little boy or girl didn't have the money for a ticket, this dear kind old gentleman rabbit would let them into the tent for nothing. Just think of that. And now I must close for tonight, but Monday you shall hear another story about the little rabbit's adventures.

YOU can't blame a healthy girl for wanting to have a car of her own. She can't go anywhere—or do anything worthwhile nowadays without one.

Mother is always using hers—of course father can't give up his. Daughter won't be satisfied with an ordinary car—that's why we've built the Playboy—for her.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Five Facts in the Auto Industry

A resume of the situation in the automobile industry by Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company, reveals a picture far more favorable from the standpoint of the manufacturer and the dealer than the public generally realizes.

"Five facts briefly stated cover the present situation in the automobile industry," said Jordan.

"First: Fifteen million owners of used cars are trying to sell them to the dealers of the country at prices entirely out of line with the very low prices established by manufacturers on new cars. In fact, new car prices are about on the 1913 level, comparatively.

"Second: Last year, the dealers in their anxiety to make deliveries of new cars accepted in many instances the owner's valuation on his old car, with the result that the second hand market was cluttered. This year the dealer is not willing to do that. Therefore, he is in a better situation than he was a year ago.

"Third: The manufacturers who reached the high peak of production during the winter months have readjusted their manufacturing schedules in accordance with the dealer's ability to buy and handle second hand cars in exchange for new ones. This is a very healthy condition and means there will be no excess of production this year.

"Fourth: It is true that some manufacturers in their anxiety to exceed the production of some competitor, built too many of certain models, or they exceeded the ability of the dealer to finance and trade on old cars, and they must suffer a radical readjustment of sales possibilities.

"Fifth: The Jordan Company has enjoyed a gradual increase in sales since January first, largely due to the fact that the Jordan Company never produces any more cars than the dealers can readily sell, and never any more than the public demands."

Broad Theatre

The field of sports will have its innings in motion pictures when The Great White Way, a new photoplay that mirrors life on Broadway, opens tomorrow night at the Breed theatre. Leading celebrities of the prize ring, the race track, prominent sports writers and other familiar figures of sportdom make their film debut in the new picture.

The turf and the ring, along with the leaders in these two branches of sport, are graphically brought to the screen in this picture of life in the great metropolis. One of the big features is a realistic prize fight in which Pete Hartley, well known lightweight contender, battles Oscar Shaw, leading man of the film.

This scene includes such sporting celebrities as Tex Rickard, who appears as promoter; Joe Humphreys, as announcer, and Johnny Gallagher as referee. Others who appear around the ring or in the training quarters of Madison Square Garden are Irvin S. Cobb, Damon Runyon, "Bugs" Baer, Billy De Beck, "Kid" Broad, Tammany Young and M. C. Witwer, author of the story.

Another thrilling feature of The Great White Way is a big race track scene, filmed at Belmont Park on Futurity Day. It discloses a realistic steeplechase, specially staged for the picture, and many other phases of turf life. Earle Sande, world's premier jockey, is another of the many sporting celebrities who appears.

The regular cast, in addition to Oscar Shaw, includes Anita Stewart, T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, Olin Howland, Harry Watson, Dore Davidson, Hal Forde, Stanley Forde and Frank Wonderly.

North of Hudson Bay with Tom Mix will be shown today for the last time. Ruth of the Range, Pathe news and a comedy will also be shown.

Palace Theatre

Norma Talmadge has the role of a native dancing girl, the tool of a band of Arabs plotting the overthrow of French rule in Algeria. It is a role the type of which Miss Talmadge has never before essayed.

The picture was directed by Chester Franklin and produced by Joseph M. Schenck. It is a First National release.

Added attractions, first episode of the new knockout 15 two reel stories The Telephone Girl, with bewitching Alberta Vaughn, and star cast.

Pathe Review and Palace orchestra.

Four days starting Sunday night at 7 p. m. standard time, Richard Barthelmess in The Fighting Blade, special augumented orchestra and other big attractions, at regular Palace prices.

Our own war for independence, our revolution against King George 111, of England, is undoubtedly the most significant period of our history. It marked the birth of our republic. A like period in English history is that which marked the period in which The Fighting Blade, a First National picture, starring Richard Barthelmess.

Again, The Fighting Blade, is the only story of the Cromwellian era which has ever been filmed. Incidentally, the producers have taken no liberties in matters of detail and the student of history will find no anachronisms in the production. The settings, the costuming, the furnishings, the manners and customs were reproduced only after the most thorough and diligent research had been undertaken. Another reason for the significance of the picture.

The Fighting Blade depicts one of the most dramatic episodes of the historic conflict, reciting the exploits and the romance of the valorous Kerstenbroock (played by Richard Barthelmess), a Flemish soldier of fortune who gained fame as the most deadly duelist in all Europe and who by circumstances was drawn to the people's side in their fight for the right to govern themselves, and who paved the way for Cromwell's success. The picture unfolds a story which, even without its historic background would be tremendously fascinating entertainment. In addition to the star, the cast includes Dorothy Mackaill, Frederick Burton, Morgan Wallace, Lee Baker, Bradley Barker, Stuart Sage, Allyn King and others — a sterling cast in an unusually worthy and worthwhile picture.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.

Galloping Gallagher, a galloping, stirring, exciting and thrilling western, starring the daring and handsome Fred Thomson, stunt man of unusual ability is scheduled for showing at the Strand theatre on Sunday night only.

Galloping Gallagher is the third western Fred Thomson has made. Thomson is a man of forceful personality. He is world's champion all-around athlete and holds the world's record for highest number of points scored by any athlete, 7,577. This record has never been equaled. His own brother is his nearest opponent with 7,519 points.

Galloping Gallagher tells an unusually interesting story. Bill Gallagher comes into the town of Tombstone to find it terror-stricken from a brigand raid. Just as the townspeople are fearfully whispering to him the raiders run from the bank, swing onto their horses, and down the street. Bill swings Silver King (his horse) after them, quickly overtakes them, straight-arms one out of his saddle and bull-dogs the other. The townspeople elect the newcomer sheriff.

His joy is short lived, however, when a note is sent him, anonymously: "Tombstone is unhealthy for sheriffs. Seven days is the dead-line."

His first official duty is that of welcoming and standing as protector for the visiting parson, announced as due in town. While at the station, Bill is dumbfounded to find that the new parson is a woman, and a beautiful one.

One beautiful woman in a town full of rough cowboys and worse, and there's the devil to pay. But Bill Gallagher is willing to pay for the sake of the girl, and how he does it is revealed in a climax that is thrilling to the nth degree.

The Santa Fe Trail and a comedy complete the program.

Broadway Theatre.

In Triumph, which opens a few days' run at the Broadway theatre tomorrow, Cecil B. DeMille returns from the ancient spectacle of his Ten Commandments to the type of ultra-modern society love drama in which he scored most sensational successes and of which Male and Female and Manslaughter were such notable examples.

Here is the typical DeMille production, with its gorgeous settings, luxurious backgrounds, beautiful women, flashing gowns and an array of featured players that looks more like a copy of the roster of the Paramount studios than a cast. Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and Victor Varconi have the principal roles. Then there's Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edeson, Za-Su Pitts, George Fawcett and Raymond Hatton, all featured. Quite a lineup, you'll agree.

Triumph is the story of a strong man ruined by money and a weak man regenerated through the loss of it, and through a wonderful girl. It takes one man from the haunts of the rich and tosses him into the gutter. It takes another from poverty to wealth and high position. It shows you a factory girl in the whirl and thunder of ponderous machinery. It shows the same girl at the pinnacle of what she calls Triumph, with wealth, jewels, applause.

Like Manslaughter, Triumph is a strictly modern love story adapted from a popular Saturday Evening Post serial. May Edginton is the author, and Clara Beranger wrote the screen play.

Short subjects include a comedy and news.

This is the starting of the picture policy for the first half of each week and we can assure you it's some picture.

Vaudeville Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

Mid-week worship, Thursday evening, at 7.45. Mr. Abbott will lead in an informal discussion.

All women of the parish are urged to attend the annual meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Branch, Woman's Board of Missions, to be held at the Community House, Friday, with sessions at 10.30 a. m. and 2 p. m. (daylight saving time). There will be addresses by Miss Kate G. Lamson, of Boston, foreign secretary of the W. B. M., and Miss Eunice Thomas, of Foochow, China, annual reports, election of officers, etc., with the usual basket luncheon at noon.

The Camp Fire meets at the Community House, at 7 o'clock, Friday evening.

Dr. Tennen Takes Special Study.

Dr. J. S. Tennen of 65 Main street has just returned from New York city where he has been studying for several months in a post graduate course in X-ray and diseases of the skin. The X-ray courses were under William H. Myers of the Post Graduate hospital and the courses in skin disease were at the New York Skin and Cancer hospital. Both departments are considered the finest of the kind in the country and the thorough courses Dr. Tennen has taken will be supplemented by his equipping a laboratory for X-ray and special machines for skin work that will be the finest in this part of the state.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Neighbors' Night, for which special invitations had been extended to Pachaug, Canterbury and Ledyard granges, made an attractive program for the meeting of Norwich grange in Steiner hall on Wednesday evening, when the attendance included 97 visitors; besides the large gathering of the home grange members that filled the room. Visitors were present from Pachaug, North Stonington, Canterbury, Groton, Ledyard, Lebanon, Preston City, Ashaway and Konomoc granges.

At the business meeting with Worthy Master Arthur W. Avery presiding, the installation of Lena Pukalins as Flora was conducted by Fred M. Taylor of Lebanon, state deputy. Mrs. W. S. Murray, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that $20 had been cleared by the supper recently held. It was announced that there would be special meetings of the grange on June 23 and June 30 to initiate the large number of candidates who will be in waiting by that time.

At the intermission after the business meeting sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the feast committee.

The lecturer's hour was in charge of Pachaug, Canterbury and Ledyard granges, each furnishing a part in the program that proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the season.

The Pachaug grange contribution comprised a reading by Frank Mell and a surprise musical sketch by J. P. Richardson, Mrs. J. P. Richardson, Mabel Frink, Mabel Kanahan and Byron Klane.

Canterbury grange members gave a playlet, Not a Man in the House, with Mrs. Aspley, Mrs. Hawes, Mrs. Frink, Miss Hawes and Miss Nolan in the cast. This was followed by a vocal duet by A. D. Tracy and Mrs. Ida Sears.

Ledyard grange presented a clever playlet, Resolutia, cleverly given by Helen Risley and Fred Doolittle, and an original paper on Spring Flowers by Barbara Goodenough which she illustrated by showing a number of rare wild flowers.

Rising votes of thanks were passed to the entertaining granges for the pleasant evening they had given for the meeting.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The regular meeting of Wauregan lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, was held Tuesday evening in Buckingham Memorial with a large attendance. The usual routine of business was transacted. The smoker committee gave an interesting report of the programme for the coming smoker and nomination of officers for the coming election took place. There is considerable enthusiasm in the election and the outcome will be watched with interest by the members of the lodge.

Following the business meeting there was a social hour presided over by Abner Schwartz. Stories were told and there was an interesting oration by Josiah Greenstein. An appetizing spread was served by the entertainment committee. Guests of the evening included members of Golden Rule lodge of New Jersey.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS.

Sunday, June 8, is the communion day for Mercier assembly, whose members will receive communion at the 7.30 mass at St. Patrick's church. After the communion the members will take breakfast at the Wauregan house. The arrangements for the communion and the breakfast are in the hands of a committee of which Mrs. John Bowne is chairman with the following members: The Misses Lena Leahy, Mary Dunn, Elizabeth Hoar, Maud Quinley, Rose Dennis, Margaret Congdon, Agnes White, Nellie Sullivan, Sarah McInnis, Maizie Maloney, Annie Stanton, Annie B. Sullivan, Mrs. J. F. Carney, Mrs. James McNerney Mrs. J. F. Carney, Mrs. Christopher Barry, Mrs. Ray Wheeler, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. J. J. Dutton.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS.

Buckingham council, No. 14, met in regular session Wednesday evening at the Buckingham Memorial with Councilor F. B. Shappee presiding. The attendance was very large and it was one of the busiest meetings of the year. There were three new members added to the roll book and two more applications brought in, this making a total of 37 to receive the degree work, which will be worked by the degree team from New Britain. It has been the pleasure of the press committee to witness the work as put on by this team on two occasions and also various other teams and this team is second to none in New England. There was a large delegation from Roosevelt Council of New London who are greatly interested in the work of the order. There were several of the visiting brothers who spoke briefly on subjects of interest to the organization. National Representative J. W. Wellington was also present, and delivered a very interesting address.

Roosevelt Council No. 3 of New London has been invited to attend the next meeting to witness the degree work and Buckingham must have a large attendance. Let the Buckingham men show them that Norwich is on the map to stay. The entertainment committee will be on the job and serve lunch with refreshments. As Brother Howard E. Eddins is chairman of the committee everyone will be well taken care of.

All of the brothers are expected to meet at the Buckingham Memorial at 7.30 p. m. daylight time.

After the meeting closed there was a joint session of committees on picnics the Junior Order from New London, and also the Daughters of America were represented. The meeting adjourned at a late hour. The next meeting of committees will be held in New London. National Representative J. W. Wellington was elected as chairman and Past Councilor Howard E. Eddins elected secretary.

EASTERN STAR.

Sachem Chapter, No. 57, had a well attended meeting of over 100 members at Masonic Temple Wednesday evening and there was initiation and balloting.

Plans have been made for a supper at the meeting June 11 to which Fidelity chapter of New London and Owaneco chapter of Uncasville have been invited. The supper will be served at 6 o'clock in the dining room of the temple and there will be initiation at the regular meeting at 7.45.

It is expected that several from Sachem chapter will go to Merrow today (Saturday) where there is to be a visitation by the grand officers at the meeting to be held at 2.30 standard time.

Several Sachem chapter members will probably visit Owaneco chapter next Wednesday evening.

The next meeting of the sewing circle will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Carpenter, West Main street, on Tuesday, June 10.

FINDS HONG KONG BEAUTY SPOT IN HIS VISIT TO ASIA

Hong Kong, which he calls one of the really charming views of Asia, was reached by Rutherford C. Plaut of this city on April 18 on his voyage around the world and he writes from there as follows to Norwich friends:

Honk Kong, China.
April 18, 1924.

My dear Ed and All at the Store:

Well, here I am in Hong Kong, China, and I feel just like Julius Cassar must have felt when he said, "I came, I saw, I conquered." Perhaps the conquered part is unfair to the Chinese, but the "I came" and "I saw" I will let stand.

The voyage from Manila to Hong Kong was lovely. Hong Kong, as you no doubt know, is on an island. I must confess that I was not aware of this fact, but I know you all knew it. The literal translation of the word "Hong King" is "Fragrant Streams." How you all know two words in Chinese and there is no reason in the world why you could not walk straight into a Chinese restaurant or laundry and have a chat with Charlie Wing, and the reason for calling it "Fragrant Streams" is because boats formerly got their water from the hillsides. The island is eleven miles long and from four to five miles wide, with an area of 30 square miles. Perhaps you do not know that Great Britain acquired the island of Hong Kong and controls its every move. The commerce of Hong Kong is second only to London and New York. The harbor is wonderful. It is fifteen miles square and is well protected. It is sufficiently deep to permit the largest ocean steamer. Mountains surround it on the mainland, and it has an altitude of over 1,000 feet. Typhoons sometimes play havoc with shipping, but they do not occur at this time of the year. We took a ride around the entire island, on a fine military road in a motor and it was delightful, especially the mountains and sea views. It is one of the really charming views in Asia.

We stopped for tea at the Repulse Bay hotel. It was an ideal spot and a superb hotel, having a picturesque setting.

The name of the city itself, which extends four miles along the bay front is Victoria, but this name is usually ignored and all call it Hong Kong. It is without doubt the most beautiful city in the Far East. The city is distinctly British and the evidence of British control is seen in the fine engineering triumphs, the superb roads, the beautiful buildings, the business hotels and an unmistakable air of prosperity. The port is free for everything, except opium and liquors. The baggage is rarely examined.

Hong Kong furnished a most unusual night scene from a ship in the harbor, looking upon ascending glory of light to the top of the peak, the entire city and mountain appearing to be decorated with luminous diamonds. It was not unlike Algiers, but far superior. Approaching Hong Kong, our big boat docked at Kowloon, near the ferry to Hong Kong. There are three parallel business streets, on which most of the shops and business houses are located, each on a higher level (the streets, I mean). The one facing the waterfront is Connaught road. The next is Des Voeux road and the third is King's road. These three embrace most of the business section. Built ascending, one passes through miles with charming gardens. One governor was instrumental in planting one million trees during his administration. It is not uncommon to see women coolies engaged in the heaviest kind of labor, such as carrying stone and building materials in their baskets, suspended on a pole carried over their shoulders. These women work for twenty-five cents a day and the cost of male labor is only a little higher. Of course, they live very primitively and a bowl of rice and fish and some fruit is all they need to live on. A corner of the floor or a stone by the wayside apparently is often a sufficient bed. Thousands live in the sampans and other watercrafts of the bay and river. The Sing Song girls in the floral boats and in restaurants give a little artistic touch in costume and dancing to the sordid surroundings of their slavish life of shame. One rides continually in rickshas, chairs or motor cars. Chairs or rickshas cost thirty cents an hour. This is Mexican money which in our money is fifteen cents. Pretty cheap riding, eh? One feels like a baby again in a baby carriage. The first night we were here we had a Chinese dinner given by the Canadian Pacific people at the Yee Woo restaurant in the Chinese section called West Point. The dinner consisted of shacks fin and craf, cuttet garoupa, gold and silver pigeon eggs, stewed awali, boiled birds nest, fried chicken and walnut, roast duck, boiled mushroom, Li Hung Cheung chap chin, fried Pangchow rice, almond fruit, pastry, fruit, almond and me on sud. Birds nests made from the glutinous vests procured in the caves of Borneo. The real article is extremely expensive, a single case being worth a thousand dollars.

In shopping, it is necessary to do careful bargaining, although a few Chinese stores and British stores say they have fixed price establishments. Even there, however, discounts will be made. The Chinaman is a shrewd business man and naturally sets the largest price obtainable. At the same time a bargain once made is adhered to and a Chinaman in business is always reliable. There is a saying here, "Never break your word with a Chinese, for he will never break his word with you," although one of our passengers, an old shrewd Scotchman, James Hardie of Pittsburgh, Pa., a retired candy maker, was relieved of his pocket book containing seventeen hundred dollars by a "rickisha man," and Hardie is glad he is alive. Mr. Hardie is 78 years old and the oldest passenger we have on the cruise.

As I told you, there were untold thousands of Sampans on the river and bay. Whole families are born, live, and die in these boats, wretched and filthy, all housed in the tiny space of a few feet. Here they cook, wash, eat and sleep, and the dirty water which they drink from the river is little else than this mud. Standing with long oars attached to the back of the boat, the women handle them skillfully and this they do with their babies tied to their backs. It is a pitiful sight. The poor baby is tossed about and falls from side to side as the mother moves vigorously about, until never a whimper from the little one. The people who live on the Sampans are the poorest and the very lowest in China. They never marry with the land people and our lecturer told us that the women never go ashore until they are carried ashore to their final resting place. The men on these boats fish and sit around. I never saw any of them working. Even this class will not allow their women to sit with them. The wives and women members of the family must sit elsewhere. The men are served in one part of the boat by the women, who, after they have attended to their wants, sit down humbly with each other and eat.

We did considerable shopping here. Cadden bought some very fine mah jongg sets for the store and carved ivory beads. He certainly made a fine selection and, if the duty is not too much, he can sell them very reasonably.

It seemed funny to me, but chop suey, with which we are familiar in Chinese restaurants at home, is unknown here.

"Seeing the sights" is just what it means here and I saw the sights even to taking a whiff at the opium pipe, which is wide open and commercial here. The Hong Kong hotel compares favorably with the Biltmore hotel in New York and is right up to date.

In the city of the dead, there are stalls containing coffins all set in an arcade which is ornamented with porcelain jars, banners and tinsel flowers. It depends on the wealth of the family how long the body must remain in the coffin. The price of the rental space in the city of the dead is $150 for three months, and $25 per month thereafter, although some are cheaper. The priests decide the time and place of burial and they keep bodies as long as is possible, meanwhile collecting rent. Some have been there as long as thirty years. Pretty good business proposition, I would say. Will eager to try it.

Now, I want to tell you of another incident. We were talking—a group of us—about New London, when a chap said, "I used to live in Norwich, fourteen miles from New London." That was enough for me, and I jumped right on his collar and said, "You're all mine." His name was Charles F. Hardie. His card, I am enclosing. He is the Special Far Eastern Representative of the American Radiator Company with headquarters at Shanghai. He pulled out a clipping from his pocket of Doctor Cassidy's death. He said Louis Kamp, another Norwich boy, had given it to him in Tien Tsin in Northern China a few days before. Hauss was formerly with the Richmond Stove Company when the late Werter C. Higgins, Edward Higgins' father, was the leading spirit. He said he formerly lived on Otis street in the block and that Hiram Beckwith's folks lived in the same house. He roomed for a while with John D. Hall's folks across the street. He spoke of Bill Cook and then I showed him The Bulletin I had with the picture of Witter Tingley Cook and the story of his recent production. He would not believe that Bill had a boy that size. Well, he asked about all the Norwich people. He worked with Warren Burt, Oliver Forbes, etc., and he said the late Mr. Higgins was the finest man he ever worked for. We had a good chat. He was pleased and so was I. We sure had four pleasant days here.

Cadden and Carrie went on to Canton, which takes a whole day to get to and from. He hasn't said much about it, but others who took the trip said, "never again." The expedition to Canton was adventuresome, due to the presence aboard the boat of a patrol of heavily armed soldiers. The fact that the Friday before the night boat was attacked by a piratical band that had hidden themselves among the Chinese passengers on the lower deck, accounted for their need. In the siege, seven passengers and thirteen pirates were killed, most of the latter being shot after they had been thwarted, and had plunged into the river in an effort to escape. I hope Cadden writes a graphic description of his experience.

The temperature has dropped 23 degrees since we left Hong Kong and am now all complaining it's so cold. We kick when its hot, and we kick when its cold. I think we are having such an easy time of it that we don't now what to do, so we kick.

Our next stop will be on Easter Sunday at Shanghai. Have I not done well so far in writing? And you all have done fine, so it's fifty-fifty. I bought a nice genuine Buddha Jade ring. Jade is very expensive here and they wanted $400 for a string of beads of Jade—not even carved.

We are leaving the China Sea for the Straits of Formosa and fogs and rains are to be expected of the tropics. The change from the heat to this cool, invigorating weather is indeed a blessing.

I believe, if a fair estimation was made, that the tourists of this boat left over $75,000 in Hong Kong, buying jewelry, ivories, porcelains, carved chopsticks, idols, brocades, antiques, jade, madarin coats, bejdered linens, silks, raincoats, and whatnot.

They told us that there were eighty-one different kinds of skin diseases to be found in Hong Kong. I told them I didn't care—I had prickly heat and that if they could beat that I would make a trade.

I will try to get this in the mail. We are all well and send regards.

5 O'CLOCK DANGER HOUR IN MOTOR TRAFFIC

Motor trucks figure in twice as many accident as private passenger cars, in proportion, to registration, in Connecticut, according to an analysis of reports to the state motor vehicle department made at the Sheffield school of Yale University. The accident rate for commercial motor vehicles exceeds that for any other class, and motor cycle side cars have the smallest percentage of accidents.

One in every seven and one-half motor trucks registered in this state last year was involved in an accident, while one in every fifteen private passenger cars figured in accidents; one in every 150 side cars, one in every thirteen motor cycles and one in every nine public service motor vehicles, including jitneys. Thirty thousand motor trucks registered, and 4,000 of them figured in accidents, according to reports filed with the department.

Sunday continued to hold the record for the most accidents. Out of 16,500 accident analyzed, 18.1 per cent. occurred on Sundays, 17.8 per cent on Saturdays, 13.6 per cent. on Fridays, 13 per cent. on Mondays, 13.4 per cent. on Wednesdays, 12.2 per cent on Tuesdays and 12.1 per cent on Thursdays. This result was believed to be due to the increased traffic on the highways at week-ends.

August proved to be the most dangerous month for motor vehicle driving, and 5 o'clock in the afternoon the most hazardous period in the day to venture forth. July was a close second to August in the accident record, followed by October, June, September, November, December, May, April, February, January and March, in the order named.

At 5 p. m. traffic in cities at least reaches its maximum, as offices, and many factories and other places of business close at that hour, releasing throngs of employees into the street hurrying to get home, and children, then out of school, are apt to be playing in the streets.

DANIEL BOWEN PASSES FOR REGISTERED PHARMACIST

One of the seven to make passing marks out of 44 who took examinations for registered pharmacist in the District of Columbia was Daniel J. Bowen of the Naval Hospital, Washington, a Norwich boy who has been in the navy as a chief pharmacists' mate. Two of those who passed, Bowen and John R. Dakin of the naval hospital, showed unusual ability in pharmaceutical chemistry, making 100 and 96 per cent respectively in these subjects.

Bowen has been in the navy nine years and is at present in charge of the commissary department at Washington Naval hospital.

STAFFORD'S FINE MONUMENT FORMALLY DEDICATED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stafford Springs, May 30.—That "America remembers" was stressed this afternoon in the address of the principal speaker of the Memorial day exercises, Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham, at Hyde Park, where the Warren Soldiers' monument was dedicated, forming the feature of the Memorial day observance here. Hundreds of townspeople attended the dedication exercises, for which perfect arrangements had been made by the committee in charge.

Adjutant General George M. Cole, staff of Governor Templeton was the guest of honor. Mrs. Frank Wills, sister of the late Col. Charles Warren, donor of the monument, was also among the guests on the speakers' stand. Rev. Charles Puffer of Stafford offered the invocation.

R. L. McGovern of Hartford, architect and builder of the monument, spoke briefly on "This Granite Shaft," eloquently paying tribute to the heroes of the Civil war, making the point that the memorial of granite is as eternal as the glory of those men of '61, to whose memory it is dedicated. The last of the Grand Old Army, now numbering only six, were conveyed to and from the park in an automobile, and participated in the parade, which formed at Warren Memorial hall, also the gift of the late Colonel Warren.

F. Wellington Ruckstull of New York, an artist whose work is known abroad as well as in America, as sculptor of the bronzes explained the meaning and the purpose of the designs which he made to commemorate the memory of the Stafford men, pointing out the cry of victory so perfectly expressed in the pose of the eagle, the American emblem, which crowns the dome surmounting the granite shaft. The idealistic figure of American motherhood, entitled "America Remembers," represents that tribute of memory whoch America brings to her soldiers

FOUR MEN CHARGED WITH TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

Middletown, June 1—State police today arrested four New Haven men on charges of transporting liquor and confiscated 235 gallons of grain alcohol, a sedan automobile and truck in Portland. The men gave their names as Edward Meiner, Louis L. De Chiglopio, Anthony P. Esposito and Carmello Rilino and were released on bonds of $1,000 each for appearance in city court tomorrow morning. Another man, said to have been the driver of the sedan and whose name the police have as Salvatore Baresi, was not arrested.

The sedan is said to have carried six 5-gallon cans and the truck 45 five-gallon cans of the liquid. Meiner is said to have been the driver of the truck.

At midnight last night state police of the Centerbrook barracks stopped a truck on the Durham road near here and took 50 five-gallon cans of alcohol and 60 quarts of beer. The men in the machine ran away when the officers halted their car. The truck and liquor were taken to Centerbrook where it was found that the machine was registered in the name of Joseph Stadiante, of 83 White street, New Haven.

ITALIANS LANDING TROOPS ON ISLAND OF RHODES

Constantinople, June 1.—A telegram received here from Angora says the Italians are landing troops on the Island of Rhodes, in the Mediterranean sea, off the southwest coast of Asia Minor. The men being landed belong to three or four regiments.

During the World war Italy occupied Rhodes, among other Turkish islands in the Mediterranean, as a base. In August, 1920, an agreement was reached between Italy and Greece by which the Greeks were given sovereignty over the Dodecanese Island, which include the Island of Rhodes. Carlo Schanzer, Italian foreign minister, in 1922 denounced the agreement.

1066 DELEGATES HAVE BEEN INSTRUCTED FOR COOLIDGE

Washington, June 1—William M. Butler, campaign manager for President Coolidge in a statement tonight declared national convention votes instructed or favorable to the nomination of the president had reached a total of 1066, with 553 necessary for a choice.

Senator Hiram Johnson of Cali[illegible] pledged 22 of its votes, consisting of 13 in South Dakota and two in Illinois, while Senator La Follette was awarded 28 of the 29 in Wisconsin. All other delegates were pledged to the Coolidge column.

M'ADOO DEFEATED BY SMITH IN MINNESOTA CONVENTION

St. Paul, Minn., June 1.—Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, candidate for the democratic nomination for president, decisively defeated the supporters of William G. McAdoo at the Minnesota democratic convention here last night.

Only three of the state's 24 delegates to the national convention of the party at New York city were instructed for McAdoo. Two were pledged for Smith but the others, although uninstructed, are understood to be favorable to the New York governor. Eighteen of the delegates are known to be privately pledged to Governor Smith and are expected to cast their vote for him on the first ballot. While McAdoo is certain of the three votes on the first ballot, Smith men claim one of these will switch to the governor after the initial vote.

ALBANY OPENS TODAY ITS TERCENTENARY CELEBRATION

Albany, N. Y., June 1.—An anchor in the Hudson river, where three hundred years ago, Hendrik Hudson moored his ship "Half Moon" and stepped ashore where now is the city of Albany, two grey destroyers, the Overton and the John K. Paulding were anchored today in preparation for the formal opening tomorrow of Albany's tercentenary celebration.

Nearer in shore was anchored a reproduction of the original "half moon" presenting, in contrast to the modern destroyers, vivid evidence of three centuries of progress in water transportation.

All Albany was gay with orange, white and blue flags today. Tomorrow will be given over to processions and pageantry.

LYNCH TAKES LEAD IN THE I. T. U. ELECTION

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1.—James M. Lynch had a lead of 3,223 over Charles P. Howard in the race for president of the International Typographical Union, according to returns from 57 locals unions in which 15,561 votes were cast, unofficially tabulated at headquarters of the union today. The official court will probably be completed tomorrow.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS ARE ARRIVING IN CLEVELAND

GERMAN NATIONALISTS WORKING FOR MONARCHY

Berlin, June 1 (By the A. P.)—Grand Admiral Thirpitz as chief of regent, and William Frederick, eldest son of former Crown Prince Frederick William, as "chair warmer," for the monarchy, is alleged to constitute the pet scheme of the German nationalists, according to Georg Bernhard, editor of the Vossiche Zeitung. Bernhard asserts that these are the features of a coup d'etat planned by the nationalists.

The editor intimates that both the United States and Great Britain have joined in a plan [illegible] aimed at forestalling the entry of the German nationalists into the new government, and that a strong hint has been given from both quarters that the advent of reactionaries in the cabinet would be the occasion for pronounced misgivings in both countries.

FARMER-LABOR PARTY ORGANIZED IN BAY STATE

Boston, June 1—The farmer-labor party was organized in Massachusetts today at a meeting of 56 delegates from labor parties, 10 of whom represent communistic organizations. T. J. Conroy of Worcester, representing Machinists' union 694, was elected delegate to the national convention of the party, with William Simmonds of the Stenographers' union as alternate.

An executive committee for the state was elected and a platform adopted. Among the declared principles of the platform were: Recognition of soviet; independence for the Philippines; abolition of the state constabulary and citizens' military training camps; federal regulations of hours and minimum wages in industry; abolition of all injunctions in strike cases; erection by the state of homes to be rented at cost, and free meals in the schools.

56 SPANISH AIRPLANES FLEW OVER ENEMY POSITIONS

Madrid, June 1—Fifty six Spanish airplanes made bombinb flights over enemy positions in Morocco Saturday and returned to their bases uninjured, according to an official communication issues today.

The batteries at Fahr have been bombarded and dispersed the tribesmen at Lomas Tizzin, an airdrome has been established on Alboran Island to provide a landing place for airplanes from Spain to Morocco.

JAPANESE SUICIDED AT THE AMERICAN EMBASSY

Tokio, June 1—(By the A. P.)—The suicide of a Japanese outside the ruins of the American embassy has given a great impetus of the "national [illegible] movement" against the American exclusion legislation. Comments of the press and interviews with prominent citizens, which the newspapers published this morning, indicate that a profound nation-wide impression has been created. The newspapers are strongly taking up the suggestion that the suicide should be given a national funeral, since, as one publicist declares, "he has truly expressed the feelings of the Japanese people."

The suicide was carried out according to the strange, romantic Japanese code, which appeals very strongly to Japanese sentiment. He is sure to be regarded as a martyr.

Shinkichi Uyesugi, professor of the Imperial Tokio University and leader of the "national spirit movement," says that "Harakari shows that a solution of the exclusion question cannot be reached by speeches and notes but by heroic resolution thus typified."

PORTUGUESE AVIATORS REACH ALLAHABAD, INDIA

Shanghai, June 1—(By the A. P.)—Portuguese aviators, flying from Lisbond to Macao, China, have reached Allahabad, India, according to a Reuter dispatch received here.

A dispatch received by way of London last night said the aviators, whose plane was wrecked at Jodhpur, India had purchased a new machine in which to continue their flight. Allahabad is about 375 miles from Jodhpur.

WILLIMANTIC

Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, Corporation Counsel Thomas J. Kelley and members of the board of aldermen made the annual inspection of the police, fire and water departments, Saturday afternoon. At the police headquarters, Chief of Police Allan MacArthur, Captain Thomas Grady and Lieutenant Frank McLean with the regular and supernumerary officers were lined up in full uniform, with white gloves, as customary in the summer season. Congratulatory remarks were made by Acting Mayor Hickey on the excellent work which the department has been doing and on its fine appearance. The officers' quarters, the patrolmen's room, court chamber and cell room were then officially inspected and with the exception of the police court room which is sadly in need of repairs, were declared to be in perfect condition.

The inspecting squad then went to the Bank street engine house where both fire companies were awaiting their arrival in charge of Chief James J. Tighe, Assistant to the Chief Henry [illegible] and Acting Lieutenant Michael English. The lineup included the two platoons of the company, the call men, fire police and Truck Company No. 1, Captain A. E. Taylor and Lieutenant George Peterson and men. The personnel of the company was also commended by the acting mayor. The appearance, co-operation and efficiency of the firemen were other points touched upon by the inspecting board. The companies' quarters were visited by Mayor Hickey, Alderman Burns, Chief Tighe and officers. The various units of the department at the Bank street engine house were pointed out by Chief Tighe. Hose Company No. 4 quarters on Jackson street were next visited. Captain J. J. Sullivan and men were lined up for inspection there, as were Captain J. Lyr and men at Hose company No. 2, on Summit street.

A trip by motor was then made to the pumping station, Mansfield, where the plant was inspected with Willard N. Bowen, superintendent of the station, acting as guide. Superintendent of Water Works Henderson S. Moulton pointed out a number of needs for the department. The new ice houses, run-ways and grounds which comprise the municipal ice plant at the pumping station pond, were also inspected.

John Suffish, 21, of South Coventry, died at Memorial hospital, Manchester, Friday afternoon as the result of injuries sustained that forenoon at Manchester Green near Bolton town line, when the motorcycle he was riding bounced off a stone in the highway and overturned, throwing Suffish to the ground. His skull was fractured and his neck broken.

Suffish was in company with five other South Coventry young men on his way to attend the motorcycle races at Torrington. The band was traveling at a fair rate of speed when Suffish was seen to fall and the motorcycle toppled over and struck him on the head. He did not regain consciousness. It is a coincidence that only a few weeks ago, Henry Heether, another South Coventry young man was killed in a motorcycle accident at Yantic while riding with chums. Both Suffish and Heether purchased their motorcycles at the same time.

John Suffish was the son of Wallack and Sophie Spider Suffish, who survive him, with his four sisters, Mrs. William Ercehill, and Misses Anna, Victoria, and Helen Suffish of South Coventry, and three brothers, Michael, Henry and Frank.

Glad tidings reached cottage owners at Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, over the week-end, in the announcement by State Commissioner of Health Stanley H. Osborne to Dr. D. C. Y. Moore of Manchester that bathing would be allowed at the lake this summer. The decision is one directly in reverse of one reached a few weeks ago when it was stated that bathing at the lake would be prohibited this year if it took the entire state police force to do it. It is said that the last statement was issued in view of the fact that court action to prevent the South Coventry Water Supply company fro mtaking water from the lake for general distribution is pending and unlikely to be disposed of before next fall. The action was brought by residents of Coventry on complaint that the water distributed by the company came from a body of water within a short distance from a cemetery and a further charge that the company had no legal right to the waters of the lake. Last season cottagers at the lake awoke one morning to find notices posted about the lake prohibiting bathing on order of the state board of health. The services of Major Buckley were secured and shortly after a counter suit was brought. In the meantime Henry Mathieu of this city was arrested for bathing in the lake against orders and was brought to trial as a test case. His case was nolled in the superior court.

Police court disposition was made of an old case, Saturday morning, when Julius Guay, Jr., charged with two counts—selling an automobile purchased under a conditional bill of sale and passing an alleged fraudulent promissory note during August, 1922—was bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court. Guay had entered a demurrer which was overruled. Bonds fixed at $300 were furnished by his father. The case has been on the local court docket since February 15, last, having been continued four times. Judge Foss granted a request made by Prosecuting Attorney Harvey to nolle the charge of selling an automobile under a conditional bill of sale, it being understood that a settlement had been reached in this matter. The alleged fraudulent promissory note was for $63.75 for automobile tires purchased from Albert M. Gilman of this city. The note was drawn on the firm of Brazos and Sons of Middletown, by whom Guay claimed he was employed. It was payable in thirty days. In the court the charge was made to read, "obtaining goods under false pretenses" to which the demurrer was entered by the defendant's attorney.

Rev. John W. Prince of New Haven conducted the services at the First Congregational church here Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Prince is a graduate of Wesleyan university and Yale divinity school, class of 1919.

Members of Windham Review of the W. B. A. of the Maccabees, who took part in the pageant given at Hartford recently were: Mrs. Iva Lavalle, Mrs. Minnie Smith, Mrs. Ida Grady, Mrs. Florence Woodworth, Mrs. Agnes Vegiard and Mrs. Mary Peters.

A special vocal program will be broadcasted from Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs this (Monday) evening for the benefit of radio fans when the Regal Male Quartet of this city will sing several selections. Solo numbers will also be given. Mrs. Charles H. Beebe will be piano accompanist. The quartet comprises: Ray Tallman, first tenor; Randall Stewart, second tenor; Edwin F. Cross, baritone, and Dr. C. H. Kingsbury, bass.

At the 10.30 o'clock mass at St. Mary's church Sunday, impressive ceremonies were carried out when the sacrament of confirmation was conferred upon some three hundred candidates. The singing was by St. Cecelia's choir.

Many returning from walks or rides Sunday, told of the attractive beauty of the dog-wood blossoms, seen on many wooded hillsides. The round-leaved variety is the sort that possesses the showy white involucres, which is usually taken for the blossom itself, but which instead only surrounds the close cluster of inconspicuous greenish flowers.

There used to be at one time in this section a much discussed question. Why does a hen cross the road? There came to be two common answers. One, because she can't go around it, and another, because she wants to get on the other side. Sunday, in one of the outlying districts a local automobile operator discovered another answer, which is this: Because she knows that every driver will jam on his emergency brake.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Franklin and children, also Miss Verna Clarke of Phenix, R. I., were Memorial Day guests at the home of Mrs. Agnes Franklin, on Mathewson street.

KANSAS CITY ROYALLY WELCOMING SHRINERS

Kansas City, Mo., June 1—(By the A. P.)—Advance caravans of Shriners from all parts of the country were arriving here today for the fiftieth imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine opening a three day session, Tuesday. Several units of chapters participated in church services and Shrine bands gave concerts.

Profuse and beautiful decorations have transformed this middle Western City into a veritable Arabian paradise, with the "Garden of Allah" the central motif. Obelisks and sphynxes form the central group of the garden, from which long lines of decorated Oriental columns mark the trail over which the fezzed hosts will escort the imperial potentate to his conclave, Tuesday morning, and the night "stunt" parade will be held Wednesday. Thursday evening a civic pageant will provide entertainment for the visitors.

Ararat, the host, is making every possible effort to provide for the welfare of the visitors. Arriving temples are escorted to their headquarters and provisions have been made for housing Shriners in hotels, club houses, "Pullman City" and in tourist quarters, officials expect all visitors will be taken care of with ease.

The annual meeting of the national court, Royal Order of Jesters, an auxiliary organization was held today.

The imperial council's committee on dispensations and charters which met Saturday to hear requests for new temples, is scheduled to report to the imperial council Tuesday night.

DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS IN EAST ONECO FAMILY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

East Oneco, May 30.—State Humane Agent William H. Phelps and Local Agent Frank C. Tillinghast have been in town investigating many reports sent them from various sources about the deplorable condition of a family, where the father is ill and unable to work, one girl has already been sent to the Long Lane Farm to keep her from habits of vice and seven other children from infancy up to nine years of age are not properly cared for, according to the reports.

They found the children filthy and covered with vermin, and have advised them being taken to the county home. About a year ago the mother was given a jail sentence of 60 days suspended for six months to give her a chance to mend her ways, and an older child was brought home from Providence, where she in a fit of despondency had taken poison with the intention of ending her life.

It is a very sad case, made much worse by the senseless chatter of people who under the cloak of friendship have been continually advising the mother contrary to her good and have caused several who have tried to help her in every possible way to let matters shift as they will until she faces the stern proper treatment of the state society.

GERSHON LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED TO WEDNESDAY

In the city court Saturday morning Judge Arthur F. Libby on the bench, the liquor law violation case against Max Gershon was continued until Wednesday morning. Gershon, one of the proprietors of the Colonial restaurant, was arrested Friday night by the local police.

Walter Petka, Canterbury Turnpike, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was fined $200 and costs and given a 30 day jail sentence. The jail sentence was suspended for one year. The arrest was made by Constable Maurice Looby.

Three men were fined for intoxication.

Possibility of house action at this session on the $30,000,000, divers and harbors appropriation bill has gone flimmering with the refusal of the rules committee to give the measure privileged status on the calendar.

EARLY MORNING LODGE ROOM FIRE
CALLS OUT NEW LONDON APPARATUS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 1.—The three-story brick building on Bank street, owned and occupied in part by Pequot and Mohegan lodges and with stores on the ground floors, was threatened with destruction at 5.15 o'clock this morning and so serious did the flames become that a general alarm was sounded ten minutes following the discovery of the blaze. The upper part of the structure, which is occupied entirely by the two lodges, suffered chiefly from smoke and water, but the store of A. Irlandi, 193, and the jewelry store of Jregore Slavin, 197, was damaged by fire, smoke and water. How the fire originated, or what the loss will be has not been determined.

Patrolman Michael Corcoran noticed smoke issuing from the Irlandi store. An alarm was rung in from Box 33, in front of the quarters of the Allen Hook and Ladder company. The blaze had gained such headway that the entire cellar was a mass of flames and clouds of smoke were pouring from the upper part of the building. A general alarm was sounded and within 15 minutes after the discovery of the fire the city's entire fire-fighting equipment was at work. Streams of water were poured into the cellar from the two front entrances and the two rear exits, while the Nameaug pumper was located on the wharf of the Central Coal company to pump from the river if the fire gave indication of getting beyond control. The fire was finally subdued, with damage confined to the building and with A. Irlandi, proprietor of the store in which the fire was discovered, being the heaviest loser.

The fire originated is being investigated by Chief Charles Rose. There had been no one in the Irlandi store, so far as known since Saturday midnight, yet when the fire was discovered the cellar was a seething furnace. Chief Rose is of the opinion that the fire originated from a furnace in the cellar of that part of the building used by the Odd Fellows or from electric light wires. It is known that a fire was used in the furnace Saturday and a supply of fuel for heating the building was put into the structure during the day.

Irlandi has a long term lease of the premises occupied by him and it is understood that he had recently signified his intention of vacating the store because of a lack of business and was attempting to sub-lease the place. Irlandi had been an occupant of the building less than a year.

Overcome by gas while at work in his lodging apartment, 151 Main street, late yesterday afternoon, Charles E. Burdick, 75, a painter and paperhanger, died a short time after being discovered unconscious and while artificial measures were being adopted to bring him back to consciousness.

Burdick, who with his wife occupied a two-room apartment, started to paper the kitchenette during the late afternoon and during the absence from the place of his wife. About 5.40 o'clock Thomas Hamrah, proprietor of the place, detected the odor of gas and investigating, traced the odor to the room where Burdick had started work. The door was locked and being unable to gain admission, Hamrah forced the door and found Burdick lying on the floor. The police were notified and Dr. Walter L. Douglass was summoned. The physician arrived within a few minutes, applying emergency measures in an effort to revive the man, but Burdick expired.

An examination of the room revealed a gas cock partially open on a cook stove, but the gas did not escape from there as was shown when an effort was made to light it, but from the rubber connection that attaches to the main pipe, a large flow of the fumes was discovered. This is believed the gas to enter the room and caused Burdick's asphyxiation and while he was in the act of applying paper on the wall Burdick was overcome, as demonstrated by a partially pasted strip of paper on the wall and the paste brush on the floor, close to where the body was found.

Emily C., 42, wife of Charles Boudreau, an employe of the New London Ship & Engine company, died Saturday at her home, 520 Thames street, Groton, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Boudreau is survived, besides her husband, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sonia, Matigna River, Nova Scotia; two daughters, Hilda Mary and Anna Catherine Boudreau, and six brothers, Jacob Sonia, Lynn, Mass., Leo of Greenport, L. I., John and Joseph of Nova Scotia, Peter Sonia, of Mystic, and Daniel Sonia of Boston and by four sisters, Mrs. Martin Boudreau, Fair Haven, Mass., Mrs. Charles Meuse, Mrs. Edward Le Blanc and Mrs. Eli Le Blanc, of Boston.

Because of lack of orders the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company has curtailed its local force of workmen. The men to be laid off number about 25 and how long they will be unemployed is not known.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clendenen, 57 Linden street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Clendenen to S. D. West, of Montgomery, Ala.

John E. Geffels, of New York, and Miss Marion Carroll, daughter of Mrs. Richard S. Carroll, 619 Bank street, were married in New York last Thursday. The bride was until recently employed by the Robert Gair company at Montville and latterly by the Winthrop Trust company. Mr. and Mrs. Geffels will make their home in Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Motorcycle Officer George Labeue was painfully injured Saturday night when thrown from his machine. The officer suffered lacerations of the leg and numerous severe bruises. He is under the care of a physician at his home on Jefferson avenue.

The officer was operating the cycle through Bank street shortly after 6 o'clock and became wedged in traffic at a point near the Empire theatre. Before he could extricate himself and get from the maze of automobiles, one of the cars grazed the cycle causing the foficer to be thrown to the pavement. The police station was notified and a speed car was sent after the injured officer. The motorcycle is at a repair shop.

Miss Mary E. Ryan, 60, residing with her sister, Mrs. Bridget Ryan, 40 Linden street, died suddenly of heart trouble Thursday afternoon while visiting at the home of her nephew, Michael Ryan, 60 Norwood avenue. Miss Ryan was in apparent health just before being stricken and died before relief could be administered. She is survived also by three nieces, Mrs. Joseph Ford, Tarris, S. C., and Misses Maude and Agnes Ryan of this city and by a sister, Mrs. Margaret Devine in Ireland.

The funeral of Mrs. James Casey, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. McGrath. The bearers were Martin, Dennis, John, Thomas, Michael and Patrick Murphy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was by Father McGrath.

The highway bridge on Montauk avenue, which spans the tracks of the New Haven railroad, is again in a dangerous condition for traffic this morning as section of the planking was discovered in a loosened condition.

Mrs. Cini, 13 Steward street, complained to the police Saturday that her little son had been bitten by a dog owned by Dr. Ross Black, Montauk avenue. An endeavor was made to report the incident to Dog Warden Sweezey, but that official could not be located.

Alfonzo Poppole, 17 Cottage street, Isaac Field, 479 Bayonet street, Constantino Casoline, New York and Stanley and Edwina Boronbuk, Montville, were patients discharged at the Home Memorial hospital, Saturday.

Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy began his vacation of two weeks today.

Roy Stanley, a stranger, of the type of stragglers allowed to "flop" on the sidewalks and solicit alms by offering lead pencils for sale, was taken into custody Saturday by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Patrick Sheehan charged with intoxication. He had a half pint bottle, which originally had been filled with alcohol, but with some of its contents drunk, when arrested. Stanley, who declared that the alcohol had been given him, will be allowed to get out of town tomorrow.

An automobile owned and driven by William H. Tooker, 243 Ohio avenue, Providence, struck Sophia Magrombo, 7, of 35 Shaw street near the child's home late Saturday afternoon. Although the girl was knocked down, she got only minor bruises.

Benjamin Mowrey, 42 Perry street, employed at the store of H. D. Barrows, State street, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that his watch had been stolen. Mowrey left the time-piece on a box in the store, while he attended to some matter and when he returned for it he discovered that it was missing.

Frank Kahwjiy, 27 Church street, was committed to Norwich State hospital Saturday evening by Judge of Probate Arthur B. Caulkins.

An automobile owned and driven by Walter I. Immich, 161 Curtiss St., Meriden, was struck by a trolley car of the Connecticut company on Bank street late Saturday afternoon. The autpmobile was damaged.

Albert J. Bailey, 107 Thames street, Groton, complained to the police Saturday afternoon that a large Masonic emblem had been stolen from his automobile. Bailey parked his car on Washington street, near State street, the night before. When Bailey returned to the machine he discovered the theft.

Lawrence Donohue, employed in Boston, spent the week-end with relatives in New London.

An attempt was made shortly after last midnight to steal an automobile owned by John Whiteside, 53 Coit street and that the thieves were unsuccessful in getting away with the car was because they were not thoroughly familiar with the mechanism. Whiteside parked the machine for the night in front of his home, 53 Coit St. Shortly after midnight he heard some one trying to start an engine of an automobile and looking out he saw two men at his car. Whiteside opened the window and as he did so the thieves beat it, but took a kit of tools from the machine.

Traffic Officer William Corcoran and Patrolman Frank Philopena discovered an automobile parked on the west side of Bank street, between State and Golden streets, Saturday afternoon, in violation of the law. The owner of the car could not be found so the officers secured the services of Edward McClue to drive the car to the police garage. In the car when the officers took charge of it was Thomas F. Tracy, 72 Pleasant street, Worcester, Mass., who was awaiting the owner, John L. Speaks, Bank St. As McClue and the officers started in the car for the police garage, the car in rounding into Golden street, collided with a machine owned by Nathan Harris of 35 Linden street and operated by Harry Sharaf, 17 Grand street. The collision caused the door of the colliding car to open and Tracy fell to the pavement, sustaining a blood tumor on the outer angle of the lower right jaw. He was attended at the police station and was later removed to the home of a friend. Speaks appeared at the police station a short time later and was arrested charged with violation of the parking ordinance, also for using a car with improper brakes.

Leopold Zeppeiri of Fairview avenue, Groton, a baker employed in New London, was fined $25 for recklessly operating an automobile. Officer Selisinzky told the police court that Zeppeiri would have run him down while the former was crossing Main street and Zeppeiri was turning his car into John street had the officer not jumped back upon the sidewalk. Selisinzky ordered Zeppeiri to the police station and jumped into the automobile to accompan him. On the way there Zeppeiri was so careless in driving that he would have run his car into another had not Selisinzky guided the baker's car out of danger. Zeppeiri admitted that he did not sound his horn when he turned into John street. This in itself was evidence of carelessness in the opinion of the court.

Patrick O'Mara, Mitchell street, Groton, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Catherine O'Mara, to John Kelly of Georgiana street, New London.

A row at a dance at Ocean Beach Friday night brought James Lenihan into the police court Saturday, where he was fined $5. Lenihan said he was not intoxicated and that he was jumped on by one Joseph Collins while dancing. Fred Swanson, who manages the dances, told the court that Lenihan pulled the nose of Collins and that started the fight. He also declared that Lenihan used vile and vulgar language.

George Bates, colored, of Douglass street, was arrested early this morning upon complaint of his wife, Effie, who charged the man with breach of the peace. Bates, who was intoxicated when taken into custody on Main street by Patrolman Howard Sloan and who stated that he had spent the evening in Groton, is alleged to have ran amuck at his home during the early evening and to have wrecked one or two rooms by smashing the furniture.

Mary Fitzgerald, 158 Williams street, fell down a flight of stairs at her home this afternoon and was removed to the private hospital. While not believed that she has sustained serious injury, the result is problematical.

Stillman Peckham, white, and Marion Lewis, colored, the latter proprietress of a rooming house at 202 North Bank street, with Peckham a lodger there, were taken into custody late this afternoon, Peckham being charged with breach of the peace and the Lewis woman with assault. The Lewis woman secured a surety on her bond of $200 for her appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, but Peckham was locked up. Peckham and the woman engaged in a fight at the Lewis home shortly before 5 o'clock and in the mixup the woman attacked Peckham with a bread knife. To save himself, Peckham seized the blade of the knife with his right hand and as he did so the weapon was yanked from his grasp, resulting in an ugly wound. Bleeding profusely from the cut, Peckham hastened to State street, where he sought a physician. Before he found a doctor Traffic Officer Frank Linehan grabbed Peckham and rushed him to a drug store, but because of the bad cut it became necessary to have hospital treatment. Peckham was then brought to the police station and made a prisoner. There he refused to relate what occurred at the Lewis house, but when the women was taken into custody she admitted her act.

Harry G. Gidley, 803 Bank street, a driver in the employ of the Lyceum Taxi company, was taken into custody this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray, charged with violation of the automobile laws. He will be presented in the police court Monday morning. Gidley was operating a car through Bank street at a rate of between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

A business session of past exalted rulers of Elks for New London county was held at Ocean Beach this afternoon, at which time recommendations were made for the appointment of a district deputy of the grand lodge.

A squad of police in charge of Sergt. Nelson Smith this afternoon raided the unoccupied house at 18 Sixth street and arrested nine youths charged with gambling, Michael Sullivan, Leo Wilson, Agostino Rossi, Patrick Scanlon, Patrick Crimmings, Arthur Enos, Daniel Crimmings and Harry Lewis. They were released upon furnishing a bond for their appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

The training ship Alexander Hamilton, which has been moored at the United States Coast Guard academy pier many weeks, cleared this afternoon with a group of cadets for a cruise.

John D. Edgerton, 88 Pleasant street, Willimantic, in operating his automobile through Bank street this afternoon, struck a traffic signal, damaging the sign. Edgerton made it known that he would defray any cost connected with the repair of the sign.

Patrolman Patrick Sheehan began his vacation of two weeks today.

Herbert Smith, formerly of New London, now located in New York, where he is a practicing attorney, spent the week end in this city.

Coroner J. J. Desmond of Norwich was occupied the greater part of Saturday on an inquest in connection with the case of Frederick Reaves, colored, found dead in his room, 29 Moore court, several days ago with gas flowing from a cooking stove, death supposedly being caused from carelessness of the victim. Reaves' body is at an undertaking establishment, where it has been embalmed and awaits orders of Coroner Desmond for forwarding to the man's former home in Wilmington, N. C. No autopsy was performed, but a specimen of Reaves' blood has been sent to a Hartford laboratory to determine whether there exists any evidence of poisoning.

Beginning Monday, Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney has instructed all traffic officers to cause every law, state and city, to be enforced, no matter who is to be haled into court. Traffic Officers have armed themselves with bundles of tags and beginning tomorrow it appears as though the next few days will be "tag days" for autoists.

Loretta Higgins Held Over at the Broadway Theatre.

Due to the tremendous success of the Loretta Higgins and Hasel Hurd act, accorded them by the Norwich theatregoers, and the many requests by the countless hundreds who were unable to gain admission to the Broadway theatre last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Manager Davidson has been indeed fortunate in obtaining the services of these two local favorites for three days more, starting today.

Miss Higgins wishes to express her gratitude at this time to all her townspeople on the way they received her initial vaudeville appearance in this city and promises to make her farewell three days' engagement one that will long be remembered in the annals of Norwich theatre history.

The two artists will apear at 2:20 and 8 excepts from grand opera, Miss Higgins singing The Micaela arid and Miss Hurd The Seguedille.

In "Triumph," which opened a four days' run at the Broadway theatre last evening, Cecil B. DeMille returns from the ancient spectacle of his "Ten Commandments" to the type of ultra-modern society love drama in which he scored his most sensational successes and of which "Male and Female" and "Manslaughter" were such notable examples.

Here is the typical DeMille production, with its gorgeous settings, luxurious backgrounds, beautiful women, flashing gowns and an array of featured players that looks more like a copy of the roster of the Paramount studios than a cast. Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and Victor Varconi have the principal roles. Then there's Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edeson, Zasu Pitts, George Fawcett and Raymond Hatton, all featured. Quite a line-up, you'll agree.

"Triumph" is the story of a strong man ruined by money and a weak man regenerated through the loss of it, and through a wonderful girl. It takes one man from the haunts of the rich and tosses him into the gutter. It takes another from poverty to wealth and high position. It shows you a factory girl in the whirl and thunder of ponderous machinery. It shows the same girl at the pinnacle of what she calls "Triumph," with wealth, jewels, applause. Like "Manslaughter," "Triumph" is a strictly modern love story adapted from a popular Saturday Evening Post serial. May Edginton is the author, and Clara Beranger wrote the screen play.

Short subjects include a comedy and Kinogram News reel.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that there will be no advance in prices.

COMMUNITY PICNIC NOTICE

Now that the long summer evenings are here people are recalling the successful Community Picnics that have been held in Lowthorpe Meadows for the past four years. The Norwich Rural association is making arrangements for another such picnic to be held in Lowthorpe Meadows from 6 to 8 o'clock p. m. (daylight time) Friday evening June 6th.

A cordial invitation to attend is extended by the association to all who enjoy watching the sunset from the hill, getting together for out-of-doors supper with friends, and later participating in the snappy community singing on the hillside.

Palace Theatre

Against King George III, of England, we venged our warth and won our freedom. In 1775, that was More than a hundred years previously, in Merrie England, an outraged people, anxious to have a voice in government, rebelled against the British crown, in 1642, this. And in the five years' war that followed before the monarch, Charles I, was vanquished and the foundations for England's present popular government were laid, there were many daring exploits—not any more spectacular than those of Karl Kerstenbrock, Flemish soldier of fortune who came to England to avenge the death of his sister and remained to become a powerful ally to Oliver Cromwell whose path to success he helped pave by the destruction of Starversham castle.

The screen has pictured historical romance before. But not until John S. Robertson filmed The Fighting Blade was the epochal Cromwellian era touched upon. An in selecting this subject Mr. Robertson has not only contributed worthily to the screen's historical associations but he has given it a production that stands on a par with the biggest and best, and has given the public an entertainment that is destined to remain one of the most memorable. Richard Barthelmess is the star of The Fighting Blade a First National picture which the Palace theatre presented in this city for the first time yesterday and which will be featured until Wednesday. He plays the title role, portraying the redoubtable Kerstenbrock in a manner every bit as admirable. The Fighting Blade That is his character. Most feared of all duelists of his day, supreme, superb. Audacious, dashing, darling in the face of death; chivalry, tenderness and humility mark his course with women. And Barthelmess interprets his varying moods with rare skill. We doubt he has a superior as a romantic actor.

Added attractions, Will Roders in The Cake Eater. Latest Pathe News and Palace orchestra. Coming next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Flaming Youth Girl, Colleen Moore in Painted People.

BREED THEATRE

The Great White Way, Cosmopolitan's "surprise" picture woven in and around life on Broadway opened last night at the Breed theatre. The new film, picturized from H. C. Witwer's popular story, Cain and Mable, is the first motion picture ever presented which accurately draws a graphic illustration of the world's most famous thoroughfare and those persons who bask in its artificial light.

In bringing to the screen this pulsating story of a phase of New York life, the Cosmopolitan Corporation has assembled a brilliant all-star cast to impersonate the characters created by Witwer.

Scores of New York celebrities whose fame in sports, theatricals, arts, literature and other lines of endeavor has become world-wide also appear in the cast of The Great White Way.

The Great White Way is a fast moving picture with its action carrying swiftly from the offices of Tex Rickard in Madison Square Garden, through the midnight gleam of Broadway to Futurity Day at Belmont Park, and a world's championship fight at which Oscar Shaw and Pete Hurtley, contender for the title held by Benny Leonard, are the principals is said to be the most realistic that has ever been staged for a film. The picture also includes a regular musical comedy production with the famous Ziegfeld "Follies" beauties as a background and the most thrilling fire that

DANIELSON

More people and more automobiles were compressed into the business section of the borough and along the route of the parade, Saturday evening than this town has seen in many a day. Between Academy and Water streets the crowd overflowed the sidewalks and into the streets, leaving a lane down the center of Main street.

Evidently this and surrounding communities were hungry for such an event as the American Legion had planned and they flocked in here literally by the thousand.

Unfortunate was the fact that some of the advertised features of the parade—the French locomotive and train of the tank crew—did not appear in line for reasons that were good and sufficient, but the parade and the floats provided much interest all along the route.

There was some delay in getting the parade under way but it finally moved from near the central fire station on Academy street to Broad and up Main street to the West Side, through streets in that section and back to Railroad Square, where it was dismissed.

The Danielson band was at the head of the line just ahead of the Service men. Floats depicting the Cafe Lafayette in one case and the Red Cross nursing service in the other attracted attention, these being followed by the Woman's auxiliary.

The Putnam boys' band of Stafford Springs and bugle corps of Grosvenordale post, American Legion, Grosvenordale and Jewett City, were also in line. There was a tractor in which a Ford motor and did stunts that also amused the crowds. The "Voiture," at the Armory hall was a big event, but the crowd naturally was not in on that.

Following the parade the crowds visited the boxing exhibitions at Wildwood park and other places of amusement.

PUTNAM

A good sized audience in the Bradley theatre Sunday afternoon welcomed Judge Arthur F. Ells of Waterbury and enjoyed his address and the balance of an interesting program arranged by a committee of the Putnam Citizens alliance, under whose auspices the meeting was held in the organization's effort to promote respect for the laws and good citizenship. It was along the lines of good citizenship, obedience to law and individual effort in retarding lawlessness that Judge Ells spoke.

Governor Charles A. Templeton, who was the scheduled speaker, was unable to come, as he attended the graduation of his daughter Lucy at St. Margaret's school. His daughter was president of her class.

There was a concert by the Putnam band on Union square with the following program: March, City of Ballarat; overture, Symbol of Honor; serenade, Cupid's Charms; waltz, Minerva; The Birds and the Brooks; Caprice; march, From Ocean to Ocean. At 2.55 the band marched to the theatre, where several more selections were given. Rev. John C. Stoddard of the Baptist church opened the meeting with a short address of welcome, touching on the purpose of the gathering. After a solo by Prof. A. P. Burns Judge Ells was presented and was received with applause. Singing of The Star Spangled Banner and benediction by Rev. N. B. Burton of the Methodist church brought the meeting to a close.

By train and by automobile, delegates from all over the state began to arrive in Putnam Sunday for the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Federation of Connecticut French societies which will be formally opened this (Monday) morning with a parade at 9 o'clock. Arrangements for taking care of the delegates have been made for weeks, and the reception committee has been busy assigning the arrivals to their quarters in hotels and private homes.

The first entertainment provided for the visitors was a concert by the children of St. Mary's parish, given in the new St. Mary's hall Sunday evening. The entertainment was open to the public and the large auditorium was crowded. The performance of the children marked a degree of painstaking effort on their part, also on the part of their teachers.

After this morning's parade there will be a solemn high mass at St. Mary's church, after which the first session of the convention will be held in St. John's hall. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Chapdelaine, State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric, President A. A. Brodeur and others. In the afternoon annual reports of officers will be read.

This (Monday) evening will come the banquet in St. Mary's hall. Provision was originally made for 250 but this has been increased to 275, probably the largest banquet ever served in Putnam.

Today a requiem high mass for deceased members of organizations affiliated with the state federation will be celebrated. The convention will again meet in business session and in the afternoon a luncheon will be served in St. Mary's hall. The closing session in the afternoon will see the election of officers and their installation.

The committee in charge of the matter of decorations comprised the following: President, Napoleon Jetter; Mrs. Sophie Page, Joseph Perreault, Frank H. Cordier, Paul Dufault.

A large committee of representatives of Putnam's several French societies was formed months ago for the purpose of making all arrangements for the entertainment of the delegates and guests, and this committee has done its work thoroughly. At the head of this committee is A. A. Brodeur, and his other officers and members are: Vice president, Mrs. Arzella Gilman; secretary, George Potvin; assistant secretary, Origene Touchette; treasurer, Joseph Perreault; Mrs. Delima Durocher, Miss Emma Robillard, Pierre E. Bonin, Alphonse Bourdier.

The representatives of the various French societies who make up the general committee are:

Saint Jean Baptiste—George Hotte, Napoleon Dufault, Armand Magnan.

Cercle d'Advancement—Victor Chapdelaine, Alfred Bonneville, Alphonse Bourcier.

C. A. C.—Frank H. Cordier, Eugene Reneault, Pierre E. Bonin.

Consell 47 de l'Union Saint Jean Baptiste—Mrs. Arzella Gilman, Mrs. Sophie Page, Mrs. Virgenie Lapalme, Mrs. Herminie Mahieu.

Canado—Mrs. Delima Durocher, Mrs. James Barnes, Mrs. Otto Knoll.

Foresters—Miss Rosealma Madaga, Mrs. Edmond Leroux.

Foresters of America — Alphonse Lussier, Jean B. Lacas, Henri Dumas.

Artisans—Alfred Robillard, Mochel Magnan, Joseph Perreault.

Pecheurs' Club—Napoleon Jette, Gaudias Rivard, Adelard Marion.

St. Anne's Society—Mrs. Maria St. George, Mrs. Emerence Jolie, Mrs. David Beausoleil.

Children of Mary Society—Miss Emma Robillard, Miss Louise Emmond.

Putnam members of Quinebaug Pomona grange joined with other members from the various towns in eastern Connecticut and the meeting of the superior grange in Chandler's hall, Thompson Hill, Saturday night, where there was degree work and an interesting program. Supper was served in the church vestry by the sisters of Quinitisset grange, Thimble club and Ladies' Aid society, the proceeds going to the church. The evening's program included an address by Massachusetts State Lecturer Berton T. Mowry; two short plays by the Little Theatre Players under the direction of Professor Leckerson; an informal talk by Mrs. C. A. Wheeler and vocal solos by Mrs. Henry Dorsey.

Two slight automobile accidents were reported to the police Saturday. Just before noon a large touring car driven by Alice T Rathburn of Westerly, R. I., in rounding Union square hit an automobile owned and driven by Everett Johnson of Greenwich. The Connecticut car was damaged, having the running board broken and one door bent. The parties adjusted matters satisfactorily.

In the afternoon a machine driven by Edward Caraz on Woodstock avenue collided with another car being driven by Jason Greene as it came out of Lamont street. Both cars suffered damaged running boards and mudguards.

Miss Harlie Corbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Corbin, is visiting her brother, Fred Corbin, and family in Windsor, Va. Miss Corbin went to New York, where she was joined by a younger brother, Harold Corbin, a newspaper writer, and they made the journey south together, going by boat to Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Genevieve Letters and family have been entertaining Mrs. Myra Munson of Woodsville, N. H., formerly a neighbor of the Letters on Grand View.

Miss Elizabeth Wheelock, a senior at Simmons college, Boston, motored to Putnam and spent the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock.

Funeral services with a requiem mass were held at St. Joseph's church, North Grosvenordale, Saturday morning for Edward Lepire, 42, who died at the Day Kimball hospital, Putnam, Wednesday. Members of the Knights of Columbus and St. Jean Baptiste society, of which Mr. Lepire was a member, attended the funeral in a body. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Lepire had been a resident of North Grosvenordale for a long time. A year and a half ago his wife died. Seven children survive, the oldest 18 years and the youngest 3.

The body of Alphonse Von Flatern, who died at the Peter Bent Brigham Memorial hospital, Boston, Thursday, was brought to Putnam Saturday and taken to the home on Arch street. Mr. Von Flatern had been for [illegible] a resident of Putnam. He was a well known railroad man and [illegible] had been conductor on a local [illegible] between Putnam and Boston.

Several months ago, while freight was being unloaded from a car on his train, Conductor Von Flatern, to save one of his brakemen from being injured, held up a heavy bale of rags that was about to fall on a member of his train crew. Soon after this he began to be troubled with pains, and last March went to the Day Kimball hospital, where he was operated on. After being removed to his home he did not make the recovery anticipated and his trouble was [illegible] to his local physician, who advised his removal to the Boston hospital.

Arrangements were made for his removal and he was placed aboard a Boston train Wednesday morning for the trip to the hospital. He failed to respond to treatment. Mr. Von Flatern married a number of years ago Miss Mary Bousquet, who with one young son survives. He also leaves several brothers and sisters, none, however, residing in Putnam.

The new bridge over the Little river on Pomfret street, dedicated Friday, is now in use. This is a part of the improvement made by the state highway department in its work between Putnam and Pomfret railroad station, including the length of the beautiful residential Pomfret street, Pomfret. The work was started near the mill of the Putnam Woolen company, in Putnam, and is now completed to Pomfret station. This is a much traveled highway and is a part of the route to Willimantic and Hartford. The elimination of the old Little river bridge removes a dangerous corner. The old bridge was a narrow structure with barely room for two vehicles to pass and has been the site of several accidents and many near-accidents. It is time now for the city to build a sidewalk to the Day Kimball hospital and thus relieve the danger of foot passengers, of whom there are many, being injured while on the way to and from the hospital. The city has installed electric lights along the route to the top of Perrin Hill. Those who travel on foot feel that they should receive consideration and be afforded the protection of a sidewalk. The hill to the hospital is a steep grade and is on curve all the way and those walking to and from the institution have to be on constant guard, or they are liable to be run down. To make the hill on high, many motorists take the hill at considerable speed and when meeting a vehicle coming down the hill, foot passengers have to jump to the edge of the highway to protect themselves. While the stretch from the west end of the Woolen company's mill village, where the sidewalk ends, to the hospital, is one of considerable distance, yet it is so much used that the expense of a sidewalk to prevent serious accident seems warranted.

The forecast appears to be for an unusually prosperous season at the popular summer resort.

High winds and unusually cool weather played havoc with the beautiful floral remembrances placed in cemeteries here Memorial Day. The wind blew away containers, whisked away bouquets and scattered them about and the cool of the night quickly destroyed the beauty of the blooms.

Next Sunday, the feast of Pente-cost, a large class of children of St. James' parish will receive first communion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Whalen of Boston over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Arrigan of Carter street have had Miss Florence Beaudry of Providence as their guest.

Grading being done in front of the school property of the town on School street will materially improve the appearance of that locality.

Sunday, a track-laying crew of the New Haven road was engaged in putting in new rails, just south of the Main street crossing.

This is the final full week of school for the pupils in the graded schools of Killingly. Graduation of the grammar schools of the town comes on June 12.

John A. Lovett of Lowell spent the holiday with friends in town, returning to his home Sunday.

During his stay during the holiday period, Thomas Head of Winsted, in the course of two outings, caught 32 trout.

The parade in Putnam, incident to the holding there today of the state convention of French societies, is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Charles Franklin of Broad street was winner of prizes in the holiday shoot of the Danielson Rod and Gun club.

WESTMINSTER

Miss Ethel Newton conducted the exercises of decorating the little private Parks and Spicer burial yard. The children gathered lilies-of-the-valley, violets, lilacs and other flowers, tastefully arranged, placing them on all the graves. The bronze markers for Ebenezer Park and Abel Spicer were procured by Mrs. Agnes Wood. Members of Wadsworth chapter, D. A. R., of Middletown, Conn., one of their descendants.

Mrs. Frank Linnell is able to be out after five weeks' illness.

William Newton assisted by his brother, is hustling the farm work of planting. They have been employed by Arthur Bennett's saw mill.

Allen Moody is home for a few days' vacation from New York, where he is doing carpentering.

William Williams has returned to his home after two weeks' work in C. B. James' garage, at Hebron.

Mrs. Frank Pellet and little son were recent callers in Plainfield.

Why does a loafer always bother a man when he's busy?

She gets just the degrees of heat she wants for canning

Can the kitchen be cool when the stove is hot?

YOU have to have plenty of heat for cooking. But in hot weather you want the range going only when you are actually using it. What is equally important, you will find that the heat in a Florence Oil Range goes into the cooking, as the flame is close up under the cooking, and not into the metal of the stove or out into the room.

Make this test: Go to a store where the Florence is sold—department, furniture, or hardware store. Ask the salesman to light it. When it is going full force, feel the metal of the stove; and notice how cool it is right beside the range.

The Big Burner. The heat in the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is not wasted.

A blue gas-like flame

To start the Florence Range, just touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler. In a few moments there is an intensely hot blue flame, close up under the pot. You can regulate the heat to any degree and cook any dish that you can on a gas or coal range.

The vapor from kerosene is what burns. It is not a wick flame, such as you see in the ordinary oil lamp. Kerosene is a cheap fuel.

A spotless kitchen

With the Florence Range there is no soot, no ashes, no shaking or carrying of heavy fuel. The Florence itself is a beauty with its porcelain enamel, black frame and nickel trimmings.

The Florence oven, sold separately, is a marvel of efficiency. The "baker's arch" and patented heat distributor assure even cooking. A few minutes' examination of the Florence Range will show you how much it will mean in your household. Drop in at the store and see for yourself.

Florence Leveler. Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on uneven floor.

PLAINFIELD

The Canterbury Poultry Club met with one of the members, Elmer L. Greene at Plainfield, Tuesday, a large number being present, the subject was Poultry Diseases and Egg Marketry. County Agent F. L. Davis of Putnam and E. Newton Searles of Pomfret were the speakers and were followed by remarks and questions by the members. They spoke in high praise of Mr. Greene's nice flock of white leghorns and his clean, sanitary coops. Mr. Greene had fifteen hundred leghorn chickens and expects five hundred more the first of June.

Miss Marion H. Lee was pleasantly surprised at her home Wednesday evening when about thirty children hung her a May basket. After a lively chase the children were invited in and an enjoyable evening was spent. Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Lee, assisted by Mrs. William Cantwell and Miss Celia Israel.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cutler and Miss Esther Monroe left Wednesday for East Greenwich Potonomot Plot for the summer. Friends hope the change will prove beneficial to Mr. Cutler's health which has not been good for a long time.

SPRING HILL

Because so many were away for the day there was not the usual number present at the service at the Baptist church last Sunday.

People from Willimantic and other places brought the number up to about 100 who were served a baked bean supper by the Ladies' Aid society, at the church Wednesday evening.

Mr. Holton and family who occupied the Davis house for a short time have moved to Coventry.

D. C. Flaherty came home last Sunday from Groton Long Point where he had built a garage for Judge L. J. Storrs.

Mrs. Flaherty has been ill the past week, a return of an old trouble.

At Alanweld, Nathaniel Michel of New York, who went home last Tuesday after a stay of five days, Miss Leona Palmer and a friend of Manchester, called Sunday evening, and Mrs. H. P. Longley and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Brigham, of Newark, N. J., spent Wednesday night.

There was a good attendance at the exercises at the cemetery Friday. In the absence of any organization to carry on the good work the school children under the direction of Mrs. Jones, placed flowers on the graves of the soldiers. Previous to which they sang America, there was a reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and an address by Mrs. Jones. Those present from other places were Wallace Babcock of Brooklyn, N. Y., Walter Cummings and family of Webster Mass., Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Storrs of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Atkins of Taftville, Mrs. M. Leslie Nichols of Groton.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Rev. Mr. Moore of Hartford occupied the pulpit last Sunday, the 25th, and gave an interesting talk on Sunday School Rev. Sherrod Soule preached Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid society was pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon at the Apply homestead Mrs. Wheeler, who formerly lived in that neighborhood and is now visiting Mrs. Apply was a buest and had the opportunity of meeting old acquaintances. The next gathering will be with Mrs. Hadley, in two weeks.

Canterbury schools feel honored that a pupil of the school on the Green, Nelson Carpenter, won first prize at the speaking contest in Putnam. This enables him to represent the schools in this part of the county as a contestant for a state prize at Hartford. Anna Hansen, a pupil from the Frost school excelled in athletics.

Mrs. McDonald of Willimantic is a guest of Mrs. L. M. Carpenter.

Mrs. Lillian Miller is caring for Mrs. Mary Tillinghast at Plainfield.

Herbert Graves of New London, formerly of Canterbury, recently fell from a staging and broke his ankle. He was taken to a hospital where the fracture was reduced, but is now at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller have been on a few days' trip to New York, returning the past week.

Miss Hannah Eaton who was taken ill soon after coming home from Worcester where she spent the winter, is still confined to her bed. Mrs. John, of the Plain, is with her.

Levi Clark is recovering slowly from an attack of pleurisy. His daughter, Mrs. Burdick and family of New London were in town to visit him Sunday, the 25th.

Over twenty members of Canterbury grange went to Norwich Wednesday evening where they took part in a programme with other granges, it being Neighbors' night.

ONECO

Edgar Kennedy and son, Melvin, of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Wright Mellor, of Centerville, Oliver Eddy and Mrs. Mary Hadley, of Norwood and Miss Mabel Kennedy and niece, Grace Kennedy, of Central Falls, were recent guests of Mrs. Ellen Waite.

Mrs. Annie Foley of Norwich was a visitor Sunday at J. H. Dixon's.

Mrs. A. B. Marriott has been ill.

Mrs. George Pirie of South Manchester visited relatives here over the week end.

MOOSUP

Rev. J. B. Ackley, a former pastor of the Methodist church in Moosup and Uncasville, was greeted by friends at the church service in Moosup Sunday the 25th. With Mrs. Ackley he attended an inspection of Ionia chapter of the Eastern Star at Greene Saturday evening and returned to his home at Burnside, Conn., on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ackley stayed with Miss Lilla Millett at Moosup. Mr. Ackley has retired from the active ministry and is enjoying freedom from responsibility and care. Among the pleasures planned for the summer is a trip to Block Island for a few days in June, and a ten day automobile trip to the Adirondacks, in July.

VOTE EARLY TODAY AND VOTE RIGHT.

It is no small obligation resting on the republicans today to get out the voters. At the time when the mayor of the court of common council is elected, the affairs of the city for the next year cannot be disregarded. We have a strong and able ticket before the voters and it needs a city administration that will give considerable attention to the interests of the taxpayers. It will see that the best use is made of appropriations, that will prevent the squandering of municipal funds, that will not countenance the unwarranted expenditures for political purposes, that will stand for and insist upon improvement from the beginning to the end of its authority.

We need such a city government to back up action and desired improvements in the several departments. Improvements have to be prodded in some cases and it will be alert to the needs and the protection of the public interest and that will include many things that have been presented to the voters for no purpose, and all that remains for the voters to go to the polls today and vote the straight ticket, the ten over the lever that will do it for them. The ticket headed by Edmund W. Perkins for mayor needs no commendations. It is a well balanced ticket of well known men of affairs and of experience.

There is an obligation resting on the republican voters to get out and vote. If it should not be done, it is the duty of every member and every seeker after good government to get out to the polls early without waiting to be reminded. The women as well as the men should be remembered.

Get out and vote. Count and every vote is counted early and vote right.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT.

Of interest today is the second action in the senate on the proposed amendment to the Constitution relative to child labor. Having been approved in the house, it is assumed that votes are sufficient in its favor in the upper house to give it the needed two-thirds majority.

This is not to be inferred as indicating that the resolution has no opposition. In the debate upon it, it has been disclosed that there are those from the north as well as those from the south who are opposed for one reason or another. They have set forth their views and the objections are based on the invasion of [illegible] and the high age limit which is placed in the amendment.

Action by congress does not settle the matter, for even with favorable action there the amendment must be submitted to the states for ratification or 36 of them. Whether an attempt will be made to amend the proposed amendment by changing the age limit before requiring ratification by special state conventions instead of legislative action remains to be determined.

With confidence expressed in favorable action by congress the fight will then turn to the states. There are those which will be ready to act and act quickly both for and against. There will be those where much will be made of the plea that the rights of the states are being invaded and there are still others where the high age limit is regarded as sufficient to bring about an adverse vote.

It is maintained in regard to the high age limit that it is fixed there not with the expectation that regulatory child labor laws would be passed with those under that age prevented from working, but to serve as a guide to congress. But from the manner in which congress has been disregarding the views of those represented there is no disposition to leave such matters to congressional discretion. It is even maintained that there are those who have favored the high age limit in the resolution because it was believed that would be of much assistance in bringing about its defeat by the states.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE COURT

On the occasion of his Memorial day address at Arlington, President Coolidge not only paid a masterful tribute to those soldiers of the republic who "fought that its ideals, its institutions, its liberties might be perpetuated among men," during the various wars, but who took occasion to set forth his views in regard to the world court and adherence by this country.

President Coolidge has previously expressed himself upon this question. He has taken the same view that President Harding did and given endorsement to the Harding-Hughes plan. He directs attention to the importance of protecting our own interests, but he likewise points out that it would be a waste of time to undertake to demand something which other nations would not approve, and which in all probability is not vital to our own protection.

The efforts in the senate have been open to various interpretations. Delayed to the last minutes hasty plans of action concerning the world court plan have been drawn up. They differ somewhat from the Hughes plan. They give no recognition to the Lodge plan, which the author withdrew. The president doesn't say that nothing but the plan in which he is permitted to dot the i's and cross the t's will be accepted. He does set forth his view as committed to the Hughes plan, indicating that he has as yet seen or heard of no other that can be regarded as superior.

Possibly action upon the world court will not come at this session. The aim in congress seems to have been to stall and by stalling long enough to prevent it. But that hasn't turned the president away from his stand on the world court adherence. His Memorial day address emphasizes that fact.

THE FRANKS CASE.

There are those who figure that their cunning is such that their acts can never be detected. They figure that they can cover their tracks so skillfully that no one can detect them. They lay their plans accordingly for the commission of crime. There are times when they get away, but it is not always the ones who make the most elaborate plans that escape. In any case most of them get caught.

In the case of the Chicago kidnapers and self-confessed murderers, a pair of glasses, dropped during the disposition of the Franks boy's body, was the clue that led to the discovery and disclosure of the guilt zones.

Surprise attaches to the identity of the accused solely because of the fact that they come from well to do families. Little sympathy can be expressed for them since they have been caught in a plot that was long planned and carefully carried out which the extortion of a large sum of money was sought and in which there was a cold blooded determination to kill. It was not a frolic in which death was accidental. It was not a practical joke that went farther than expected. From all accounts it appears to have been deliberately and devilishly planned, by young men of education and good families, which makes the crime all the worse. They gave no more consideration to the termination of a life than a toughened gunman would have. They may have figured on escaping if but they have invited a penalty which calls for no leniency.

GENERAL WOOD'S RETURN?

Reports have it that Governor General Leonard Wood is planning to give up his job at Manila and return to this country. No official announcement has been made to that effect but it will not surprise if it comes in time.

Governor General Wood went to the Philippines early in the Harding administration to meet the [illegible] that existed in those islands. There have been efforts to have him resign and assume other than political duties. He has maintained that he would go to the islands with the intentions of seeing his programme carried out and can be depended upon if he has resigned or intends to that he has accomplished what he set out to and believes the islands are in such a condition that the administration of his office can be left to other hands without danger of a relapse.

General Wood knew the islands before his appointment. He knows them better now. He faced no easy task because he followed an easy going administration of the islands. It was necessary to make a change in the policies and this was done for the betterment of the islands. He encountered opposition that was taken for granted that General Wood was not thinking of leaving his post because he has been [illegible] Filipino politicians.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Go to the polls early today and vote the top lever.

Voting the republican ticket today means votes for good government.

It is cheering news this cool spring that New England has plenty of coal on hand.

If possible, every voter, man or woman, should go to the polls today and vote.

The speeder is invariably in a hurry no where, but he cannot seem to get there quick enough.

The man on the corner may not express yourself at the polls regardless of what you do later on.

There's no danger that the price of sugar will go to the point where it will lose all its sweetness.

A report has it that a colored woman may be the first to be hanged in Delaware. Somehow it seems like an empty honor.

If you are desirous of a city government that will function for the interest of the public vote today to insure republican victory.

Some fast drivers are so self centered that they regard the look of surprise and disgust they get from the crowd as one of admiration.

The cost of living is dropping slowly, but dropping. But that doesn't interrupt the demands for further wage increases because of living conditions.

Chairman Brookhart tells one witness in the Daugherty investigation "We don't want to hear your lies," and then calls Gaston B. Means as if for a counter irritant.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Soak iron rust spots in rice water.

Old muslin curtains make nice squares to wrap around the cleaned celery or lettuce.

Underneath the shelf paper in the pantry is sprinkled a good insect exterminator.

A wineglass of cream or one of olive oil after each meal means weight to the very thin person.

It is wise to nail a thread crosswise of the short kitchen curtains to assure their being even.

A cracked egg may be boiled without losing any of the white if the crack is covered with salt.

It is a good plan to poach eggs in a regular egg poacher, which costs but a few cents and does the job neatly without a loss of the white.

Combine your leftover of meat, fruit or vegetables with gelatin once in a while and garnish appropriately. They are more attractive to the eye.

When cooking fruits add the sugar when they are nearly cooked. If you cook sugar long with fruit it loses much of its sweetness.

When only half the contents of a tin of any preserved food has been used never leave the remainder in the tin. Turn it out into a glass or earthen vessel.

If the inside of the screens are painted with a thin white paint, the persons in the house can see out, but passersbys cannot see in.

If you use a cup of salt when you wash spinach, cabbage or lettuce all dirt will be found at the bottom of the pan of water and, besides, your greens will be more crisp.

A delicious luncheon dish is made by cutting tomatoes in one-third inch slices and sprinkling with salt, pepper and flour, and sauteing in butter. Then served, a buttered poached egg on top of each.

USES FOR AMMONIA.

More and more the woman of today is finding out that her grandmother was not far wrong in her claim that ammonia was useful for keeping the home a sweet, clean place, with little trouble and expense.

Ammonia reliably prepared has wonderful power to cleanse and make sanitary, yet it is simple and safe to use. It is a great help in dish-washing. It disgolves grease like magic, and makes glass and china fairly shine. And for generations, women have known the power in ammonia to make clothes whiter with less work.

Ammonia has definite fertilizing value. A few drops occasionally put in the water when watering plants will make them grow. It is a thorough remedy to rid the house of vermin and other pests. It is a water-softener, and may be used in the bath. It is nice, too, for cleansing the tub.

RETAINS FINE FLAVOR

When making coffee do not put the pot over the flame, but place it in a pan of boiling water. This is a slow but excellent way of making the beverage and it will keep the coffee hot indefinitely. The coffee retains its fine flavor and does not become strong.

PROTECTING CHINA

A excellent precaution against the risk of breaking delicate china when washing it is to cover the sides and bottom of the bowl with a clean, thick Turkish towel. Then pour in the water and deal with the pieces one at a time, and dry them carefully.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Not very many nurses of mothers remember to rub the baby's scalp with a little olive oil during the first six months of its life. If the scalp is dry this should be done every day, if not, every few days. It stimulates the growth of the hair.

Much can be written about finger nails, for few women have really pretty ones. Don't look for beauty of nail among those who are neglectful, ridges, rough edges, dryness, dullness and a bad shape will be sure to meet your eye. That's from negle t.

To [illegible] the rubber sheet in baby's [illegible] in the place stitch a width [illegible] cloth on either side of the rubber sheeting, draw the cloth under the mattress and fasten both sides together with safety pins.

Calluses on the soles may be softened and gradually made to disappear by [illegible] in conjunction with [illegible] change in your [illegible] feet every night [illegible] water and pure soap, rinse [illegible] Rub the soles briskly [illegible] of champhor, three nights [illegible] massage them with cold cream.

HAIR NET CASE

Hair nets are increasing in demand [illegible] come to them [illegible] when [illegible] been introduced looking leather [illegible] It comes in [illegible] con[illegible]

GRACEFUL LACE CAPES

One of the most delightful innovations of the season is the cape of lace [illegible] dyed in beautiful color and combined with fur or ostrich feather trimming. In gray, beige and other neutral tones they have the advantage of not clashing with the evening frock worn underneath. A delightful one is made of lace dyed cafe-au-lait and sparingly trimmed with ostrich of the same shade. A wide gold ribbon is placed between the two layers of lace.

COLORS THAT WILL PREVAIL IN LATE SUMMER AND FALL

Already the manufacturers have selected the shades that will take precedence on the color card for the coming fall, and leading the list are three varieties of the rosewood hue, labeled respectively attar of roses, rose ash and rose ebony. There are tints in the greenish-blue group and a deep rich green that has been termed Bakst. There is a perfect gamut of brown tints, sand, golden brown and the deeper hue called turtle. The names of the newest are parline nutmeg and sepia and they are aptly described. Orange and the nasturtium colorings also figure prominently and the standard grays and blues retain their place.

A special group is termed Directoire colors, which can be classed as vivid pastels and as especially adapted for evening wear, light blue, jade, apricot, nile green, powder blue, delicate yellow, salmon pink, turquoise, coral pink and rambler rose being outstanding tints. The novelties are brilliant purple reds of the fuchsia type and several wine shades. There are 80 colors on the new card, so that there is enough variety to suit the most exacting.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Spanish and Venetian shawls have been very cleverly copied in printed silks.
